THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

FIRST PLACE ON THE DOCKET.

The State Public Utilities Commission should begin its career of usefulness by ordering an improved street car service for St. Louis and doing it promptly.

The St. Louis street car situation is the most important public utility matter commanding attention anywhere in the State. The need of more street cars is of long standing. It is of State-wide notoriety. It was in view in the creation of the State Public Utilities Commission. The broad powers were conferred upon the State Commission through recognition of the weakness of the local commission's authority in dealing with our utility corporations.

The excellent work of the local commission, however, has opened the way for prompt action by the State Commission. The people's case against the United Railways Co., so to speak, has been thoroughly prepared, and it is certainly entitled to first place on the docket. There should be an immediate formal presentation of the case or complaint before the commission, and it should be pushed to an early conclusion.

MARKET BASKET'S DIZZIEST RECORD.

In spite of attacks on trusts and co-operative consumers' leagues and strikes against the high price of meats and women's movement to bring down egg prices and the pressure of public sentiment on the middleman, the cost of filling the market basket has gone steadily upward.

It was thought that the top notch had been reached in 1909, but there was a higher one. Those who, during recent months, have been puzzled because even former difficult adjustments of income to necessary outcome have been found inadequate now learn the explanation. Living cost during the latter part of 1912 overtopped all other dizzy records. East of the Mississippi during 1912, the cost of the year's food supply for the average mechanic's family showing an increase over 1896 of from 46 to 63 per cent, according to locality.

It is time that measures of relief other than the futile plans tried in the past be adopted for the relief of the consumer. The untaxing of food has become an inescapable national necessity.

REASONS FOR COMING TO MISSOURI.

The Post-Dispatch contest with a prize of $100 for the Ten Best Reasons for Coming to Missouri is bringing replies from far and wide. Many of them are conventional, such as might occur to the average contestant. But some are highly original, such as:

"No temperance." This comes in a communication from Nebraska.

"Acorns for hogs." This is from a resident of Denison, Tex., who formerly lived in Missouri and regrets the fine fat acorns that make cheap pork in Missouri's "free range" counties.

"A Missourian is always fair, upright and clean." This from a St. Louis contestant. We must live up to it.

"One man has in 16 years grown rich in ladies' furnishing business." This shows Missouri women are good dressers.

"It is far from the madding crowd." "Because its Legislature has the nerve to vote against woman suffrage." "It is the neatest and cleanest State that was ever known." "Missouri's competition is superior; competition is the life of trade." "It has fertile lands for orchids." "Because Henry M. Kiel is Mayor." "Missouri girls make faithful wives and loving mothers." "Because Missouri's soil is permanently productive without fertilization." "Because Missouri has remon[illegible]mission."

[illegible] the [illegible]test like this ma[illegible]s people think. Don't [illegible] so?

THE STRANDED STANDPATTERS.

Like a hopeless lawyer saving foolish exceptions in a lost case to make up a futile record for subsequent appeal, the hopeless Republican minority in Congress is entering objections at every stage of the tariff revision proceedings. Amendments are offered to each paragraph as the reading of the Underwood measure proceeds, and the so-called Progressives join with the downright standpat Republicans in their objections.

The result is but to advertise the futility of the late Republican party and call to mind its wreck; to emphasize its errors, its opposition to the will of the American people, the repudiation of its cardinal principle, protection, and its punishment. The record which its stranded adherents are thus preserving is not one upon which they can ever successfully appeal to a people who have declared themselves against Privilege. The record is but a reminder of the crimes of Privilege.

Nor is objection to tariff reform a principle of sufficient vitality upon which to unite and restore to vigor the Republican party, but it is the principle of destruction. "Fidelity to principle," is the explanation of the minority's attitude, but its voice of protest suggests the wail of the abandoned. An ounce of gumption would save it from making an unnecessary spectacle of itself.

Without a penalty the dog ordinance cannot be enforced. Unless it is enforced we shall probably have a repetition this year of the alarming record of over 1000 victims in a twelve-month, published by the Post-Dispatch in January.

Put an adequate penalty in the law, and then enforce it.

THE FATUOUSNESS OF AUSTRIA.

Austria is showing encouraging progress in the arts of peace. The factionalism of its diverse peoples has diminished in recent years. Cannot its sincere well-wishers avert the disaster the headstrong country courts in a war with Montenegro? King Nicholas, who has shown admirable self-restraint under provocation, is likely to put the Austro-Hungarian clock back 20 years, if pressed too far. Are the organized advocates of peace able to do nothing?

Austria's metier is peace. Her showing during the Napoleonic wars was lamentable. She was soundly thrashed and deprived of much territory by despised Italy and France in 1859. She was soundly thrashed and deprived of more territory by Italy and Prussia in 1866. With the co-operation of the Christian population of Bosnia and Herzegovina, it took her months of time with an army of 200,000 men to put down the Mohammedan population alone in those provinces in 1878.

Evidently the lesson of two centuries of warfare with the Montenegro on its northern and western border has been forgotten. It would send new Gesslers against the Switzerland on its south and east, which has as many William Tells and Arnold Von Winkelrieds as the old Switzerland. It fatuously invites the slaughter of new Morgartens, Sempachs, Grandsons and Nafels.

The opportunity which a new war would give of adding big slices of Austrian territory to his little kingdom, as well as the generous slices already won from Turkey, must be a great temptation to King Nicholas. After having beaten the Turks for 400 years, the Montenegrins ought not to find it difficult to beat the Austrians. But they should show patience. They should not forfeit the esteem of the world by a lack of magnanimity toward a country that is no match for their own.

WHEN THE JANITOR QUITS.

As general factotum of this Flatdwellers' Age and main prop of apartment house civilization, the janitor has heretofore commanded our distinguished consideration and earned everybody's gratitude. Although lumped with light and heat and included in the rent, and although the official or strictly janitorial duties for which he received pay were narrow in scope, nevertheless a variety of gratuitous functions gave him the broadest utilitarian value. He stood for all the comfort of living, he represented the sum of luxury and the last word of convenience to the great tenant world.

A noble figure to whom the world looked for example and most everything else, the janitor, without extra charge, would answer the phone, tend baby, button missus up the back if requested, run to the delicatessen for smear cheese Sunday evenings, take up rugs, carry trunks, lift folding beds, move pianos and perform numerous trifles light as air, listen to our troubles, read us to sleep, sing to us or play the accordion, lend us the fill of a pipe, give us spiritual counsel, supply our every want almost.

So that the world which has become spoiled by such kindness now quails at the word which the janitors of Chicago are passing around—urging janitors everywhere to confine themselves to strict official duty and quit the incidental services in which their true greatness lies, unless they shall be tipped. Tipped! Alas that the tip, the abomination of the times, should corrupt such character!

We urge janitors to scorn temptation and stand by their greater characters, their larger usefulness. Who is it, indeed, can afford to abandon his incidental and free service to mankind, for sordid considerations? Shall we have a world of churls—a world without Samaritans, without favors, barren of courtesy and of consideration, bent only on working for money? No man ever paid his way in human society through his mere earning power. The pastor may preach for hire, but his sympathies are free and he cheerfully attends our poor funerals for nothing. The barber not only shaves us, but lights our cigarette and tells us the news. The butcher not only brings the meat, but keeps the hired girl happy. The postman not only fetches the mail, but he will lend a hand lifting a trunk, or in emergency he will run for the doctor. The banker does little for the world by merely banking, but when he is useful he is useful outside. Even a soulless corporation performs acts ultra vires.

Genius, fame, power, lurid success, riches and the opportunity to practice stupendous philanthropies are beyond most of us, but the very least of us may be truly great in the small service of our fellow men, the incidental tasks, the favors done, the kindness rendered. Let the humble reflect that the noblest acts ever performed by man and the largest benefits ever conferred upon the human race were done without pay.

There are but few things which any man can perform for himself or his benefit alone; the best and the most that he can do for himself is what he does for others.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Women in Past Ages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In view of the world's present attitude toward women, it is interesting to look at the way former ages regarded them. Today we see women elected to the Senate in Colorado; we see women chosen as members of the Electoral College in a dozen States. We see women admitted to equal suffrage with men. How times have changed! In a bygone century a very good and great man, Chrysostom, said: "Woman is a necessary evil; a desirable calamity; a domestic peril; a deadly fascination; a painted ill." And good old St. Jerome said: "Women are chiefly valuable because they furnish priests for the church." Perhaps it was this thought of St. Jerome, which in a later century made Napoleon say, "Women are chiefly valuable because they furnish soldiers for my army."

If I remember correctly, it was in the sixth century that a church council was held in Macon, France. Forty-three Bishops with sees, and 44 Bishops without sees, and 15 envoys attended that council. The main object of that council was to decide the question whether women have souls or not. One learned and holy Bishop made an able argument intended to prove that women have no souls. That Bishop said: "As a woman cannot be called a 'homo' (Latin for man), and as men certainly have souls, it cannot be said that women have souls." To this another holy and learned Bishop replied thus: "As the Scriptures state that God created man, 'male and female created He them,' and as Jesus Christ was called the son of Man, when it is well known He was only the son of a woman, I think the council is bound to concede that women belong to the human species and have souls, but their souls are of very inferior sort."

How thankful we women of the present age ought to be that we have souls, even though our souls are of an inferior sort. It is better to have inferior souls than no souls, just as it is better to have a small piece of bread than no bread. Even at this distant day is it not enough to make us poor women shake and shiver in our shoes when we think of the narrow escape we had of having no souls? Had those holy and learned 87 Bishops persisted in the opinion that as women are not "homos" they have no souls, where would women have been all these years from the sixth century to the twentieth? Would not all women, high and low, have been held down in the very mire of deep and dark degradation? In the very "slough of despond," as Bunyan puts it?

Ought not the women of today erect a grand, towering monument in honor of those learned Bishops; also to show our gratitude to them for leaving us souls, even though they be of an inferior sort?

Never Said "War Is Hell."

Isn't it about time for St. Louis papers to cease quoting Gen. Sherman as saying "War is hell"? It is true that this is the best description of war, but Gen. Sherman never said it. HISTORY.

Cardinal Gibbons' Suffrage Views.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The anti-suffragettes of Maryland think they have fired a great gun when they induced Cardinal Gibbons to come out of the woods and utter his protest against woman suffrage. Said a Protestant friend to me this morning: "I suppose all you Catholic women will be following the Cardinal?" "Not much me dear," said I. "We'll be following our convictions. The Cardinal is not speaking ex-cathedra. Woman suffrage is not a theological question. It's a social and political one. The man and the priest are two different entities. The Cardinal is following St. Paul, who had a poor opinion of our sex. I can't imagine what the priests and parsons could do without the women; but I do know the coffers and the pews would be empty."

The Cardinal has in his mind's eye a "sensible matron" a suave society woman gently advising her husband and sons. He is not acquainted with the female industrial soldiers of fortune battling for bread every step of the way, often with hungry dependents clinging to their skirts. I am Irish, you know, and I answer with O'Connell: "We take our religion, but not our politics from Rome." As a man the Cardinal is entitled to his political opinion. As a priest, a fig for his political opinion. M.

Can't Afford a Rest Day.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As a reader of your valuable paper the past 25 years, I note with interest the discussion of prohibiting the Sunday sale of dry goods, shoes, etc. It is true that the larger stores get all the trade during the week and want to squeeze the small merchant out of existence by not allowing a few hours' business on Sunday morning.

I am in sympathy with "A Small Dry Goods Merchant" and think it absurd to compel all the small merchants to close up for the simple reason that the larger stores employing help want to give their employes a rest. We all want to rest, but I have to work hard and business is very dull. I have all I can do to make ends meet for a mere living, and I think there are others in the same boat. Why take away the chance for a small struggling merchant, who is not overlooked with a heavy tax. I hope Councilman Protzmann will see some of these letters and ask him why he did not consider the small merchant too, to whom it means a good deal?

ANOTHER SMALL DRY GOODS MERCHANT.

"The Conquerors.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When this great painting, reproduced in your editorial page Thursday, was at the St. Louis Exposition, someone wrote the following lines for the Post-Dispatch:

These hard-faced conquerors, where prowl
they now?
What deep-down pit of hell now holds these souls
That in their earthly days dreamed but of murder?
Can men look on these evil visages and say
There is no retribution past the tomb?

WHERE THE RIVER SINGS.

WHERE the river sings I lay me wearily
From the toil of play,
And there by its music wake me cheerily
With the day.
In dreams I hear the Naiads sing
Upon the islands of the blest,
And many another fancied thing
To give me rest.

WHERE the river sings I lay me wondering
When the night is still,
And the mighty stream without is thundering,
As water will.
I wonder how many men have known
In that deep-sounding lullaby
The imagery of each fleeting tone
That comforts me.

WHERE the river sings I hear me pleasantly
The laughter of man,
And in the water's song incessantly
The pipes of Pan.
I hear the wind in the forest trees,
And the voices—aye! of many things
Upon the earth and the seven seas,
Where the river sings.

A SUFFRAGE POEM.

And what of your ship, if but half of your crew
Could be called to the deck as you round the world?
And what of your voyage, if your captain knew
That but half of your sails could be unfurled?

And what of your speed with your sails half-set?
And what of your ship in the midst of the gales?
You might anchor at last in your port, and yet
Would you risk your fate with but half of your sails?

But your craft is afloat on a broad, broad sea;
'Tis a wide expanse to your hoped-for land;
As you sail o'er the waters of destiny,
Would your helm not respond to a woman's hand?

'Tis the ship of state that is now afloat—
Do your men alone have the sea's great chart?
Or is there, perchance, on that selfsame boat,
The instinctive guide of a woman's heart?

Ride over the seas, great Ship of State!
You will reach your port in a newer land,
And with never a dare to the ears of Fate,
If your helm is steered by a woman's hand.

THE PRACTICAL VIEW.

A delegation appeared before the Appropriation Committee of the Illinois Legislature last week and asked for money with which to buy and preserve the great Cahokia Mound.

"How high is this mound?" a committeeman asked one of the speakers.

"One hundred feet."

"How much ground does it cover?"

"Sixteen acres."

'How much do they want for it?"

"They want $250,000 for the mound and 200 acres of land around it."

The committeeman snorted.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "We could build one for less!"

THE DENATURED SCOOP.

F. O. B. in the Indianapolis News.

One morning about 2:30 o'clock, all the copy in and the paper ready for the press, the city editor of the Journal and a reporter had braced themselves against the mahogany counter of a saloon near the postoffice to take a nightcap before retiring. Reflected from the mirror they saw peeping around the screen near the door the face of the city editor of the Sentinel, little Joe Bingham. "Yes," said the city editor of the Journal, as though concluding a conversation, "it is a peculiarly sad case. Luther Benson is now the best-known temperance lecturer in the country. Why he should have taken morphine to end a life so useful is, indeed, a mystery. Of course, all we have is the special from Vincennes, and"——

The Sentinel man had heard enough. He rushed from the place, stopped the press and wrote a thrilling special from Vincennes. "Death of Luther Benson. He dies at Vincennes by morphine administered by his own hand. A noble life closed, etc.

It was a head seven inches long and was a screamer. Mr. Benson's appearance at the Sentinel office with a copy of the offending paper in his hand and murder in his eye remained for many years in the annals of that paper as the most dreadful visitation in its history.

ARTIST GIBSON'S PRIZE CONTEST.

From the Buffalo Commercial.

Charles Dana Gibson was amused to receive at his studio a printed circular, signed by an automobile firm, that said: "You are cordially invited to participate in our grand $100 prize drawing contest. Each participant may submit one or more drawings advertising our automobile, and the winner will receive a grand cash prize of $100. Drawings must be sent prepaid, they must be original and all unsuccessful drawings will remain the property of the undersigned." Mr. Gibson, who, according to the New York Times, can scarcely be persuaded to make drawings at $1000 a piece, smiled over this printed circular and then he took a sheet of note paper and, still smiling, he wrote to the automobile firm:

"You are cordially invited to participate in my grand $10 prize automobile contest. Each participant may submit one or more automobiles, fully equipped, of his own manufacture, and the winner will receive a grand cash prize of $10 in gold. The automobiles submitted should be brand-new and must be shipped f. o. b. New York. The unsuccessful automobiles will remain the property of the undersigned."

Not That Kind of a Ranch.

From the New York Tribune.

Speaking of Mr. H. Helm Clayton, long regarded as the coming Chief of the Weather Bureau, his story interests us strangely. It is:

A new neighbor knocked at the door of the next farmhouse and said to the farmer: "Good morning. Have you got a monkey wrench here?"

"No," said the farmer, apologetically, "this is a chicken ranch."

Keep It There for Life.

From the Monticello Outlook.

In reporting the rise in the Kentucky River at Frankfort last week the Lexington Herald said: "Two feet more will put the river in the penitentiary." Well, there is where it belongs.

In Anticipation.

From the Philadelphia North American.

The energy displayed by certain New Jersey politicians in defeating the Wilson jury reform bill suggests that some of them expect to need a jury some time or other.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Mail queries for Sunday a week beforehand, marked "Sunday." No business addresses. No bets. Address "Answers, Post-Dispatch," using postal cards if convenient. Write but one question.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

MRS. E.—Complexion cream: Cut up a cucumber and cover it with two cups of water; let it simmer 15 minutes; strain, bottle and add 10 drops of benzoin. (Diet, exercise, pure air.)

MRS. M.—The German circular is about Grecian skin treatment, and advertises a skin cream, made in Vienna, that has a velvety effect and is absorbed by the skin without fattening. It also advertises various soaps. We have neither time nor space for full translation.

CLEANSING.

READER.—To remove shine on trousers and coats try putting a teaspoon of borax in a quart of cold water, using this to dampen the garment when pressing.

EDNAH.—Water stain on silk: Sponge with alcohol and ether in equal parts. Fold blotting paper and lay it under spot before touching with sponge. Sponge and press the entire dress.

HEALTH HINTS.

VIRGINIA.—One writer says: There is no question as to the value of milk as a food when taken slowly and between meals. It should not be taken in great gulps with other food, nor with any acid fruit. Another: Weaning ends the milk diet for an animal, why should exception be made in favor of the human species? What adult would think of asking for breast milk, what woman would think of being a wet nurse to an adult. The thought of it is offensive, but milk from a cow is even worse. The cow belongs to a different species of animal and her milk is for her calf. Man prolongs the maternity of the cow to use her milk for himself. The effect is unfavorable to man. Milk sickness is the result and will explain why it is that children who use it are weak and diseased, constipated, nervous, have large tonsils and adenoids, headaches and fevers. Cow's milk is for the calf, breast milk is for the infant, milk is unsafe as a diet for adult human beings. This is the tonic prescription of a reputable physician: Halve your food, double your drinking water and do not have it ice cold; treble your out-of-door exercise and quadruple your consumption of fresh air and laughter.

X. Y. Z.—Chronic diarrhoea: Diet should be nutritious, but restricted to most digestible food. Mutton, pigeon, chicken, game and whitefish are generally suitable. Avoid beef, pork, veal and all tough portions of meat. Old rice, well cooked, with milk, taken directly it is prepared, is nourishing. If milk agrees, drink plenty of it. Milk and lime water is good in these cases. Take mucilaginous drinks, such as barley water, gum water and linseed tea, instead of clear water. Rice water also valuable. Get best Carolina rice. Wash it in cold water, then boil in good measure of water 10 minutes. Strain water off and add more, and so on until nutriment is boiled out. It is ready to drink when cold. Cream may be added, and pinch of salt if desired. Usually zwieback or pulled bread, in small quantities, is harmless and grateful. Avoid green vegetables, raw acid fruits, dried fruits, nuts, shell fish, pork, veal, foods prepared with rich gravies or very sweet sauces, coarse breads, pastries and desserts in general. Injection for chronic diarrhoea: New milk, with thick mucilage of slippery elm, of each 1 pint; sweet oil, 1 gill; molasses, half pint; salt, 1 ounce; laudanum, 1 dram. Mix and inject what the bowels will retain.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

BRIDE.—Baked halibut, a la Creole: Have a pound steak of halibut cut and the bone removed. Put it into a baking dish and sprinkle over a minced garlic clove; cover with a layer of stewed tomatoes, one of bread crumbs; dot with butter, dust with salt and pepper; add another layer of tomatoes, and bake 20 minutes.

C. A.—Crystallized pineapple: Peeling must be taken off and every "eye" cut out; there is a small contrivance to be had for this purpose that digs out the eye perfectly. The crystallizing is done by preparing a rich, thick syrup by boiling a pound of sugar in barely enough water to melt it; when it "threads" dip the slices or half slices of the fruit in and drain on a sieve; keep the syrup where it will not boil, but will keep hot until the fruit dries, after the first dipping; then dip again. It should dry perfectly each time, and after the last dipping will be perfectly crystalled. Another way is to place the fruit in a can and pour the thick syrup over; let stand a few minutes, then pour off any that remains; repeat until the crystallizing is complete.

MISCELLANEOUS.

STUM.—See auditor of passenger accounts about train auditor.

TST.—Food may be digested and assimilated while one is in bed. Too much food cannot be digested or assimilated by anybody, sick or well.

H. E. V.—Carn-a-gie is most common pronunciation—accent on the first syllable, "g" hard; but more correct Scots is Car-neg-gie, second syllable accented.

XXX.—Your repeated dream of the dead man is absurd and is unaccountable if your brain is healthy. Pay no more attention to it. There are those who might say that it is merely the work of an evil spirit. If it is, then you should all the more avoid giving it any attention. Possibly you may be affected by some condition of the atmosphere.

SOUTHERN READER.—The withers are the highest part of the back of a horse, and are sometimes galled (made sore) by friction. A jade is an old, worn-out horse; a sorry nag. "Let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung" was said by Hamlet (act 3, scene 2). The word jade was sometimes applied to a woman. Hamlet was discussing with the King and Queen a play which seemed to reflect upon the murderous royal pair, and his expression was a bit of irony, for the play called to mind their own sins.

SOCIALIST.—At one foot above the level of the sea objects on its surface are visible for a distance of 1.31 miles; at five feet, 2.96 miles; six feet, 3.24 miles; 10 feet, 4.18 miles; 20 feet, 5.92 miles; 25 feet, 6.61 miles; 30 feet, 7.25 miles; 40 feet, 8.37 miles; 50 feet, 9.35 miles; 100 feet, 13.23 miles; 150 feet, 16.22 miles; 200 feet, 18.72 miles. The distance is, of course, increased according to the height the objects observed are above the level of the sea. The distance of the horizon from the observer is the same, with a slight increase in consequence of curved direction of the sight owing to the refraction of the air.

HARRY.—At Japanese party play fantan progressively. Have four players at each table. Game is played with a pack of 50 cards and chips. At beginning the cards are dealt evenly and arranged in the hands as in whist. Everyone has the same number of chips. The aces are laid face up on the table, and built upon in suits. When a player has no card to put down he is obliged to put a chip in the pool on the table. The first one out gets all the chips in the pool, and from each player as many chips as he holds cards. In playing progressively, when a hand is played out at the head table all stop playing, and the two who are nearest out move up, taking chips as they hold cards, respectively. For prizes have any pretty Japanese conceits—for the girls fans, Japanese scarfs, Japanese hatpins, etc., and for the men, Japanese bronze stamp boxes, or pen trays or scarfpins. You can have Japanese baskets filled with Japanese sweets and confections. Use the ordinary paper napkins on which to write invitations, or get small fans if you prefer. Japanese lanterns could be used to good effect in the decorations.

BRYAN'S MISSION TO CALIFORNIA SEEMS TO BE OF NO AVAIL

Legislators and Gov. Johnson insist on the gazipe which they put in the Alien land act to reduce the holdings and influence of Japanese; but they have changed the phraseology from "prohibitive" to "permissive" exclusion.

THE best result of Secretary Bryan's trip to California seems to be that the Webb alien land bill will be passed. It permits aliens eligible to citizenship to own land; Japanese are permitted to own residences, factories, and shops but not agricultural lands. Inheritance of land by aliens not eligible to citizenship is forbidden. Present holdings are not affected except they cannot be bequeathed or sold to other aliens who are ineligible. The agitation against us in Japan has ceased since it became known that our President and State Department were actively engaged in modifying California's attitude toward the Japanese.

The New Bill.

New York Sun: The new alien land tenure bill, which the California Senate passed, was drawn by Attorney-General U. S. Webb, who seems to have concluded that the time had come for the Progressives to stop playing politics and retire from an indefensible position. In the second section of the treaty of 1911 the privileges of the Japanese are recognized. This second section of the Webb bill is in effect an enactment of Section 1 one of the treaty with Japan, which accords her subjects the privilege "to own or lease and occupy houses, manufactories, warehouses and shops" and "to lease land for residential and commercial purposes."

Japan could not take exception to the Webb bill if enacted, since it does not deny the right of Japanese subjects under the treaty with the United States to own buildings, houses, etc. or to lease land for residential and commercial purposes. The Webb bill ought to be satisfactory to American farmers and fruit growers, because it aims to promote a strict construction of treaty privileges.

New Question Involved.

Pittsburg Gazette-Times: Senator Birdsall, the Placer County man who for 10 years has been advocating an alien land owner law in California, propounds a somewhat staggering proposition—that is, as far as the national administration is concerned. "Have we the right to enact such legislation?" he asks. If we have not, then the act would be offset automatically by the constitution and existing treaty rights." The amended bill is believed to be constitutional, inasmuch as it merely limits ownership to citizens and to those eligible to citizenship. Somewhat similar laws are in force in a number of states. The result in California, however, will be again to raise the question of naturalization of Japanese, and here is where the serious trouble will begin.

An Efficiency Contest.

Philadelphia Record: Do the anti-Japanese politicians of California know that they are talking through their chapeaux when they site statistics to prove the imminence of the yellow peril? For instance, they tell us that the Japanese in 1910 constituted seven per cent of the adult male population of the State, but omit to say that of the 41,000 persons of this nationality some 7000 were women and as many more children. They admit that the Japanese Government has observed its engagement with the United States respecting the immigration of laborers to this and contiguous countries, so that during the years 1910-1912 there were admitted to continental America 9640 Japanese, while in the same period 11,306 departed. We are asked to believe that 18,000 men have under cultivation 153,682 acres of land, 137,233 acres of which was leased and 16,449 acres owned by them. The efficiency of the Japanese would seem to be even greater than their industry. Whil they owned or leased a little over one per cent of the improved farm lands of California, they raised on it 20 per cent in value of the total agricultural product of the State. If this be the case, the race for supremacy would be as good as won by the Japanese and the whites might as well give up. A nation that can produce 20 per cent of the agricultural output from one per cent of the improved farm lands of a state cannot be beaten.

Defending the Japanese.

Indianapolis News: The San Francisco Chronicle, the Oakland Tribune, the San Francisco Evening Post, the Pasadena News and other papers in California apparently see no reason why the State should be so wrought up over the Japanese question; but there are still other views that may help to show the animus of the demand so strongly felt at Sacramento. A correspondent in the New York Sun who styles himself an old Californian, has a good word for the Japanese. He finds that California owes much to Asiatic labor. And this is true, as all who have ever studied labor and agricultural conditions in California must admit. If the people of California were able to supply their own labor, till all their own lands—in other words actually be as self-sufficient as they profess to be—the Japanese would not be a perennial bugaboo. Kiyoshi Kawakami, a Japanese writer of wide reputation, ought to be considered. He defends his countrymen in a way that must invite admiration. He cites statistics to show that there is no present menace of Japanese usurpation, and explains the presence of his countrymen in the rural districts of California as being due to their willingness to farm lands long neglected—marsh lands and the lands of the great Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, where there are severe extremes in temperature—because American labor felt the task too great.

Bryan's Trip Justified.

New York World: Secretary Bryan's appearance before the California Legislature has been justified by the results. The new alien land law now under way is not an ideal settlement of a troublesome question, but it recognizes the treaty rights of Japan; its terms are not offensive and it embodies no scheme of confiscation.

The favor with which this measure has been received proves the truth of what The World has said more than once—that all California is not given over to race hatred and all Californians are not demagogues. If earlier Presidents and Secretaries of State had been as farseeing and courageous as Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan have shown themselves to be the country would have been spared many a shameful Pacific Coast exhibition of bad manners and bad faith.

Approved Bryan's Mission.

New York Press: This paper thinks American sentiment approved Secretary Bryan's mission of remonstrance. Perhaps very few persons expected the members of the California Legislature would pay heed to the protest of the administration at Washington, and they really have not paid the slightest heed to it; but public opinion, as we judge it, did desire that the California Legislature should be reasoned with before being, perhaps, spanked. The Washington administration having reasoned in vain with the California Legislature, President Wilson being defied, we have no doubt that a great majority of the American people would give a more emphatic approval to a course of effective discipline in the way of a sound spanking than they gave to the bootless course of discipline by wasted reason.

A Negative Triumph.

New York Tribune: The amended law devised by the California administration appears to be an astute and able piece of work. It denies to Mr. Bryan practically all that he pleaded for and sends him back to Washington with little save kind words. It concedes the one thing—treaty supremacy—which Mr. Bryan expressly disclaimed a desire to assert. Incidentally, in so doing the State of California appears to have placed itself in an impregnable position so far as criticism at home or abroad is concerned. Mr. Bryan made his plea with ability and tact. The anomalous situation in which he finds himself—of having lost every point he sought and gained the one point which he scorned—is due to no lack of diplomatic ability on his part. The blame must rest at the door of a Democratic administration which toyed with a grave Federal issue and timidly retreated from the assertion of an undoubted national power.

The New and the Old Bryan.

New York Globe: Secretary Bryan, by his demeanor at Sacramento yesterday, greatly disappointed the numerous company that likes to think of him as a roaring, ranting demagogue.

It will be in order for many persons to say that it is a new Bryan that is revealed to the country. It will be in order for other persons to say that it is not a new Bryan that has been revealed, but the old Bryan, who at last has induced his detractors to see him as he really has been all along. The latter group will have somewhat the better of the argument. Barring Mr. Bryan's wrongness on the silver question, his political course has generally been consistent and defensible. No man has been more persistenly misrepresented.

Guns of Lighter Caliber.

Detroit Free Press: Both Roosevelt and Taft had anti-Japanese problems to combat, but the Pacific Coast respected or feared them, not because they had any more actual constitutional power than Wilson possesses, but because they were men of resource who knew how to read the riot act in a manner that made yapping demagogues seek shelter. There was personality and the prestige of deeds accomplished behind their words.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan talk and argue fluently enough, but their words are blown back into their mouths.

Johnson is shrewd enough to understand the situation and prompt to take advantage of it. He relies on the bluster and abuse which failed to serve him at the Chicago convention to carry him through, now that he faces guns of lighter caliber.

War in Europe

EVENTS are moving so rapidly in Europe that before this is printed Austria may have attacked Montenegro, although the German Emperor has interposed to delay conflict until the Ambassadors of the Powers can meet in London and find a way out of the difficulty. Montenegro, small as she is, persists in holding Scutari and, if she is backed by Russia, may make good her claim in spite of Austria.

Is the Great War Near?

Cleveland Leader: Europe cannot believe that the men who rule in Vienna and Budapest would take the chances of a resort to arms unless they had positive assurances of German support. Any other course would risk too much for the possible gains. But Germany cannot set her vast army in motion without bringing France and Russia into action. In Paris and St. Petersburg it would be felt that to sit idly by and watch Germany aid Austria-Hungary to crush the hopes of the Balkan Slavs would be a form of national suicide.

Montenegro's Case.

Baltimore News: Montenegro has clung to liberty through five and a quarter centuries of chronic warfare. It is the one remnant of the old Servian empire whose power the Ottomans shattered at Kossovo in 1389. And since that time this same Scutari and the plain it overlooks have been all that has been shorn from its domains. No wonder that, now it has regained them at the cost of thousands of Montenegrin lives, we in America sympathize with it in its hope of retaining them.

Inflamed Austria.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The sullen anger of the Austrians against Montenegro has been inflamed to fury by the proclamation of Essad as King of Albania. The last shred of decent pretense, the last veil of hypocrisy, has been dropped. Vienna no longer prates about "Albania for the Albanians;" it is now brutally "Albania for the Austrians."

Honor in Defeat

Philadelphia Record: Essad Pasha, the defender of Scutari, belongs to a noble Albanian family; and it is beginning to be suspected that he yielded the fortress and was permitted to evacuate the same with the honors of war by an understanding with King Nicholas. Essad has a force of well-armed veterans, which would enable him to maintain himself against all comers as the ruler of Albania. King Nicholas, under pressure of the Powers, would yield Scutari; but only after receiving generous territorial and other compensation; and instead of becoming an Austro-Italian protectorate Albania would become a really independent state under a friendly prince. The accession of Albania to the Balkan alliance is an outcome that could not have been expected by the Powers, and will certainly be unwelcome to some of them.

Danger of Pan-Slavic Outburst.

New York Sun: Even if the worst should come to the worst and Austria bring force to bear on the little kingdom on her own responsibility, the general opinion seems to prevail that the area of conflict will be localized and that the other great Powers will not be drawn into the struggle. Austria will only be carrying into effect the principle that has been agreed upon by the general consent of the Powers. There is, of course, the danger of an outburst of Pan-Slavism which might force the Russian Government to go to the assistance of its protege, in which case Germany, in accordance with the conditions of the Triple Alliance, would join forces with Austria and a general European war would be inevitable. That, however, is a contingency unlikely to arise.

Chinese in Trouble

YUAN has signed the five Powers loan agreement from which the United States withdrew because, as President Wilson said, it was dangerous for us and imposed improperly hard conditions on China. This will give the Chinese President control of enough cash to pay off his troops, and carry out projected reforms; but the signing has aroused the opposition to such an extent that rebellion in the South is feared.

Yuan and the Kuo Min Tong.

Chicago News: The Kuo Min Tong, or Democratic party, which has a majority in the Chinese assembly, fears that Yuan is seeking to overthrow the republic and to rule without constitutional restraints. Yuan for his part has formed a political organization to oppose the Kuo Min Tong. If he is patriotic enough to continue to be merely President he has now a great opportunity to consolidate and strengthen China. In the past the army has helped him keep the politicians within bounds, but the half-baked patriots are a peril to the country and there may presently rise fighting men on their side to menace Yuan who, in spite of patriots' alarms, is the choice of the leading factions for President.

Republican Canton has been raising funds and drilling troops for months, ostensibly to fight the Mongols. It may be that the populous southern provinces where the Kuo Min Tong is strong and where distrust of Yuan is widespread, are prepared to rise in arms if at any time they conclude that Yuan is seeking to destroy the republic.

Secession Will Be Delayed.

Pittsburg Dispatch: For the moment, however, Yuan has the advantage in that the opposing Parliamentary party dare not force the issue of overthrowing him lest it result in the disunion of China into Northern and Southern governments, Yuan and the old monarchist element controlling the North and the Republicans the South. The Republicans do not wish the country further dismembered; but they fear that the possession of this money and control of the army will entrench Yuan in the presidential chair through the support of the five Powers whose bankers are lending the cash. The clash may be averted until the presidential election in June, when the National Assembly will be called upon to elect a successor to Yuan. He is a candidate and confident of election.

SAINT-SAENS STIRS THE STARS AT A REHEARSAL

Breaks in to Tell the Tenor How to Sing the Love Song in His Opera "Proserpine" and Is Equally Abrupt in Coaching All the Other Performers—Brussels Production Preliminary to American.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 3.—Those who consider the great French composer Saint-Seans as grown rather old had better reconsider at least as far as mental activity is concerned. Although he is almost eighty years old, he has been making all Brussels "sit up."

He came for the first performance here of his opera "Proserpine," which he wrote after the "Tibre d'argent" and "Samson et Dalila," and before the later works, which ended with "Dejanire." "Proserpine" was performed in Paris in 1587 and has been given since only fitfully at other French theaters. Now it has been reborn in Brussels and, as the eye of every operatic manager is always on the Monnaie Theater as the birthplace of so many excellent novelties, the performance of "Proserpine" has brought musical experts from all over the world.

Saint-Seans arrived in Brussels for the dress rehearsal and sat in the front row of the stalls where he could hang over and explain his composition to M. Lauerwyns, the orchestra leader, who, before the afternoon was over, must have regretted that trains run from Paris. The composer had very decided ideas of how all the singers should do their parts and more than once stopped the representation to sing the lover's song to the tenor, interrupting him in the middle of his song with "Like this: tum, tum, tum, tumpty tum," or checking another in the same way. He seemed to have every note of every part, orchestral and vocal, by heart and was perpetually bouncing up in his seat. At the end he audibly expressed himself as delighted and praised the beautiful scenery.

A 16th Century Love Story.

"The title of "Proserpine" is misleading, for, of course, one expects a sort of classical-mythological story and one gets, instead, a love drama dated the end of the sixteenth century. Proserpine is a fashionable beauty of the period and we see her receiving a horde of lovers in a charming Italian garden, where both nature and the hand of man have done their best. There are other women in picturesque gowns, but, being as water unto wine in the eyes of the gorgeous gallants only flit to and fro in the background. Her lovers surround Proserpine, who "turns them down" in well practiced style.

Presently Sabatino appears, and Proserpine tells the audience that it is he she really loves, although once already she has cast him off for another. She thinks he has come back to her lure, but in reality he has come to prove to his friend, Renzo, with whose young sister he is now in love, that he is cold and at ease before the enchantress and really quite free. She becomes furious because he refuses her now offered affections, and threatens revenge. A bandit appearing named Squarocco, she invites him to supper, leads off with him before her discomfited admirers, and hires him to revenge her.

The feature of this opera is the second scene, which represents the garden of the convent, where sweet and handsome Angiola, Renzo's sister, is at school. What with the pretty scene, the pretty sisters and the prettier pupils in their white and blue uniform, and the air of peace and purity that pervades the moment, everyone is grateful to Lucien Gallet, who composed the libretto from an old poem and who then invented all this act as a contrast to the rest of the work. There is a charming sextet for female voices, a ravishing love duet between Sabatino come to fetch his bride, Angiola, and a fine chorus of alms-imploring beggars, among whom is the bandit, maturing his plans.

Proserpine a Desperate Rival.

The third act shows Renzo and his sister travelling through the mountains toward Sabatino's palace for the wedding. They are intercepted by the bandit and Proserpine as a gypsy, and are nearly murdered; but, since there is another act to the opera, they, of course, escape.

The lady of many lovers contrives to rush to Sabatino's beautiful home ahead of Angiola, and makes another bid for the hero's heart. But the fires for her are out, and he tells her as plainly as any operatic tenor in a slashed costume can that not a fire lighter in the world can set a flame going for her again, as he loves the innocent convent maiden, Angiola. So Proserpine hides behind a curtain and listens to their love confession that is so beautifully set to music by that magician, Saint-Seans, that it almost converts her to goodness. She makes a half-hearted attempt to stab Angiola, fails and, feeling that the curtain cannot come down properly without a victim, plants the dagger in her own breast and expires at the young lovers' feet, Renzo arriving just in time to help sing a sort of requiem quartet.

The music is charming all the way through. It is classical, yet melodious, and more than one critic gave a sigh of rapture at the absence of those soul scarifying discords which spring up like rank weeds all over the pages of modern compositions. This composition is eminently that of Saint-Seans, and the presentation of "Proserpine," amusingly enough, has revived some of the controversies concerning it which raged before the young people of this generation were taken to the opera.

Saint-Seans then was accused of being a reactionist, of having a most unfair animosity to Wagner and of yet imitating him; and this revived gossip has caused him to write a public letter to the Brussels press, in which he says that he never had any hostility toward Wagner, but only to the intolerance of the Wagnerian school, which would not admit that any other could produce true music.

"I have never been hostile," he declares, "but my method is different; I believe in my own ideas and I have the right to do so. I, too, use the leitmotiv, as any one listening to 'Proserpine' will hear. For instance, in the first act, while Proserpine is pretending to scorn Sabatino in her song, the orchestra is translating her real feelings. Again in the convent scene there is a love leitmotiv which dominates all. The difference is that whereas Wagner placed that as a prominent figure in the foreground of the musical picture, I prefer it further back and would rather it was felt than actually heard. Moreover, I give more prominence to the voice and less to the orchestration.

"After all, even Wagner was not always true to his own masterful laws, of which there are proofs in 'Tristan' and the 'Meistersinger.' Indeed many of the elect reproached him with the fine quintet in the latter, insisted that it was an earlier work before he crystallized his own dogma and declared that it was stuck into the opera just to satisfy the melody-loving public. But the article by Tiersot at the time disposed of that accusation."

The opera was excellently sung in Brussels. Mme. Beral, who is a great star, took the part of Proserpine and Mlle. Berelly, another fine singer of the Monnaie, looked and sang the part of Angiola beautifully. M. Girod well filled the part of Sabatino, while M. Baldous was Renzo and M. de Clery, a very popular Brussels favorite, did capitally as the ragged, bold, bad brigand.

YANKEES RUSH TO BERLIN FOR ROYAL WEDDING SHOW

BERLIN, May 3.—Americans are arriving in Berlin from home by every mail steamship and from all parts of Europe by train to witness the imperial festivities attending the marriage this month of Emperor William's daughter and the fetes of his silver jubilee as Emperor next month. Forty were brought this week by the George Washington. Most of the Americans who have engaged rooms will be at the Adlon or the Kaiserhoff.

The Esplanade, usually called "the Prince's Hotel," announces that all its rooms are engaged for the whole month of May for German Princes and other dignitaries invited by the Emperor to be his guests. The Hotel Bristol, too, is mostly booked for German guests of the Emperor. It is announced that a certain number of visitors will be able to obtain tickets for a special performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," arranged by Max Reinhardt in the old-fashioned gardens of the Minister of the Interior and the adjoining foreign ministery. The hotels can book tickets in advance on early orders, but the gardens are not large and the number admitted will be limited.

SPANIARDS APPRECIATE AMERICAN COMPLIMENT

MADRID, May 3.—Admiral Cayo Puga, responding to a letter from Harvard students, states that the plans and drawings of the Caravel Santa Maria he constructed for the Chicago exhibition will be placed at their disposal free. The students had incurred the cost.

The Spaniards are much touched by the compliment proposed to be paid to their great explorer, Vasco Nunez Balboa, by sending the caravel first through the Panama Canal.

QUEEN MARY CHEERS UP THE SMART SET A BIT.

At the Earl and Countess of Granard's Dinner She Wears a Really Modish Gown and Laughs Merrily at the Witticisms of Her Host and Hostess.

HAS STUNNING COSTUME AT LORD ROSEBERRY'S PARTY

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, May 3.—King George and Queen Mary had long promised the Earl and Countess of Granard to dine with them, and did so this week. Lady Granard (Beatrice Mills of New York) had brought over from Castle Forbes part of an old collection of beautiful Wedgewood for the inspection of the Queen, who is an ardent collector of Wedgewood.

Some of the Countess' pieces are very fine, and after dinner she spent half an hour examining the pieces with the Queen, who went through the Wedgewood works during her recent visit to Staffordshire. One or two pieces, especially a cinerary urn in a lovely shade of green, attracted her admiration, and on Monday a note from the Queen to Lady Granard was received with a gift in the form of a beautiful green Wedgewood vase.

Lady Granard was at her best on the night of the dinner. She wore a gown of white satin, plain as to the tightly cut skirt, but the bodice scintillated with diamonds. A remarkable diamond stomacher fringed with pearls formed her chief ornament. She wore a Greek tiara and a necklace composed of single diamonds with five huge diamond drops in front. Her narrow train was finished off in a point and silver bows.

The Queen wore black embroidery with silver bugles, with a fashionable narrow train. She was very lively during the dinner and laughed a great deal at some of her host's and hostess' sallies and kindly criticism of court customs and etiquette.

Lord and Lady Granard have the gift of being perfectly easy-going in the presence of royalty, which banishes stiffness, the bane of most royal parties.

The Queen declined a cigarette after dinner, but said she had no wish to prevent others enjoying what she herself did not care for.

Mrs. Ogden Mills, the Countess' mother, had a long talk with the Queen. She told her much of American social customs and ways of the New York season, and of the delights of Newport.

The Queen said the Newport season seemed an excellent idea. It keeps American money in America instead of its possessors rushing abroad at every opportunity and spending it for the benefit of foreign spas. Mrs. Mills had to confess that a good many Americans spent it both ways. The King joined them later and comparisons were made between English and American methods.

"You do much to enliven our society," the King said, "and society should be deeply grateful for the American element."

The Queen being in modish black, this fact was noted, with the result that subsequently at Lord Roseberry's dinner, all except one appeared in black or neutral tints. But, to the astonishment of everyone, the Queen arrived in a magnificent robe of cloth of gold, and never before looked so well.

The King is getting to look old, but the Queen becomes more refined, slimmer, and far more sociable. The bodice of her gown was simply folded, and a knot of deep crimson roses fastened in front at the waist with a large emerald buckle in her hair. She wore a very small diamond ornament, and on her right hand the single emerald ring left to her by the late Consuelo Duchess of Manchester.

YANKEE PRINCESS MAY MARRY A COMPOSER.

Her Highness of Monaco, Yielding Place to Son's Bride, Plans Her Own Establishment.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1912, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

PARIS, May 3.—The Princess of Monaco, the only American woman who has ever actually shared a throne as joint sovereign with her husband, is said to be contemplating a civil marriage with Isidore de Lara, the English Jewish composer who has lived many years in Paris, and with whom the Princess has been on extremely friendly terms.

Her separation from the Prince of Monaco was legalized eleven years ago, but as both are Catholics it has never been recognized by the church. But the Princess is legally as free to marry again as was Anna Gould when she became the wife of Prince Helie of Sagan, now the Duke of Talleyrand.

The Princess of Monaco, the daughter of a wealthy New Orleans banker named Heine, is the mother of the Duke of Richelieu, who married Miss Wise of Baltimore last winter. The approaching return of the Duke of Richelieu to Paris with his bride is said to have a great deal to do with the plan of the Princess to make another marriage. She has been at the head of her son's magnificent establishment in Paris and his equally magnificent chateau in the Sarthe department of France, but must now yield the place to her daughter-in-law. No question of money is involved in her leaving her son's home, as the Princess is even richer than her son, being amply provided for, in addition to her large private fortune, by her former husband, the sovereign of Monaco.

But her son's marriage has brought on the necessity of a separate home for herself which she seems to think would be too lonely in single blessedness. She is still a remarkably beautiful woman, although past fifty, and she takes a keen interest in music as well as in society.

De Lara, who belongs to her father's race (having modified his name somewhat) and is some ten years her junior, is one of the handsomest men in Paris, with fascinating dark eyes and charming manners and an entree into the best society. He and the Princess of Monaco have been constantly seen together for eight or nine years and it is said that De Lara, in all that time, has never missed a day when he did not pay his respects to the Princess if she were in Paris.

Some of his operas have had great popularity in Paris, especially "Messaline" and "Moina," which were presented first at the Opera Comique in Paris and then taken on long tours.

SPANISH MONARCH SEES NEWSPAPER PUT TO PRESS

"Even Kings and Cabinets Are Destroyed by Them" King Observes as Type Machines Are Operated.

MADRID, May 3.—King Alfonso hugely enjoyed a visit to the offices of the newspaper Imparcial. He particularly watched an edition of the Imparcial being brought out, insisting that the editorial department should continue its labors as if he were not there, and going through the mechanical department.

A patriotic composer printed in large letters "Long Live the King," and Alfonso took a proof home, jestingly remarking that the Imparcial, which is very outspoken in regard to the monarchy, would not dare appear with such a loyal headline.

The printing machines were critically examined, His Majesty observing:

"Even Kings and Cabinets are destroyed by them."

The King sat down to lunch with the entire staff, printers and all, having on his right the editor-in-chief and on his left the oldest employe on the paper, a gray-haired reporter.

Before departing he signed a hundred photographs. Needless to say the Imparcial had the best accounts of the King's movements that day; in fact, it was a royal "scoop."

Alfonso's popularity was enormously increased by his plucky conduct on the occasion of the last attempt to assassinate him. Whenever he is seen in public he is vociferously cheered.

The King's coming visit to Paris will be undertaken against the advice of everybody, especially the Queen, the Queen Mother and the Cabinet Ministers. It is believed that President Poincare will be glad to have the visit safely over.

Many warnings have been received of anarchist plots, some of which are regarded seriously. But the King always was self-willed and now is growing intractable and regards as insulting any suggestion that he should alter his personal plans for considerations of danger.

His health, too, causes increasing anxiety, as his activity is irrepressible and he never rests. In fact, his family and his entourage observe with alarm that he is developing along the same lines as his father before the latter suddenly collapsed. Queen Victoria's being in delicate health at present increases the anxiety of the court.

The Peek-Thornburg Wedding, With Its Many Interesting Features as a Romantic and International Wedding, Holds Attention of Society.

By FRANCES CABANNE SCO[illegible]

THE all-absorbing topic just now is Miss Edwine Thor[illegible]gh's marriage next Wednesday to Sir Wilfrid Peek.

The wedding presents from England that Sir Wilfrid brought over and which were held up by the unfeeling customs officials in New York are out on bond and have come in time to be shown with the others, which are said to be quite "wonderful."

Sir Wilfrid's gift is a tiara of diamonds and Mrs. William McMillan and her daughter, Mrs. William Northrup McMillan, have given to her a diamond necklace to match.

Besides, there are lots of personal things, jewelry, lace, exquisite linens and the hundred and one rare and beautiful presents that it is customary to give to a bride who is going to another country to live.

For days we have written about the guests who were to come, their arrival, the entertainments for the bridal party and all the interesting affairs incident to so important a social event.

It isn't often in the scheme of things that two persons so blessed as are Miss Thornburgh and Sir Wilfrid with what the world holds best meet and marry. Both have wealth, social position, good looks and loads of friends.

There is no girl more generally liked—yes, loved—than is little Miss Thornburg by everyone who knows her.

And ever since Sir Wilfrid's visit here last winter, just after Christmas, everyone has been saying how lucky they both are. It is mostly in books that such matches are made.

The future Lady Peek is the daughter of Mrs. William C. Stribling. She is about medium height, slender, without the fashionable puny, chestless look that so many of our pretty girls affect. Her hair is bright golden, her eyes blue or gray, and her skin lovely, pretty teeth and—well there is not much else to say except that she is altogether lovely.

She was graduated at Mary Institute and was one year at Briarcliff Manor and made her debut two winters ago.

It was while visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Northrup McMillan in London last summer, during the season, that she met Sir Wilfrid. He is the third Baronet of his name, a Lieutenant in the First Devon Yoemenry Cavalry, and lives at Rousdon, in Devonshire, and has large tea plantations in India. He is much better looking than his pictures, tall, well set up and has the appearance of a man who lives out of doors.

He is blond, of course, in fact "very English," and everyone is hoping he will wear his uniform at the wedding, because it is so picturesque.

Sir Wilfrid's mother, the Lady Peek, who has come over with him for the nuptials, is the sister of Viscount Middleton, who was St. John Broderick, M. P., war secretary during part of the South African war.

The marriage will be solemnized at the First Presbyterian Church at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and afterwards there will be a large reception at the Stribling mansion in Portland place.

Mrs. John H. Holliday, who was Miss Marjory Thornburgh, will be matron of honor, and the bridemaids will be Misses Violet and Gwendolyn Peek, Fanny Knight and Frances Filley.

Sir Wilfrid brought his groomsman, Mr. H. Arthur Benyon, with him, and the ushers will be Messrs. John H. Holliday, Henry Thornburgh, Harry Blackwell and William C. Stribling Jr.

There has been a round of luncheons and dinners for the bridal party besides a number of entertainments for Lady Peek. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Joseph H. Holliday gave a tea at the Country Club in her honor. The guests were some of the older matrons.

In the evening Mrs. John H. Holliday gave a dinner at the Country Club in honor of Mrs. Northrup McMillan who has come from London for the wedding.

Monday evening Mrs. William McMillan will give a dinner at the Country Club for the bridal party and out-of-town guests. Miss Filley entertained them at dinner last Friday evening and Miss Knight at luncheon at the Log Cabin Club Thursday.

Miss Leah Van Riper's wedding Wednesday to Guy Oliver was one of the most impressive ever seen at St. Peter's Church. The whole ceremony was deeply religious.

Dr. Phillips, the new pastor, read the marriage service in the most intelligent manner. He did not omit the word "obey."

It was a beautiful wedding, the day was lovely and the church was filled with all the fashionables in their spring togs and the bridemaids' gowns were exquisite. They were of white lace with girdles of pink and they wore large white lace hats with pink crowns and their arms seemed filled with great bunches of pink snapdragons.

As they were getting into their motor after the wedding a huge motor car passed filled with men in high hats and frock coats—strangers all, coming in from the dedication of the Jefferson Memorial, and they nearly fell out looking at the bridemaids.

There was no maid of honor, but Miss Frances Filley walked in front of the bride up the aisle. I wonder how many times Miss Filley has been bridemaid!

And the bride! She has always been pretty, but it is hard to believe there ever was a more beautiful bride than she. Her eyes are gray and set wide apart, and her face, a rare oval, is "fine" and frank.

She wore an old lace wedding veil that had been in the family several generations. It was fitted into a little cap in front, and the tulle underneath the rest of it made it creamy and soft.

The vested choir sang two or three joyous sounding hymns before and after the service, which was odd, but made it all the more ceremonious.

Mrs. Oliver is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Van Riper. She made her debut four seasons ago, and, although her engagement was not formally announced until shortly before the marriage, it has been understood.

The bridemaids were Misses Judith Oliver, Fanny Knight, Frances Jones and Helen Wood, and the ushers, Clarence Gamble, Daniel McCluney, John Love, John C. Van Riper Jr., George Van Riper and Brooks Knight. Hildreth Peckham was best man.

A reception at the Van Riper residence was given after the ceremony.

The church and house were decorated with pink carnations and purple lilacs and quantities of wild fruit blossoms.

Every trimmed hat in the house at half price. De Hony's, 705 Locust.

Cards have been received here from Mrs. Joseph S. Fuqua, announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Jeannette Fuqua and Cary D. Terrell in London at Westminster Chapel, Wednesday, April 16. They have been spending their honeymoon on the Riviera and will be at home after May 20, at the Buckingham Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Warmack, and their daughter, Annie Laurie of the St. Regis, will sail June 10, on "The Kronprinzessin Cecilie," to spend the summer in Europe. Miss Warmack is one of this years' graduates from Mary Institute. On her return in the fall, she will remain in the East, where she will enter school at Briarcliff Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Croninger of 5560 Cates avenue are going abroad to spend part of the summer. They will sail early in July.

Miss Cyd Bettleheim of New York will arrive today to visit Mrs. Emil Nathan of 5037 Waterman avenue. Mrs. Nathan will be at home tomorrow afternoon informally from 4 to 6 o'clock in honor of her guest.

1000 moonvines, all sizes, from 5c to 15c each. Bleeckert's, 4426 Labadie.

One of the most interesting June weddings will be that of Miss Emily L. Hammer of 3218A University street and Judge Wilson A. Taylor of the St. Louis Circuit Court, their engagement having been announced last week. The bride-to-be, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Hammer, is a pianiste of considerable local note, having been an instructor in the Beethoven Conservatory of Music.

The wedding, which is to take place the last week in June, will be followed by a trip to Maples, Mo., to visit Judge Taylor's mother, after which the wedding journey will be continued.

Judge Taylor and his fiancee met at the home of mutual friends, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nolte of 1129 Penrose stret, about four years ago.

Plants grown in St. Louis will grow. Buy them. Bleeckert's, 4426 Labadie.

Mrs. Alexander S. Greig and her daughter, Miss Inez Greig, arrived in St. Louis yesterday after an absence of three years abroad and have taken a suite at the Hotel Jefferson.

They landed on the Berlin Tuesday at New York, whence Mr. Greig, who is vice-president of the Frisco System, went to meet them and bring them home.

Miss Greig, who is an unusually handsome and talented young woman, has been having her voice cultivated. She has taken lessons under two of the most noted vocal instructors of Europe, Mme. Brambilla, prima donna of the La Scala Opera House of Milan, and Fernandez Fortuna of Milan, who was the instructor of Caruso. Both teachers declare Miss Greig has a voice of unusual merit and quality. The Greigs also had a box at the grand opera each season at Milan and in it have entertained many Americans.

The engagement of Miss Reba Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Ferguson of 4042 Maffitt avenue, to David W. Levy has been announced. The wedding will be in the early summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis of Portland place have as their guest Miss Helen Greenough of Boston, Mass.

Miss Eleanor Whitner Allen of Boston, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Louis Chauvenet of 30 Westmoreland place, is being very much feted. Mrs. Chauvenet entertained in her honor Friday evening and will give a golf party for her at Bellerive Country Club Monday afternoon; Mrs. John H. Douglas Jr. of Vandeventer place will give a luncheon at the Country Club Wednesday, and Mrs. Thomas H. West Jr. will entertain at luncheon in her honor at the Country Club Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville P. Blake of 5909 Cabanne place and their two sons, Howard and Eugene, sailed for Europe Friday on the St. Paul to be away for two months.

One of the prettiest dances of the season was given Tuesday evening at the Monday Club in Webster Groves.

The rooms were decorated with wild flowers and fruit blossoms.

Among those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Dr. and Mrs. Howe, Dr. and Mrs. Eckert: Messrs. and Mmes. Greenstreet, James Howe, E. C. Eiseman, A. Stauffer, William Clegg Jr., George Adams; Misses Marie Gallenkamp, Mary Close, Grace Fox, Jane Conner, Margaret McCarthy, Wilcox, Helen Morris, Miss Annie Lee Gaines of El Paso, Tex., who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. E. C. Eiseman of Webster Groves; Capt. and Mrs. Lewes, Messrs. and Mmes. Parker, Roger Annon, Close, Smith, Wild, Hutchens, Vegley, Judge and Mrs. Gallenkamp, Judge and Mrs. Wurdeman; Messrs. Chester Stauffer, S. P. Keyes, Charles Smith, Wilcox and Dr. Mook.

Mrs. George W. Robertson of Mexico, Mo., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Oliver J. Garrison Jr., of Von Versen avenue. Mrs. Robertson and her daughters, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Fred L. Bronaugh and Mrs. Hugh Cartwright will depart Tuesday for Bunceton, Mo., where the marriage of George W. Robertson Jr. and Miss Helen Harriman will take place Wednesday morning at the First Presbyterian Church.

The bride will dispense with bridemaids, but the bridegroom will have Harry Stocks of Mexico for his best man and Harrison Grant of Fulton, Mo., Robert Robertson, Herbert Plunkett and E. Bledsoe of Mexico will be ushers.

When Mr. Robertson and his bride return from the East Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, the bridegroom's parents, will give them a large reception, May 16, at Mexico.

Formal announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Mildred Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Dyer of the Buckingham, and Walter Sanford Chapin of New York. The wedding will be in June.

Miss Dyer was graduated from Mary Institute last June, and was one of the maids of honor at the Veiled Prophet's ball, where she made her debut.

Mr. Chapin is the son of the late Walter Sanford Chapin of New York, belongs to an old New York family, and is a graduate of Princeton.

25,000 plants, suitable for roof gardens, porch boxes, summer gardens, etc. Bleeckert's, 4426 Labadie.

The College Club gave a basket picnic yesterday at the home of Mrs. A. W. Jones at Webster for those who could not go to the week-end party at Bushburg, Mo., from Friday until tomorrow.

The month's calendar includes: May 12, social series section, leader, Miss Edith Souther; subject, "The Child and Child Labor." May 17, annual luncheon and business meeting at Glen Echo Country Club. The business meeting will be followed by an outdoor presentation of "The Fantasticks." Mrs. A. H. Mansfield has charge of the luncheon arrangements. Miss Sara Wiener has charge of the play.

The engagement of Miss Emily L. Hammer, daughter of Mrs. K. W. Hammer of 3218 University street, and Judge Wilson A. Taylor has been announced. Miss Hammer is a member of the Beethoven Conservatory of Music. The marriage will probably be in June.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. Matthews of the Anita Apartments departed yesterday for New York. After spending a week there they will go to New Orleans by water, thence to Galveston and Houston, Tex. They will be gone about a month.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stinde, 304 Skinker road, are receiving congratulations on the advent of a little daughter, who will be christened Louise Montague.

A delightful affair Friday evening was a trolley party given under the auspices of the "Roines." The mem

Superfluous Hair Truths
Stop Experimenting
There are but few depilatories sold. You think there are hundreds because you have used the same identical preparations under several different names. This is easily explained. Women stop using So-Called Hair Removers
when they learn that they are harmful. Therefore, they cannot be sold under the same name for any length of time. Then the identical, worthless, harmful concoctions are given new names and advertised again as totally different preparations to Defraud the Same Foolish Women who innocently buy them over and over again under different names, and this will continue as long as women are so unwise as to experiment with unknown, so-called hair removers.
DeMiracle
Has Stood the Test of Time
De Miracle has been sold as De Miracle for over eleven years, and its name has never been changed. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the one safe, perfected hair remover, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.
Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell
If you use De Miracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover, because De Miracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive, tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.
Avoid Permanent Disfigurement
by refusing substitutes. If your dealer will not supply you send $1.00 direct. Free information how to determine which depilatories are harmful and worthless sent in plain, sealed envelope.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

The Twentieth Century Art Club met at the Cabanne Branch Library Monday morning, the new president, Mrs. Thomas B. Teasdale, presiding. The subject, "German Painters of Today," lead by Mrs. H. L. King, who read Miss Mary Reed's paper on "Arnold Bocklin;" Mrs. J. F. Fry taking "F. von Uhde," Mrs. F. P. Hunkins "Hans Thoma" and Mrs. J. S. Warren read Mrs. S. Meyerson's paper on "Max Klinger and Richard Mullen." Mrs. George Bergfeld brought a report from "The Woman's Council," recently held in Washington. On May 12, after the regular meeting, there will be a box lunch, and the members of the club and their guests will go to the Art Museum to view the new pictures, which Miss Howe will explain.

"Library day" at the Monday Club, Monday afternoon, was very delightful. Mrs. Robert McMath, who was in charge of the program, introduced Miss Ellen Brooks Johnson, who gave several violin solos. Miss Frances E. Bowman, who explained the reason for the story telling hour in the public library, concluding her address with a story told to a crowd of children from the fifth grade of the Webster School. Mrs. Norman O. Vegely, chairman of the library committee, gave a short history of the library from its beginning until the present. Miss Mildred Allen, the librarian, spoke on the "Relation of the Librarian to the Public." A number of books and quite a sum of money were left with the committee. The Current Topic Section will meet tomorrow afternoon and the History and Literature Section Tuesday afternoon. The annual election of officers will be held May 12.

The St. Louis Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in its new home in Jefferson Memorial Saturday afternoon, where the chapter has furnished a room in honor of the Missouri Historical Society. Wednesday the chapter placed on the wall a tablet in honor of Col. Thomas Hammond. His granddaughter, Mrs. Bellamy, came from Georgia to unveil it. This tablet is the work of Robert P. Bringhurst.

The Bay View Reading Club held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward E. Wall, 4309 Lindell boulevard, April 21. Mrs. W. B. Greenleaf was leader of the lesson and gave a splendid paper on the social life and customs of the Mexican people. She was assisted by Mrs. W. W. Milne and Mrs. J. W. Reinhardt. Mrs. Skinner gave character sketches on Maximilian, Santa Anna and Diaz.

The Clotho Club held its regular meeting and annual election of officers at the home of Mrs. D. E. Balson, 5621 Maple avenue. Mrs. Neehaus, president of the club, and Mrs. Berel will represent the Clotho at the annual State meeting at Columbia. The club indorses the name of Mrs. W. C. Chivis for State president M. F. W. C. The annual reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were read, showing a satisfactory year of study and good financial standing. The following officers were re-elected. Mrs. F. J. Niehaus, president; Mrs. D. E. Balson, vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Dana, secretary. New officers are Mrs. Adolph Neuville, treasurer; Mrs. W. G. Sharp, auditor. The next and last meeting will take the form of a picnic.

The Friday Club was entertained by Mrs. W. B. Kinealy at her country home. Mrs. H. L. King was the guest of honor and gave an interesting talk on State and district federation work. Mrs. Jamison's subject, "Problems of the Transvaal," was ably presented. Mrs. Larimore spoke on Swinburne and Matthew Arnold and gave readings from both. Mrs. Haydock and Mrs. Sudduth will go to Columbia as delegates from the Friday Club, with Mrs. Jamison and Mrs. Erhart as alternates. Several of the women of the club will attend as visitors. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Joseph Jamison of 5168 Vernon avenue, May 16.

The Uandi Literary Club was entertained Thursday by Mrs. C. R. Urquhart of 6186 McPherson avenue. The subject was, "The Philippine Islands"—this being the first of a series of three devoted to this topic. Mrs. Bostwick was leader and read a paper on "The Roman Catholic Influence: (a) The Old Cathedrals, (b) The Friar Lands." Mrs. Ridington told of the good roads movement and what it has done for the islands. The club will send "The Youth's Companion" to the house of detention during the coming year. It also will respond to the request of the Educational Committee and contribute to the Loan Scholarship Fund.

The Friendly Aid Charity Club will hold its next regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Max Hasgall, 5233 Raymond avenue, tomorrow.

Mrs. E. A. Kieselhorst of 4365 Forest Park boulevard will be hostess to the women of the West End Charity Circle Friday afternoon.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

Tenth Anniversary of Nemo Week—A Great Trade Victory

Nemo Week is now firmly established as an important annual Fashion Event. All up-to-date retailers everywhere devote this week to a special demonstration of the new Nemo inventions. Women follow and participate in this event with intense interest, knowing that they will always find some new Nemo idea that will do them good. "Nothing succeeds like success"—the fashionable, figure-reducing, healthful and comfort-giving Nemo Corsets are a household word in every country where corsets are worn.

No amount of mere business enterprise could have accomplished such a wonderful result, which is due to the fact that Nemo Corsets possess qualities and features so superior that they are really without competition; therefore, alert and progressive retailers, the world over, are anxious to identify themselves with the good name and popularity of the Nemo.

A combination of skillful scientists and expert fashion artists; the facilities for manufacturing high-class corsets in enormous quantities; splendid workmanship, unequaled durability, exceptionally low prices—these are the factors which have produced this phenomenal success.

A Priceless Gift to Womankind

PHYSICIANS ENDORSE NEMO CORSETS AS AN AID TO HEALTH

We confidently assert that three women out of every four really NEED to wear Nemo Corsets as a preventative of the many ailments that are undoubtedly due to improper corseting.

This statement is based upon the united opinion of countless physicians and hygienists of highest standing, who have closely examined and tested our corsets, especially the newer models with our EXCLUSIVE LASTIKOPS ELASTIC FEATURES, which, though imitated, CANNOT BE DUPLICATED by any other corsets in existence.

Special Summer Corsets of our New "Steel-tex" Batiste—$3.00

Lots of economical women hesitate to buy batiste corsets for fear they won't wear well—and often they don't. During this Nemo Week your retailer will offer you your choice from three splendid Self-Reducing models, made of our new "Steel-tex" Batiste, with the guarantee that, while light and cool, they will wear as long as any ordinary coutil:

No. 322—with long skirt and low bust	$3.00
No. 324—with long skirt, medium bust	$3.00
No. 326—low bust, extreme long skirt	$3.00

All have the new Nemo Lasticurve-Back—the greatest special corset-feature of the year. When you sit down, the elastic gores expand—you're comfortable. When you stand, your corset clings like an eelskin—you're stylish. Splendid $5.00 value at only $3.00.

Celebrate "Nemo Week"—Get Acquainted With all the New Nemos

Splendid models for full figures, with Lastikops skirt-gores and In-Curve Back—$5.00. Improved Bandlet Corsets, for perfect abdominal support—$5.00 and $7.50. The new "Limshaping" Corset, with extra-long skirt—$4.00. A dainty new Swan-Shape Corset with Lasticurve-Back—$3.00. A dozen other models. Learn to be comfortable though stylish—summer or winter. Join the Nemo Army of Healthy and Contented WISE WOMEN!

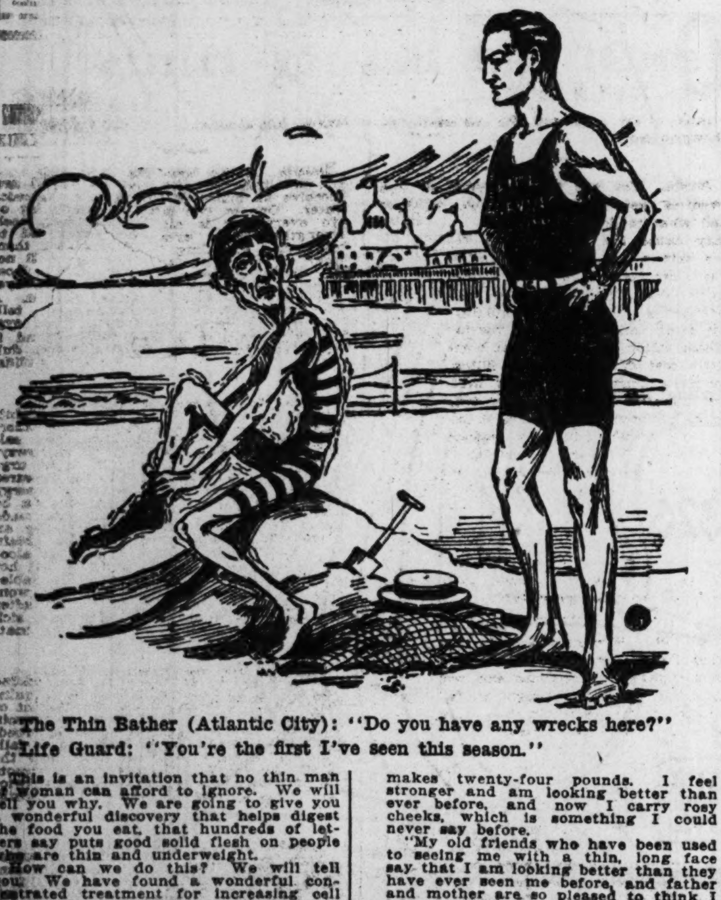
WE INVITE

EVERY THIN MAN AND WOMAN HERE

EVERY PERSON IN ST. LOUIS AND VICINITY TO GET FAT AT OUR EXPENSE



The Thin Bather (Atlantic City): "Do you have any wrecks here?"
Life Guard: "You're the first I've seen this season."

This is an invitation that no thin man or woman can afford to ignore. We will tell you why. We are going to give you a wonderful discovery that helps digest the food you eat, that hundreds of letters say puts good solid flesh on people who are thin and underweight.

How can we do this? We will tell you. We have found a wonderful concentrated treatment for increasing cell growth, the very substance of which our bodies are made; for putting in the blood the red corpuscles which every thin man and woman so sadly needs—a scientific assimilative agent to strengthen the nerves and put the digestive tract in such shape that every ounce of flesh-making food may give its full amount of nourishment to the blood, instead of passing through the system undigested and unassimilated. Users tell of how this treatment has made indigestion and other stomach trouble quickly disappear, while old dyspeptics, and many sufferers from weak nerves and lack of vitality, declare in effect it has made them feel like a 2-year-old. This new treatment, which has proved such a boon to thin people, is called SARGOL. Don't forget the name—S-A-R-G-O-L. Nothing so good has ever been discovered before.

Women who never appeared stylish in anything they wore because of their thinness, men underweight or lacking in nerve force or energy have, by their own testimony, been able to enjoy the pleasures of life—been fitted to fight life's battles as never for years, through the use of "Sargol."

If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, of which you can feel justly proud—a body full of throbbing life and energy, write The Sargol Company, 96-E Herald Building, Binghamton, N. Y., today, and we will send you, absolutely free, a 50c box of Sargol to prove all we claim. Take one with every meal and see how quickly these marvelous little concentrated tablets commence their busy, useful work of upbuilding. Many users declare they have increased their weight at the rate of one pound a day.

But you say you want proof! Well, here you are. Here are extracts from the statements of those who have tried—who have been convinced and who will swear to the virtues of this wonderful preparation.

REV. GEORGE W. DAVIS says:

"I have made a faithful trial of the Sargol treatment and must say it has brought to me new life and vigor. I have gained twenty pounds and now weigh 170 pounds, and, what is better, I have gained the days of my boyhood. It has been the turning point of my life. My health is now fine. I don't have to take any medicine at all and never want to again."

MRS. A. I. RODENHEISER writes:

"I have gained immensely since I took Sargol, for I only weighed about 106 pounds when I began using it and now I weigh 130 pounds, so really this makes twenty-four pounds. I feel stronger and am looking better than ever before, and now I carry rosy cheeks, which is something I could never say before.

"My old friends who have been used to seeing me with a thin, long face say that I am looking better than they have ever seen me before, and father and mother are so pleased to think I have got to look so well and weigh so heavy for me."

CLAY JOHNSON says:

"Please send me another ten-day treatment. I am well pleased with Sargol. It has been the light of my life. I am getting back to my proper weight again. When I began to take Sargol I only weighed 138 pounds, and now, four weeks later, I am weighing 153 pounds and feeling fine. I don't have that stupid feeling every morning that I used to have. I feel good all the time. I want to put on about five pounds of flesh and that will be all I want."

F. GAGNON writes:

"Here is my report since taking the Sargol treatment. I am a man 67 years of age and was all run down to the very bottom. I had to quit work, as I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol, I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds with 23 days' treatment. I cannot tell you how happy I feel. All my clothes are getting too tight. My face has a good color and I never was so happy in my life."

MRS. VERNIE ROUSE says:

"Sargol is certainly the grandest treatment I ever used. It has helped me greatly. I could hardly eat anything and was not able to sit up three days out of a week with stomach trouble. I took only two boxes of Sargol and can eat anything and it don't hurt me and I have no more headache. My weight was 120 pounds, and now I weigh 140 and feel better than I have for five years. I am now as fleshy as I want to be, and shall certainly recommend Sargol, for it does just exactly what you say it will do."

You may know some of these people or know somebody who knows them. We will send you their full address if you wish, so that you can find out all about Sargol and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true. Stop it! Write us at once and we will send you absolutely free a 50c package of these wonderful tablets. No matter what the cause of your thinness is from, give Sargol a chance to make you fat. We are absolutely confident it will put good, healthy flesh on you, but we don't ask you to take our word for it. Simply cut the coupon below and enclose 10c in stamps to help cover the distribution expenses, and Uncle Sam's mail will bring you what you may some day say was one of the most valuable packages you ever received.

COME, EAT WITH US AT OUR EXPENSE.

This coupon entitles any thin person to one 50c package of Sargol, the concentrated Flesh Builder (provided you have never tried it), and that 10c is enclosed to cover postage, packing, etc. Read our advertisement printed above and then put 10c in stamps in letter today, with this coupon, and the full 50c package will be sent to you by return of post. Address: The Sargol Company, 96-E Herald Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y. Write your name and address plainly and PIN THIS COUPON TO YOUR LETTER.

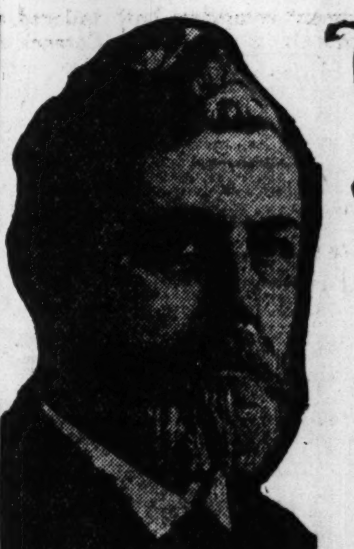
The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.



"Old Soldier" writes: "I would like to know what to do for rheumatism, as I am so crippled that I cannot walk. Please answer at once."

Answer: Here is the best remedy for rheumatism that is known, and if taken according to directions you will soon be out again and be strong and well. Get 2 drams of iodide of potassium, 4 drams sodium salicylate, one-half oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort, and 5 ozs. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Laura" says: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold and cough. I have tried many remedies, but they do not seem to help me at all. I wish you would advise me what to do."

Answer: What you need is a laxative cough syrup, one that will drive the cold from your system. The following prescription will cure your cold and cough: Get a 2¼ oz. package of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two or until your cold is better. This will cure you in a very few days.

"Stenographer" writes: "I can scarcely do my work on account of the terrible distress in my stomach after eating. I have a heavy feeling in my stomach and gas forms. I am also constipated."

Answer: This condition if neglected will cause appendicitis. You should begin at once and take tablets triopeptine, which can be bought in any drug store at small cost. They are packed in sealed cartons with full directions accompanying the package. I am sure many cases of appendicitis could be prevented by the use of triopeptine.

"A. R." writes: "Please send me a prescription for a good tonic. I am weak and languid all the time, have no appetite and cannot sleep at night."

Answer: Obtain the following ingredients from your druggist and take for several weeks and you will be strong and healthy. Syrup of hypophosphites comp., 5 ozs.; tincture cadomene comp., 1 oz. (not cardamon), and take a teaspoonful before each meal. Shake well before taking.

"Miss Beatrice" asks: "Will you please prescribe for one who is too fleshy, so that about 30 pounds can be taken off?"

Answer: Obtain of any well-stocked druggist a tube of 5-grain arbolene tablets and take regularly as per directions accompanying same. Many of my patients have reduced at the rate of a pound a day without any ill results.

"Unhappy May" writes: "I suffer constantly with headaches, indigestion and kidney trouble. My skin is pimply and oily."

Answer: Three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets) is the best known remedy for the blood. They are made from sulphur, cream of tartar and herb medicines which act directly on the blood, purifying it, thus causing the pimples to disappear and the skin to become fresh and healthy looking. These sulpherb tablets are packed in sealed tubes and can be bought at any drug store. They will also cure your kidney trouble and indigestion.

"Mrs. O."—The best remedy for your children is to give them 10 to 15 drops in water before meals of the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams, and comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.

"Audry" writes: "For the past year I have suffered greatly with catarrh. It has affected my blood, stomach and bowels to such an extent that I suffer constantly. Can you tell me a cure?"

Answer: I heartily recommend the use of antiseptic vilane powder for the cure of catarrh. First ask your druggist for a 2 oz. package of vilane powder, then thoroughly cleanse the nostrils with the following wash: One-half teaspoonful of the powder to a pint of warm water. Use this several times a day by snuffing the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils; after which make a balm by mixing a teaspoonful of vilane powder with one ounce of lard or vaseline and apply to the nostrils daily. Internal treatment for the stomach, bowels and blood should be used. Syrup sarsaparilla comp. 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; fluid ext. buchu, 1 oz. Mix and shake well and take a teaspoonful four times a day.

"Sorrowful May" says: "My scalp is covered with dandruff, my hair is oily and straggling. Please help me so that I may look like other girls."

Answer: You can very easily "look like other girls" if you will get at the drug store a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use it regularly according to the directions given. It will cure your dandruff and make your hair soft and fluffy and make it grow. This treatment differs from all others and I have actually seen the most wonderful transformations when people have used this only two or three times.

"Ann" writes: "Could you prescribe something to increase my weight? I am tall and thin to such an embarrassing degree that I am frequently subjected to slighting remarks."

Answer: Hypo-Nuclane tablets have been prescribed with great success as indicated by gratifying letters from hundreds of girls who suffer as you do. These tablets can be purchased in sealed packages from any well-stocked drug store and full directions are given inside. These should be taken regularly for about two months, and you will be surprised to note the color in your cheeks and lips and your weight will increase from 15 to 30 pounds. Every Blemish Removed Ten D

I Will Tell Every R of This Paper H FREE.

Your Complexion Makes Mars Your Appearance.

This great beauty marvel has instantly produced a sensation. Stubborn cases have been cured that baffled physicians and beauty specialists for years. You have never in all your life used or heard of anything like it. Makes muddy complexions, red spots, pimples, blackheads, eruptions vanish almost like magic. No cream, lotion, enamel, salve, plaster, bandage, mask, massage, diet or apparatus, nothing to swallow. It doesn't matter whether or not your complexion is a "fright," whether your face is full of muddy spots, peppery blackheads, embarrassing pimples and eruptions, or whether your skin is rough and "porey," and you've tried almost everything under the sun to get rid of the blemishes. This wonderful treatment, in just ten days, positively removes every blemish and beautifies your skin in a marvelous way. You look years younger. It gives the skin the bloom and tint of purity of a freshly blown rose. In ten days you can be the subject of wild admiration by all your friends, no matter what your age or condition of health. All methods now known are cast aside. There is nothing to wear, nothing to take internally. Your face, even arms, hands, shoulders are beautified beyond your fondest dreams. All this I will absolutely prove to you before your own eyes in your mirror in ten days. This treatment is absolutely harmless to the most delicate skin, and very pleasant to use. No change in your mode of living is necessary. A few minutes every day does it.

To every reader of this paper I will give full details of this really astounding treatment. Let me show you. You do not risk a penny. Send me no money—just send your name and address on the free coupon below and I will give you full details by return mail.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Ethel: I am glad you like my canthrox shampoo recipe.

Bertha: You ask why a woman in the twenties gets crow's feet and wrinkles and what to do to avoid them. Ill health may cause loss of flesh and sagging of the skin which is no longer filled out by flesh, but more often they are caused by worry, deep thought, scowling or the habit of smiling. They can be quickly removed by using this stimulating vegetable jelly-cream which can be made at home at very little cost and will, while filling out the wrinkles, purge the skin of muddy spots and pimples. Get from your druggist one ounce almozoin and dissolve it in half-pint of cold water, adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir and let stand one day. Apply to wrinkled surface or entire face to prevent wrinkles and leave through night. Then wash off and use more of the jelly-cream as a massage. This treatment will remove the most obstinate wrinkles or finest crow's feet, while toning the skin to a velvety texture. It is greaseless and does not grow hair.

M. W.: Worry will not remove the fuzz from your chin. Get a small, original package of delatone and with water mix into a paste enough of the powder to cover the hairy surface. Apply and after two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the fuzz is gone. This is a harmless method and does not discolor the skin. Be certain it is delatone you get.

Myra: Thick, glossy eyebrows add greatly to beauty. Get a small, original package of pyroxin and rub some on eyebrows, frequently with forefinger. This produces the desired effect. To make eyelashes long, silky and curly, apply pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger. Be cautious and don't get any where no hair is wanted.

Lucile: Face-lotions or washes are to be preferred to ordinary face-powders. Your sallow, dark and oily skin can be made white and more youthful if you will use this recipe: To a half-pint of hot water or witch hazel and 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine add 4 ounces of spurmax; let stand until cold. Apply to the hands and face with the palm of the hand and continue rubbing the skin where applied until dry. This is a beautifier that when on seems part of the skin, and gives it a velvety appearance.

Blanch: If you eyes feel tired and are dull and inflamed, you need an eye-tonic. Dissolve an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. One or two drops of this in each eye every day is all that is needed to strengthen your eyes and make them bright and sparkling. This tonic will not smart or burn and is a great aid to those who wear glasses. It makes the eyes appear brilliant and full of expression. A friend of mine, who is on the stage, tells me she keeps her much-admired eyes beautiful by using this tonic. I find it very strengthening to weak, inflamed, dull and tired eyes and for granulated eyelids.

Grace: Yours is only a spring complaint. At the first signs of warm weather, "spring fever," poor appetites, pale, sallow, pimply faces and that tired, drowsy, overworked feeling remind us of the urgent need of taking preventive measures to ward off sickness and give us energy and good health. No better tonic can be had than the good old-fashioned one made at home at small cost by dissolving an ounce of kardene (which you can obtain at any drug store) in one-half pint alcohol, adding one-half cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. A tablespoonful before each meal will do wonders for those who feel "all gone" after the strain of winter or who feel sick and yet don't know just what's the matter.

Dorothy: You can make a fine quinine hair tonic as follows: To 1 ounce of quinzoin add ½ pint of alcohol and ½ pint of cold water; let stand until the quinzoin is dissolved. Rub in well until absorbed. This will remove dandruff and stop falling hair, relieve itching scalp, keep the scalp in healthy condition and promote the growth of hair if used once or twice a week. Shampoo the hair twice a month. (See answer to Ada J.)

Ada J.: The best and cheapest shampoo I know of is made from pure, plain canthrox. Simply dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water and stir well until all is dissolved; then proceed to shampoo by pouring it on the hair and rubbing well. This makes a fine lather, which makes the head feel good, and cleans the scalp, relieves irritation and makes the hair soft and fluffy—and such a shampoo costs very little. (See answer to Dorothy for making a good hair tonic.)

Mrs. T.: It is true that exercising and dieting have brought about satisfactory results to many who considered themselves too fat, but if you are so situated that you cannot take exercise and find that dieting weakens you, I would advise you to try a simple mixture of parnotis and hot water. Put 4 ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints of hot water and shake well until dissolved. Strain when cold and it is then ready for use. Take a tablespoonful 3 times a day and just before meals. This is a harmless flesh reducer.

The St. Louis Orchestra Club, under the direction of Frank Gecks, will give its second concert of the season of classical orchestra music and song Thursday evening in the Central High School auditorium. This club has about 85 players, whose interest in music is not for gain, but for love of art and experience had in ensemble playing. The club is, instrumentally, the most complete nonprofessional orchestra club in America. The money received from the concerts is used to increase the club's library of orchestra music, which is reputed to be one of the best in the country. It has been in existence since 1892.

The following program has been arranged for the coming concert, of which Mrs. Adah Black-Holt, soprano, will be the soloist:

Songs of the Rhinedaughters, from the opera, Die Goetterdaemmerung .. Wagner
Aubade Printanniere .... Lacombe
Song Group .... Mrs. Adah Black-Holt
Danse Piemontesi—No. 1, No. 2.... Sinigalia
(First time in St. Louis.)
Song Group .... Mrs. Adah Black-Holt
Freischuetz Overture .... Von Weber
Mrs. Carl Luyties at the piano.

One of the most talked about singers on the Pacific Coast today is Miss Mary Elizabeth Payne of St. Louis. Miss Payne studied with Signor Buzzi, and will return to her home city soon to be heard in concert.

The Young People's String Orchestra, Victor Lichtenstein, conductor, gave a concert Friday evening at Soldan High School to an audience of more than a thousand persons.

The soloists were Joseph Gill, Charlotte Burton, Saul Cohen and Dorothy Livingston, violinists, and Mr. Victor Lichtenstein, mezzo-soprano, who sang two groups of songs in French, German, English, Italian and Spanish. Miss Claire Rivers was the accompanist.

The work of the orchestra is earnest and will do much to make music enter into every day life of the city to which end a number of St. Louis musicians are aiming.

The personnel of the orchestra includes:

Violins—Joseph M. Gill, concert master; Gertrude Bell, Charlotte Burton, Saul Cohen, Julia Dickermann, Clementine Groshong, Earl Gottschalk, Edith Williamson, Edith Haenssler, Bessie Holnback, Dorothy Livingston, Julia Razovsky, Sabina Roth, Ralph Swain, Genevieve Wilson.

Violas—Julius Silberberg, Louis Kielsmeier.

Celli—Edward F. Clay, Walter Amman.

Contrabass—Abram Torgrove; flute, Leopold Broeckaert; piano, Claire Rivers; organ, George Cibulka.

Good Points of St. Louis to Tell to Our Visitors

field. The distributing houses have already begun to manufacture large quantities of the goods they sell. The dry goods houses have numerous specialty factories; the wholesale hat houses are manufacturing a very considerable portion of the high-grade hats; the hardware people are taking up manufacturing. With the natural advantages for manufacture, with railroad facilities for the distribution of the products throughout the entire country, and with the interest in a revival of river traffic, which, when the plans now well under way are completed, will afford cheap water transportation, no city in the country has such good manufacturing opportunities to offer as St. Louis.

"As a city of homes, St. Louis is without competition. Where in the United States will you find a replica of Westmoreland place, Portland place, Washington terrace or Longfellow boulevard? Where will you find a Cabanne or a West End such as in St. Louis? The Fifth avenue homes of the New York millionaires would present a sorry spectacle set down alongside the beautiful Westmoreland and Portland place homes. There is only a comparatively small section of the city, built up before the days of street railway transportation, where the homes are without front lawns.

St. Louis County.

"Before leaving the subject of homes, however, I would show the inquirer St. Louis County. Perhaps two-thirds of the people of St. Louis have no adequate conception of St. Louis County. No city in the country has such splendid surroundings for suburban homes and country estates. High and rolling, with splendid roads, St. Louis County is destined soon to become the mecca of the lovers of country life, and it has already wooed some 60,000 of us back to nature, where we have all of the advantages and conveniences of the city and all of the delights and rewards of the country. When the people of St. Louis really wake up to the fact that a home in St. Louis County is just as comfortable in summer as a cottage on the Northern lakes, there is going to be a suburban development that will give St. Louis a setting of wonderful beauty.

"With spring lapping almost over to fall, and fall lapping almost around to spring again, making the heated and cold seasons ordinarily short, St. Louis has a better climate than any of the other large cities, and its death rate is the lowest of any large city in the country. Its public schools, both from the standpoint of buildings and efficiency of training, have long been the models for other cities. Its central library, with branches in almost every section of the city, affords splendid opportunities for reading and study. Its two big universities rank with the best in the country, and its law and medical schools are noted for their high character and efficiency. Its symphony concerts and its conservatories offer ample opportunity for the cultivation of the musical tastes and talents of the individual, and its scores of theaters and its summer gardens afford entertainment and diversion.

Forecast of 10 Years.

"The next 10 years ought to see completed or well under construction a system for the permanent deepening of the channel of the Mississippi between St. Louis and New Orleans, and the reclamation of vast tracts of swamped lands, all of which will tend to the enrichment of the city; a subway system east and west and north and south connecting with interurban lines at the city limits, these interurban lines tapping the rich Illinois districts within a radius of 150 miles of St. Louis, with a cross-State line to Kansas City; a grand plaza between Twelfth, Fourteenth, Market and Olive streets, with the city hall and Municipal Courts buildings on the south facing the Public Library on the north; an esplanade on the Mississippi River front with cascades and flower gardens; a system of boulevards throughout the city and penetrating St. Louis County, connecting city owned parks with Creve Coeur Lake and Meramec Highlands, two points of great natural beauty, and the probable extension of the city limits to take in all of St. Louis County.

"One arm of the city now extends almost to Meramec Highlands, through Maplewood, Tuxedo, Webster and Kirkwood, and another arm almost to Creve Coeur Lake, while Clayton is now really a part of St. Louis."

SCIENTIFIC BUST DEVELOPER

Science has at last discovered a treatment for a condition which has always been regarded as incurable—retarded development of the breasts. Every woman has the natural right to a beautiful form, but alas! there are many who never get proper development and seem doomed to stay flat-chested and unattractive.

Sorose, the new treatment for lack of development, is for sale by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., and in every case where it has been tried has so proven its wonderful power to increase the bust measurements, that it is sold under a guarantee of success or money refunded. There is no massaging, no rubber instruments, no steaming, nothing injurious—only a simple, scientific treatment. How to be Beautiful
Secrets of Health and Beauty
by Claire Ainsworth

NOTE—If the reader does not find the information wanted in the questions answered below, just address a letter to Miss Claire Ainsworth, 40 Patterson Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope, and she will gladly advise on health and beauty problems.

Miss Ainsworth is noted for her marvelous beauty, as well as famous as a talented concert singer, and artists the world over rave at her beauty and have sought her for their masterpieces. She frankly admits that hers is a cultivated, but natural, beauty, and no "make-up" is ever used. The articles and preparations mentioned are on sale by all wholesale druggists, large retail and department stores, or any accommodating dealer can obtain them for you.

THE HAIR BEAUTIFUL—LUXURIANT Care and Treatment Necessary.

Hundreds of correspondents ask all about the treatment of hair and scalp, and many ask for my "secret"—observing that my hair is luxuriant, fluffy and lustrous. Neglect of the hair is the rule with women, and constant care is the exception. Woman's hair quickly resents neglect and proceeds to destroy her beauty in revenge. The hair should be thoroughly aired and brushed at least once a day, and if exposed to the sun's rays during the brushing it is all the better for its life and luster.

Every head of hair should be shampooed at least once a month, and in many cases when the scalp and hair are diseased once in two weeks is not too often. But beware of strong alkali soaps, etc. I always use gloriol glowene, which is saponified vegetable oils with no free alkali. It is the purest and best cleansing agent to be obtained; besides, it is antiseptic and germ destroying.

If the scalp is affected with dandruff, if it itches constantly and the hair lacks luster and combs out wastefully, then I advise the application of plain yellow minyol at least once in two weeks (full directions with each four-ounce jars. This stops itching, destroys microbes and disease of the hair and scalp.

Thousands have straight, "stringy," dull hair, and for those who are not blessed with fluffy, waving locks, I recommend gloriol wavelene, which I use regularly. It keeps the hair in curl or wave for days at a time, even in damp weather, while it enables one to dispense with the terribly injurious curling iron. Never use a hot curling iron. One application of a hot iron does more damage to the hair than Nature can overcome in a year. Wavolene is invisible, easily applied as per directions and gives universal satisfaction to my friends.

The best hair tonic—free from harmful alcohol—is made at home by dissolving one-half ounce concentrated hairwand powder in a pint of water. This applied to the hair and scalp twice daily increases the rapid growth and luster and prevents dandruff and itching.

By using a pint of coffee filtered through absorbent cotton, instead of a pint of water, one can make an excellent stain for fading or gray hair. Make the coffee weak or strong depending on the color desired.

Begin now to treat your hair and scalp and your reward will quickly follow.

Miss Birdie C. asks: "My cheeks are hollow and my skin is dry, sallow and drawn looking. What treatment is best?"

Answer: Your skin needs a good, pure emollient flesh builder, and for this purpose nothing on the market is so good as gloriol emollient, sold in sealed jars. Apply it freely and pat the skin rather severely with the fingers and follow by a gentle circular rubbing until much of it is absorbed. Use it morning and night, and soon the flesh will improve in tone and the skin will become white and pink. This emollient puts new life and color in the face, while it fills hollows and removes other complexion blemishes.

Nellie T. asks: "Will you tell me what vanishing cream is best to use to protect my complexion from the weather?"

Answer: A vanishing cream should be in the nature of a balm, but free from grease or sticky substance. Most of them—the impure—leave an oily skin and make the skin harsh or sticky to the touch. I use and advise gloriol balm, and all my readers who have tried it are delighted. It makes the skin smooth and clean. It is packed in sanitary tubes and very convenient to carry.

Mrs. G. B. asks: "Can you advise how to increase one's weight? I should like to increase about 20 pounds."

Answer: In recent years it has been conclusively shown that the regular use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will add flesh very rapidly. Directions for taking and improving the nutrition are contained on circular with each sealed package.

Mrs. B. D. asks: "I want to know if it is possible for a young woman to develop her bust? I am perfectly flat-chested. If you know what to do, please tell me."

Answer: Obtain of any well-stocked druggist or toilet counter a tube of medicated venosol and use as per directions which accompany it. Also begin taking 3-grain Hypo-nuclane tablets and continue this treatment until the desired results are obtained. Increase of bust measurement begin in from three to four weeks and as much as 6 to 8 inches are added ultimately.

Miss T. E. B. asks: "When one has a sallow, leathery pimply skin on face and hands what can be done?"

Answer: First, you should improve the blood by taking as per directions accompanying, one-grain tablets quinoxide, sold in sealed tubes. These will improve the quality of the blood, and whiten the skin, but to obtain a beautiful complexion and preserve it, you should follow my advice to Miss Birdie C. given above.

Miss Marie asks: "How can I darken and increase the growth of eyebrows and lashes?"

Answer: Make an ointment by mixing one teaspoonful of concentrated hairwand powder with one ounce of white vaseline and apply, rubbing it in thoroughly over the brows and lashes, being careful not to get it into the eyes as it would smart and burn. You will have to get a regular ½ oz. pkg. of the hairwand powder, as the druggist will not break the package.

Mrs. V. G. asks: "I want to reduce my weight but am afraid to try medicine I know nothing about. Can you recommend something?"

Answer: Physicians of my acquaintance say there is only one reliable flesh reducer of a harmless character and I advise you to obtain and use same. Ask a well-stocked pharmacy for five-grain phythy-rin tablets. Three weeks' treatment in each sealed tube soon enables one to reduce to normal. No evil effects have ever been traced to the use of this dependable treatment. Both men and women use it.

Miss Elsie C. asks: "I am more or less troubled and embarrassed by superfluous hair growth on face and arms. Is there anything except the painful electric needle to remove them?"

Answer: I have never been bothered, but several of my friends and correspondents tell me that the application of plain fluvol powder will completely destroy the hair, and not harm the skin. It is sold in sealed vials. I have seen its quick and splendid results in a number of cases, and know it is harmless and painless.—ADVERTISEMENT.

OCCULT PLAY HAS GOTHAM 'TRY-OUT' BY THEOSOPHISTS

New York Sees Special Performance of "The Crystal Reader," Telling Psychic Story.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

UNDER the auspices of the Theosophical Society of New York a special performance of "The Crystal Reader," a four-act drama of occult trend, was given at the Berkeley Theater in that city last week, with Edith Taliaferro playing its leading feminine role.

This new stage work is by Edith A. Houston, and its story loses no time in reaching a discussion and presentation of psychic phenomena. The first act opens in the offices of the Christian Charities Association in New York, Jessamy Wilmot, the character portrayed by Miss Taliaferro, being the head of this organization. Robert Wakefield, a young man who firmly believes in the truth of crystal-gazing as a medium for the seeing of past and future events, defends a certain Vahsahli, an Oriental mystic, from the jeers of visitors at the Christian Charities headquarters. It so happens that Jessamy Wilmot is betrothed to one Jack Hardenberg, with whose past a girl named "Liz" Arden has been sinfully associated. This girl brings her sister, Jess, a crystal-gazer, to the association for help, saying that Vahsahli sent them. But assistance is refused by Jessamy Wilmot, who believes them to be impostors. Then, suddenly, Robert Wakefield finds Jessamy frightened by a vision of Vahsahli, whom, though fearing, she defies. The vision immediately reappears above the form of Jess, the crystal-gazer, telling Jessamy that her spirit will enter the body of Jess, and that she will see with Jess' eyes and think with Jess' thoughts for a certain period of time. In act second, therefore, Jessamy wakes up as Jess, becomes a "fashionable medium," going into clairvoyant trances, and incidentally, learns through crystal-gazing that Jack Hardenberg is unworthy of her, breaks her engagement to him and marries Robert Wakefield, with which happy culmination the play reaches its close.

It is declared to be a strong and convincing drama, and much curious interest was felt in its "try-out" performance. Those most prominently associated with Edith Taliaferro in the cast were Regan Hughston as Robert Wakefield, William Winter Jefferson as Jack Hardenberg, Leila Frost as Jess Arden, Grace Atwell as "Liz," her sister, and Charles Lane as Vahsahli.

Another notable theatrical event of the past week in New York was the Charles Frohman revival at the Empire Theater of Pinero's comedy, "The Amazons," which had its first American production at the old Lyceum Theater something over 19 years ago.

The revived offering scored a brilliant success, the major portion of the credit for which goes to "cute" little Billie Burke, who now dons a boy's costume for the first time, appearing in the role of Lady Thomasin Belturbet, the girl who was reared after the fashion of a boy, being taught to hunt, shoot and take an active part in sports from which young women customarily have been barred. The part is rich in good comedy, with occasional touches of refreshing farce, and Billie Burke is said to have played it charmingly. Coming within the same season that saw her excellent achievement in the more serious and, at one or two moments, genuinely emotional role of Lily Parradell in "The 'Mind the Paint' Girl," Miss Burke's latest triumph is regarded as proof that she possesses a versatility of talent far out of the ordinary. As the star of "The Amazons" revival she gains a fresh hold on the affections of New York playgoers, and the fact that her most recent success was attained on the Empire Theater stage is of especial interest, as it was there that she made her American debut in 1907, appearing as John Drew's leading woman in "My Wife," one of the big hits of that season in the metropolis.

The distinguished cast now supporting Billie Burke in the four weeks' run of the old Pinero comedy includes Ferdinand Gottschalk, Fritz Williams, Morton Selten, Shelley Hull, Annie Esmond, Miriam Clements, Dorothy Lane, Thomas Reynolds, Arthur Fitzgerald, Barrett Barker and Lorena Atwood.

Those St. Louisans who shuddered at the morbid and unclean story of August Strindberg's diseased playlet, "Creditors," when that work was presented by the Little Theater Company of Chicago at the Wednesday Club auditorium this past winter, will be interested in hearing that "Countess Julia," another of Strindberg's dramatic horrors, similarly shocked and appalled New York playgoers at the Forty-eighth Street Theater in the metropolis last Monday afternoon.

"New York has seen one previous performance of this revolting scullery tragedy by the mentally warped Swedish genius," writes Louis de Foe in the New York World. "It was given on the Bowery in Russian seven years ago by the Paul Orleneff company, when Mme Nazimova was a member of the organization. That one performance was quite enough. The conflict between a degenerate aristocrat, afflicted by hereditary taint, and her father's villainous valet has a certain pathological interest because of the minuteness with which it analyzes abnormal mental states, but as drama representing life it is hideous. It accomplishes no real purpose, and it can only be revolting to the normal spectator in its picture of depravity. As is usual in Strindberg's plays, the female of the species is more deadly than the male. It is the high-born Countess Julia who first drags the low-born valet down. But in the end he attempts to coin their relation into money and then, cringing at the call of his master, bids the woman to commit suicide by cutting her throat with a razor. This miasma, in all its details and in a single act, consumed more than an hour and a half. The audience was large, but its attitude signified that it emphatically did not indorse this form of so-called art."

Marcia Walter, who played the title role, failed to make a favorable impression, being described as "angular, monotonous, unemotional and very evidently inexperienced as an actress." Frank Reicher gave a searching interpretation of the low cunning and inbred mendacity of Jean, the valet.

It would seem that Harry Lauder is to have a very distinguished rival indeed in the person of The Maclaine of Lochbuie, the young Scottish chief of whose arrival in this country I told you last week and whose visit is for the purpose of filling a vaudeville engagement on the American stage.

Kenneth Douglas Lorne Maclaine of Lochbuie is the full name of this patrician vaudevillian and he is validly certified as being the head of the Clan Maclaine in his "ain countrie," it is announced. He is the godson of the Duke of Argyle and the twenty-seventh laird of his line. Some three years ago he inherited the Lochbuie estates, which include Lochbuie Castle, 45,000 acres of land surrounding the castle, a deer forest and a salmon stream. Embarrassingly enough, however, he inherited at the same time a mortgage of £38,000 on this ancestral estate, with an additional inheritance tax of £10,000, levied at the time of his father's death, and he finds himself unable to maintain this property and with no hope, in the ordinary course of events, of ever paying off the incumbrances upon it. As a result of which dismaying discovery, having already revealed a gift for entertaining which had made him popular at his clubs and in society, he will now woo fortune as a vaudeville topliner, hoping thus to free himself and Lochbuie from the burden of debt just mentioned. His stage offering will comprise several songs of his own composition and, of course, the novel privilege of seeing a real Scottish nobleman doing a "two-a-day stunt" like the veriest plebian that ever sought the fickle favor of the playgoing populace.

Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled! Scots wham Bruce hae often led! Speed Maclaine with the fiery cross to all your descendants in this land of the free and home of the brave! The clan slogan of the hour calls for a mighty rallying around the heroic young figure of The Maclaine of Lochbuie. No matter what or how he sings, he must be enabled to lift that Lochbuie mortgage and pay that Lochbuie inheritance tax. He deserves help, if only for the sake of his pluck alone.

In the early days of the month now just begun a new play entitled "Croesus" and written—appropriately enough for a play with such a title—by the young Baron Henri de Rothschild, will receive its premiere production at the Garrick Theater in London, with Arthur Bourchier in the title role.

The novel fact that, although originally written in French and with a view primarily, to its first presentation on a Paris stage, the play is now to have its birth in English, adds to the interest attaching to the forthcoming Garrick performance. The scenes of its story are laid in Paris, the author pointing out that it is, however, universal in its application. Its hero is an immensely wealthy man, so wealthy, indeed, that he is obsessed by a dread that his great riches will forever prevent him from being the object of a disinterested love. This fear is not based on unworthy grounds. The unhappy young Croesus feels that a sensitive woman, no matter how strongly inclined she might be to love him, would shrink from exposing herself to a charge of worldliness in consenting to become his wife. She would be afraid, too, that he himself would in time suspect her of having married him for his money alone. And, as the play sets forth, these luckless truths do prevail to deny him the happiness known to poorer men. In the course of time he gives his love to two women, one of high rank, the other of humble birth, but in both cases the result is the same. His money comes between him and the realization of his heart's desire. And the play ends with this pathetic teaching of gold's blighting influence upon Love's young dream.

Mlle. Gabrielle Dorsiat, a distinguished French actress with a good working knowledge of English, has been engaged to play the leading feminine role. An additional novelty of the situation is that, following the London engagement, Arthur Bourchier and Mlle. Dorsiat may be sent to Paris to head a company that then will present the play in the French of its original writing.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots, How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

[illegible] sure to ask the druggist for the [illegible] strength othine, as this is the [illegible] sold under guarantee of [illegible] back if it fails to remove freckles.—ADV.

Bloom of Youth Now Easily Attained

(From Popular Science.)

You no longer need to "doctor" that sallow, freckled, blackheaded, rough, blotchy, pimply or overred skin. You can remove it, instead—easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which anyone can use without assistance, the dead and near-dead surface skin, with all its imperfections, is gently, gradually absorbed—and a radiantly youthful and beautiful complexion comes forth! Go to your druggist, get an ounce of pure mercolized wax; at night apply enough of this to completely cover the face; don't rub it in. Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.

Let the wrinkled folks also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered saxolite into a half-pint witch hazel, bathe the face in the solution and—say!—there's nothing that will so effectually, so promptly, smooth out all those hateful lines. You'll find this lotion, as well as mercolized wax, works equally well on neck and hands.—ADV.

GIVE THE HAIR THE FOOD IT NEEDS

Parisian Sage Soaks In At Once-Feeds, Cleanses and Makes Hair Grow.

What a delight to have a beautiful head of hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff.

Hair is a plant and your head is a garden—a little cultivation works wonders. If the hair is too dry it needs freshening up. If it begins to get thin it needs fertilizing.

Parisian Sage is a scientifically made preparation that gives the hair just what it lacks to make it soft, luxuriant, abundant and radiant with life. It removes dandruff immediately and cleanses the hair of dirt and excessive oils. It is perfectly harmless.

Parisian Sage is a tea-colored liquid—not sticky or greasy—delicately perfumed, that comes in fifty cent bottles at the druggists and toilet counters. The "Girl with the Auburn Hair" on the package.

The very first application will astonish you—if used daily for a week you will be delighted with the improvement it has made in your hair and scalp.

You run no risk, as Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. guarantees to refund the money if you are not perfectly satisfied—a safe offer on their part. Delighted users of Parisian Sage all over the country write us enthusiastically about it. They pronounce it a rare and wonderful hair dressing.

HIGHLANDS OPENS ITS SEASON WITH FINE BILL TODAY

Cavallo's Band Concerts, Bright Vaudeville and Amusement Concessions Announced.

CAVALLO'S BAND. Forest Park Highlands. Season opens this afternoon and evening. Excellent vaudeville in the theater, and all the amusement concessions in full swing. Many improvements have been made, notable among which are the great steel tower, 120 feet high, and a covered walk connecting the Cottage and the main pavilion. All the alterations in the Sanitary Swimming Pool will be completed in time for the opening of the summer bathing season. Many new dressing rooms will be added. Every feature of the Highlands has been made fresh and attractive. The Cavallo band concerts will be given in the beautiful Chinese pagoda known as the Tekko Gate, where pleasing musical programs of popular appeal will be presented. The handsome theater where vaudeville is to be offered has been redecorated and much improved. The vaudeville bill for this week is headed by Miss Ray Samuels, formerly of the "Follies of 1912," one of the cleverest mimics and character-singers on the vaudeville stage. Other features are Al. English and Stella Johnson, turkey trot and tango dancers; McIntyre and Groves, in "On Father's Train;" Polzin Brothers, acrobatic comedians, and Ralph Smalley, Boston Symphony Orchestra cellist.

DON PHILIPPINI'S BAND. Delmar Garden. Second week of their engagement begins this afternoon and evening. They have already highly commended themselves to St. Louis favor, as also has Miss Suzanna Lehmann, soprano soloist with the band. The program for tonight's concert includes Meyerbeer's "Coronation March"; Verdi's "Power of Destiny" overture; a group of popular musical hits arranged by Lampe; selections from Verdi's "La Traviata"; Lotter's "A Southern Wedding," Philippini's "My California Rose," the overture to Wallace's "Maritana," the grand finale from Bizet's "Carmen," vocal numbers by Miss Suzanna Lehmann, and Ball's "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold."

SCOTT ANTARTIC EXPEDITION in moving pictures. Garrick. A pictorial chronology of the late Capt. Robert Falcon Scott's journey to the South Pole, the scenes shown carrying the party to within 145 miles of the Pole. The pictures were made by Robert C. Ponting, F. R. G. S., a famous English war correspondent, photographer, artist and author, who has written an entertaining and informative lecture to be given by a lecturer of recognized ability. Many views of Antarctic life, showing the courtship of penguins, curious "killer" whales in pursuit of the beautiful Wedded seals, Mount Erebus, an active volcano, in eruption; the Siberian ponies, dogs and a sleek black cat accompanying the expedition, and other interesting subjects. One pathetic picture shows Capt. Scott, Dr. Wilson, Lieut. Bowers and Officer Evans cuddling up in their tent before they left the camera man and his recording instruments behind. They were later found frozen to death in much the same grouping as is shown in this picture.

VAUDEVILLE. Columbia. Bill headed by Minnie Rupree and company in "The Man in Front." Other features are the Talking Motion Pictures, showing a meeting of Mayor Gaynor of New York City with the heads of the various municipal departments; also a comedy subject entitled "Nursery Favorites;" Felix and Caire, juvenile entertainers and mimics; Thomas F. Jackson and company, in a playlet entitled "The Letter From Home;" Carl and Lotty, ecentric dancers; the Four Cliftons, in physical culture poses; Billy Rogers, musical mimics, and Kinemacolor views of "The Isle of Wight" and "The Strawberry Harvest."

VAUDEVILLE. Hippodrome. Bill headed by the Four Lukens, said to be the world's greatest gymnasts; William Flemen and company in a slang playlet entitled "The Line Between;" The Velde Trio, European novelty artists, with their "loop-the-loop" dogs; Marie Stoddard, impersonator and singer; Greeve and Greene, in "A Page from Minstrelsy;" Steele and McMasters, skatorial artists; Currie and Earl, singing comedians; Dyer and Dyer, singing and dancing comedians; Cora Hall, the original baseball girl; new photoplays and other acts.

YANKEE DOODLE GIRLS. Standard, will present a first part entitled "The Piano Movers," an afterpiece called "Pat, the Porter," and a clever vaudeville bill, with Dashing Dainty Marie as the special feature.

VAUDEVILLE. Empress. George B. Reno, assisted by Bessie Reno, in "The Misfit Army;" John Neff, "the brainstorm comedian;" James Grady and company in "The Tall Bridge;" Becker and Adams, comedy singers and talkers; the Four Salis Brothers, Mexican musicians. Bill changes Thursday with the famous Child's Hawaiians as the leading attraction. Kinemacolor pictures at every performance.

The Empress yesterday inaugurated a series of complimentary matinees for the wards of the various charitable institutions, the 65 children from the Masonic Orphans' Home being the first beneficiaries. Next Saturday seats will be reserved for the Industrial Home inmates, 200 in number. All heads of such institutions, also others knowing of poor children whom they could bring to a performance, are urged to communicate with the Empress management, who will be glad to provide free seats at any week-day matinee.

VAUDEVILLE. Grand Opera House. Menlo Moore's Lads and Lassies, in a miniature musical extravaganza; the Five Musical Lunds; the Four Regals, the King's Armorers, direct from Europe; the Four Van Staats, in an Old Holland musicale; Ellis and McKenna, in "Wanted, a Janitor;" Hermany's cats; Doyle and Elaine, comedy singers and dancers; the Two Gabberts, athletes; Grace Armond, the "Foolish Liz" of vaudeville; Goebel and Froebel, novelty entertainers; Harry Sauber, in character songs and patter; Hord, "the man that never smiles;" Edison's talking pictures and the Kinemacolor travel views.

VAUDEVILLE. King's. Today, Hendrix Bell Isle in "School Days." Coming Monday, The Rollers, wonderful skaters; Redard and Hilton, classy singers and talkers; the Dorris Trio, grand opera singers; Sherman and McNaughton, comedians; Tenkham and company, in a great cycle cyclorama act, and three reels of good pictures.

VAUDEVILLE. Shenandoah. Coming Monday, Oh Long Foo, magician; Rosette Rennee, in "From Ragtime to Opera;" Franklin, Gale and company, in "The Cleverness of Kitty;" Rogers and Rice, comedy talking and singing, and the Three Elliotts, comedy acrobats.

MOTION PICTURES. Juniata. No vaudeville. Today, Vitagraph, "Two's Company, Three's a Crowd," and Street Scenes in Yokohama, Japan." Kalem, "The Haunted House" and other good subjects.

LEADING WOMAN OF THE NEW SUBURBAN COMPANY

DIANA STORM

PAVLOWA'S PATRICIAN BALLET.

Anna Pavlowa is to give an open-air ballet on the lawn at Ivy House, her English country home, in June. She will dance in company with several young women of the English aristocracy who have taken up amateur ballet work as a pastime. Admission to the performance will be by invitation.

Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste."

Fritzi Scheff has arranged to revive "Mlle. Modiste," opening at the Globe Theater in New York on May 26. It was in this piece that she scored her first big musical comedy success.

DIANA STORM TO HEAD COMPANY AT SUBURBAN GARDEN

Was Leading Woman With Forbes-Robertson and Is Signed by Belasco for Next Winter.

Diana Storm, former leading woman with Forbes-Robertson in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," has been engaged as leading woman for the Suburban Garden Theater, which opens its season on Saturday, May 17, with Frances Hodgson Burnett's beautiful play, "The Dawn of a Tomorrow."

This will introduce Miss Storm to her St. Louis public in the role of Glad, the appealing heroine of the play's story, a role which is said to be peculiarly suited for her playing.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by John Grueninger Jr., the new proprietor of Suburban, following the return from New York of Spearman Lewis, who had been sent to the metropolis to engage the new Suburban company. Mr. Lewis declares his conviction that the Suburban management now has under contract the best balanced stock company ever presented in St. Louis, being enabled, through the discontinuance of the star system, to pay larger salaries and thereby obtain better talent.

He describes Miss Storm as being of distinguished presence, with hair of a glistening copper hue, with a prepossessing figure of medium height. She has strong emotional powers, he says, and her work possesses the exquisite finish which marks that of the best English players. She has been engaged by Belasco to appear as "The Governor's Lady" next winter.

Among other plays that have been reserved for Suburban production are "The Grain of Dust," a dramatization of one of David Graham Phillips' most successful novels, in which James K. Hackett scored a starring triumph, and "Catching Up With Her Husband," a farce-comedy in which a wife who has stood still suddenly "gets busy" and overtakes her more aggressive spouse. It is likely that a Billie Burke and an Ethel Barrymore comedy also will be presented.

Several of the old Suburban favorites will be in the new company. Matinees will be given on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the prices cut to 25 cents all over the house, and a reduction to 25 and 50 cents is announced for the evening performances.

PATRIOTIC AMERICAN BENEDICK.

Charles Frohman, just prior to his departure for London a few days ago, announced that, in the event of his presenting John Drew in "Much Ado About Nothing" next season, the entire cast would be American and the production American-made, Mr. Drew himself insisting upon these points. It is believed that John Drew will score a notable triumph as Benedick, which he played successfully during the earlier days of his career.

FORBES-ROBERTSON REBUKES LONDON.

At a "farewell dinner" given in his honor at the Hotel Cecil in London recently, Forbes Robertson, soon to retire from the stage, closed his speech of thanks with an earnest appeal for the Shakspearean Memorial Theater movement. "It is nothing short of a scandal," he said, "that the richest city in the world has not even a decent statue to the greatest poet of all time, whose mighty dramas were actually written and first played in this city."

LOUIS MANN A VAUDEVILLIAN.

Louis Mann soon is to appear in vaudeville, using a condensed version of "Elevating a Husband," the comedy in which he has starred successfully for two seasons past. The second act of the play will be presented almost in its original shape, with a good cast in support.

HAIL COLUMBIA, HAPPY LAND!

"All the Winners," a new musical revue that has scored a big London hit, has Vera Maxwell, the American dancing and singing comedienne, as its star, with other Americans prominent in the cast, and its song hits are of American composition.

EUGENE WALTER, FRUIT GROWER

Playwright Eugene Walter has bought a fruit ranch in Montana and says he will reside there in the future. "Once in a while," he adds, "when the inspiration moves me, I shall write a play just to spite the critics."

Try the New Way of Curing Corns

Easy As One, Two, Three; no Fuss, No Pain, by Using "GETS-IT."

Just take two seconds to put a little "GETS-IT" on that corn. That corn is "done for" as sure as the sun rises. The corn shrivels up, vanishes. That's the surprise you get by using this new-plan corn cure. There's nothing to stick to the stocking or sock; your corn pains stop. You're saved the bother of applying plasters that make the corn bulge out from the core. You're saved salves that eat into the healthy flesh and "pull;" no more fussing with bandages. You don't have to help by picking and dragging out your corns, or cutting with knives or razors.

"When I Think of All the Things I Tried for Corns and Failed, and "GETS-IT" Got 'em in a Hurry."

"GETS-IT" is safe, painless, stops pain, never hurts healthy flesh. It is guaranteed. Try it on warts, callouses and bunions, too.

"GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists' at 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Develop Your Bust

50c Package FREE to Any Woman Who Wants a Beautiful Figure

Woman need no longer be humiliated and embarrassed because they are thin, flat-chested and not developed, for science has found a simple way to give the beautiful curves of a perfect figure. To prove this, let us send you free of charge a 50c package that will show you how easily the bust can be developed from two to seven inches and become full, plump and firm. This discovery that is of such vital interest to all thin women is the result of long study and investigation by one of the leading women physicians in New York State, who, in seeking to overcome the defects in her own figure without the use of "pads" or forms, discovered a happy combination of tissue-building elements that increased her bust some four inches, made her arms round and shapely and her neck and shoulders plump and symmetrical.

This prescription of Dr. Catherine Kelly's is a real discovery on far different lines from the ordinary figure-developing treatment, and this explains its almost uniform success.

Dr. Kelly not only gained a beautiful form by her own prescription, but used it successfully with many of her patients. Women, this is a personal message from a physician of your own sex, and all we ask is the opportunity to show you without any expense on your part that Dr. Kelly's Form Developer will give you a perfect figure, beautiful complexion and improve the general health. Send the little coupon above and 10c for expenses and a 50c treatment will be mailed at once in plain package. Write us today. DR. KELLY MEDICAL CO., Dept. 159-EE, Buffalo, N. Y.

MANY SURPRISES IN POST-DISPATCH LEAGUE CONTESTS

Spectators So Excited at Bryan Hill-Harrison Game Police Have to Interfere.

'UNBEATABLE' TEAMS LOSE

Tail-Enders Move Up Into First Division and Trounce the Champion Chasers.

Scores of Yesterday's Games.

Cote Brilliante	14	Jackson	16
Blair	2	Franklin	9
Sherman	7	Ashland	12
Fremont	6	Lowell	11
Monroe	21	Harney Heights	13
Madison	11	Richmond Heights	10
Clinton	14	Ames	18
Chouteau	11	Columbia	14
Shepard	28	Arlington	10
Humboldt	18	Washington	4
Rock Springs	10	Penrose	12
Hodgen	9	Marshall	2
Sigel	16	Bryan Hill	13
Lafeyette	5	Harrison	9

There were many surprises in the scores of yesterday's games in the Post-Dispatch Public School Baseball League. The teams are so badly matched that the big crowds which saw them perform in all parts of the city were treated to some close contests.

Leaders were pulled down from their high perches and trounced soundly by tail-enders. Teams that were conceded to be unbeatable were beaten most decisively.

Bryan Hill defeated Harrison in a hard-fought game before an enthusiastic crowd of parents, teachers and school children at the old Fairgrounds, by a score of 13 to 9. Ellis Marting, the small pitcher of the Harrison team, was knocked out of the box and relieved by Schimmelpfenning, who did well but could not win.

The spectators became so enthusiastic at this game that the police had to be called to keep the crowd off the field. Among those who attended were Principal Edmiston of the Harrison School and Dr. Charles E. Witter and Miss Thompson of the Bryan Hill School.

Sherman Beats Fremont.

The Sherman School team won a hard battle from Fremont by the score of 7 to 6. Bert Werre of Sherman produced the hit that won the game in the eighth inning. There was also good stick work by Walter Siebert, Willie Artmen, Earl Talbot and Robie McDonald.

Ames School team won its third straight game by defeating the strong Columbia nine, 18 to 14. Zirkel pitched for Ames.

The Rock Springs-Hodgen game went 13 innings. Rock Springs won. Donovan scored the winning run. He also starred in the field, as did Speekman.

The great surprise of the day was the defeat of Madison by Monroe, 22 to 11. On paper the Madison team appeared to be one of the strongest in the league.

Monroe, however, may not be allowed to profit by its victory over Madison. The boy who played first base for Monroe attends the Garfield School. This is admitted, and the game cannot count as a victory for Monroe in deciding the division championship. However, it may stand as a defeat against Madison if the facts are as the captain of the Monroe team states them. The Monroe captain says that the Madison players were so sure of their ability that they agreed to allow Monroe a player from an outside school.

Manager Will Investigate.

The Madison manager and the Monroe manager both knew that they had no authority to make any such arrangement. There are other teams in the division that have to be considered, such as Shepherd, which has lost only one game. But if the Madison manager and players did not agree to the outsider playing, that is another question. The manager of the league will investigate before announcing action.

Ashland won from Lowell in 10 innings by 12 to 11. Shortstop Shinall of Ashland put up a sensational game both in the field and with the bat. The same teams may meet again on a different field.

Richmond Heights, the boys from the suburbs, lost to Harpey Heights in a well-played game, 13 to 10. Richmond Heights defeated Gardenville the Saturday before, 12 to 8.

One Game in Dispute.

There is a dispute over the Clinton-Chouteau score. Clinton claims it won by 14 to 11, while the Chouteau players say the score was a tie, 12 to 12. Features of the game were the pitching of Cahill for Clinton and Walsh for Chouteau and the hitting of Wasaff and Griesedieck for Clinton.

Penrose, ex-champions, defeated Marshall by a score of 12 to 2. T Golder, pitching for Penrose, hung up a strike-out record. A Hebrew charities association has offered a silver loving cup for a prize for an exhibition game at a picnic, May 24, between Penrose, ex-champions, and Ashland, the champions.

Jackson won from Harrison, 16 to 9. Robert Pierce, Jackson catcher, got two home runs, two doubles and a triple in five times at bat. The Franklin center fielder got two home runs and a single in four times at bat.

Savings Depositors.

You will profit by opening your savings account with the St. Louis Union Trust Co., Fourth and Locust, on or before May 5, because all savings deposits made with them on or before the 5th bear interest from May 1.

Socialist Mayor Will Speak.

J. Stit Wilson, Socialist Mayor of Berkeley, Cal., will address a mass meeting under the auspices of the Socialist party at Aschenbroedel Hall, 3535 Pine street, next Saturday evening.

GAINED 24 POUNDS

Bad Case of Stomach Trouble. Wholly Restored by Peruna.

Mrs. Wilson Robinson

Mrs. Wilson Robinson, 704 Nessle st., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"I feel like a new person. I have no more heavy feelings, no more pain, don't belch up gas, can eat most anything without it hurting me. I want to be working all the time. I have gained twenty-four pounds.

"People that see me now and saw me two months ago seem astonished. I tell them Peruna did it. I will say it is the only remedy for spring and all other ailments."

Dyspepsia and Constipation.

Helen A. Maxfield, M. D., Lyman, Utah, writes:

As to the merits of Peruna, too much cannot be said.

"I am sixty years old and have just found out a medicine that is a great improvement to my health. I have suffered for years with dyspepsia and constipation. The use of Peruna two weeks only has given me great relief."

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.—ADV.

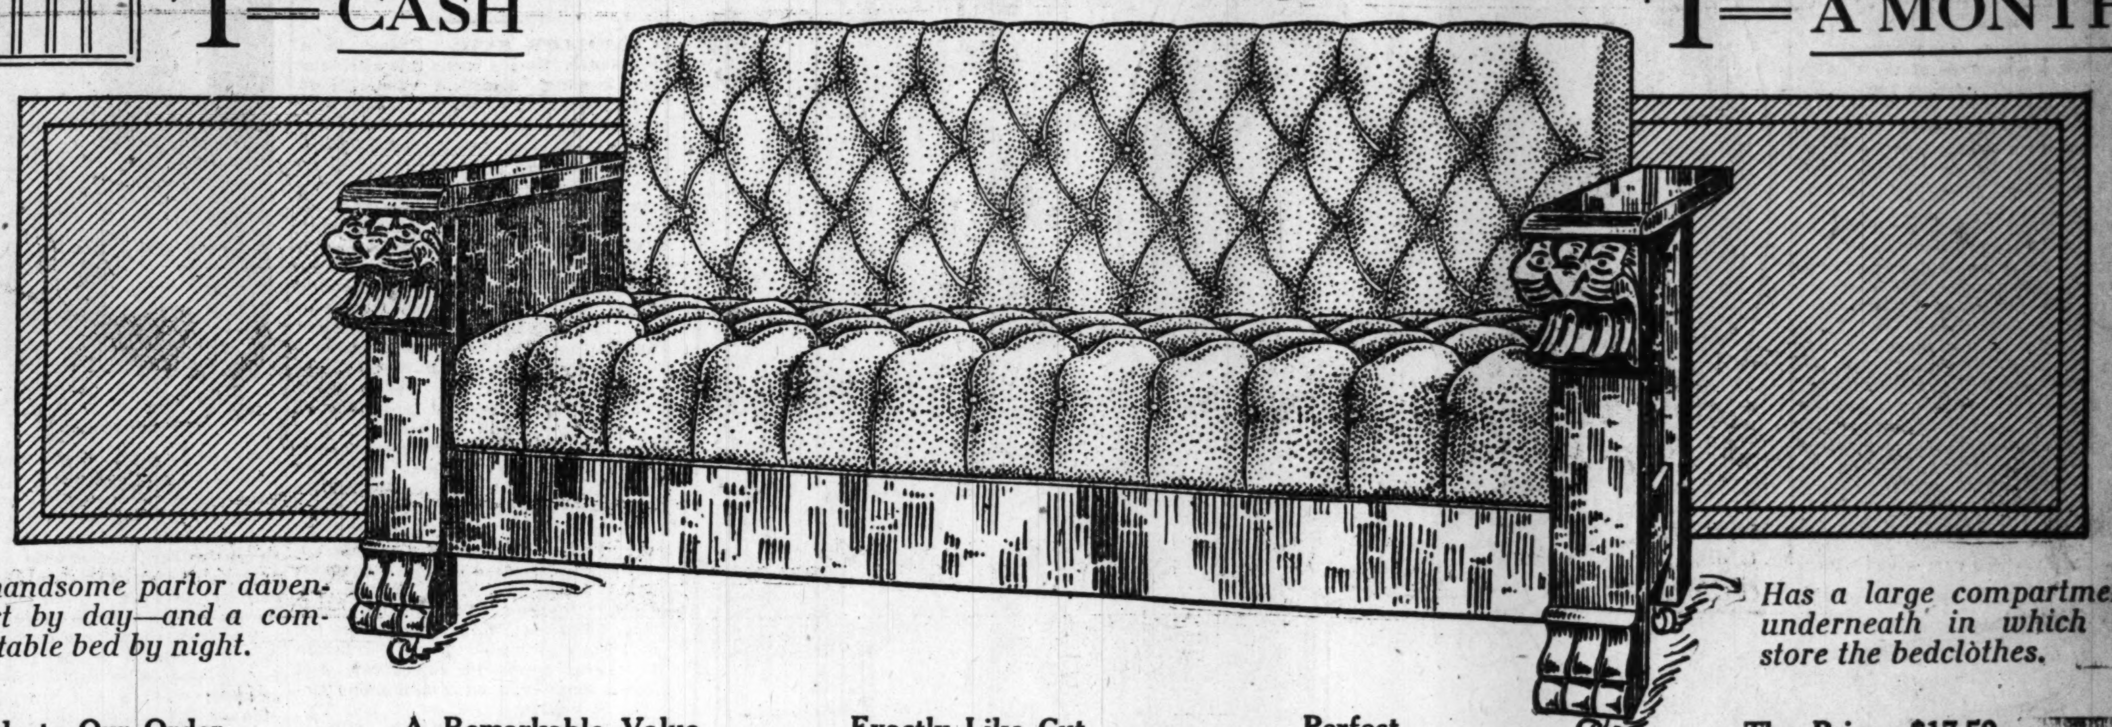
Here Is May-Stern's Remarkable Special Offer for This Week

HANDSOME BED-DAVENPORT, Like Cut, $17.50

$1.00 CASH — $1.00 A MONTH

An example of the unequaled values this great store is offering in all lines of Home Furnishings.



A handsome parlor davenport by day—and a comfortable bed by night.

Has a large compartment underneath in which to store the bedclothes.

Made to Our Order

Months ago we went to one of the best makers and told him we wanted a Bed-Davenport that would be larger, finer and better than anything else on the market at the price—this design was submitted—we accepted it at once and gave him a tremendous order, to be filled during the dull season—thereby securing an extraordinary concession from the regular price and we are giving you the full benefit of this saving.

A Remarkable Value

We have no desire to boast or to exaggerate a particle—but in our opinion this is the most wonderful value in a Bed-Davenport that has ever been offered—a value so remarkable that we doubt whether we will ever be able to secure another lot at a similar concession—it's an unusual opportunity for you to secure a Bed-Davenport of the highest class at a commonplace price—and you should take prompt advantage of it.

Exactly Like Cut

This Bed-Davenport is big, broad and massive—heavy frames of selected golden oak, finely finished, and ornamented with large carved lion heads as shown in the illustration—it is richly upholstered in fine quality imitation leather over beds of oil-tempered steel Springs—evenly tufted and has all the appearance and will wear almost as well as a genuine leather davenport that would cost you double or treble our price.

Perfect Construction

It is a massive and beautiful Parlor Davenport by day—and can be instantly converted into a full-size double bed at night—it is almost automatic in action and so simple in mechanism that it cannot get out of order—has a large compartment underneath in which to store the bedclothes when not in use—a special feature that will recommend it to careful buyers.

The Price—$17.50

It would be a simple matter for us to sell all of these Bed-Davenports for cash at this remarkably low price—but we prefer to sell them on credit—we want to open a great many new accounts—we want to get many new patrons interested in this store—and for this reason we are offering this Bed-Davenport at this unusually low price—and on terms that are certainly pleasing—all you pay is $1.00 cash and the balance $1.00 a month.

Introducing May-Stern's New

VACUUM CARPET SWEEPER

A practical and efficient Vacuum Cleaner — actual $9.50 value—for only $5.85

$1.00 Cash—$1.00 a Month

This Vacuum Cleaner

Is exactly as illustrated—the most up-to-date suction sweeper made—it cleans your carpets and rugs thoroughly by drawing up a strong current of air through the fabric—and is guaranteed for one year against defects of every kind.

Well Made Throughout

This sweeper is strongly constructed of the best materials—has metal cover—and three bellows which operate by the wheel shaft, insuring constant suction—it is easily taken apart to clean and operates as easily as an ordinary carpet sweeper.

The Price—$5.85

This is a surprising price for a high-grade, practical vacuum cleaner like this—we know you will not find anything to equal it elsewhere for less than $9.50—but it's a rule of ours to always name the lowest price.

The Terms

Remember, all you pay is $1.00 cash—and this vacuum carpet sweeper will be delivered to your home—and you can pay the balance $1.00 a month. See it in operation at our store.

Another Notable Special Sale of

Seamless Velvet Rugs

Full Room Size 9x12 Feet $19.50 $1.00 Cash $1.00 a Month

The Makers

This Rug is woven by one of the largest rugmakers in the country—a firm whose reputation for producing fine Rugs is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. We have their assurance that these Rugs will give thoroughly good service—and knowing their goods as we do, we can confirm their words.

Description

These are high-grade, seamless Velvet Rugs—full 9x12-foot size—all woven in one solid piece like an Oriental Rug—without a single seam or miter—and on this account are more durable and will give better service than almost any other class of Rugs.

The Quality

These Rugs are of extra fine quality—with deep, rich pile—luxurious to the tread—and have all the elegance of appearance that is usually seen only in the higher-priced Rugs—it's the kind of a Rug that is ideally suitable for parlor, dining room or bedroom.

The Patterns

The designs and colorings are all new this season and include a varied assortment of floral, medallion and Oriental designs—every pattern is a good one, and you can take any in the entire lot with the assurance that it will please you and will present a handsome appearance.

The Price—$19.50

The fact that we offer a 9x12 Velvet Rug for $19.50 is not extraordinary in itself — but when we offer you a Rug of THIS class and quality at this price it is almost sensational—for we make the positive statement that this Rug cannot be equaled for less than $27.50.

The Terms

We want to open a large number of new accounts this week—and for this reason we are offering these Rugs at this exceptional low price—and on terms that will certainly strike you as pleasing—all you pay is $1.00 cash and this Rug will be delivered to your home—and you can pay the balance $1.00 a month.

Redfield's Freak Whiskers

-::- -::- -::- -::-

Stories Told in Washington

WASHINGTON, May 3.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE REDFIELD is beginning to wonder whether the martyrdom of wearing freak whiskers is worth while. He used to think that the peculiar hirsute adornments of his face imparted distinction, but he learned this week that to the discriminating eyes of a Washington guide that that style of whiskers gives the impression that their owner needs someone to show him the way.

Secretary Redfield has the most remarkable whiskers now before the public, not even excepting the pink excelsior on Senator James Hamilton Lewis' face. It is the tint that makes the Senator's whiskers justly celebrated, but those of Secretary Redfield are remarkable as whiskers, without the aid [illegible] a color scheme, though they have that in the highest degree, too. It is their architecture that puts them in a whisker class of their own. They are all tangled up with his mustaches and the hair of his head and it takes a brave man to tell where the whiskers begin and whether they ever end.

The Secretary's whiskers, being one of the sights of the capital, have been photographed with such abandon that Redfield supposed that nobody who saw those whiskers could doubt that the Secretary of Commerce was near by, but he was wrong.

The Secretary and his friend, C. C. Brainerd of the Brooklyn Eagle, were walking past the Treasury Building on the way to the White House, where Mr. Redfield was to attend a Cabinet meeting. A guide stepped out and looked them over. It was apparently evident to him that Mr. Brainerd was a sophisticated Washingtonian, but the Secretary looked like a fresh importation to the eyes of the guide. So addressing himself to the man whom Woodrow Wilson has delighted to honor, the guide began:

"You will want a guide, sir, while you are in Washington."

Mr. Redfield endeavored to interpose a word, but nothing could check his benefactor. He had taken charge.

"My first suggestion to you, sir," went on the guide, in a business-like way, as he fell into step with the distinguished pair, "is that I take you through the executive offices. The President, by the way, is a kindly and democratic man, and perhaps—mind, I do not promise this, but perhaps—we can catch a glimpse of him."

He[illegible] Redfield exploded and the guide fled.

Se[illegible] Lewis, in Evening [illegible]s, Lights Up Hotel Lobby.

SINCE Senator Lewis has been brought into the conversation for purposes of comparison, the folks back home who have sent him and his whiskers to Washington may as well be told now as any other time that the Senator does not undervalue the title that has been bestowed upon him and is not depending altogether upon his pinkies to draw the gaze of hoi polloi.

He is wearing his Sunday clothes week days and, as one Senate attache puts it, "they are some scenery."

And when there are persons around who, perchance, might not know, in spite of his whiskers and his duds, that he is a Senator, he drops a remark about the job of Senator not being all that it is cracked up to be, or something like that.

Senator Lewis dropped in at the Shoreham the other night and lit up the lobby. He was in "full dress," and carried in one hand his opera hat, white gloves and gold-headed stick. With the other he made graceful gestures as he talked with a newspaper correspondent. The attention of the mere persons in the lobby was attracted by the glare. They had no doubt that the illuminated one was great, but they did not know how great. But Senator Lewis knew and he would see to it that they were enlightened. As he bowed away at the close of the conversation he raised his voice and, with appropriate gestures, in his choicest Georgia dialect, intoned:

"Old fellah, I beg of you, command me as evah. The word 'Senatah,' I assuah you, means nothing between friends."

"Real Progress Is Found Today Only in the Great Southwest."

J. S. LEE of Roswell, N. M., says Easterners do not know what advancement is. It is only in the West and particularly in the Southwest that there is any advancement these days worthy of the name.

"When I went to the Pecos country in the Southwest 32 years ago it was necessary to fight almost every foot of the way because of the resistance offered by Indians," said Lee.

"It tires me to listen to the stories of the great advance that has been made in the East. The East doesn't know what advancement is.

"I was a Deputy Sheriff at the time I first went into that Southwest country, and was on an expedition which resulted in the capture of 'Billy the Kid,' perhaps the most notorious renegade who ever lived in the West.

"The trail after the 'Kid' led us through miles of tangled country, over deserts and into mountain fastnesses, but we succeeded. Much of that country now is included in the Pecos valley, where today there is nothing but prosperity; where there are thriving towns and communities, populated by men who have grown rich in the last 10 years. All this has taken place within the last 30 years; and yet the East thinks it has advanced. If one would know what real progress is, let him go West, particularly to the Southwest."

Time Between Drinks Growing Constantly in North Carolina.

NORTH CAROLINA has been the first State to experience the effects of the Webb liquor law, according to E. B. Jeffress of Greensboro, N. C., who was here during the week.

"The last State Legislature passed a search and seizure law, making it prima facie evidence of retailing if more than three gallons of whisky are found in possession of any person," he said. "The express companies, under the law, are required to keep an open book of their shipments, and this has enabled the State authorities to discover places where any quantity of liquor in excess of three gallons has been shipped.

"The authorities have been bearing down upon offenders and numerous persons have been convicted. A larger quantity of beer is permitted to be kept, of course, than of whisky. Under our State law the burden of proof is on the alleged offender, instead of on the State, so that, with the activity of the State's officers, North Carolina has become, in fact, a dry State."

Beer Drinker Fails Miserably as a Prohibition Candidate.

GEORGE KINDEL of Denver, Democratic Congressman, is living proof that it is not good politics for a beer-drinker to run for Congress on the prohibition ticket. Kindel is a beer-drinker and he ran on the Prohibition ticket. And he did not run very fast or very far.

In 1910, Kindel made up his mind that he would like to be the Democratic candidate for Congress. But another Democrat had made up his mind to the same effect sooner and had already been nominated. The prohibitionists heard about Kindel's tardy aspirations and asked him to run along on their ticket.

Kindel told them he was a beer-drinking German and he would look funny on a Prohibition ticket. But they told him not to mind the looks. They would overlook his beer-drinking this once. Kindel, not to be outdone, said he would o[illegible]ook the Prohibitionists' principles [illegible] would overlook his beer-drinking, [illegible] made the race. That is, he also ran. Last fall he got the nomination on the Democratic ticket and was elected.

Alaska Delegates Amaze Senator by Climate Exhibit.

SENATOR WILLIAM ALDEN SMITH has discovered that there is a joker in the Alaska weather reports. Some leading Alaska citizens had journeyed to Washington and were telling Senator Smith why the Government should spend more money for developing their country.

The leading citizens assured him that it was warmer in Alaska than in, well, in Washington, for instance. Senator Smith gave the Alaskan one of those looks. But the leading citizens dared him to look at the weather reports. They looked, and the temperature of Sitka was 39 above zero that day and the temperature of Washington was below 37.

The Senator found the joker. Sitka is on the coast where the Japan stream tempers the climate. The weather in the interior is very different and very much colder.

CLERGYMEN WILL HONOR FR. O'LEARY, 40 YEARS PRIEST

Celebration Will Be Coincident With Dedication of Notre Dame School.

ARCHBISHOP WILL PRESIDE

Wellston Pastor Is Founder of Numerous Missouri Parishes and Active Worker.

Catholic clergy and laiety of the St. Louis diocese will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of Father C. F. O'Leary, founder and pastor of the Notre Dame Church of Wellston, May 22. Besides a church dinner there is to be a program of speeches by clergymen. Archbishop Glennon is to preside.

Coincident with the celebration, the Notre Dame school, which is being completed at a cost of $30,000, will be dedicated.

Father O'Leary founded the Notre Dame Church 10 years ago. He said the first mass in a tent. For a few years he had a severe struggle with poverty, but recently the parish has been highly prosperous.

Aside from the Notre Dame Church, Father O'Leary has founded a number of schools and churches in Missouri. Among them are those located at Mexico, De Soto, Fulton, Martinsburg and Columbia. The institutions in all of these places are sound and prosperous.

Father O'Leary was born in the County of Kerry, Ireland, in 1851. He came to America when he was 17 years old, and entered college at Cape Girardeau, Mo. Five years later he was ordained to the priesthood by the late Archbishop Ryan. He has been zealous in his work and untiring in his energy, as is shown by his activity in founding parishes.

Most of the work of Father O'Leary has been among poor people. Besides his duties as a priest, he has spent much time in welfare and sociological work. And while thus engaged by day he has stolen many hours from sleep for study. Early in his career he became recognized as a strong polemical writer and as early as 1878 he figured prominently in the religious controversy of that period.

GROCERS PREPARE FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION

Committee to Make Final Arrangements for Gathering to Be Held in St. Louis May 19-22.

Final preparations for the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Retail Grocers, to be held here May 19—22, will be made this week by the committee of the St. Louis Retail Grocers' Association. Arthur J. Giles, secretary of the National Association of British Grocers, who will address the convention on the opening day, has arrived in New York and will soon start for St. Louis.

There are four candidates for president: George W. Sawkins of Toledo, O.; C. E. Beinert, Wymore, Neb.; H. W. Schwab, present vice-president of the association, and Sol Westerfield of Chicago.

J. D. Lukenbill, vice-president of the St. Louis local, has been indorsed for the office of secretary, to succeed John A. Green, who has been secretary for many years. His rivals will be Green and John J. Ryan of St. Paul.

The official program provides for addresses by Giles of England and George E. Litchy, president of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association; J. E. Linihan, president of the American Specialty Manufacturers' Association, and Bert M. Fernald, president of the National Canners' Association.

SCHOOL FIELD DAY IS PUT OFF TO JUNE 17

Amended Rules Bar Tight Garments for Girls and Spiked Shoes for Boys.

The annual public school field day in St. Louis has been postponed until June 7 by Superintendent Blewett because the date originally set, May 31, conflicted with the Missouri Valley Conference session.

An amended set of rules prepared by the executive committee in charge of the fileld meet, bars spiked shoes in all events. In the suits worn by boys in the relay races the trousers must reach the knees. Girls must not wear tight garments in the contests, the rules state, and must wear bloomers and shoes without heels.

To make the classifications more flexible, the height and weight limit in some of the classes have been increased. In Class A, the height limit for boys and girls has been raised from 52 inches to 55 inches. In Class C, the limit is increased to 58 inches, from 55 inches. The limit for both sexes in Class B is raised from 60 inches to 64 inches. In Class A the height and weight is unlimited.

281 BIRTHS, 201 DEATHS

Six Suicides and Nine Accidental Deaths in Week.

In the last week there were 281 births in St. Louis, while death claimed 201. Diseases of the circulatory system carried away 34, pneumonia 23, nephritis 23, cancer and malignant tumors 19 and tuberculosis 15.

There were six suicides, two homicides and nine deaths from accident.

BABY ABANDONED BY TWO STYLISHLY DRESSED WOMEN

Boy Left at Nursery Turned Over to St. Ann's Foundling Asylum.

FALSE ADDRESS GIVEN

"Mrs. Smith of Blair Avenue" Asked That Child Be Cared For While She Shopped.

A boy, three weeks old, abandoned by two stylishly dressed women at St. Patrick's Day Nursery, 1619 North Sixth street, Thursday, was turned over to the police by the matron, Mrs. Eleanor Flynn, yesterday afternoon. The baby, known to Mrs. Flynn as Robert Smith, was sent by the police to St. Ann's Foundling Asylum.

Mrs. Flynn told the police that two women called at the nursery Thursday. The older woman, who appeared to be about 25, gave her name as Mrs. H. W. Smith of 5118 Blair avenue.

"I have heard so much about Father Dempsey's day nursery that I wish you would take care of little Robert for me for a few hours, while I do some shopping," she told Mrs. Flynn. "It is so hard on the baby to take him in the crowded stores."

With an admonition to Mrs. Flynn to take the best of care of the baby, "Mrs. Smith" and her companion departed and failed to return. The woman who gave the name of Mrs. Smith was described as being 5 feet, 5 inches tall, with dark hair, brown eyes, wearing a white lace hat and a stylish black dress. The other woman appeared to be about 18 years old, Mrs. Flynn said. She weighed about 130 pounds and wore a green hat.

There is no such number as 5218 Blair avenue. The police searched that neighborhood, but were unable to find anybody who knew anything about such women as Mrs. Flynn described.

TEACHER TO LECTURE ON KINDERGARTEN SYSTEMS

Miss Mabel A. Wilson to Compare Methods and Illustrate Them at Mary Institute.

Mrs. John T. Davis Jr., Mrs. George D. Markham and Miss Alice Martin, the new lecture committee of the Mary Insitute Alumnae Association, announce a lecture for Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Founders' Hall, Mary Institute, by Miss Mabel A. Wilson of the St. Louis Public Schools. Her subject wil be "A Comparison of the Montessori and Froebelian Systems of Education," and a class of 24 children will give practical demonstration of the Froebelian principles.

The kindergarten children tomorrow will give the typical songs, the symbolic games and the rhythmic ball exercises of the Froebel system to illustrate Miss Wilson's lecture, and 24 aspects of the gift materials will be simultaneously presented by them.

The points of the Froebelian method, which has been in use for 76 years, will be compared with the Montessori, which is but six years old, by Miss Wilson.

PLAY WILL BE GIVEN FOR TUBERCULOSIS CAMP

Mrs. Charles Collins Plans Performance of "He Snoops to Conquer" to Aid Girls.

Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins, founder and conductor of the Night and Day Camp for Tuberculous Working Girls at 9500 South Broadway, is completing arrangements for a reproduction at the Victoria Theater next Tuesday night of "He Stoops to Conquer" by the new dramatic organization of the City Club. The entire proceeds of the performance will be given to the tuberculosis camp. Tickets for the show will be on sale at the Bollman music store, Eleventh and Olive streets. The price of seats downstairs will be $1 and upstairs 50 cents.

Mrs. Collins said that she had to raise more funds in order to carry on her work satisfactorily. She now has 15 patients at her camp, all that she can take care of comfortably until she has more funds. The three qualifications necessary for a girl before she can be admitted to the camp are that she must be over 15 years old, self-supporting, and in need of recreation. The camp was opened six weeks ago.

TEXAS PRISON IN DEBT

Runs $2,000,000 Behind in Two Years of Contract System.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., May 3.—Because of a lack of cash to pay bills, the Texas prison system has been charged much above market prices for supplies, according to developments at the legislative investigation here today.

The inquiry is to determine reasons why the system has run about $2,000,000 in debt since the practice of hiring out prisoners to contractors was abolished two years ago. It is believed at least $250,000 of the debt represented excessive charges for supplies.

Mission Plans New Building.

The Lighthouse Mission, 1117 Kentucky avenue, has purchased a corner lot at Tower Grove and Norfolk avenues, on which a new mission building will be erected, at a cost of about $15,000, which is to be ready by November. Today is rally day at the mission. Meetings are to be held in a tent every night during the summer by the Rev. J. H. Flower, the pastor.

Students Will Present Dramas.

The Washington University Dramatic Club will present "St. Martin's Summer" and "How the Vote Was Won," Monday evening at the Central High School Auditorium, under the direction of Joseph Solari.

This Will Be Nemo Week

Nemo week will be a great feature in our Corset Department. It commences tomorrow morning and all of the latest models in Nemo Corsets will be on display.

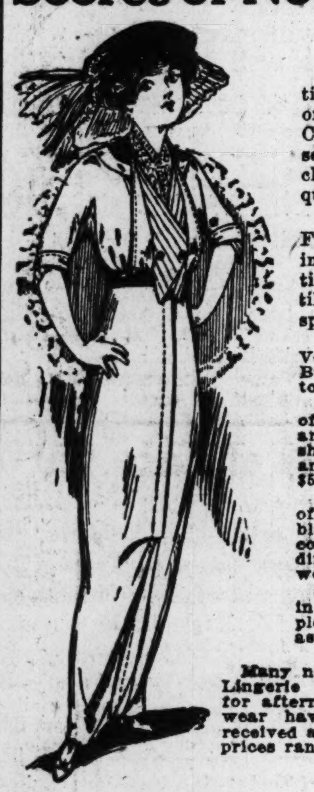
Despite the fact that there is a great scarcity of silks at this time, we have been successful in securing a splendid line of Crepe de Chine, Canton Crepe, Mandarin Crepe, Crepe Meteor and Crepe Panama in the choicest shades to offer at, the yard $2.00 to $3.50

Second Floor.

Scores of New Summer Dresses

Were Received Last Week



You will find our Costume Section particularly attractive at this time, as it contains one of the most beautiful stocks of Crepe, Linen and Cotton Fabric Gowns that has ever been assembled in St. Louis. The variety is so all-inclusive that every individual demand can be quickly and satisfactorily met.

We illustrate a very charming Cotton Crepe Frock for informal wear. This model is shown in a brilliant lobster pink and has a most attractive vest of white-striped ratine, with smart postillion back and a cleverly draped skirt. It is a special value at $29.50

We have, of course, many other attractive Voile and Crepe Dresses in cream, colored and Bulgarian effects, which are priced, according to quality, at $19.50 to $49.50

Your special attention is called to a group of Crepe Meteor Afternoon Costumes, which are effectively trimmed with chiffon and shadow lace. All of the wanted colors are among these, as well as black. Values up to $55.00, choice at $39.50

A special feature for Monday will be a sale of a number of Tailored Serge Dresses in navy, black and Shepherd checks. These have lovely collars and cuffs and choice can be had of two different styles. They are $16.50 values that we have specially priced at $9.95

Our display of Linen Frocks for Summer wear in Cossack and French finishes is most complete and embraces many plain tailored, as well as unusual novelties. These are priced at $7.50 to $55.00

Many new, handsome Lingerie and Net Frocks for afternoon and evening wear have been recently received and are on sale at prices ranging from $16.50 to $87.50

We also have some Real Lace Costumes of Point Venise and Filet. These are of the very finest quality and are priced at $165.00 to $350.00

Third Floor

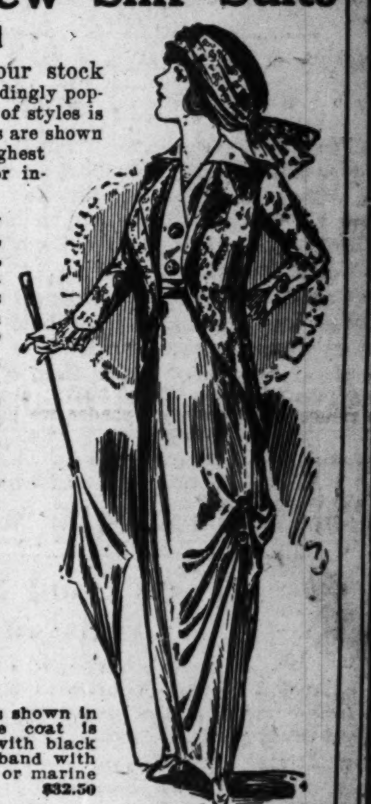
Many Choice New Silk Suits

Have Recently Arrived



For tomorrow we are featuring our stock of Silk Suits, as Silk Suits are proving exceedingly popular for this season's wear. Our assortment of styles is extremely varied, as all the colors and fabrics are shown which have received Dame Fashion's highest stamp of approval. Our stock includes, for instance:

The model illustrated is a new combination silk suit with coat of brocaded poplin, finished with white silk vestee and collar, thus giving it a decidedly French effect. The skirt is of plain charmeuse and drapes gracefully at the side; finished with fan kick plaits. Price $52.50

We are showing a number of very smart Three-piece Combination Silk Suits, suitable for afternoon or street wear. These have handsome waists of shadow laces with touches of black chiffon around the neck and sleeves, while the skirts are of crepe meteor and beautifully draped. The short coats are made in contrasting colors. Other models are also shown in semi-dress effects with brocaded coat and plain charmeuse dress. These are special values at $52.50 to $85.00

1000 Aluminum Saucepan Sets Regularly $1.75; Sale Price, 95c

Just after Christmas we offered 1000 sets of these Imported Aluminum Saucepans at a very low price. They were all gone within a day or two, and we could have sold more had we had them.

We are glad to say that a second shipment of 1000 sets has just been received and will be placed on sale tomorrow. If you have never used Aluminum ware this sale will afford an excellent opportunity to supply yourself with a trial set, or if you are now using this ware you can supply yourself with an additional lot.

This set of three pieces would sell in the regular way for $1.75, but while this lot of 1000 sets lasts, we will offer them at 95c

Regular value $1.75 for set of 3.

A Sale of Hartford-Saxony Rugs at Decided Reductions

Fortunately for those who are in need of new Rugs, we have been successful in securing a good lot of last Fall's best patterns—which have been discontinued—at a considerable reduction in price. This saving we, in turn, offer to you, and we are sure that the Rugs below mentioned will not last long at the prices quoted.

For private homes or public places we believe that the Hartford-Saxony is the best American Rug for the purpose. The workmanship on these is of the highest type, while the designs are largely faithful reproductions of the finest Oriental Rugs.

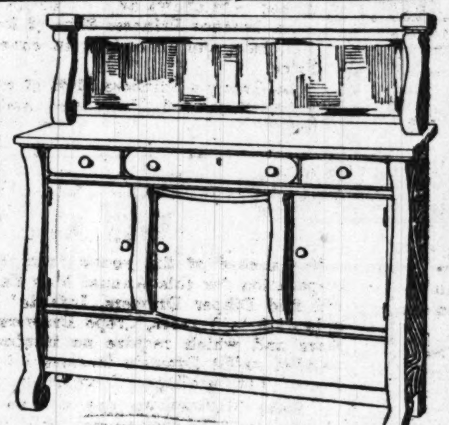
We Want You to See What We Believe Is a Value Extraordinary in

These Buffets at $37.50



Because of a minor change in its design the maker was compelled to leave this pattern out of his last catalog and the remaining quantity on hand was shipped to us at a price that permits us to sell them at $37.50.

Ordinarily the price would have had to be $55. The careful manner in which they are built, the neatness in style and the liberal dimensions (54-inch top), convince one that these pieces are worth every penny of $55.

They are patterned exactly as illustrated to the right.

Other Buffets from this same maker are underpriced for this sale. New styles, in select quarter-sawed oak, with rich golden finish; 52-inch base; at $33.75.

$46.50 Colonial Buffets, $35

Decidedly neat and attractive, with every point of superior workmanship quite noticeable; made with spacious dish cabinet; smoothly-working linen drawer, of roomy size, and lined silver drawer; priced special, $35.

Six Dining Chairs, $17.85

Solidly-built Chairs; may be had in any finish; quarter-sawed oak stock; made with slip pad seats of genuine Spanish leather; in dark olive or tan; set of six at $17.85.

Dining Tables, $19.75

Among the new Dining Tables, with special prices are these at $19.75. They are of solid construction, with 54-inch top; plain, heavy, pedestal base, and come in various finishes over oak; usual $25 Tables.

China Closets, $20

A special design; marked special for Monday, and an excellent value as to serviceable construction; neatness in design and liberal size; come in high-polished golden or waxed Early English; usually $27.50; special, $20.

Dining Tables at $34

Exceptionally well-built Tables, on plain, neat lines; equaling those selling at $45; have quartered oak tops, and each part snugly fitted to insure table working smoothly; 52-inch top, with 8-foot extension.

Large Porch Rockers, $1.95

Made with high back; maple frame stock; in natural color; double-faced split reed seats.

Porch Rockers, $2.25

A Wonderful Purchase From One of America's Foremost Art Dealers Results in the Sale of a $14,000 Stock of Oil Paintings at Half Price!

THE most remarkable purchase in the annals of these picture galleries has just been consummated, bringing nearly 1200 fine Oil Paintings to sell at prices which are positively the lowest we have ever known.

The Paintings are not of a commercial type, but of a very high standard. But the low figure at which they were purchased, makes it possible for us to sell them at prices such as the most inferior art works usually commands.

About the Frames—

They are of the highest quality. Some finished in powdered gold, gold leaf, in carat gold and dull tone gold. The shadow boxes are finished in mahogany and ebony woods, lined with plush, and some are unlined.

At $6.50 —You can choose Paintings which usually sell at $10, $12 and $15.

At $9.50 —We have grouped together about 65 Oil Paintings; some usually at $17, $20 and $22.50.

At $12.75 —Oil Paintings which command as much as $30; some were $27.50, and others $25.

At $17 —About 200 Oil Paintings in this group; there are many different subjects, all cleverly handled.

Members of Associated Clubs Are Coming May 23-24 for Big Annual Banquet.

HOUSTON WILL BE HERE

President Lowell Will Speak and Musical Play by Angert Will Be Given.

Graduates of Harvard University from all parts of the United States will come to St. Louis May 23-24 to be "college men" again and march under banners of crimson to tunes of favorite college songs at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs.

Members of the class of '84 will hobnob with those of 1912; the old battles of gridiron, river and diamond will be fought over, victories will be celebrated again and defeats explained from new angles.

The principal feature of the meeting will be the banquet, which will be given Saturday night in the great main diningroom of Hotel Jefferson.

President Lowell to Be Here.

President Lowell of Harvard, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, U. S. A.; Dean Briggs, Secretary of Agriculture Houston, H. A. Leekley of Oklahoma and Percy Haughton, Harvard's head football coach, will be the principal speakers. Coach Haughton will give a stereopticon lecture on Harvard's 20 to 0 football victory over Yale last November.

The meeting will officially begin at noon Friday, May 23, with a luncheon at Hotel Jefferson, which will be the delegates' headquarters, and where rooms have been engaged for them. Immediately after the luncheon will come the business session.

At 4 o'clock Friday afternoon the delegates will be taken in autos to Sunset Inn, in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains, overlooking the Meramec River, 13 miles from St. Louis, where dinner will be served on the veranda.

A Home-Made Musical Play.

At 8:30 o'clock the curtain will rise on a musical play that should be as good as any ever produced by the famous "Hasty Pudding" Club. The music has been written by Max Zach, formerly conductor of the popular concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and now conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and the words by Eugene H. Angert, a St. Louis Harvard man, and his sister, Miss Josephine Angert.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning the delegates will march along the streets behind a band of music to the river, where a boat will be in readiness to take them for a river trip. Lunch will be served either on the boat or at a landing place yet to be selected. The return trip will be made in time for the banquet.

Epworth Leaguers to Be Installed.

This evening's service at the Salem M. E. Church, Page and Pendleton avenues, will be given over to the installation of new officers of the Epworth League, as follows: President, E. A. Halter; vice-presidents, Walter F. Schelp, Miss Hanna Vordebrigge, Miss Esther Mehnert, Miss Winifred Schwartz; secretary, R. G. Blattner; treasurer, W. E. Morris; pianist, Miss Lorain Morris.

Walther College Girls' Reception.

A reception will be given by the Lutheran Ladies' Educational Society to the girl graduates of Walther College Tuesday from 2 to 5 o'clock. The girl students of the school will assist in serving. Walther College graduates 23 students in June. Twelve of these are girls and 11 boys.

Boyle Memorial Gives Comedy.

The Dramatic Club of the Boyle Memorial Center gave a comedy, "All For the Cause; or Votes For Women," at its headquarters, 816 North Eleventh street, last night. The proceeds will be applied for a new piano for the auditorium.

Salem M. E. Church Entertainment.

The young people's organizations of Salem M. E. Church will present "Ye Deestrick Skule" on Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Central Y. M. C. A. Hall, Grand and Franklin avenues.

MISSOURI LAUDED IN POST-DISPATCH'S CONTEST FOR $100

Letters Pour In, Each Giving Reasons Why Homeseekers Should Come to This State.

LETTERS are pouring in for the Post-Dispatch's contest for a prize of $100 for the best 10 reasons why home-seekers should come to Missouri to live. This prize is offered with a view to eliciting some new and unique reasons for coming to Missouri and the character of the replies shows that the contestants are giving a great deal of thought to their contributions.

The prize-winning 10 reasons will be used to boost Missouri by the various organizations that are engaged in that work. Following are some of the letters received during the past week:

and Workers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

1. Because Missouri is the great gateway for the West.

2. Because Missouri is the connecting link for all railroads from the North, East, South and West.

3. Because Missouri is known to have the largest industries.

4. Because real estate and building material is considerably cheaper than in any other State in the Union.

5. Because for farming purposes Missouri has the finest soil and climate of any state in the union, some of the finest and largest fruit is grown in Missouri.

6. Because the climate in Missouri is at all seasons more refreshing, especially in summer.

7. Because in al lines of business there is a more brotherly feeling between employer and employe, not only in work but also financially.

8. Because the education in the schools of Missouri is far superior to any other state. Some of the most successful men attended our public schools.

9. Because Missouri has churches for all denominations, which do more to get the people to attend their respective churches.

10. Because Missouri is first in everything, as has been shown on numerous occasions; all others follow.

GEO. W. SCHLAEGEL,
4314 Obear avenue.

Impressive Facts and Figures.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

1. Because no State in the Union has made such rapid advancement along agricultural, commercial and industrial lines.

2. The acre value has increased 100 per cent in the last 10 years and will increase 100 per cent in the next 10 years.

3. The agricultural products of 1912 were more than $475,000,000.

4. The manufacturing products of 1912 were more than $640,000,000.

5. No State holds out such inducements to the settler, the home-seeker or the investor.

6. Any person with energy and a fair knowledge of business will be sure to succeed here.

7. Thousands who have come and are contented and prosperous are one of the best reasons for others to come and stay.

8. And there is room for three times the population Missouri now has.

9. The splendid system of public schools, colleges and universities offers every child an opportunity to secure an education.

10. Missouri knows no North, South, East or West; she extends a hearty welcome to all.

JOHN KRAMER,
Care J. Kennard & Sons Carpet Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Why People Should Come.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

1. Delightful climate. Annual average temperature approximately 60 degrees.

2. One of the richest states in the Union from a financial and agricultural standpoint.

3. Rarely subject to floods, except in the extreme southeastern portion of the State.

4. Bounded by two of the largest rivers in the world, affording abundant facilities for irrigation transportation and water power.

5. Rich in mineral resources, lead, zinc, coal, etc.

6. Has large manufacturing concerns, affording ample employment for the workingman.

7. It is served by over 50 of the largest railroads in the country, and about 15 electric lines, and is geographically the center of transportation.

8. Educational advantages are of the best.

9. Drouths are rare.

10. The "ideal State" for the sportsman, both as to fishing and hunting

OLIVER A. GROTE,
2260 E. Clarence av., St. Louis, Mo.

People Are "Safe and Sane."

1. Health must necessarily be the first consideration. It is secured to Missouri by its elevation and natural drainage.

2. Opportunity I regard as coming next; let's see about that:

(a) Gardening, everything matures perfectly from asparagus to tomatoes.

(b) Farming, covers cotton to wheat.

(c) Fruit culture, apples to plums, and the best in the world.

(d) Livestock, fortunes in it; our mules especially the wonder and envy of all the world.

(e) Poultry and eggs, millions in the business.

(f) Dairy business, everything in favor of Missouri.

(g) Mining, there is where Missouri shines like the sun at high meridian; lead, zinc, iron; we can supply the world in this line.

3. Location puts Missouri convenient to the best markets for all her products.

4. Manufacturing, raw material, the ores, timber, clays, coal, natural gas, best of shipping facilities, honeycombed with interstate railroads, steam and trolley, navigable rivers, and the best country roads, and material for building them in great abundance, giving every advantage to the shipper for the transportation of goods.

5. Schools, are what a people make them; we stand second now with an apparent desire manifested to be first.

6. The stick-in-the-mud element of humanity is the minority party in Missouri, the people are safe and sane and awake.

7. Missouri's "future is before her;" her resources are practically untouched.

8. Land is still low in price, taxes are low as well, and the soil is naturally very productive.

9. Because the fishing is good.

10. Because of the concentration of all desirable conditions. Natural scenery unsurpassed; more sunshine to the year than anywhere else in the world; climate all that can be desired, every season is a delight to the eye and the senses, every "prospect pleases," it must be the chosen and ideal place of the gods to raise people, and that is the chief object of existence; raise good people.

If Missouri has any drawbacks—which I won't admit after 40 years' residence—it is because nature had to put on some sort of a handicap so as not to discriminate too harshly against the rest of the world.

JOHN W. FREY.
Webb City, Mo.

Finest Men and Women.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

1. Missouri has the noblest men.
2. The truest women.
3. The best churches.
4. Best schools.
5. Best climate.
6. Best water.
7. Best opportunities for all classes.
8. Best government.
9. Best products of farm and city.
10. Because I have lived out of Missouri three years and realize what I have lost.

MATTYE HARRELL,
Elk Falls, Kan.

PUBLIC SAFETY MEETING

Railroad Man to Urge Caution While on Railroad Property.

A public meeting under the auspices of the Public Safety Committee, which is promoted by railroad companies, will be held in the auditorium of the East St. Louis City Hall Tuesday evening. The gathering will be addressed by S. S. Morris, general chairman of the Illinois Central Railroad Safety Committee.

The object of the organization is to impress the public with the importance of more rigidly safeguarding movements while on or around railroad property. C. W. Shaw, chairman of the sub-committee, called the meeting.

The Cheerful Life

It is the right of everyone to live and enjoy the cheerful life. We owe it to ourselves and those who live with us to live the cheerful life. We, cannot do so if ill health takes hold of us.

The wife, mother and daughter suffering from hot flashes, nervousness, headache, backache, or any other kindred ailments of the organs—is not only a burden to herself, but to her loved ones.

There is a remedy. Forty years experience has proven unmistakably that will restore health to weakened womankind. For 40 years it has survived prejudice, envy and malice. Sold by dealers in medicine in liquid or tablet form. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Tablets can be had of druggist or mailed on receipt of one-cent stamps—for $1.00 or 50c size. Address R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. PIERCE'S

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

Your Grandmother's Remedy for Purifying the Blood

And Renovating the System in the Springtime

Ask for Sulpherb Tablets.

What was grandmother's unexcelled remedy? Haven't you heard of it? Yes, you have! It was sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. The main trouble with it was its nauseous taste.

A modern method puts the cream of tartar and sulphur into a sugar-coated tablet and mixes them with herbs, roots, etc., making a wonderful tonic blood purifier and system cleanser.

Just try sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets), but sulpherb—remember the name—and get the tablets in sealed tubes at 50c per tube.

Grown-up people and children who don't feel well, who are constipated or sluggish, or who have pimples, boils, carbuncles, ulcers and the like, can soon rid the system of these impurities by taking this good old-fashioned remedy in modern form. Their action satisfies or money is refunded by the Prescription Products Company, Dayton, Ohio. A free trial sent to any address. Buy of any well-stocked druggist.

Waste Paper Collection Monday to Help Out Tuberculosis Fund

TOMORROW is Red Ribbon day in St. Louis. Collectors will pass through the city to take offerings of old books and papers at every house where a red ribbon is displayed in a window. The collections will be delivered at the warehouse of the General Paper Stock Co., and the money realized from the sale will go to the St. Louis Society for the Cure and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Many well known society women will assist at the relay stations and help load the accumulations of paper on trucks. More than 400 women have offered their services. Every religious organization and nationality is enlisted under the Red Ribbon banner, and in every neighborhood the children will do the paper collecting under the direction of a woman in charge.

Those in charge of the collections ask that the old papers be tied in bundles. The specific use of the money obtained will be to buy milk and eggs for the tubercular poor.

Dependable roomers are secured through Post-Dispatch want ad advertising. Your druggist will phone the ad.

SILVER JUBILEE OF FATHER FURLONG TO BE OBSERVED

Many Friends of Priest Will Attend Celebration at St. Columbkille's Church.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. James J. Furlong in the Catholic priesthood will be celebrated in St. Columbkille's Church, of which he is pastor, next Tuesday. Father Furlong was ordained by the late Archbishop Kenrick at St. Anthony's Church, May 6, 1888.

Many of his friends in the priesthood, from St. Louis and other cities, will attend the celebration. There will be a solemn mass at 10:30 a. m., of which Father Furlong will be the celebrant. The Rev. J. Watson of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church will be the deacon; the Very Rev. Dean Weibel of Hot Springs, Ark., subdeacon; the Rev. Martin S. Brennan of SS. Mary and Joseph's, master of ceremonies, and the Rev. J. J. McMahon of Silver Lake, Mo., assistant master of ceremonies. The Rev. P. P. Crane, P. R., of St. Lawrence O'Toole's Church will preach.

A dinner to the clergymen will be given by Father Furlong in the parochial school hall at 1 p. m. Music will be furnished by the church choir. The church will be decorated by the women of the parish.

Father Furlong is a native of St. Louis. He was educated in the Catholic schools of this city and Cape Girardeau. For 19 years he was pastor of the Catholic Church at New Madrid. Many of his friends from Southeast Missouri will come to St. Louis to participate in his silver jubilee.

MEMBERSHIP IN JUNIOR LEAGUE IS GROWING

Boys and Girls Who Join Help Support the St. Louis Children's Hospital.

New members continue to join the Junior League of the St. Louis Children's Hospital. Each boy and girl who joins the league pays an initiation fee of $1, which goes to the support of the hospital, where many sick children receive the best medical attention under the care of competent nurses. Lives of many little ones have been saved through such attention, which otherwise the ailing children could not get.

Those who joined the league last week are: Masters Elliot K. Ludington, Mahlon B. Wallace, Asa B. Wallace and Edward Mallinckrodt III, Misses Lucy M. Ludington, Frances H. Ludington, Florence Bemis Ludington, Ellen Richardson, Grace W. Wallace and Janet W. Wallace.

OPERA WILL BE GIVEN FOR QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS

Performance of "Little Tycoon" Is Planned by Prominent Local Musicians.

The opera, "The Little Tycoon," will be given at Knights of Columbus Hall Friday evening for the benefit of the Queen's Daughters. The performance is to be under the direction of Prof. Camille E. Becker, organist of the new Cathedral, assisted by Prof. Mahler, Mrs. Regina M. Carlin and members of the Queen's Daughters' Choral Club, and a large chorus from the Suburban School of Music at Webster.

Among the well-known musicians in the cast are Miss Hildegarde Kennedy, Mrs. Regina M. Carlin, Hortense Hollvin Carlin, Edward Beyesdorfer, J. F. Hellrung Jr., Robert Leacock and Mrs. David J. Hyde.

INSURANCE MEN CONTEST

Firms Employ Lehmann to Resist Barker Suit.

Insurance companies, which have been restrained by Attorney-General Barker from withdrawing from the State, have engaged Attorneys F. N. Judson and F. W. Lehmann to represent them in resisting the efforts of Barker to have the injunction made permanent by the Supreme Court.

St. Louis insurance agents who discontinued writing business April 30 say all the strong companies have left the State and that companies continuing to accept risks are principally small mutual concerns or those writing special lines only.

No modern housewife would buy an ordinary Gas Stove after seeing "Buck's" sanitary line—made with white enameled, cast iron ovens.

Our Motto:
Quickness—Quality—Quantity.

YOU, Mr. Lawyer, must not forget that we print Abstracts and Briefs to please you, or, in plain United States language, exactly as YOU want the work done. Our pages are the largest, our paper stock of the best quality, and our service unsurpassed. Our proofreaders are accurate and aim to please YOU. And, last but not least, our prices are the most reasonable of any brief printer consistent with the service and quality of our work. If you try us once we will hold your patronage. If good work, square work, is what you want call us on the telephone—our numbers are Bell Olive 1093 and Kinloch Central 2854—and we will send our representative to see you at once. He will be able to give you any information about your work that you may desire RIGHT ON THE SPOT.

SIMON AND 5 OTHERS FILE CONTEST SUITS

Democratic Candidate for Mayor Declares He Should Have 65,817 Votes.

Dr. John H. Simon and five other Democrats, defeated at the recent city election, filed contests in the Circuit Court yesterday against their successful Republican rivals.

The suits are: Dr. John H. Simon against Henry W. Kiel for Mayor; Ben C. Adkins against Edmund R. Kinsey for president of the Board of Public Improvements; Michael J. Cullinane against M. R. H. Witter for City Register; Thomas Owens against Charles W. Mohrstadt for City Marshal; and M. J. O'Rourke and Walter Kelly against Councilmen Koenig, Ebeling and Hermann.

Dr. Simon, who was the Democratic candidate for Mayor, declares in his petition that a correct count of the ballots would give him 65,817 to Kiel's 54,442, instead of Kiel 57,119 to Simon's 54,819, as the official count showed.

WIFE AND CHILDREN GO WITH ARCTIC EXPLORER

Capt. Frank Kleinschmidt Starts on Seven Months' Animal Seeking Cruise.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 3.—Capt. Frank E. Kleinschmidt, who made an extended cruise of Bering Sea and the Arctic Ocean last year gathering specimens of bird and animal life for the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburg, departed today on the power schooner P. J. Abler for a cruise of seven months in Northern waters.

Capt. Kleinschmidt is accompanied by his wife and two children and two taxidermists. He hopes to bring back alive specimens of the rare animal and bird life of the Aleutian Islands and Northeastern Siberia.

In August the schooner will put in at Nome, Alaska, to pick up Marshal Scull and A. M. Collins of Philadelphia and Dr. Elting of Albany, N. Y., who will join Capt. Kleinschmidt in a hunt for big game in the Arctic. Mrs. Kleinschmidt and the children will remain aboard the schooner throughout the cruise.

DYSPEPTICS! DONT GIVE UP!

No one looks upon himself as a Dyspeptic until he has tried many remedies without relief. Thus most dyspeptics have lost faith and even hope that anything will do them any good.

STOMALIX

offers itself to discouraged Dyspeptics in connection with the following prescription:

℞ QUIT ALL DESPOND. Nothing can cure a bad stomach inside a despondent man. Refuse to BE a Dyspeptic. Eat rationally, regularly, normally, taking after meals a teaspoonful of STOMALIX in a little water—an agreeable beverage—and keep about your ordinary pursuits. You'll no more be a Dyspeptic.

We Prepay Express Charges

Fels
TRADE A 1 MARK
Whiskey
FELS DIST'G. CO
KANSAS CITY USA

1 Full Quart Whiskey FREE

TRY IT AT OUR EXPENSE

There are all sorts of claims for superiority among distillers and Mail Order Whiskey Houses, and while we feel sure that our Fels 3-Star Whiskey can't be beat, or even equaled in quality, or price, still we are not going to ask anyone to risk their money on our judgment; therefore, we are going to give, absolutely free, one full quart bottle to test. We want you to prove by drinking it that Fels 3-Star Whiskey is pure, wholesome, fully aged, mellow as can be and above all has real whiskey strength. We want you to add half water to it if you like, and we say that you will still have stronger and better whiskey than most Mail Order Houses sell at our price. Anyone can easily understand that should we just send out bottles of whiskey free that we would be flooded with requests by some unscrupulous people and dealers and lay ourselves open to a fearful onslaught. This we cannot do, but nevertheless, the bottle is free to honest people. Now here is our proposition: We will send you one full quart bottle of Fels 3-Star Whiskey, absolutely free, along with your first order for 8 full quart bottles of Fels 3-Star Whiskey for $5.45 and we pay the express charges. After you receive the 9 full quart bottles, open one of them, test it any way you like, and if not entirely satisfactory, you have the privilege of returning to us the remaining 8 bottles, and the one extra bottle you may keep free, and we will immediately return your $5.45. Or send us $2.95 for 4 full quart bottles of Fels 3-Star Whiskey, express prepaid, and we will include one test bottle free. Test the free bottle, and if not absolutely satisfactory and the best whiskey you ever tasted at any price, just return to us the 4 bottles and keep the free bottle and we will refund your $2.95 without question or argument. With each order we give a free Gold Tipped Glass and Patent Corkscrew. Remember, we say we pay the express charges; look close before you permit some of the low prices of Mail Order Houses to get your order and make you pay the express charges.

We mean to prove superiority in the whiskey business; we mean to prove at our expense, by giving a free test bottle, that Fels 3-Star Whiskey has no equal. CLUB OF PIANOS AND PLAYER-PIANOS

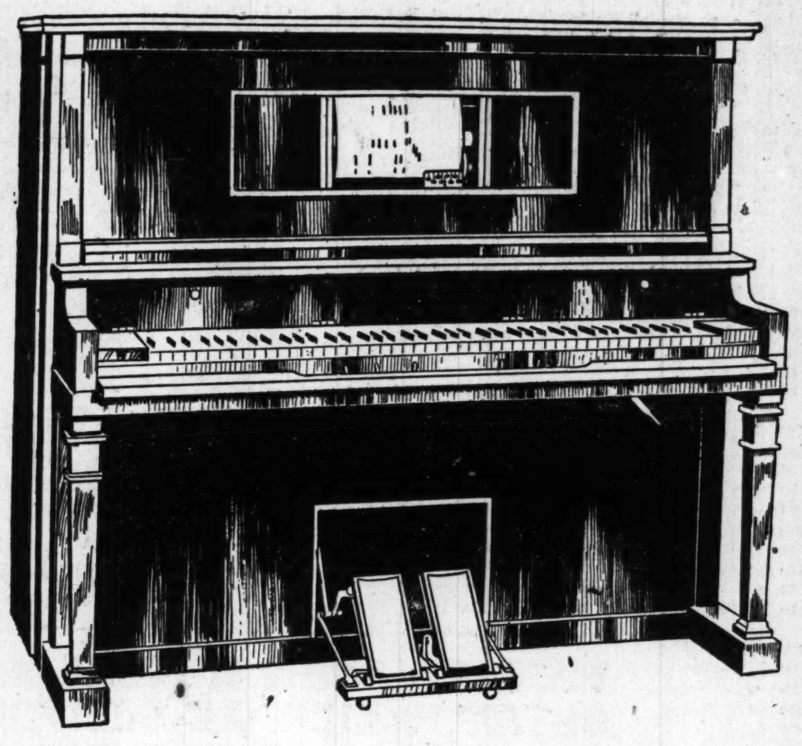
This is the $550 Player-Piano

Club Price:

$425

Terms:

$10.00 Down $2.50 a Week



Description of the Player-Piano

THE Player Piano is a standard 88-note instrument of the most modern type, playing all 88 of the piano's keys and using standard 88-note music rolls of any and all makes. The piano is the latest product of the Wurlitzer factories and is finely constructed throughout of the very best materials. The tone is of pure musical quality, clear and singing, and will continue so, as the durability of the instrument is positively assured by the Wurlitzer guarantee that goes with every instrument and makes the buyer perfectly safe.

The instrument can be played with perfect effect in three different ways—(1) with regular paper music roll, the operator giving his or her own interpretation by means of the expression devices; (2) with hand-played music rolls, that is, facsimile records of an artist's actual hand playing, which exactly reproduce the artist's performance (3) by hand as a regular piano.

Other special features of the Player-Piano are the following:

The Automatic Shiftor, which compels the music to play perfectly—compels every note of a selection to speak clearly and distinctly.

The latest perfected Five-Point Motor, which works with perfect smoothness—the only type of motor so far made that compels the music to play in perfect time.

Choice of aluminum or solid brass noiseless Tracker Bar.

Durable metal instead of rubber tubing throughout.

A really wonderful Tempo Lever. This little lever, operated by the right hand, makes a great performer of everyone. Instead of playing mechanically with the Tempo Lever, you can control the time of the music and give to your playing every shade and nuance the composer intended.

In addition to the foregoing special features, the Player-Piano has all modern improvements found in the higher priced standard instruments of the day.

A ten-year guarantee goes with each instrument.

12 Rolls of Music are included without extra charge, also a handsome bench to match the instrument.

Choice is offered of mahogany, oak and walnut cases.

THE Wurlitzer Club of Pianos and Player-Pianos has as its fixed purpose to impress upon every person in St. Louis and vicinity the fact that the Wurlitzer store is the best place to come for a Piano or Player-Piano.

Therefore we are organizing an association of 500 Piano buyers, who, acting in a body as one individual, take 500 Pianos and Player-Pianos. Each buyer secures the benefit of the wholesale transaction in the shape of a lower price, easier terms, free insurance of the Piano and a number of other special features which we will explain.

The Wurlitzer Company is the foremost exponent of one-price-no-commission Piano selling in America. We pay no commissions to any outsider, but mark all Piano prices in plain figures — the lowest cash price—which is absolutely uniform and the same to every buyer. Since we do not pay commissions, we save piano buyers the large sums which commission stores allow and add to the prices of their instruments. Wurlitzer's is the only one-price-no-commission Piano house in St. Louis. Furthermore, we are manufacturers and sell direct.

The value of the Upright Piano in this transaction is $350. That is, $350 under the Wurlitzer one-price-no-commission plan of valuation. This means $400 to $450 in the commission-paying store.

The value of the Player-Piano in this transaction is $550. And this means $600 to $700 in the commission-paying store. The value of the Baby Grand Piano is $600, so that the saving through the Wurlitzer Club is much larger than $95 on the Upright Piano and $125 on the Player-Piano, and $115 on the Baby Grand Piano, judged by valuations in commission-paying stores.

Your Money Back Instantly If Desired

We propose to give you every chance to test either Piano or Player-Piano in your home in your own way—to compare with any other instruments at any price, and if the instrument does not satisfy you in every way—if you don't feel you have made a wise choice and secured more for the price than you could possibly secure elsewhere, then you simply notify us and we send for it and refund every cent you have paid.

We allow, in fact, request this, as The Wurlitzer Company could not afford to have you keep the instrument if you were not perfectly satisfied. It would be entirely contrary to the Wurlitzer half-century-old policy of satisfaction to every customer. So that if the question of the value of either the Piano or Player-Piano comes up, remember the instrument you select must prove its own value, you to be the sole judge, nothing we may say in its favor to influence your decision.

Here are some of the more important features of the Club briefly summarized:

1. The club is composed of 500 members.

2. The value of the Player-Piano is $550. The price to Wurlitzer club members $425, and the terms are $10 cash when you join and then $2.50 a week.

3. The value of the Upright Piano is $350. The price to Wurlitzer club members is $255, and the terms are $5 cash when you join and then $1.50 a week.

4. The value of the Baby Grand Piano is $600. The price to Wurlitzer club members is $485 and the terms are $10 cash when you join and then $2.75 a week.

5. The instrument is delivered when you join or later, as you prefer.

6. The weekly payments start when your instrument is delivered.

7. Every instrument is guaranteed without reserve for ten (10) years—a guarantee in writing as strong as we know how to make it.

8. If, after 30 days' trial, the instrument is not satisfactory, we will give you your money back without question.

9. If the instrument IS SATISFACTORY after 30 days' use, the WURLITZER club member HAS ELEVEN MORE MONTHS in which to satisfy himself as to its character. If it does not prove to be everything that he expects, he has the privilege of exchanging it without ONE PENNY'S LOSS for any other instrument of equal or greater value.

10. IF A CLUB MEMBER DIES DURING THE LIFE OF HIS CONTRACT, THE RUDOLPH WURLITZER CO. will immediately send a receipt in full to his family for the instrument.

11. A beautiful stool and latest style scarf are included with the Upright Piano. A bench and a library of music rolls with the Player-Piano and a bench and a scarf with the Baby Grand Piano.

Description of the Upright

THE Piano is full 7⅓ octaves; three-string unison overstrung bass; three pedals (including special Practice pedal); patent folding fallboard with continuous hinges; pure ivory keys; choice of finest mahogany, oak or walnut case. The tone is sweet, clear and perfectly sustained throughout the scale—in short, an instrument that any musician would be proud to own and one whose durability is certified by the Wurlitzer ten-year guarantee that goes with each piano.

A handsome stool and scarf to match the piano are included without extra charge.

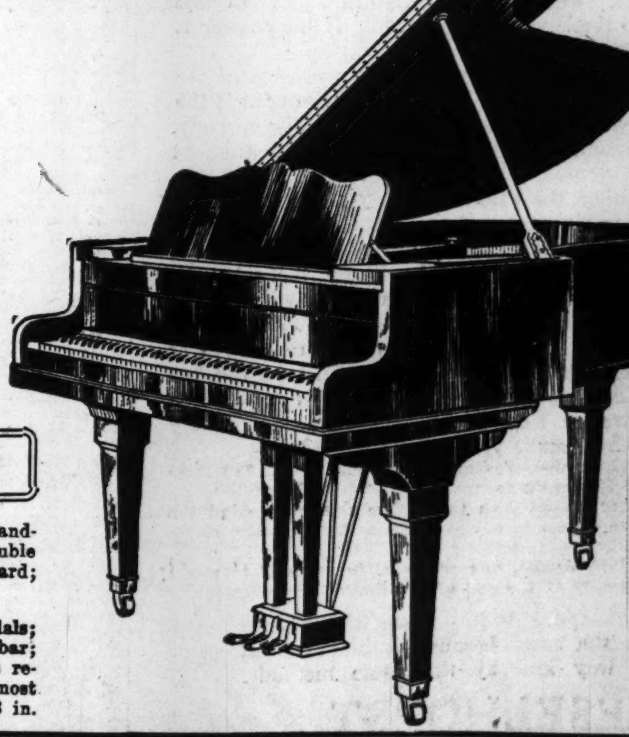
This Is the $600 Baby Grand Piano

Club Price

$485

Terms:

$10 Down — $2.75 a Week



Description of the Baby Grand

THE Baby Grand is finished in mahogany and is the handsomest artistic small grand ever designed. It is double veneered throughout; continuous hinges on top and fall-board; leg-ends encased in brass socket-castors.

Full metal frame; full copper overstrung bass; three pedals; bushed tuning pins; laminated acoustic rim; capo d'astro bar; double repeating action, perfectly regulated. The scale is remarkably even, tone superb, and the touch all that the most fastidious could desire. Length, 5 ft. 6 in.; Width 4 ft. 8 in.

A Few Words
About
The Rudolph Wurlitzer Co.

THE Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. was founded in Cincinnati in the year 1856, and is known as the world's largest general music house, with factories at Wurlitzer Station (Niagara County), N. Y., Cincinnati and Chicago, and salesrooms in fifteen of the larger cities of the country.

The Wurlitzer Company manufactures Pianos and Player-Pianos of the highest type, the Wurlitzer Orchestral Harp, the accepted world's standard and the Wurlitzer Unit Orchestras, the sensational new One-Man Orchestras which have been installed in a number of the foremost theaters, hotels and private mansions, and which sell for upwards of $50,000.00. Wurlitzer either manufactures or imports every known musical instrument; the name Wurlitzer is synonymous with excellence and this name on a musical instrument is accepted throughout the world as a guarantee of the highest possible standard of musical quality.

The Wurlitzer St. Louis store at its present location was opened for the sale of Pianos a year ago; it was successful from the start. The Wurlitzer One-Price-No-Commission plan of selling, which eliminates all commission paying to outsiders and gives the buyer the benefit of the large sums paid to outsiders, has met with the same favor in St Louis as in other cities wherever introduced.

We wish now to make the Wurlitzer line of Pianos and Player-Pianos and the Wurlitzer selling plan known to everyone in St. Louis and vicinity. We hope you will make it a point to visit the Wurlitzer store, which is considered one of the most attractive in the country, whether you are a prospective purchaser or not. Visitors are cordially welcome.

Over-Night Relief for Constipated People

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning.

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

The poisonous stomach waste should pass off at least once a day. If you miss a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 326 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant-tasting and non-griping. Mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is effective in grownups. It is for everyone who suffers from any form of stomach, liver or bowel trouble, constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. Its action will so delight you that you will forever avoid harsh cathartics, purgatives, pills and salts.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

MELVILLE CLARK
APOLLO
Player Piano

Look for These Features in the 1913 Player-Piano

Insist upon the following features in the player piano you purchase. Then—you will be certain to get a modern instrument—one that will prove satisfactory.

Down Touch Unless a player piano touches down on the piano key, it is not a late model nor is it correct. Only dealers who are overstocked on old styles will deny this. Just ask the salesman. "Does this player touch down on the key of the piano?" If his answer is "No," draw your own conclusions.

Solo To play correctly a player-piano must accent the melody. If the instrument you are looking at is the latest, it will enable you to omit the melody entirely, playing only the accompaniment, or omit the accompaniment and play the melody alone.

Metronome Motor— Unless the Player Piano you are looking at will rewind the roll without touching the pedals, it is not an up-to-date player, and should be priced accordingly. When the salesman finishes playing, ask him to step away from the player; then if the roll does automatically rewind, come and see the 1913 Apollo.

Transposer Unless the Player Piano you are looking at will transpose the piece into any desired key for accompaniment purposes, it is not a modern instrument, and we don't believe there is a salesman in this country clever enough to make you believe it is.

Come in and let us go over these features with you. You'll find them all in the 1913 Apollo Player-Piano.

Do this if for no other reason than to fix firmly in your mind the points to look for and to expect in a player-piano that is really up-to-date in every respect.

By inspecting these 1913 Apollo, you will qualify yourself to select a Player-Piano that is really at the end of the line of improvement.

Come in and compare Apollo music with human music. It is the same because it is produced in the same way and by the same methods.

Doctors Endorse Newbro's Herpicide For the Hair

When a doctor endorses a preparation it means more than an ordinary testimonial. His opinion is always that of the professional man devoted to the welfare of the people.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, Covington, Tenn., says: "I feel it my duty to write this for the benefit of those suffering from dandruff. In the average case a few applications of Newbro's Herpicide will remove all dandruff. It is advisable to continue its use for several weeks."

The words of J. B. Thompson, M. D., [illegible] 3 Burrough Place, Cor. Hollis St., Boston, Mass., are not less enthusiastic: I can only speak in praise of Newbro's Herpicide. It is all that is claimed and [illegible] more. Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp, but brightens the hair, gives it life and makes it soft."

Dr. T. A. Moore, Duncan, Ariz., writes of his experience: "My scalp was in places covered by patches of dry, scaly material and the itching was incessant. Since using Herpicide all these evils have disappeared and my hair is soft, smooth and growing. Hair has grown on spots before but thinly covered."

Newbro's Herpicide is "the original remedy to kill the dandruff germ" and stop falling hair. The terrible itching which goes with dandruff is allayed almost at once."

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c and $1.00 sizes is guaranteed to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Applications may be obtained at the leading barber shops. Be sure you get genuine Herpicide.

MAN DIES AT 95; WAS AN ELDER IN CHURCH 56 YEARS

W. G. Clark, Oldest Member of Grand Avenue Presbyterian, Succumbs in Austin.

William G. Clark, 95 years old, the oldest member of the Grand Avenue Presbyterian Church, in which he has been an elder 56 years, died yesterday morning at Austin, Tex., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. W. Dodd, at whose home he had spent the winter. He had been afflicted with heart trouble, and died suddenly after a severe attack in the night.

He is survived by eight children, 29 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren. He had been a resident of St. Louis since he was 18 years old, and was engaged in the lumber business many years. He retired from active business 40 years ago. He had been married twice. His first wife died in 1855, and he remarried four years later. His second wife died 11 years ago.

He had expected to come to St. Louis in about two weeks to visit his daughter, Mrs. James B. Hill, 4426 West Pine boulevard, before going to Minnesota for the Summer. He had a summer home in Clearwater, Minn., and annually spent the hot months there. Since the death of his wife he had been making yearly visits to relatives in St. Louis on his way to the south to spend the winter.

The body will be brought to St. Louis Tuesday and will be taken to Mrs. Hill's home. The funeral will be Wednesday, either from the church or from Mrs. Hill's residence, to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

BIBLE CLASS ENTERTAINS

Temple Israel Organization Holds Last Session of Year.

The Bible class of Temple Israel held its last meeting of the season Thursday afternoon in the new Congregational House, with 200 present. After a rendition of Kol Nidre music by Miss Irene Hirschfeld, Mrs. Loth gave an interpretative recital of Browning's "Saul." Miss Bessie Altheimer gave a vocal solo.

Dr. Harrison gave a brief resume of the work done by the class in the last year, and an outline of the program to be followed next year.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH'S REVIEW OF MARKET CONDITIONS

WALL STREET UNDECIDED WHICH WAY SPECULATIVE CAT IS GOING TO JUMP

Politics and the Foreign War Have Traders All at Sea.

LONDON ALSO IS MIXED

Money Situation Is Disturbing Influence on the Outside Exchange.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted weekly review today, says:

"The really odd part of the present season's financial discussion, both at home and abroad, is the extent to which it has been made up of warnings and fears regarding things which do not come to pass, and the extent to which, when the gloomy predictions are plainly failing of fulfillment, the word is passed about that the situation is just as bad as if they had come true. This singular state of mind was plainly in evidence during the present week, when European diplomacy once more held the center of the stage, even from Wall street's point of view.

The Wall Street Opinion.

"The New York Stock Exchange is not an entirely successful speculator on the vicissitudes of Continental politics. When the Balkan war broke out, it treated the matter with comparative indifference. Turkey could not be overthrown, and even if the Balkan armies were to make a good showing for themselves, winter was coming in the mountain passes and the fighting would presently have to be suspended.

"As for a general European war, that was a dream of nervous foreign editors.

"The rise in Europe's bank rates and the heavy liquidation of Europe's holdings of our stocks and bonds ensued; whereupon, in due course, Wall street reversed its attitude completely.

"Early this week one heard in the purlieus of the Stock Exchange, the gloomy comment that nothing could be hoped for, since, as the off-hand phraseology of the day described it, that fellw had got into Scutari.

"Presently, in spite of some highly imaginative cabled reports of international trouble—which nobody believed, because no body knew whence they came—the news made fairly clear the willingness of that fellow to get out of Scutari; yet the information was received without enthusiasm.

The Tariff Outlook.

"So, with the theory of disastrous trade reaction, as a result of the tariff bill, nothing disastrous comes in sight.

"Business men, while complaining of tariff uncertainties, grudgingly admit that business activity is sustaining itself more effectvely than there had been reason to expect. The aggressive forward movement has halted, to be sure, and order for delivery at distant future dates diminished perceptibly.

"That was a quite inevitable incident to any period in which the future rates of import duties are under discussion and as yet unsettled; but the actual demand for immediate consumption continues large, and unsold stocks of merchandise do not pile up. Yet the prevalent undertones of comment, in both financial and commercial circles, continues to take account only of the fact that trade is not as extensive as it was a few months ago, and is not at all interested in the fact that the state of business is better than circumstances should have led the markets to expect.

The Factors in the Market.

"Such an attitude usually means one of two things—either that the real underlying cause for existing depression is something else than these mere spectacular influences, or else that the prevalent spirit of pessimism has become utterly unreasonable.

"Probably there is some ground for each contention. The really puzzling condition of the investment market, is an influence which in some ways supersedes such considerations as 'Montenegro' and the tariff bill.

"One is at least, reminded of a prophecy made in 1906 by a European economist, when applications for investment capital were apparently on the excess of available supplies. His view was that a good part of the prospective issues of new loans would be deferred until fresh capital had been accumulated by the public.

"What he overlooked in that forecast of 1906, was the fact that the applications, then being made for industrial and commercial purposes, could not be postponed, because they covered contracts to which the companies were already deeply committed.

The Way Out of Trouble.

"But the diagnosis, which was wrong as applied to 1906, would apparently be right as applied to 1912; and it shows the eventual way out of our present dilemma.

"As for the other alternative, that pessimism is being overdone, it is difficult to doubt the truth of that diagnosis. It is summed up, in terms of professional speculation, by the frequent remark of the present week in Wall street, to the effect that the outside public is doing nothing, that actual stock exchange operations for the rise are all but non-existent, and that the single source of activity in the market is in the alternate attacks and retreats of speculators for the decline.

"Very long maintainance of such a situation is apt to have results which somewhat alter the visible aspect of affairs.

"A word may properly be added, regarding the Albany Legislature's abandonment of the bill for compulsory incorporation of the Stock Exchange. The rejection of that proposal has come about in a somewhat unfortunate way, because it was coupled with other moves ascribed to a so-called reactionary element among the legislators. Nevertheless, this particular measure has been made the topic of some very absurd and irrational comment in the newspapers.

"Incorporation would not have greatly impaired the usefulness of the Stock Exchange for its traditional purposes. But the verdict of the impartial Hughes Commission was that it might easily impair the institution's powers of salutary discipline—for which reason that commission opposed it.

Exchange Bill Beaten.

"Gov. Sulzer, in submitting the plan, gave great weight to the arguments against it, and it is perfectly safe to say that the majority of intelligent men unconnected with the Stock Exchange looked on it with disapproval.

"This being so, it is the height of absurdity to talk of the failure of the compulsory incorporation plan as a violation of party pledges and a wicked defiance of the public welfare.

"People familiar with the true inside history of the Albany "regulation bills" this session are aware that this measure and certain others, which were abandoned almost at the start because of their manifest absurdity, were promoted and urged on both Governor and Legislature by influences which were marked by ignorance of the essential facts in the matter, and whose motive must have been largely one of sensationalism.

"It is naturally not agreeable for promoters of such a program to fail in their endeavor; but the general public will presumably take refuge in the fact that the really wise and necessary regulatory laws in regard to Stock Exchange affairs, have been enacted.

"The market closed the week showing irregular changes from the preceding Saturday. The drift of the final session was uncertain."

FOREIGN MARKETS IN THE HANDS OF PROFESSIONALS

Political Uncertainties Cause Many Sudden Price Changes on Outside Exchanges.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, May 3.—Last Tuesday's fright over the Montenegrin incident was entirely natural, because the markets are wholly dominated by professional operators. The investing public is not present at all, and while the speculative account for the rise was not unwieldly, prices gave way quickly under a heavy attack by professional bears.

But this very fact also explained the recovery of prices yesterday, on the apparent improvement in the diplomatic situation; for the bears rushed in at once to buy back stocks.

Anyone who could be induced to predict the course of prices—and everyone hesitates to do so—would probably say that chances moderately favor short speculative turns for the rise. It is considered, for instance, that American stocks are intrinsically cheap, but no one would go ahead for other than quick profits, and the same judgment applies to almost al speculative shares.

Trade Is Active.

General trade is undoubtedly still active, but the rise in commodities, and the extravagant expenditure of nations and individuals keeps up the cost of living and leaves less than the usual margin for savings.

One broad consideration seems to cover the outlook for both European and American markets; namely, that the public is so completely alienated by the prolonged political strain that markets are wholly or mainly professional.

Furthermore, it is not believed that the volume of money awaiting investment here is abnormally large, so long as trade continues active.

Out of the several million pounds sterling in new securities issues during the past month, the general public has subscribed little; hence financial congestion, through accumulation in the hands of underwriters, is again threatened.

The Brazilian loan for £11,000,000 on Monday, and the possible Chinese loan for £25,000,000 later this month, also increase the uncertainty, while the Balkan war expenditures are still to be financed.

Consequently caution, though not alarming, is the attitude. The common remark is, that in whatever direction one looks, "bull factors" are negatived by certain drawbacks. Peace in Europe, for instance, would mean a stimulus to more large loans.

On your side, we believe that any improvement is politics, or a tendency towards a reviving appetite by your public may be offset by the heavy borrowing by your railroads.

Our own financial position is improving, through the ingathering of gold from South Africa; but so long as the Continental money stringency continues, the Bank of England will be slow to reduce its rate to 4 per cent.

Your borrowings here, as reflected by the amount of American bills offered for discount, is probably under the average. But the position is now so complicated by the offers of new short-term railway loans and renewals of old ones, that nobody is able to estimate confidently what the true position of your international balance is.

United Railways preferred stock showed some selling pressure at the session of the Stock Exchange yesterday, losing about ¾ of a point on transfers at $35.25 to $35.75 and closing with $34.75 bid. The common stocks and the bonds were neglected, although the quotation on the bonds was slightly lower.

The demand in the bank and trust list was quiet and prices showed only minor changes from the preceding session. The miscellaneous list was about steady on the issues mentioned. Bonds were irregular in the face of a light investment demand.

TOP PRICE CATTLE CHEAPER; LOWER GRADES STEADY

Steers and Butcher Stock Suffer Although Run Barely Equals Demand.

Receipts National Stock Yards.

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle	10,500	11,473	14,667
Hogs	45,000	46,461	53,447
Sheep	10,000	11,894	9,193
Horses and mules.	2,500	2,746	1,895

Receipts of native cattle were not quite so generous last week as compared to the previous period. However, the run of beef steers was fairly liberal and just enough were in each day to satisfy local demands. The opening session of the week was inaugurated with a mighty slow trade and under the weight of generous supplies throughout the West a weakness developed and steers on that day were quotably steady to 10c lower, the decline in spots reaching 15c. The following day sales were effected on a basis steady with the previous day's decline, but Wednesday found the heavyweights selling fully steady and lighter kinds a good dime higher. Nothing toppy was included in the week's offering, the best bringing $8.40. The bulk of heavies changed hands from $7.75@8.40 at all times during the week, with the lighter weights cleared in a range or $7.25@8.

Butcher cattle was no exception to the lowering of values and with a good supply on hand for Tuesday, values took a turn downward to the extent of 10@15c on the fair grades of heifers and a flat quarter on cows all down the line. Best heifers topped for the week at $8.65, but this was the one high spot touched and the best cleared in a range of $7.50@8.25.

Lower Grades Steady.

Cows sold no higher than $7.25 for the choice ones at any time.

Canners and cutters were from steady to no worse than a shade lower at all times during the week. Canners sold from $3.25@4.25 and cutters from $4.25@5.25.

Bulls showed steady values throughout the week.

Calves registered a slight gain, choice veals topped at $10.50 for the week. Yearlings were scarce and sold steady.

Receipts in the quarantine division were not quite so liberal as the previous period. Texas was again the prominent contributing factor, steers from that State forming the big end of the supply each day. The top was established in Wednesday when a string of medium weights sold for $7.75. Lighter and inferior grades sold from $6@7.40. A 14-car string on Wednesday sold for $7. The market on Texas beeves was steady at all times and values showed but little tendency to fluctuate.

The balance of the Southern cattle came from Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas and embraced the usual assortment of canners, cutters, and butcher cattle. Butcher cows in the "Q" division this week sold as high as $6.50. The market on Southern offerings aside from Texas contribution ruled from steady to strong throughout the week, with a fairly active trade.

With a good liberal supply of hogs on sale the first half of the week and but a fair supply the later half, there was no great changes in the market, but taken as a whole prices were on the lowest basis they have been for several weeks and averaged pretty close to $1 lower than the high time a few weeks ago. The best lights, weighing 170 to 220 lbs, bring the top of the market.

The top was $8.85 Monday and the bulk went at $8.60@8.75, but later in the week the top was down to $8.55 and the bulk went at $8.35@8.50, which about shows the loss during the week. Packers are in a very bearish mood most of the week and the plain grades suffered more than the better class of offerings. Rough sows and stags showed the greatest loss.

The middle and latter part of the week good heavy hogs went to the packers at $8.25@8.45, and the rough stags $8@8.25, and the rough sows $7.75@7.95. Best grade of lights, under 165 lbs, sold at $8.25@8.60 as a rule and the medium kinds went at $7.75@8.15. Best pigs weighing less than 125 lbs sold at $8@8.25, medium grades $7.35@7.85, fair offerings $6.50@7.25. Southern pigs and also hogs found an uneven dull market.

Sheep Have Good Week.

A right fair supply of sheep was received during the week and there was a much better representation of native offerings than any week this year. A good many lambs were received from Colorado and there was also a pretty fair sprinkling of spring lambs offered and they met with a strong demand and brought good prices. Taken as a while, there was little change in the market, but prices towards the close of the week were on a slightly better basis.

Best spring lambs sold at $9@11, medium grades $7@8.75, best wool lambs $8.40@9, clipped lambs $7.50@8, fair grades $6.50@7.25, and clipped Western yearlings $6.75@7.25. Clipped lambs are selling better proportionately than those that have not been clipped, and from now on all lambs should be clipped before sending to market.

Mutton sheep of good grade found a strong demand and brought $6.25@6.50 as a rule, with the plainer offerings at $6@6.25, and the culls and stockers $4@5.25. Bucks found a good market and clipped ones went at $5@5.25. Practically all of the bucks offered were clipped.

Bank Reserves Gain $809,000 on the Week.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The statement of the actual conditions of Clearing House banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $15,955,650 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $809,950 from last week.

The statement follows: Actual conditions—Loans $1,938,551,000, decrease $246,000; specie $337,874,000, increase $1,785,000; legal tenders $79,084,000, decrease $2,914,000; net deposits $1,778,415,000, decrease $7,953,000; circulation $46,589,000, increase $194,000; banks' cash reserve in vault, $351,764,000; trust companies' cash reserve in vault, $65,194,000; aggregate cash reserve, $416,958,000; excess lawful reserve $15,955,650, increase $809,950; trust companies' reserve with clearing house members carrying 25 per cent cash reserve, $55,985,000.

Summary of State banks and trust companies in Greater New York not included in clearing house statement—Loans $568,023,300, increase $1,985,800; specie $65,096,500, increase $368,700; legal tenders $8,132,000, decrease $201,800. Total deposits $643,781,800, increase $8,434,200.

Railroad Earnings.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The following railroad earnings were reported:

Missouri Pacific—Month of March: Gross $4,913,423, increase $624,264. From July 1 to March 31: Gross $47,568,420, increase $6,118,978.

Central Railroad of New Jersey—Month of March: Gross $2,327,031, increase $418,262. From July 1 to March 31: Gross $24,257,601, increase $1,164,331.

COTTON IRREGULAR, READJUSTMENT OF PRICES EXPECTED

Export Trade in Goods Market Has Not Developed and Conditions Are Slow.

The cotton market during the week has been marked by great irregularity. Especially has this been true of the future markets. In New York, May and July contracts have swapped levels continually, first one then the other selling at a slight premium. The certificated stock of cotton in New York is about 107,000 bales, and it is reported that the 60,000 or 70,000 bales that were received on notice day will be gone over for selection of such cotton as may be tenderable in Liverpool, and shipments made accordingly.

If this be so, a sharp reduction in the stock in New York will follow, as that market is not sufficiently high to attract cotton.

Some readjustment of differences has taken place since first tender day between May and July and the latter month is selling at a premium, not enough, however, to cover carrying charges, so the retendering of a lot of the more undesirable contracts is likely. Manipulation in the New York market has been constant. Considerable resistance is shown when the fall months near the 11-cent mark and sharp reactions are in order, as the weather is the dominent feature so far as those months are involved.

During the past week the weather has been good, barring the fact that temperatures have been a little too low. The higher temperature the last few days make conditions almost ideal. Acreage is likely to be increased slightly and in some localities sales of fertilizers are reported in larger volume than last year. The Texas crop is progressing satisfactorily.

Port Stocks Decreased.

There has been a marked increase in exports during the week and port stocks have decreased sharply, the receipts being less than half the amount shipped. The excellent trade that has been continuous for the past two years in Great Britain, but had begun to slacken, shows signs of reawakening. The stock of American cotton in Great Britain April 25 was 993,000 bales, compared with 1,256,000 the same date last year, while the American afloat was 125,000, compared with 184,000 last year, a difference of 322,000 bales against this year.

It is not in line with the policy of British spinners or dealers to allow their stocks to decline to a minimum, especially after a big decline in the market, such as we have just had, and they will probably be in the market from time to time to fill up gaps. Many buyers on this side are rounding up the season's business and preparing for their annual trips abroad and spinners will begin to look into their needs for the next season, at the same time buying for immediate use.

Th present price of cotton should prove attractive to those who have in the past successfully bought on a scale-down. Such mills are nearly always a little in advance of their competitors.

Goods Market Quiet.

In the cotton goods markets the export trade is reported at a standstill. No orders are coming from China or the Red Sea country and most buyers are holding off in the hope of still lower prices. In the domestic trade, business is quiet but more active than in the export. Considerable unrest about the Montenegrin affair has affected parts of Europe. It is unlikely that the market will feel the effect of this for a long period unless the parties in the dispute should come to open conflict.

In the spot markets prices are irregular so far as actual business is concerned, although quotations are generally in line. Sales are put through from time to time, but the demand is spasmodic and of an economical style. Spinners apparently are seeking cheap cotton instead of buying their exact needs. The preponderance of opinion in the markets, both spot and future, has been decidedly bearish and a great deal of offering and some selling has resulted at prices so low that the sellers cannot replace in cases where they owned the cotton outright and cannot buy in their commitments without loss, in cases where they went short of the market. This in itself is a condition to bring about sharp demand from time to time.

Holders of cotton have been generally in the primary markets and are inclined to hold a while longer now that they have sweated through a big decline. It has been pointed out that there is a difference between stocks in the hands of spinners and stocks in the hands of producers.

Prices are quoted about as follows in the principal markets of this country. In Galveston the market is quoted quiet; middling at 12¼c; New Orleans quiet, 12¼c; Mobile steady, 11⅞c; Savannah steady, 12c; Houston steady, 12⅛c; Memphis quiet, 12⅜c; St. Louis quiet, 12¼c; Augusta steady, 12c.

Missouri Wheat Crop Shows a Condition of 98.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 3.—Crop prospects in Missouri are particularly bright, according to the monthly State crop report, but livestock shows a decrease due to hog cholera. Wheat shows an increase over last month, according to T. C. Wilson, State Secretary.

Fruit crops all are excellent. Oats are good, but below the 10-year average. Forty-eight per cent of the corn land is plowed. One year ago but 26 per cent was plowed. A preliminary estimate fixes the acreage the same as last year or about 7,611,000 acres.

The high condition of wheat as reported a month ago shows an additional gain of 1.4 points, being 98 May 1. One year ago condition wos 65. Few unfavorable reports have been received. Chinch bugs have appeared in a few western border counties. The abandoned wheat acreage, caused mainly by overflows, is estimated at slightly more than 1 per cent. One year ago it was 26 per cent.

The oat crop has gone in late, it being estimated that only 96 per cent had been seeded by May 1. This is a 10 per cent better showing than a year ago. But is behind the 10-year average. Clover condition is 97, compared with 73, one year ago. Timothy is 94 now; 86 then. Alfalfa is 94 now, 74 then.

Eighteen per cent of last year's hay crop is still on the farms. Pastures are the best for a number of years. The fruit oulook is fine, and should be a record one. Peach prospects continue excedingly promising. Condition of general fruit crop is 95; peaches 94.

Livestock shows a decided decrease in numbers as compared with the normal. The loss is unusually heavy. This is especially true of communities where cholera has been bad.

Perfect weather in the winter wheat belt in Kansas and the Southwest, made for lower prices in futures the past week. Weaker cables, backed by expectations of early peace in the Balkans, helped the decline.

As far as the winter wheat yield is concerned, it now will be almost a miracle if the yield does not break all records. Seldom if ever has there been a spring more favorable than the present one, and one or two good rains is all the crop needs to complete its maturity.

Of course the yield may be reduced in localities by bug damage, drouth or wet harvests, but this is to be expected every year, especially as most of the damage is done on the speculative exchanges rather than by nature in the fields.

Kansas Crop a Bumper.

The recent favorable reports on the Kansas crop were followed during the week by the report of the Logan Grain Co. of Kansas City, which placed the yield in that State at 129,520,000 bu, against 91,000,000 bu last year, a record-breaking estimate on an acreage of 7,489,041 acres. The abandoned acreage was placed at 332,265 acres. The report said:

"These figures result from the averaged opinions of more than 800 grain men, millers and bankers, who have lived out in the State many years and are in closest touch with actual conditions and prospects. The present condition is 95.2 on the standing acreage, using 19 bu as 100 per cent. The indicated yield, on the 7,156,776 acres standing, is about 18.1 bushels per acre. There is sufficient moisture over all the western part of the State to take care of the growing plant until the middle of May. The big central belt, where the wheat is thickest on the ground, will need moisture before that time. The plant is earlier than usual over the large producing area. Our report issued May 28, a year ago, indicated 92,000,000 bu on a standing acreage of 5,863,000, and our estimate of the final yield, basis actual threshing returns last year, was 95,000,000 bu. We can lose 20 per cent of this year's prospective crop and still harvest more than 100,000,000 bu."

Other Conditions Good.

The Modern Miller report also indicated not only perfect conditions in Kansas and the Southwest, but chances for a record-breaking yield of wheat in the Central West and east of the Mississippi River, where the crop was a failure a year ago. This forecast said:

"Reports from the principal winter wheat growing states on the condition of the crop and the abandoned acreage on May 1, show there is a larger yield of winter wheat in prospect than was ever raised in this country before. The condition by states on May 1 was: Michigan 85, against 83 on April 1; Ohio 93, against 91; Indiana 93, against 91; Illinois 94, against 93; Missouri 95, against 93; Nebraska 94, against 92; Kansas 93, against 90; Oklahoma 95, against 94; Texas 86, against 88; Tennessee 94, against 93; Kentucky 93, against 92. The average condition in the United States is estimated at 92 per cent.

"The abandoned acreage is: Michigan 17,000 acres, Ohio 118,000, Indiana 66,000, Illinois 46,000, Missouri 47,000, Nebraska 32,000, Kansas 354,000, Oklahoma 35,000, Texas 15,000, Tennessee 7000, Kentucky 15,000. The abandoned acreage in the United States is estimated at 973,000 acres.

"The prospective yield of the principal winter wheat states is: Ohio, 34,484,000 bu; Indiana, 39,952,000; Illinois, 42,187,000; Missouri, 39,381,000; Nebraska, 62,120,000; Kansas, 118,378,000; Oklahoma, 29,515,000."

Statistics Mixed.

Statistical news was mixed. The European wheat visible decreased 3,936,000 bu for the week, against an increase last week of 2,816,000 bu and last year of 900,000 bu. The total now is 93,280,000 bu, against 97,216,000 bu last week and 94,700,000 bu last year.

Bradstreet's detailed showed:

Wheat United States and east of Rockies, decrease 2,548,000 bu; United States and west of Rockies, decrease 103,000 bu; Canada, decrease 9,719,000 bu; United States and Canada, decrease 12,370,000 bu; afloat and in Europe, decrease 4,000,000 bu; total decrease 16,370,000 bu. Corn decrease, 2,850,000 bu. Oats decrease, 1,191,000 bu.

Receipts Are Heavy.

Receipts of wheat since July 1 have been 132,000,000 bu more than same period in the preceding year. Exports July 1 to April 1 increased only 45,000,000 bu. Our visible supply is only 7,000,000 bu larger than a year ago. This shows that domestic distribution this year has taken care of 80,000,000 bu more of wheat up to date from this crop than it did from the preceding crop. It is evident that our domestic consumption of wheat is increasing faster than population, and with the advancing prices of meat and other food products, there is a natural tendency to use more flour because it is the cheapest form of food. This increased domestic use of wheat will have to be reckoned with as a permanent factor in our domestic supply and distribution.

The domestic wheat visible decreased 2,172,000 bu for the week, corn 3,635,000 bu, oats 952,000 bu.

The total visible shows:

	Today.	Last Year.
Wheat	50,823,000	42,843,000
Corn	1,445,000	2,012,000
Oats	12,482,000	11,997,000

Corn, dec.	4,338,000	Dec. 2,574,000
Oats, dec.	1,114,000	Dec. 2,000

Bradstreet's exports showed:

	Wheat and Flour.	Corn.
This week	2,628,000	271,000
Last week	3,494,000	1,125,000
Last year	3,543,000	[illegible]
Two years ago	1,944,000	275,000

Shipments wheat and flour July 1 to date, 197,695,000, same period year ago, 136,824,000.

Shipments corn July 1 to date, 37,695,000; same period year ago, 23,611,000.

Trade in corn futures was irregular. The fine weather makes for less consumption, and there has been considerable liquidation in the May delivery since the first of the month. Stocks are not cumbersome, but there is lots of grain in first hands, and the trade continues bearish.

Oats were influenced by favorable crop reports and showed an irregular price range on light speculative offers.

SHABBY CLERK, 'SPORT' OUTSIDE, GONE, SHORT $8000

Attachment of Man's Home and Boat Reveals He Was Proverb of Frugality in Office, but on River He Was Sportsman, Paying Engineer $76 a Month.

FOR 10 YEARS WAS TRUSTED EMPLOYE

W. S. Ferguson, Whose Pay Was $150 a Month, Told Wife He Got $250 and $60 or $70 a Week From an Uncle's Estate.

An investigation following the disappearance of William S. Ferguson of 3527 Henrietta street, together with a suit filed in the Circuit Court attaching his residence and his crack 45-foot motor boat, has revealed a remarkable double financial standard in his life.

At the offices of the National Druggist publication in the Century Building, where he was employed as bookkeeper, his fellow workmen regarded him as the most parsimonious of men. They jeered at his economical habit of wearing the same pair of shoes for two years, eking out the existence of the footwear by half-soles and patches.

He became among them a proverb of frugality because he paid the minimum for his clothes and compelled them to garb him for four or five seasons, irrespective of changes in style. He did not smoke or drink.

Because of his thrift, he was so much trusted by his employer, Henry R. Strong, owner and publisher of the National Druggist, that he advanced Ferguson during his 12 years of employment to head bookkeeper and raised his salary to $150 a month.

At his home, according to a statement Strong says Mrs. Ferguson made to him, his wife believed her husband was a highly paid confidential clerk, who enjoyed, besides, an income of $60 or $70 a week from the estate of an uncle in Iowa. Ferguson told her, Strong says she informed him, that his salary was $250 a month.

Sportsman on the River.

But on the river front the shabby bookkeeper and the prospering husband blossomed into a sportsman of lavish taste. As owner of the "Allamagee II," an inland speed yacht, which cost $8000 and which showed her heels to all rivals of her class in the regatta at Peoria in 1909, Ferguson was accepted as one of themselves by wealthy men who follow motor boat racing as a hobby. The salary which he paid his engineer, according to Strong, was $75 a month, or half his own wages at the National Druggist.

A discrepancy of $8000 in the books which Ferguson kept, has been found by an expert accountant, according to Strong. The examination will be continued through the records of the 10 years of his employment.

About two weeks ago, Strong related, it occurred to him that he should have more money in the bank than his account showed. He called the head bookkeeper before him. He asked whether his account should not be larger, and whether there were not debts outstanding which should be collected.

"I don't know. I guess not," Ferguson replied, shrugging his shoulders.

Strong accepted the statement and dismissed the subject from his mind. But a week ago yesterday, when he was preparing to take his little son to the ball game, his doubts suddenly reappeared with such force that he made an excuse to the boy and returned to his office. All the employes had taken their Saturday half-holiday and he was alone.

Found Figures Manipulated.

He took out the firm's books, some of which he had not examined for years, contenting himself with inspecting only the ledger, and in a few minutes discovered, he declares, that one balance had been struck by manipulating the figures to the extent of $1000. Still he took no action.

Strong says that last Monday morning, before his arrival, other employes told him, Ferguson entered and went to the vault in which the books were kept. A glance informed him that some one had handled them since he put them away Saturday. Without a word, he thrust some papers in his pocket, put on his coat and hat and walked out of the office.

He went to the National Bank of Commerce, Strong said he learned, and drew $500 from his personal account, exhausting it except for a few dollars. The publisher believes Ferguson left the city.

Mrs. Ferguson went to the office, Strong continued, to inquire concerning the whereabouts of her husband. She said she had not seen him since he started to work Monday morning, and that he did not hint that he would not return. She had scarcely a cent, she stated.

Mrs. Ferguson, her eyes red as if

WOMAN DISGUISED 50 YEARS AS MAN

Served in Civil War and Her Masquerade Is Discovered in Soldiers' Home.

QUINCY, Ill., May 4.—To go masquerading as a man for over 50 years without detection is the record of a woman inmate of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in this city, who is enrolled under the name of "Albert O. J. Cashier." The woman adopted the garb of man before the Civil War, in which she fought for 3 years and has masqueraded as a man since.

The woman, known as Cashier, has been a member of the Soldiers home for nearly two years. Her masquerade became known to the authorities of the home a few months ago. So far they have been unable to learn her identity.

Her secret became known to several individuals two years ago when she was run over by an automobile owned by Ex-Senator J. M. Lish in Livingston County. Her leg was broken at that time, but Lish, by whom she was employed as a chauffeur, did not betray her long guarded identity.

The woman soldier is a native of Ireland and claims to have come to this country shortly before the Civil War broke out. She donned boy's clothing and obtained passage across the Atlantic as a stowaway.

When the struggle between the North and South came on, she enlisted as a member of Company G, Fifty-ninth Illinois infantry and served three years in the war. When her company was mustered out the records show that there were only 30 survivors. From surviving members of the company, Co. O. J. Anderson, Superintendent of the home, has learned that she was a fearless soldier.

PRESIDENT GOES WITH CROWDS TO MONUMENT

Rides Up 553 Feet in Elevator With 25 Other Sightseers and Stays Several Minutes.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—President Wilson took a whole holiday today. He arrived in Washington from New Jersey early this morning. After reading some dispatches from Secretary of State Bryan, the President informed Secretary Tumulty he would not receive any callers.

At 10 o'clock the President, accompanied by Joe Murphy, secret service operative, walked to the Washington Monument. The President expressed a wish to go to the top of the monument, 553 feet. At the time there were several hundred sightseers waiting their turn to enter the hydraulic lift which runs to the top. A word to the monument keeper was sufficient to slip the President into the lift with about 25 other sightseers. He remained in the monument several minutes. He came down with a car full of other monument visitors.

President Taft visited the monument, but he went when it was closed to visitors.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR'S COSTUME IS AUDIBLE

Count Von Bernstorff Wears Suit With Checks Half an Inch Square at the Horse Show.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—There was one costume which no one at the horse show failed to see today. It was not worn by a woman, either. It bedecked the form of Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador. Here are the plans and specifications:

Suit of black and white checks, each check about half an inch square.

Shirt of white silk with bands of hand-embroidered, brilliant red silk dingbats running around the edges of the cuffs and up and down the bosom.

Socks of silk to match in shade the hand embroidery; voluminous silk tie to match both socks and embroidery; big panama hat girded by a sash to match the embroidery, socks and tie; white buckskin shoes.

Official forecast for St. Louis and vicinity: Thunderstorms and cooler Sunday; Monday unsettled.

Has Gov. Johnson recognized China?
MAY 4. 13

"This is just like heaven," chirped the philanthropist as he stood on the golf links.

"This is near enough to heaven for me," he remarked when he saw the interior of the Odeon.

"How like heaven this is!" he exclaimed in Shaw's Garden. And—

"Why sigh for heaven when you can have this?" he demanded as he boarded his parlor car to go home.

And everyone knew that he knew whereof he spoke. For has he not been an "angel" for lo, these many years?

Missouri—Showers and thunderstorms Sunday; cooler in east portion; Monday, fair in west, unsettled in east portion.

Illinois—Showers and thunderstorms and cooler Sunday; Monday unsettled; moderate variable winds.

SUFFRAGE HOST OF 20,000 MARCHES TO MARSEILLAISE

Great Army of Women Brave Sun and Throngs in Streets of New York City.

ALL CLASSES IN LINE

Miss Inez Milholland and "General" Rosalie Jones Are Prominent Among the Leaders.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The army of woman suffrage marched up Fifth avenue today, 20,000 strong, to the martial music of the Marseillaise, blared from 40 bands. In uniforms of white, gleaming with yellow streamers, they paraded in the heat of mid-summer sun for three miles, from Washington Square to Fifty-ninth street. A forest of yellow banners appealed for "Votes for Women" to an unbroken wall of spectators estimated at a quarter of a million.

Inez Milholland, riding astride a mettlesome chestnut cob, directly behind an escort of mounted police, led the marchers. Behind her walked eight girls in blue with silken flags; after them came two women in yellow with the suffrage map and its nine "yellow" states. And then came the long line of the rank and file, marching resolutely, smiling for the "cause."

All Conditions in Line.

Women with snow-white hair, children not out of rompers; girls from Sweden, women from New Zealand, negroes from the Northern states, cow girls from Oklahoma, newsboys from the East Side, Wall street brokers—these and the artisans of many trades and callings marched in unbroken lines, eight abreast, disbanding finally at the Fifty-ninth street plaza to overflow into two great mass meetings.

The women's political union, thousands strong and broken into many detachments, was in the forefront of the line. Their banners bore many notices. Some of them were:

"More ballots; less bullets."

"One sex bears arms, the other soldiers."

"Peace and persuasion."

"Getting there after fighting 40 years."

"Pioneers against the white slave traffic."

"Let the people rule."

"Women are people."

Throughout the line there was borne aloft on banners the roll of women who have achieved great things.

Boy Scouts Furnish Music.

"Gen." Rosalie Jones and her little band of pilgrims that blazed the suffrage way from New York to Washington were there, too, clad in their marching togs, and heralded by a brass band of boy scouts. Then followed teachers, students, sculptors, decorators, social workers and musicians.

When the latter came abreast the reviewing stand they wheeled, a dark-haired girl of 16 stepped from their ranks and blew on her bugle a bar of stirring music. Stopped by the maneuver, the line behind marked time while the little group sang the Marseilles amid a thunder of applause.

Bookkeepers, stenographers, milliners, dressmakers and white goods workers—bearing their motto, "In Union There Is Strength," came next. Then followed the army of the Political Equality Association, aged white women.

New York State Suffrage Association flaunted "Victory in 1915" from its banner; the New Jersey association, "Victory in 1914."

Greek, Jewish, Italian and Syrian societies for suffrage came next.

Toward the end of the line marched 47 girls carrying an outspread yellow flag, nine-starred, upon which were showered thousands of coins, Brooklyn poured its thousands next. Then came the college women, more than a thousand strong, whose standards proclaimed them from Vassar, Wellesly, Smith, Barnard, Bryn Mawr, New York University, Radcliffe, Adelphi, Cornell and many other universities.

Coins Break Up Ranks.

The men followed and after them came the newsboys. Somebody tossed a coin among the boys at Forty-second street. True to instinct they broke ranks and scrambled for it. Then came a shower of coins and a two-minute block of the parade till the marshals could untangle the struggling arms and legs.

Last came the other states where the campaign is now in the thick, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maryland. And last of all was Ohio—a solitary marcher bearing aloft a crepe wrapped legend: "Ohio. Where woman by perjury may be ruined. She has no voice in the judges' election. She has no voice in their impeachment. Ohio needs recall of judges. Ohio needs votes for women."

What Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch called the "Benediction of the March" was the meeting at Carnegie Hall.

Dean Sumner of the Cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul at Chicago, spoke on "The Dawning Consciousness of Women Sex Loyalty."

BOY KILLS HIS FATHER

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 3.—James Ferres, a bottler, 16 years old, stabbed his father, John Ferres, 45, in the throat tonight. Ferres died in a few seconds.

The boy had saved some money and wanted to buy a bicycle. When his father remonstrated a quarrel ensued. The boy is under arrest.

JORDAN SPEAKS ON WAR

Chicago Minister, Who Takes Bryan's Place, Enthuses His Hearers.

A new Fourth of July, in which firecrackers shall give way to garlands of flowers, and in which new citizens shall be consecrated to their civic duties, was suggested in an address delivered at the closing session of the Fourth American Peace Congress, in the Odeon last night, by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Tex., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Pennybacker's address was upon "Peace Pageants," and she declared that display, form and ceremony belonged to peace as well as to war. She told how, when on her way to St. Louis Wednesday, she had bought a copy of the Post-Dispatch and had seen a half-page reproduction of the great painting, "The Price of War." She said no stronger work for peace could be done than spreading broadcast such pictures.

She told how the recent inaugural parade at Washington was a military display, suggesting the return of a war hero, and said that in future parades, while soldiers need not be banished so long as the nation continues to employ them, there should also be farmers, mechanics, artists and students.

Flowers for July 4.

The present method of celebrating July 4, she declared, is a travesty. She suggested, in a strain of poetic description, that children form flower processions at school buildings, and march to some central public building, and that the places of honor in the celebration be given to the young men who have, within the year, attained the age of 21. To them, she said, speeches should be made, and a civic oath, in which peace should play a part, should be administered to them.

Under such circumstances, she said, the day might come when the young man, on the eve of casting his first vote, would feel as did the candidate for knighthood in olden times, who spent the night in a "vigil at arms" of fasting and prayer.

Mrs. Pennybacker's address was one of four speeches, all of considerable length and all of unusual eloquence. The other speakers were David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University, who told of "The Waste of War;" the Rev. Thomas E. Green of Chicago, who displayed great oratorical ability in his speech, an hour and a half in length, and Senor F. A. Pezet, Peruvian Ambassador. The Rev. Mr. Green had William J. Bryan's place on the program.

Andrew Carnegie, most notable figure at previous sessions of the congress, departed at noon Saturday for New York and will confer there this afternoon with English and Canadian delegates to the observance of the Anglo-American peace centenary.

Audience Is Enthused.

At the close of the Rev. Mr. Green's address there was a demonstration of enthusiasm lasting for several minutes. At no time, though the address was long and the well-filled hall was warm, did the audience grow uneasy. And when Senor Pezet finished his speech the audience stood up and waved hats and handkerchiefs, although he had criticised Americans for their lack of knowledge about South America and their attitude toward its people.

"You don't study our history," he said, "though we teach your history to all our children. You overlook our virtues and magnify our faults. You call us lazy and indolent, and your literature sets about deliberately to foster this false impression.

"We are pictured as devoid of the capacity for nation-building. Your people, when they come to see us, hardly hide their feeling of superiority and contempt. This must be changed. Peace must be based on mutual trust."

The Rev. Mr. Green told of the cost and waste of war, and urged that the United States should take the lead in stopping warlike activity, predicting that the world would gladly follow such an example.

Dr. Jordan declared that "the deferred war debt, the malignant device of Pitt a little more than a century ago, has become the overshadowing danger of national life. France unwillingly, and the United States with joyous recklessness, are swept on the same path.

"All seem possessed with the belief, once true, that all peoples are watching to pounce upon the nation which leaves itself unarmed. The great illusion remains that such invasions would be profitable, with the further illusion that they would be even possible."

He said that in six leading European nations the war debt was more than one-tenth the entire wealth.

Peace Platform Adopted.

The peace platform, the result of the deliberations of the Fourth American Peace Congress, was adopted by the congress yesterday. It contained a definite program for the guidance of the United States Government in the arbitration and Panama tolls questions, and urged

RUSTY CASKET IS FOUND ON PART OF SUBLETTE ESTATE

Boys on Dago Hill Uncover Bones, Recalling Litigation for $1,000,000.

Three boys were at play on "Dago Hill" yesterday afternoon when one of them chanced to kick a rod of iron protruding from the ground. Investigating with juvenile curiosity, they uncovered a casket decayed and rusty. The boys notified the police and when the casket was opened water and human bones were found.

The place where the casket was found is part of the old Sublette estate which has been in litigation in the St. Louis courts for 18 years. The value of the estate is about $1,000,000.

The finding of the body gave rise to a theory that it might be that of Pinckney W. Sublette, although there appeared to be no more basis for the supposition than that the burial ground is on the old Sublette property, and there has always been a mystery as to the location of his last resting place.

For years a collection of bones, alleged by some of the heirs to be from the skeleton of Pinckney W. Sublette, a trapper, and brother of Solomon P. Sublette, who got the bulk of the estate on the death of their father, Phillip Sublette, have been kept in the basement of the courthouse and have been used as exhibits in trials of various suits brought by heirs.

These bones were brought to St. Louis by former Probate Judge Thomas B. Crews, who found them under a rude tombstone on the banks of the Fontonelle Creek in Wyoming, with the initials "P. W. S.," and the lettering, "Died—1865." One court decided against Judge Crews' clients.

PREACHER IS FOUND DEAD

When Gustave Bruck and members of his family returned to their home, 5030 Delmar avenue, shortly before midnight last night, they saw a light burning in the room of his father, the Rev. Rudolph Bruck, 82 years old.

To their knocking there was no reply. Entering the room, Bruck found his father lying on the floor dead. In falling he had struck his head against the corner of a bedpost. A physician gave the infirmities of age as the cause of death. Relatives said that Bruck retired from the ministry many years ago, his last charge having been at Austin, Tex.

BULL PUP SUPPLIES EVIDENCE OF BIG FREIGHT ROBBERY

Danville Animal Found Chewing Shoes Which Lead to Arrest of Man in Chicago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 3.—A bull pup owned by John Bisdee, Big Four telegraph operator here, was the means of unearthing a big freight robbery after bloodhounds, detectives and railway specials had failed.

The pup was found chewing a brand new tan shoe in the front yard of Bisdee's home last Sunday. The shoe was taken away from the animal. Thursday the pup had another new tan shoe of different size from the first. Bisdee had heard of the freight yard robbery and notified detectives. Friday morning Chief Walker arrested George Johnson at the home of his mother-in-law in Chicago, on a charge of robbing a department store here last Sunday morning.

Johnson had a pair of tan shoes and they were found to be of the same make as those found by the bull pup. A search of his brother's premises disclosed thousands of dollars' worth of loot, most of which was taken from freight cars. Johnson admits that he lost the shoes found by the pup, but claims that he purchased the two pairs from a stranger.

Police are seeking his brother, who has not been seen since last Sunday night. Bloodhounds called to trace the department store robbers were unable to do anything because cayenne pepper had been scattered about the premises.

3 GIRLS AND 3 BOYS DROWN IN LEAKY BOAT

Overloaded Skiff Sinks at Cambridge and Only Two of Occupants Are Saved.

BOSTON, May 3.—When an overloaded rowboat sprang a leak in the Charles River and sank tonight, six of its occupants, three girls and three boys, all of Cambridge, were drowned. Two other boys, the only ones in the party able to swim, were saved.

Seamen's Servitude Bill Reintroduced

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The seaman's servitude bill, upon which former President Taft exercised a pocket veto on the last day of his term, was reintroduced today in the House.

ALTON BOOTBLACK, IN BALKAN BATTLE, TAKES TURKS' FLAG

Daring Exploit of Young Greek Who Went Back to Fight Described in Letter.

The love for the heroes of Homer and Thucydides in classic Greek literature which raised Thomas Kalends from a bootblack in an Alton barber shop to an instructor in the Greek language at Shurtleff College, has made him a hero in the Balkan war.

A letter received from him in Alton yesterday told how he had been swept in the advance of a charge on an Ottoman redoubt and had captured a flag after slaying the Turkish standard bearer.

The letter was received by his uncle, John Venardos. It was written on the night of the battle and was mailed in the city of Filipides in Greece. It ran, as translated by Venardos:

"On March 15 we were given a command to attack the stronghold of Bezani. While we were in the front ranks the Turks opened a terrible fire. The commander ordered us to remain still until the rest of the regiment came up.

"At 6 o'clock at night there was a storm of hail and wind. It was cold. The Twenty-first Infantry, which I was in, got a signal to advance against a hill 800 feet high on which the fortress was. We advanced under the shadow of a heavy fire.

"Several of us jumped the trenches. I was the first man over. I killed a color bearer and captured his flag. Then I shouted: 'Come on, boys, the battle's won!'

"The commander praised me and said: 'My brave boy!' We captured the fortress in 12 hours of night and rain."

Kalends, who is 21 years old, was bootblack in a barber shop in which Prof. D. H. Ray, head of the Greek Department of Shurtleff College, often was shaved. He became interested in the youth on discovering that he could repeat hundreds of lines of Homer and long passages from Demosthenes and other Greek authors.

Prof. Ray took Kalends to his classes to teach the students the correct pronunciation of Greek, and finally made him an instructor on the faculty.

Mercury Goes to 88 in New York.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The mercury touched 88 degrees here today, one degree higher than yesterday. It was the warmest weather New York has felt during the first week of May for 44 years. There were two prostrations. Straw hats dotted the streets like dandelions on dark green lawns.

BRYAN APPEALS FOR REFERENDUM, THEN STARTS HOME

Senate Having Passed Anti-Japanese Measure, 36 to 2, Secretary Addresses California Legislature, Expressing Hope People Will Pass on It.

Lower House Hears President's Spokesman, Then Late at Night Passes Measure — Business Men Threaten a Referendum.

Bill Permits Only Those Aliens Eligible to Citizenship to Own Land and It Allows Leases of Real Estate for Three Years.

By Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May. 3.—Defeated in his diplomatic effort to dissuade the California Legislature from enacting an alien land law affecting the Japanese, Secretary of State Bryan declared this afternoon that he looked to the people of the State to express a final judgment through the referendum, before the act shall go into effect.

Bryan's statement was made before a joint open meeting of the Senate and Assembly immediately before his departure for Washington. The Assembly, which was even then in the midst of its debate on the land bill, passed late last night by the Senate, paused for half an hour to hear him, and then took up its work of following the Senate's lead.

The Bloodgood bill, which is identical with the Webb bill which passed the Senate Friday night, passed the Assembly late tonight, and now goes to Gov. Johnson for his signature.

The procedure in the Lower House today was almost identical with that which the Administration leaders in the Senate adopted yesterday. On the one side, the Democrats offered substitute resolutions, all seeking to delay action, and on the other side, the Progressive majority stood for voting down every suggestion.

The anti-Japanese bill was passed by the Senate by a vote of 36 to 2, the only negative votes being cast by Senators Cartwright, Democrat, and Wright, Republican.

20,000 Signatures Required.

Apparently the only contingency that can arise to prevent the carrying out of the provisions of the bills within approxmiately 90 days is the threatened referendum petition, which would require 20,000 signatures before the law could be nuulified temporarily pending an election. The matter could not be submitted to the people until the fall of 1914—a delay of 19 months—in case the proposed referendum petition gains enough signatures.

Early in the session representatives of the board of directors of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco intimated to the Legislature that the board might foster a movement to invoke the referendum against any anti-alien bill that might be passed. Recently the exposition company has been joined by several commercial and trade bodies in the larger cities, who fear Japan will levy reprisals upon California by abrogating present business relationships.

Provisions of the Bill.

The principal provisions of the bill are:

1. Aliens eligible to citizenship may acquire and hold land to same extent as citizens.
2. All other aliens are limited to the specific rights conferred upon them by the existing treaties between the United States and the nations of which such aliens are citizens or subjects. In the case of the Japanese, the bill prohibits ownership of farming or agricultural lands, while permitting them to own residences and factories, and shops.
3. Leases of agricultural lands by such aliens are permitted for a period of not exceeding three years and there is a question as to whether renewals would be lawful.

Bryan Addresses Legislature.

To an open joint session of the two Houses, attended by the Governor, Secretary Bryan this afternoon gave renewed assurances of the friendly interest and co-operative attitude of the National Administration toward the peculiar problems of California, transmitting the President's latest criticism of the alien land act, and repeating those objections already made public.

In reply, Senator Gates, speaking for the State, said:

"This Legislature appreciates the honor that has been done to this State by the visit of the Secretary of State. We realize that his coming to co-operate with us marks an era in American politics. It brings the Federal Government into close touch with the individual states.

"On the part of the Legislature, I wish to express our appreciation and gratitude for the interest taken by the Government in a problem confronting the State of California, and to assure the President, that, even if we may differ with him, we do it with the profoundest spirit for his opinions and those of the Secretary State. And if we feel impelled to depart from that advice, we do it with respect for that advice.

"I propose and desire on the part of this Legislature to thank the President and his secretary for their assistance and I express the hope that this visit may be a forerunner of further activity by the national Government in assisting the States in their work."

Secretary Bryan in his address voiced the President's opinion that the words "eligible to citizenship," substituted in the California Attorney-General's re-draft of the alien land measure for the words "ineligible to citizenship," are equally discriminatory and therefore equally objectionable to Japan.

Urges Limit on Operation.

If a law must pass, he urged that it be limited in its operation to two years in order that meanwhile diplomacy might so improve the international situation that re-enactment by the next Legislature would be unnecessary. This suggestion, which had not yet reached the President, he said, was made "for the consideration of those who have yet to act upon the subject."

Secretary Bryan said in part:

"As I am departing this afternoon for Washington, I deem it proper that I should say a final word to you. My coming at the President's request upon the mission that brought me was unusual and yet in the President's opinion not only right in principle, but wise in policy. It was in keeping with his own course in appearing in person to deliver a message to Congress.

"I need not recount the experiences through which we have passed. The Legislature, in so far as it has acted, has found it inconsistent with its view of its responsibilities to follow the President's advice in the wording of the law which it recognizes as its duty to enact. While I shall not attempt to form a judgment as to the action of the Assembly on this subject, I have so fully presented the President's views that I do not deem a longer stay necessary. On the contrary, I feel that I can be more useful at Washington when the President has before him the bill, as it reaches the Governor, if it shall finally pass the Assembly.

"I cannot, however, take my departure without giving expression to my appreciation of the spirit in which, as a representative of the President, I have been received and of the courtesies that have been shown me.

"The amity that has characterized out intercourse is in keeping, I think, with the course that should be pursued by those who, acting under a sense of responsibility about matters in which they are jointly concerned, are unable to agree upon means to be employed for reaching the end in view. The President has impressed upon me at all times that I should emphasize the fact that his only purpose is to confer with the Legislature as to the national and international phases of the question under consideration, and that he confers as a not unsympathetic friend who desires to aid to the extent of his ability in a matter where he has not only a constitutional duty to perform, but where he may be assumed to be able to judge of the effect of legislation upon our relations with other countries.

Words That Are Objected To.

"He has pointed out the things which seem to him unwise in the bill that has passed the Senate. The first words to which he calls attention are 'eligible to citizenship,' which are as clearly discriminating as the words 'ineligible to citizenship,' against which he so earnestly advises. In the second paragraph the property rights of those therein described are as they are defined in the treaty. He fears that this will raise a question of construction and involve the subject in a lawsuit that may be both irritating and protracted.

"I have submitted to him the suggestion, but owing to his absence from Washington at this time have been unable to procure an answer, that a time limit upon any bill which you pass might reduce to a minimum the unfavorable influence it exerts, if that influence is unfavorable. If, for instance, any bill that you pass dealing with the subject is limited in its operations to two years, or even four years, but two years would give opportunity for the next Legislature to act upon the subject, it would afford an opportunity for diplomatic effort with the hope that the situation could be so improved as to make a re-enactment of the law unnecessary.

"Assuming that the people of California would be satisfied to reach the end which they desire by methods which will cause the least friction between this and other nations, this suggestion is made for the consideration of those who have yet to act upon the subject.

"If the Legislature is willing to avoid the use of the worls 'eligible to citizenship' or 'ineligible to citizenship' I am authorized to suggest that the line might be drawn at another point, namely, between those whose right to own land is not defined by treaty, the former to be allowed to own according to the terms of the treaty and the latter to be allowed to hold on the same terms that citizens of the United States hold land. But the President desires to keep before you at all times the fact that he would prefer, if consistent with your views of the state's interests, to have all action deferred for a time sufficient to permit him to employ diplomatic means."

Bryan Thanks Californians

In summing up, Secretary Bryan rehearsed the objections and suggestions of the President already made public and concluded:

"Having performed the duty imposed upon me by the Chief Executive of the nation, my work is done. You have listened patiently and courteously and now the responsibility rests upon you to do what you deem necessary, recognizing, as you doubtless do, that you act not only as the representatives of the State dealing with lands lying within the State, but as the representatives of a State occupying a position among her sister states, and sharing with them an interest in and responsibility for international relations.

"You are fortunate in this State in having the initiative and referendum. The initiative spurs you on to do that which you believe your people want done, while the referendum empowers those for whom you speak to put their vote upon your acts if you fail to reflect their wishes. It may be assumed, therefore, that if you feel it your duty to enact any legislation on this subject at this time, your people will either manifest their approval by acquiescence or their disapproval by submitting your action to the judgment of the voters by means of referendum.

"I leave you with renewed assurances of the President's friendly concern in the subject with which you are dealing and of my appreciation of the kind reception which you have accorded me as his spokesman."

The passage of the alien land law in spite of the softening clause permitting the leases to ineligible foreigners is regarded by Gov. Johnson as a great victory for the people of the State.

"We have done the big thing," said the Governor today. "When this bill has passed the Assembly, we shall have made it impossible for aliens who are ineligible to citizenship to get a foothold on California land.

"As for leases, I may say that every bill that has been considered seriously has contained a clause authorizing leases."

Basis of Japanese Protest.

The protests of Japan against the California alien land legislation is based on Article 1 of the treaty proclaimed April 5, 1911, which is as follows:

> Article 1. The citizens or subjects of each of the high contracting parties shall have liberty to enter, travel and reside in the territories of the other, to carry on trade, wholesale and retail, to own or lease, and occupy houses, manufacturies, warehouses and shops, and to employ agents of their choice, to lease land for residential and commercial purposes and generally do anything incident to or necessary for the trade upon the same terms as native citizens or subjects, submitting themselves to the laws and regulations there established. * * *

The paragraph does not specifically entitle the Japanese to own land, but the Japanese contend the treaty would be violated by a law which specifically prohibits them or other aliens, ineligible to citizenship, from owning land.

According to the Japanese reading of the treaty the privilege of owning land is accorded to them under the paragraph quoted.

APPEAL OPEN TO ALIEN WITH LAND

Marshall Points Out Realty Ownership Might Open Citizenship Question.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Talking to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, regarding the California Japanese situation, Vice-President Marshall said tonight:

"I was asked for my opinion on the legal phase of the California controversy by an Indiana newspaper correspondent and I told him that I did not know anything about the Japanese treaty, but did know that treaty obligations take precedence over state laws.

"I said that I had not had time to examine into the matter carefully, but it is my recollection that there has been no appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States on a state's refusal to naturalize Orientals.

"I added that, while it is none of my business, if I were in California and did not want the Orientals to become citizens, I would scrutinize very carefully any legislation as to real estate, because that might open the question of citizenship before the United States Supreme Court..

"I hope that what I say will have nothing to do with the negotiations now going on, for I am speaking only of the legal whase of the matter."

What Marshall had in mind, is that an alien, if turned down when he applies for naturalization papers, cannot appeal to the Supreme Court, but if he has land—real estate of any kind—he always has a right to appeal to the Supreme Court of the land. The California law, if it permits the owning of real estate, would give the Oriental a right to appeal to the Supreme Court if his application for naturalization is not acted upon favorably.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

with weeping, appeared at the door of her home last night when a Post-Dispatch reporter rang. MURDERER OF 75 IS SLAIN

BELIZE, British Honduras, May 3.—Policemen who today ambushed and killed "the monster of the tropics," Elentaria Hernandez, are entitled to a reward of $100,000 which the Government offered for the dead body of Hernandez.

He was called monster because, according to police records, he committed 75 murders.

Peace Congress Adopts Platform for World Reform

the Legislature of California to be reasonable.

Benjamin F. Trueblood was chairman of the committee which prepared the document.

1. The platform records the sincere satisfaction of the Congress at the substantial progress that has been made by the movement for world peace since the meeting of the Third Congress at Baltimore two years ago.

2. It particularly expressed its high appreciation of the unique services to the cause of international arbitration rendered by former President Taft in negotiating the treaties with Great Britain and France. These treaties constitute the high-water mark of the arbitration movement on its practical side up to the present time, and the Congress records its deep regret that they were not ratified by the Senate with their full significance preserved.

Recognizes Public Sentiment.

3. Not less significant, the Peace Congress recognizes the noteworthy enlargement and deepening of public sentiment on the part of nearly all classes throughout the country in favor of pacific settlement of all international controversies, as evidenced by the immense number of letters and memorials received by Senators during the discussion of the arbitration treaties.

4. The Congress rejoices in the failure of the military pay bill to become law and urges the people of the nation to be on their guard against allowing any such system to be established as will ultimately fasten on the nation a great and burdensome military establishment, like those of the old world, for which our great country has no need.

5.—The Congress congratulates the country on the failure for two years in succession of the two battleship program, believing that the nation is so completely protected by its geographical situation, the great strength of its people and the universal friendship of the other nations that it does not need to go any further in naval rivalry with other powers.

6. The Congress respectfully urges upon the President of the United States the initiation at the earliest practicable date of negotiations for an international agreement for not only the arrest of the current naval and military rivalry, but also of the simultaneous reduction of armament, that the peoples may be relieved from the heavy and exhausting burdens of taxation, under which they are now suffering.

Wilson-Bryan Plan Pleases.

7. The congress has learned with much pleasure of the plan which President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have just announced for securing treaties of unrestricted arbitration with not only Great Britain and France, but also with Germany and the other Powers, and for the investigation by a commission of inquiry of the facts of any dispute which either of the parties may not consider proper for arbitration, before any steps are taken toward hostilities.

"We call upon all friends of peace to guard against the insidious effort to extend military training in the schools and to make naval recruiting stations of their colleges and universities.

8. As it is expected that the third Hague conference will assemble in 1915, the Congress respectfully requests the President to appoint without delay a committee of not less than five persons especially fitted by ability and international experience for the task, to consider what proposals the United States shall present for the program of their Hague conferences.

9. It is the judgment of this Congress that the difference which has arisen between the Governments of the United States and Great Britain over the question of Panama tolls should be disposed of by the prompt repeal by Congress of the provision in the canal act for the exemption of vessels engaged in coastwise trade from the payment of tolls. Failing this, the controversy should be submitted without delay to the Hague Court for arbitration.

The California Trouble.

10. The congress makes an earnest appeal to the Legislature and people of California and to the national administration at Washington to secure such just and impartial settlement of the question of alien ownership of land in the State of California as may not discriminate against the citizens of a great and friendly Power, and turn a long-standing, historic friendship into enmity and friction for the future.

11. This Congress recognizes the vast importance to the cause of good will and peace between nations and races of early education in the principles of international justice and morality, the interdependence of peoples and races and the co-operation of the nations for the promotion of the common good of humanity. It commends the aim and work of the Intercollegiate Peace Association; the American School Peace League; the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs; and other bodies engaged in this fundamental work, including the various organizations of women, and bespeaks for their more generous sympathy and the larger financial support of which they are in urgent need.

12. The work of federating and affiliating the various peace organizations of the United States into a more unified and co-operative force which has, since the Baltimore National Congress, been well advanced, through the National American Peace Society, which already has resulted in increased activity, in the strengthening and eulogizement of peace propaganda throughout the nation, and gives promise of much greater efficiency of the peace movement in the future. This congress records its warm appreciation of this federation of peace forces and expresses the sincere wish that sufficient resources may be found to carry it forward to much greater completeness.

Hopes for Opium Suppression.

13. The Congress rejoices at the remarkable success which has been attained by the government of China in this century long and truly heroic effort to suppress the opium traffic. It likewise expresses the warmest hope that the approaching International Opium Conference, to be held at The Hague in June, 1913, may consummate the great reform so devoutly desired for China and lovers of human progress.

14. This Congress, moreover, records its grateful appreciation of the part which the United States, through its Department of State, has taken in the international action of the family of nations, looking toward the abolition of opium traffic; and it further favors such anti-narcotic legislation by the Congress of the United States as shall assist in the stamping out of interstate traffic in opium.

At a sectional meeting yesterday afternoon in Sheldon Memorial, Prof. Roland G. Usher of Washington University discussed "International Law of Airships." He rehearsed a list of possible cases in which damage might be inflicted in one country by a resident of another country flying to a third country, and said there was need for a thorough international understanding on the matter. He cited cases in which German aircraft have landed suspiciously near French military posts of importance.

Three Canadians Speak.

Three Canadians of note were on the program of yesterday morning's general session in the Odeon. They were John Lewis, editor of the Toronto Star, and Justices Riddell and Russell of the Supreme Courts of Ontario and Nova Scotia.

The American Peace Society's annual report was presented yesterday. It showed that the total income of the constituent societies for the past year had been $50,761.94. The report stated that the organization was inadequately financed and relatively inefficient. Arthur D. Call, executive director of the society, signed the report.

"HE IS MY SON," SAYS EVELYN THAW OF BABY 'POM-POM'

She Sails With Brown-Eyed Lad to Get Him From "the Buzzing of People's Tongues."

"ALL MY LIFE—MY HOPE"

Declares Boy, 2½ Years Old, Shall Never Know of Her Past if She Can Help It.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and her infant son, Russell, were passengers on the outgoing Olympic today. With a maid, Mrs. Thaw slipped on to the boat before the rush of passengers and sought retreat in the two staterooms she had engaged. During the clatter of farewells from friends to seagoers, the woman who was once the central figure in New York's most sensational murder case sat behind closed blinds and played with a roly-poly baby boy.

When a correspondent found her there, Evelyn Thaw raised her eyebrows in a little gesture of disappointment.

"I had hoped," she began, "that 'Pom-Pom' and I might slip away from New York without notice. I am trying to bury myself out of the way of all publicity, but since you have discovered me, why, you must come in and be introduced to my son Russell. It is the first time that Russell has been introduced to a newspaper man, and you will be the last if I can only contrive to stay out of sight."

Face of a Mother.

Mrs. Thaw wore a blue tailor-made gown, open at the throat and relieved with little touches of white lace. Her face was not that which has become familiar throughout the whole continent by reason of much printing; there was on it a more subdued, a grave air. It was the face of a mother, not a girl of the chorus.

She led the interviewer over to where a pudgy boy, dark-haired and brown-eyed, sat in a knitted jacket and tasseled knit cap on an upholstered bench, pulling at the petals of a rose.

"This is 'Pom-Pom,'" she said, gravely. "He is my son. He is 2½ years old. Before long he will be old enough for his litle ears to be filled with the buzzing of people's tongues. Just think, I have only a few years left in which to bury all that has passed before these little ears will be wise enough to hear—to hear things that would not be good for my son."

"He Is All My Life."

The mother sat down, lifted the boy to a perch on the edge of a folding table and began to "patty cake" with his chubby fists.

"Listen and please—please try to believe I speak the truth. And please try to understand me if I talk about Evelyn Nesbit," the mother said, turning grave eyes to the face of the interviewer.

"This is my dearest little 'Pom-Pom.' He is, now, all my life—all my hope—everything. His baby hand holds my whole life in its dimpled palm—just look what a tiny hand to hold so serious a burden.

"'Pom-Pom' does not know that I am Evelyn Nesbit. He does not know that my name has been on people's lips over all the world for nearly seven years; that more columns of newspaper print have been devoted to me than to the Balkan War; that I have been called by every hateful name in the vocabulary of a dozen languages.

Out of the Dark to Lead Her.

"He has come to me out of the dark years to lead me to new life. Though I can never forget 'the notorious Evelyn Nesbit,' my baby shall never know such a woman existed if I can guard his ears from gossip. From now on everything of the past is gone from me and in future it is only a mother and her boy, the one living for the other as mothers have done since the world began.

"It will be hard—oh, so hard, to keep from his little ears what should not come there. If I live in America, there will be kindly souls to tell the boy much, and—and—yes, to ask questions of him. I will send him to an English school when he grows up. I will always be near him to put my hands over his ears."

HINDU, HELD TO BE 'FREE WHITE,' MADE A CITIZEN OF U. S.

High Caste East Indian, After 2 Years' Fight, First of Race to Get Papers.

APPLICATION ONCE DENIED

Seattle Court Accepts Akhay Kumar Mozumdar's Claim That He Is a Caucasian.

By Associated Press.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 3.—Akhay Kumar Mozumdar, a Hindu of high caste, today became a citizen of the United States. He is the first of his race to whom United States citizenship has been granted. Two years of litigation to that end was brought to a close when United States District Judge Rudkin held that Mozumdar was a "free white person" and entitled to American citizenship.

Mozumdar is a native of Calcutta, India, and a Yogi philosopher. His application for citizenship previously had been denied by Judge Rudkin. The case was reopened when the court appointed outside counsel to investigate. Previous legal rulings were looked into with little avail. Few instances of Hindus applying for citizenship have ever come up before the naturalization department.

Mozumdar's eligibility to citizenship hinged on the question whether he is a "free white person," as used in the original naturalization act.

Judge's Opinion in Case.

Judge Rudkin, in his opinion, says: "In the original naturalization act the expression, 'free white persons,' was doubtless primarily intended to include the white emigrants from northern Europe with whom the Congress of that day was familiar, and to exclude Indians and persons of African descent or nativity.

"Beyond this, perhaps, Congress had no definite object in view. It could not have foreseen the vast immigration problems with which the Government is now confronted, or the difficulties which might hamper and embarrass the courts in the administration of the law.

"But whatever the original intent may have been, it is now settled by the great weight of authority, at least, that it was the intention of Congress to confer the privilege of naturalization upon members of the Caucuasian race only.

"It is likewise true that certain of the natives of India belong to that race, although the line of demarcation between different castes and classes may be dim and difficult of ascertainment.

Mozumdar's Claims.

"I fully appreciate the fact that the lineage of the applicant in these matters must rest largely if not entirely upon his own testimony and that the courts may be imposed upon, but they must administer the law as best they can until Congress sees fit to prescribe a more definite rule for their guidance.

"The testimony in this case satisfies me that the applicant has brought himself within the provisions of the naturalization acts and he will be admitted to citizenship accordingly, upon the taking of the oath prescribed by law."

In his statement to the court Mozumdar said:

"I come from the northern part of India, or Hindustan proper. I am a high caste Hindu of pure blood belonging to what is known as the warrior or ruling caste. The high caste Hindus always consider themselves to be members of the aryan race and their native term for Hundustan is Ayravartha, which means country or lands of the Artans.'

LADY COTTENHAM FOUND DEAD, SHOT BY HER OWN GUN

Inquest Verdict Is Noblewoman of Famous Old Family Died as Result of Accident.

Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LONDON, May 3.—Society was shocked today by the death of Countess Cottenham, who was found shot through the heart, in the woods near the family residence, Elvendon Priory, Goring-on-Thames, Oxfordshire, which is near Henley. At the inquest the jury returned a verdict of death by "misadventure caused by the accidental firing of a gun which Lady Cottenham was carrying."

Coroner Cooper, summing up, said the evidence was simple; that probably Her Ladyship slipped when carrying the gun in a more or less insecure fashion, and she received the charge in the breast.

From the doctor's evidence it seemed probable that she lived only a few minutes after the shot, and that while dying she moved away a few feet and propped herself against a tree. There was not a shred of evidence to suggest anything but death from an unfortunate accident.

Countess Careless With Guns.

The Countess was an expert shot and was familiar to the point of carelessness with guns.

Lord Cottenham, who is the fourth of the title, testified that he found the body in the woods after returning from a short journey with one of his sons, who was returning to school. His wife, he said, had been in her usual spirits, quite cheerful, and in the morning had walked about the garden with her sons. A policeman testified to the finding of two unused cartridges, also valuable jewelry, in the pockets of the Countess.

The tragedy has rekindled interest in a long line of scandals involving the Countess, her husband and various members of the Neville family to which she belongs. Most recent of them was the arrest of a Miss Robinson for impersonating her ladyship in London, on the Continent and in South America. Just when the public anticipated another sensation the Countess contented herself with having the young woman give a bond not to repeat the offense. The mystery of the affair was not cleared.

Cottenham Pepys' Descendant.

The Countess was one of the beautiful twin daughters of the Marquis of Abergavenny and was born in 1866. She married first the Hon. John Leigh, of an old and wealthy family. After a few years, in 1899, he divorced her, naming the Earl of Cottenham, a descendant of the famous diarist, Samuel Pepys, as co-respondent. They were married a few hours after the divorce decree became absolute.

At the time of the marriage to Leigh the Earl of Cottenham was an infant in petticoats. They were happy until Cottenham grew up and became one of the best foxhound riders in England. Leigh noticed that his wife and young Cottenham were much together. They golfed frequently and she often was to be seen riding on the best of the horses of the Bicester hunt. He did not think seriously of this until ugly rumors reached his ears.

Detectives hired by Leigh took him to a hotel near Leicester square. They burst into a room and found Lady Leigh and Cottenham. Leigh threw the proprietor of the hotel downstairs and had to be restrained from killing Cottenham.

The Countess was so much older than her second husband that at the time of her marriage in 1899 satirical society journals said she was "old enough to be her husband's mother."

For a time the couple were ostracized absolutely. Then they began to win their way back, but unlike many other aristocratic ladies in the same circumstances Lady Cottenham never entirely regained her position in society.

She Had Baboon for Dinner Guest.

Her Ladyship was the first woman in society to introduce a baboon as a guest at dinner.

The Neville family, once one of the proudest in England, has been unfortunate in the present generation. Lady Cottenham's brother, Lord William Neville, was sent to seven years penal servitude for a fraud on Capt. Spencer Clay, now the husband of Pauline Astor, daughter of William Waldorf Astor. Lord Neville subsequently served a second term for fraud on a pawnbroker, being convicted of substituting coal for jewels in a box. Lady Cottenham's eldest brother, the Earl of Lewes, heir to the family title, is mentally deficient. Her twin-sister had the misfortune to marry Earl Cowley as his first wife, but was obliged to divorce him. The Marquis of Abergavenny, father of these unfortunates, is a county magnate of the old style and under Disraeli was a great power in the Tory party.

COW BEATS MARE IN RACE

NEW RICHMOND, Wis., May 3.—To settle a controversy of long standing as to their racing ability, a contest between a cow and a mare owned by rival hotel keepers in this city was held at the fair grounds today. A big crowd was present.

The cow is the property of Anthony Meath, and the horse is owned by George Cranston. The horse was to trot or pace, the cow to go as she pleased. It was to be once around the half-mile track, standing start. The cow was a safe winner. Col. Meath's winnings aggregated $25.

Family Perish in Prairie Fire.

SNELLING, Ok., May 3.—The Rev. John Leslie, and his wife and child were driving across the prairie north of Barney postoffice in Major County, when they were overtaken by a prairie fire and burned to death. Their charred bodies were found by the roadside and the carcasses of their horses near by.

ISABELLA WELLS, NAOMI DAVIDSON, WIN BREAD PRIZES

Former Mayor's Daughter One of Successful Cooks in Mary Institute Contest.

Miss Isabella Wells, daughter of former Mayor Rolla Wells, and Miss Naomi Davidson, 3307 Shenandoah avenue, were awarded yesterday the annual prizes at Mary Institute for the best bread-makers.

The judges who ate the bread took a full month to bring in the verdict on the domestic science class in favor of Miss Wells and Miss Davidson. The judges are Mrs. A. E. Bostwick, Mrs. J. A. Waterworth and Mrs. Lee W. Van Cleave. The prizes are electric chafing dishes.

The successful recipe as given by Miss Davidson is: Half teaspoon lard, half teaspoon butter, half cup milk, half cup boiling water, sufficient luke warm water to dissolve yeast, and flour enough to knead.

The prizes were awarded at a luncheon prepared by the members of the domestic science class. Seventy persons, parents and friends of the girls, partook of the cooking and were served by the student cooks.

There were 33 girls in the bread-baking contest. It lasted two days, 16 of the students baking one day and the other 17 the second day.

Each girl made her own bread unassisted, but all baked under the general supervision of Miss Alice Chamberlain, the domestic science instructor at Mary Institute.

Though only two of the girls won first prizes, because there were only two prizes, each of the 33 baked good bread. This must have been so, because the judges ate of each girl's baking, and they did not do so until they had examined the texture of the product and felt of its weight.

FREE WOOL PASSES WITH ALL BUT FEW DEMOCRATS IN LINE

Only a Handful of Majority Party in House Oppose the Underwood Measure, Which Is Adopted After Short Debate by Vote of 193 to 74.

REPUBLICANS VIEW BILL WITH ALARM

Minority Leader Mann Predicts Business Depression to Be Followed by Return of His Party to Control of Government.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The wool schedule was passed without amendment by the House today in its consideration of the Underwood tariff bill, went through with little excitement, its passage causing scarcely a ripple on the smooth waters of the Democratic tariff program.

The Republicans concentrated their attacks on the schedule by presenting a blanket amendment as a substitute for it. This substitute, prepared by Representative Payne, provided a rate of 18 cents a pound on raw wool, placed on the free list in the Underwood bill, and comparative rates based on a duty of 18 cents a pound on the wool content of the various stages of manufactured woolens.

The Republicans vociferously proclaimed their substitute to be in conformity with the report of the Tariff Board of the woolen industry. The Democrats as emphatically declared that it was not.

An unexpected defection from party lines by Democratic members representing wool growing states failed to materialize in the vote on raw wool. The Republican substitute was defeated and the Underwood schedule passed 74 to 193. With the silk, paper and sundry schedules still to be passed, Representative Underwood hurried the House on after the wool fight, with the worst of the tariff wrangle out of the way.

Republican Attack Bitter.

The Republican attack on the Underwood schedule was bitter. After three hours of general debate, Republican leader Mann and Democratic leader Underwood summed up.

"Several years ago," said Mr. Mann, "we Republicans provided for a Tariff Board. We proposed to stand by the reports of that board and present a woolen schedule ascertained by it. For years the woolen schedule has been a point of controversy, and for the first time in the history of our tariff making we propose a scientific woolen schedule, and we will appeal to the country to support a tariff based on real information."

Mann pleaded for the support of the Progressives, "temporarily estranged from the Republican party, but soon to return to our ranks." On the vote Progressives divided, some voting for and some against the substitute.

"The Democratic party," continued Mann, "admits that this schedule means the death of the wool growing industry in this country. One Democrat tells us this bill will kill the sugar industry. Another tells us it will kill a part of the cotton industry. Another that some other industry will be ruined.

"We might get along if only the wool industry were slaughtered. We might do so if the cotton industry alone were sacrificed. We might get along if only one industry went down. But to slaughter all of these together, that cannot be done and retain prosperity in the land, although God knows I hope that prosperity will remain in the land, and I feel sure that the people will soon return to that economic policy which insures prosperity."

Underwood Shouts Reply.

Representative Underwood replied to Mann, declaring that the Republicans themselves were not in harmony in support of the Payne amendment.

"You say that you are learning something from the tariff board about this schedule," he shouted to the Republicans. "You are learning that the sentiment of the American people is behind the Democratic party and this tariff bill."

Representative Mann asked whether the Ways and Means Committee had not at first favored a duty on raw wool but had "changed their minds at the request of the President."

"Candidly," answered Underwood, "this bill originally was written with a duty of 15 per cent on raw wool. But the difference between your party and ours is that we can get together and you cannot."

"Except on raw wool," he continued, "y[illegible] bill follows the rates in our bill ver[illegible] closely. It also approximates the ta[illegible] board report, but you know that o[illegible]e subject of the duty on raw wool t[illegible] tariff board was divided. Its report [illegible]hat subject was a Scotch verdict."

[illegible] soon as the wool schedule was [illegible]sed, the House hurried through the [illegible]lk schedule.

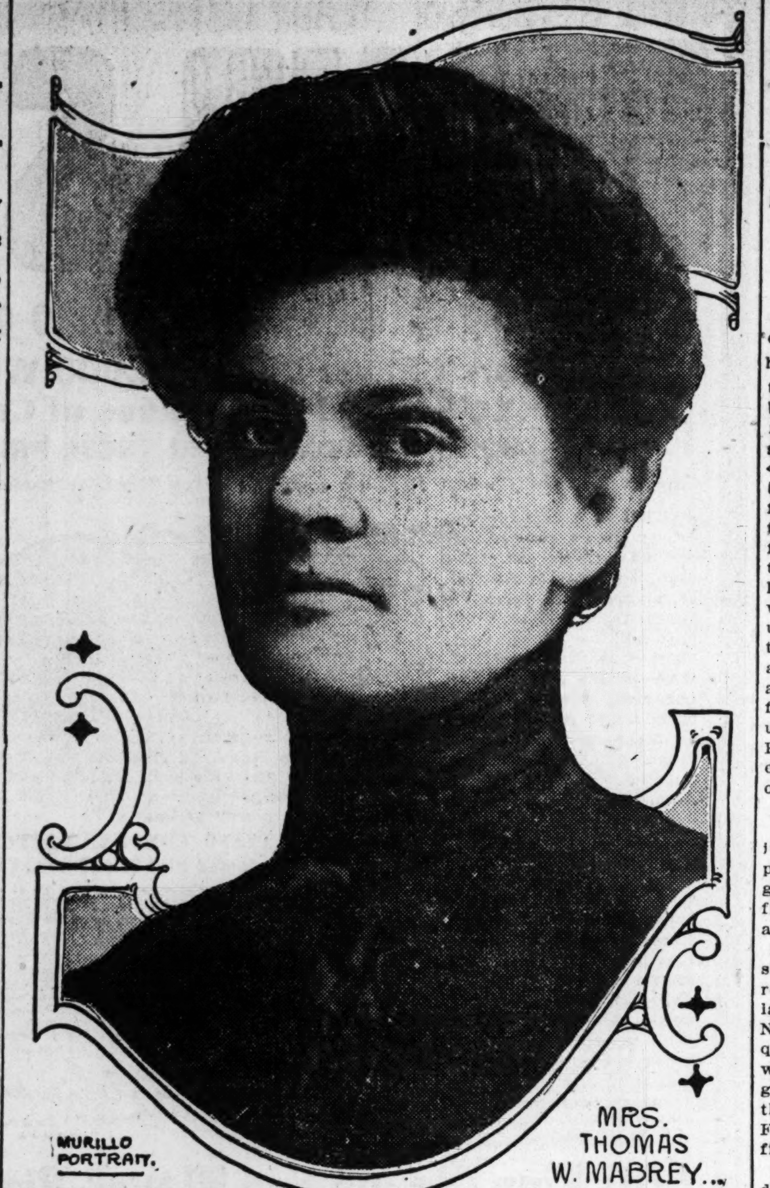
A single committee amendment changing chiffons from 50 per cent to 60 per cent ad valorem was adopted.

The passage of the free wool bill was opposed by only a handful of Democrats, led by Representative Ashbrook of Ohio.

They "absolved" themselves from sustaining the administration demand to place wool on the free list during the recent Democratic caucus. Today they openly flouted the tariff leadership of Representative Underwood and declared the passage of the bill for free raw wool will ruin the sheep-raising industry of a dozen States.

The House recessed at 11:30 o'clock tonight until 11 a. m. Monday.

KIRKWOOD WOMAN HIT BY AUTO WHO IS UNCONSCIOUS IN HOSPITAL



MURILLO PORTRAIT.

MRS. THOMAS W. MABREY...

GIRL WHOSE AUTO HIT MAN PLEADS CASE WITH POLICE

Miss Virginia Foster Convinces Captain Hess She Did Not Violate Law.

After her auto had knocked down a man at Sixteenth and Locust streets yesterday afternoon, Miss Virginia Foster of 4315 Delmar boulevard telephoned George Hickenlooper of 4545 Maryland avenue that she would be unable to keep her luncheon engagement with him at the Mercantile Club.

"I've knocked a man down," she said, "and I'm going to give myself up to the police."

"Horrors!" exclaimed Hickenlooper. "I'll run down to the station and bail you out."

When Hickenlooper reached Central Station he found his services were not needed. Miss Foster was eloquently pleading her case to Capt. Hess and she soon convinced her friend that she knew how to act as her own lawyer.

"I hope the man is not badly hurt," she said. "I was coasting down the Locust street hill so, therefore, I was not violating the speed law, I was on the right side of the street in compliance with the traffic ordinances, and as the man bumped ino my car I should not even be charged with contributory negligence."

A moment later the man who had been knocked down was brought into the station from the dispensary. He said he was Charles Gold of 1308 Carr street and he verified Miss Foster's statements. He was only bruised.

After she had been unconditionally released, Miss Foster and Hickenlooper went to lunch and then attended a matinee. The knob on the door of Miss Foster's car was bent where Gold's head had struck it.

KEEPS VIGIL BESIDE WIFE HURT BY AUTO

Thomas W. Mabrey at Hospital—Mrs. Mabrey Is Unconscious Many Hours.

Thomas W. Mabrey of Kirkwood kept vigil last night at the City Hospital beside the bedside of his wife, who had been unconscious since she was run down Friday afternoon at Sixth street and Washington avenue by an automobile containing two women passengers.

Because of the gravity of her injuries her physicians said her recovery was problematical. Mabrey had sat beside her since reaching the hospital at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

According to eyewitnesses, Mrs. Mabrey stepped in front of the car from between two automobiles standing at the curb. She was on her way to a department store to do some shopping.

EGGS CAUSE OF DIVORCE

Wife Alleged Husband Wouldn't Give Her Fresh Ones.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—Mrs. Zella Cunningham of Walnut Hills got a divorce from William Cunningham in Judge Warner's court today. Cruelty was charged by Mrs. Cunningham. She charged her husband refused to give her any of the fresh eggs laid by the family chickens. She alleged he gave the eggs to his mother, who lived with them.

Mrs. Cunningham also testified that when her husband was away on a trip he gave the key to the hennery to the mother.

BIG FIRES FOLLOW POLICE CRUSADE ON SUFFRAGETTES

Excitement Over Spreading Warfare by Militant Women Throughout England.

LONDON, May 3.—The whole of England and Scotland is at a high pitch of excitement over the suffragette situation. The Scotland Yard detective raid on the Suffragette headquarters, instead of squelching the militant women, has only served apparently to stir them to greater activity. Trials in London, fires and other outrages here and there; the presence within the last few days of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the wealthy American suffragist leader, and her repetition here of her warning to American men to wake up or be prepared for the introduction of English suffrage methods, and of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, ardent votes-for-women advocate from America, and the trials and tribulations of the defiant Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, English suffragette leader—these are a few of the features of the situation.

Public School Is Fired.

In Aberdeen, Scotland, this morning, one of the public schools was partly burned by militant suffragettes. The damage was $2500. Suffrage literature was found scattered about the building.

At Bradford, England, extensive sheds belonging to the Midland Railroad, containing much freight, burned last night, with a loss of $500,000. Nineteen loaded freight cars and quantities of dry goods and carpets were destroyed. The militant suffragists were suspected of arson, but there was no proof against them. Firemen discoverd evidence that the fire was incendiary.

Consternation was caused by the discovery of a bottle of nitroglycerin at the Tube Station, Piccadilli Circus. It was immediately suspected that some suffragists had abandoned mere plans for destroying property and were resolved to force their terror of human life. An explosion at this station at almost any hour might kill hundreds.

Chemist Is Arraigned.

The six militant suffragettes arrested in the raid on the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union were arraigned in Bow street and remanded till Monday, bail only being allowed in the case of Sydney Drew, printer of The Suffragette, and Miss Laura Lennon, the latter on a doctor's certificate.

Edward K. Clayton, a chemical analyist of Richmond, was arragned. Letters were produced said to have been written by him, which the police allege showed him to be connecetd with the militants' plans.

George Lansbury, formerly Socialist member of Parliament, a militant suffragist, was bound over at Bow street, in the sum of $10,000, to keep the peace for a year. He was brought up on a charge based on a statute of Edward III of inciting to crime and misdemeanor.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was an interested spectator in the courtroom.

TWO WOMEN BURNED IN CLEANING FEATHER BEDS

At 3 p. m. yesterday Mrs. Perela Arevalo, 31 years old, of 1610 South Tenth street, struck a match while cleaning a feather bed with gasoline. The bed caught fire and set fire to the house. Mrs. Arevalo was burned on the face, her son, Joseph, 11 months old, was burned on the left arm. Neither was injured seriously. The house was damaged to the extent of $350.

Mrs. Jacob Spossard of 2003 Menard street, who lit a match while cleaning a feather bed. She beat the flames out with her hands before it had communicated to the woodwork. Her arms were scorched.

RICH FARMER IS STRANGELY SLAIN AT HIS HOME

"Red Bill" Steele, Owner of Wilson Creek Battlefield, Found Dead by Son.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 3.—The failure of scores of men who followed bloodhounds in the search for some clue to the slayer of William Steele, the Christian County farmer who was shot in his home last night, and the absence of any apparent motive for the crime tonight leaves the murder of the wealthy recluse as much a mystery as it was last night when the body was discovered. Steele, who was worth about $100,000, was a money lender and was firm about his collections.

Both revenge and robbery, which were first advanced as possible motives for the killing, have been put aside by the authorities who are looking for other reasons for the murder.

Steele was 65 years old and had two sons and two daughters. The body was discovered by John Steele, the elder son, whose suspicions were aroused when he saw a lamp burning in the dining room at the house later than his father's usual bedtime. He had been out with a fishing party and was returning at 10 o'clock when he passed the homestead.

It was at first rumored that some person had shot Steele on account of a land deal, but little credence is being placed in this theory. A report of robbery gained circulation when it was learned that Steele had consulted with a dealer in automobiles relative to the purchase of two machines. This motive was eliminated to a large extent by the discovery of $65 in cash on the person of the dead man and the finding of other valuables in the house.

Steele was well known here as "Red Bill" Steele. He owned large tracts of land south of Springfield and was an extensive cattle raiser. His home ranch is located on the battlefield of Wilson Creek. He had lived alone since the death of his wife three years ago.

The part of the battlefield covered by the Steele farm is known as the "burial place" of Gen. Franz Sigel's batteries. Sigel commanded one of the two wings of the little army that attacked the Confederates in the summer of 1861 and his command was cut to pieces and put to rout. The Steele farm is on the line between Green and Christian counties. Sheriffs of both counties have been seeking the murderer with posses.

FIRE LEAPS OVER WIDE STREET AND DAMAGES HOMES

Electric Shop and Organ Factory Are Destroyed and Wind Adds to Losses.

Fire leaped a gap of 200 feet yesterday afternoon, when sparks from the burning electrical repair shop of George E. Wade, 6137 Wagner avenue, were blown across an alley, over buildings on the south side of Page boulevard, and across the broad street to the home of James McDonaugh and James Moloney, at 6137 Page boulevard.

The electrical shop was destroyed, Ferdinand Konrad's adjoining pipe organ factory was also destroyed, and the McDonagh-Moloney residence and that of Mrs. M. Gough, 6148 Page boulevard, were damaged.

The fire, which started from crossed wires in the electric shop, was not discovered until it had spread to Konrad's organ factory. A high wind, carrying the sparks to Page boulevard, caused consternation along that street, and men and women began moving their household goods out of a number of homes.

Mrs. McDonaugh was standing on the porch of her home, watching the fire on Wagner avenue, when a neighbor shouted to her that her roof was burning. The fire at Mrs. Gough's started several minutes later. The nearest fire plug was on the Hodiamont car line, a block and a half distant, and the firemen had much trouble in getting water.

Wade's loss is estimated by him at $1500 on building and stock. Konrad, who had just completed a pipe organ, estimates his loss at $2000, and the organ factory building, owned by Mrs. D. Schwenk, was damaged about $1000. The damage to the residences is figured at $1200 to $1500.

MAN, 78, SAVED IN FIRE

Carried From Concordia Hall Where Five Are Endangered.

Fire caused by crossed electric wires endangered the lives of five persons sleeping in Corcordia Hall, 1441 Chouteau avenue, yesterday morning. Anna Nelson, housemaid, awakened J. W. Jackson and his wife, J. W. Stackhouse, bartender, and Henry Lorenz, father of Mrs. Jackson, and she and Stackhouse carried Lorenz, who is 78 years old, from the third floor to a house in the neighborhood.

The spread of the flames was hastened by the melting of a gas meter connection, which released the gas. The damage was about $3000.

SECRETARY WILSON GIVES POST TO GOMPERS' SON

He Is Chief of Division of Publications of Labor Department—Other Officials Named.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Congress having appropriated $42,300 for the new Department of Labor, Secretary Wilson today announced the appointment of those who will serve in the most important position under him. Robert Watson, who has acted as private secretary to Wilson, is made chief clerk of the new department at a salary of $3000 a year. Watson has been a clerk in the immigration service in Washington for the last six years. He is a native of Lowell, Mass., and is the youngest chief clerk in the Government service, being 32 years old.

George C. Box, formerly assistant disbursing clerk of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is made disbursing clerk of the new department, at a salary of $3000 a year. Box is a native of Buffalo, N. Y. Another appointment made by Secretary Wilson is that of Samuel Gompers Jr., son of the head of the American Federation of Labor, to be chief of the division of publications of the Labor Department. Gompers is a native of the District of Columbia. Hugh L. Kerwin of Wellsboro, Pa., was made private secretary to Secretary Wilson at a salary of $2500 a year.

Major to Name St. Louisan.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 3.—Gov. Major, who returned from St. Louis today, said he would take his time about the appointment of the fifth member of the Utilities Commission. He will make the appointment from St. Louis, provided he finds a suitable man there.

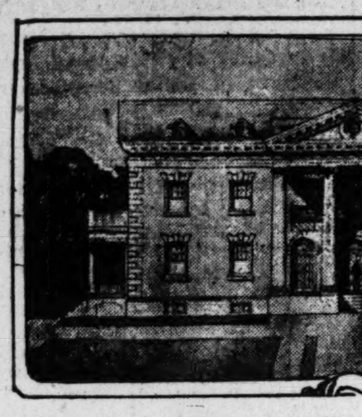
CORNER STONE OF JEWISH HOME IS TO BE LAID TODAY

Refuge for Chronic Invalids Will Cost $150,000 and Completion Is Planned by Nov. 1.

JEWISH HOME FOR CHRONIC INVALIDS



The corner stone for the Jewish Home for Chronic Invalids of St. Louis, on the Fee Fee road north of the Creve Coeur car line, will be laid this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The home is scheduled for completion by Nov. 1, and that date has been fixed for its dedication.

Addresses will be made today by Rabbis Harrison and Sale and by L. Renard and Col. M. Shoenberg. A male quartet will provide the music. Special cars will leave De Baliviere and Delmar at 2 and 2:15 p. m. for the site of the home.

This home is to be one of the largest benevolent institutions in the Middle West. It will be a home for all incurables, especially children, and will be nonsectarian. The home will consist of a main building for administration and housing about 100 patients, the nurses' home, the Shoenberg memorial, and two smaller buildings. The total cost of construction will be about $150,000. All of this amount has been subscribed except $28,000, which the promoters expect to collect before Nov. 1.

This home will be the realization of the ambition of a number of Jewish women of St. Louis who have given much of their time and efforts to the enterprise. They enlisted the aid of many business and professional men who subscribed much of the money necessary to carry out the project.

LEVEE EMPLOYES TELL REVOLTING TALE OF CAMP LIFE

Government Workers Say They Had Miserable Food and Their Quarters Were Filthy.

Sixty laborers who were employed on the Government work in protection of the Mississippi River levees during the recent flood have just arrived in St. Louis, and their spokesmen, Xavier H. Leder and Frank Lubahn, told a Post-Dispatch reporter last night that they would sign and present to Secretary of Labor Wilson a petition of grievances.

Leder and Lubahn said that they were members of a camp of 406 men housed in three quarter boats off Fair, Ark. Their boat was No. 2021 of the Government service and was occupied by 150 men, who had a space of 82 by 26 feet in which to sleep, eat and live. Two other boats, they said, quartered negroes.

Most of the white men, Leder said, were employed for about 37 days, beginning in the latter part of March. He and 15 others, already in the Government service at Memphis, were impressed for levee work, declared he, although they were unwilling to go, by a threat that the pay due them would be forfeited if they refused.

Black Molasses Served.

According to Leder, an important constituent of their food was molasses of such color and consistency that it was nicknamed "black-strap." This was combined with chunks of meat almost too tough to chew, musky cornbread and grits. There was neither milk, eggs nor butter.

Their midday meal was taken to them in skiffs from the boat galleys, and they stood in a row, while a negro ladled out to each his piece of meat, spoonful of beans, cabbage or rice, and a potato.

"On rainy days," Leder said, "and we had plenty of them, the last men in the line would receive their meat drenched, their beans made into bean soup and their cornbread converted into mush."

"Each morning," continued Leder, "the men were driven on board the barge on which we were towed to work. I say 'driven' because all the foremen carried heavy sticks or ax-handles. A few of them had revolvers, and sometimes the fleet foreman took his position over the gallery of the quarterboat with a rifle in his hands. Occasionally every man was searched for concealed weapons.

"Once a white man, protesting against having a stick flourished over his head, was mercilessly beaten in the presence of hundreds of men, white and black. He was then put afoot on the levee and told to 'hike' to Memphis for his money.

Laggards Told to Hike.

"If a man lagged during his 10 hours of labor at filling and carrying on his shoulders heavy sacks full of mud, he was told to walk to Memphis for his money, or promised a chance to try some levee work 'across the river'—meaning in the convict camps.

"Many of them were sick, some with malaria, and the older men with rhumatism, but unless unable to walk they were compelled to work.

"During my 37 days' stay in the camp, soap was issued only twice, once at the beginning and once at the end of that period. It is true it would have done us little good, for we had to work 10 hours every day, including Sundays, which left us little time to wash our clothes or air our bedclothes. Consequently most of the men were hopelessly dirty. Many threw away underclothing and took some 100-pound flour sacks, of which we had a few hundred among the supply of levee sacks, and after making a hole in the center of the bottom for the head and two holes for the arms in the sides, wore them instead of undershirts.

"Although there was plenty of tobacco in the commissary, we were refused the slightest morsel except for cash, of which few of us could boast. We were told that we could have no credit and that we could not be paid a cent until the work was finished. Those who smoke will appreciate how cruelly this regulation was felt.

Knives and Forks Scarce.

"If the Government engineers had walked into our messroom at meal time they would have seen, during the entire period of our work, about 50 men eating wholly with their fingers, neither knives, forks nor spoons being available for one-third of us. The 150 of us had only three buckets with which to wash ourselves.

"One man became so ill with malaria that he could not work. He begged to be paid the money he had earned so that he could go to Memphis for treatment. He was told that he could be taken by boat to Memphis, but that he would be set adrift there, as his wages could not be paid until all the work was finished. Two other men who rebelled against the food were discharged, and when they asked for their wages, were instructed to walk to Memphis and get them."

Leder is 51 years old and has been for most of his life an itinerant worker. He is living at 519 Market street. Lubahn is married and lived in Minneapolis until hard times compelled him to enlist in the army of levee workers. He is temporarily at 3226 Lucas avenue.

GARY MEN'S PLOT TO LYNCH WOMAN FOILED BY POLICE

Mrs. Smith, Union Switchman's Slayer, Taken Around Would-Be Lynchers by Detour.

GARY, Ind., May 3.—When it was learned that Mrs. Grace Smith, who shot and killed Clarence Murphy in a saloon here last Wednesday night, was to be taken from the city lockup to the county seat at Crown Point, a hundred or more switchmen held a meeting this afternoon and, it is said, determined to lynch the woman.

Pickets were disposed by the men along the automobile road from this city to Crown Point, and a body of prospective lynchers was posted several miles outside the city on the road.

Murphy was a popular member of the Gary local of the Switchmen's Union. At the meeting where the resolution to take the woman from the police was passed by acclamation, there were many who favored sparing her life in favor of a coat of tar and feathers.

The men made so little secret of their purpose that Chief of Police Neuman soon learned of it. He conferred with Mayor Knott and they determined to brave the mob and take the prisoner to Crown Point.

Using Mayor Knott's automobile and making a detour around the spot where the would-be lynchers were posted, Grace Smith was safely lodged in jail here at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The mob was not sighted.

Advice to Those Who Have Lung Trouble

Pulmonary Lung Trouble is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight; eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air, and then, if health and strength do not return, add the tonic and beneficial effects of Eckman's Alterative. Read what it did in this case:

405 E. 5th st., Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Department Store, 306 to 314 Market street, Wilmington, Del.), recommended to me Eckman's Alterative, and upon his suggestion I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life."

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Raboteau Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Co., and other leading druggists. AUSTRIA WIELDS HEAVY WAR CLUB OVER BULGARS

By Associated Press.

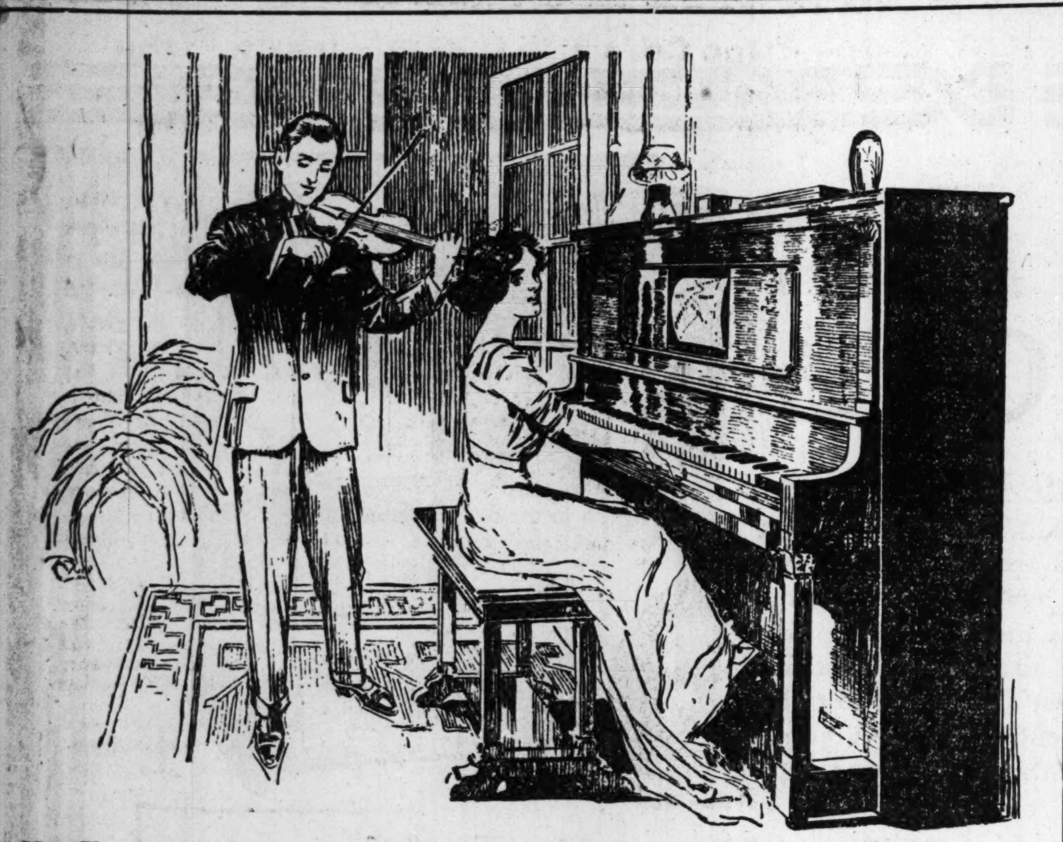
VIENNA, May 3.—While it is officially declared that the international situation practically is without change, alarms have been aroused by the proclamation of a minor state of siege in Bosnia and Herzgovnia. This is regarded as an indication that Austria is preparing for military operations to restore order throughout Albania.

As the people of Bosnia and Herzgovnia sympathize with the Montenegrins, it has been deemed advisable to take precautionary measures to prevent Slav outbreaks.

It is expected similar action will follow in Dalamatia. Italy has agreed, according to report, to take military action only so far as is necessary to force the evacuation of Scutari.

Russia Will Not Let Albania Be Oppressed.

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Germany, May 3.—Russia will not regard Austrian or Austro-Italian intervention in Albania as a cause for war, according to a dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Frankfort Gazette. The Russian Government, however, probably will demand declarations from both the Austrian and Italian Governments that their occupation of Albanian territory is not permanent. A refusal of such declarations would have a bad effect on the situation.



Now you can revel in the songs of yesterday!

Somehow, there are songs that seem to grow richer and more beautiful with the passing years.

Time doesn't wear away their charm and beauty. Rather, each passing year adds a greater sweetness to those old melodies just as the moss and ivy of time add a quaint fascination to the old mansions of yesterday.

Of such marvelous melodies and harmonies is made up the rich legacy of music which the past ages have bequeathed to us.

And today it's ours!

The remarkable Technola Piano gives to every one of us the power to play any music! The old melodies, richer with age, are ours! We can play them tonight.

NELSON CONTEMPT CASE IS ARGUED IN SUPREME COURT

Judges Comment on Judge Guthrie's Preparation of Sentence Before the Trial.

TO GIVE OPINION LATER

Attorney's Statement That Lawyers Cheered Guthrie Brings a Retort From Justice Brown.

By Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 3.—Arguments in the contempt of court case against William R. Nelson, editor and owner of The Kansas City Star, formed the principal order of business on the program of today's session of the Missouri Supreme Court.

The case came to the Supreme Court on appeal from Kansas City where last February Judge Joseph A. Guthrie of the Jackson County Circuit Court found Nelson guilty of contempt and sentenced him to a day in jail.

Article Caused Sentence.

The sentence resulted from the publication in Nelson's paper of an article stating that Judge Guthrie had refused to dismiss a divorce suit settled out of court until attorney's foes had been paid. The article stated the couple who filed the divirce suit had been reconciled and asked the Judge to dismiss it.

In his argument for a jail sentence before the Supreme Court today, Attorney O. H. Dean, who represented Judge Guthrie, said:

"The members of the bar, your honors, cheered Judge Guthrie and gave him a great ovation."

"And the mob cheered Pilate when he sentenced Christ to crucifixion," responded Judge John C. Brown, with a smile.

Ruling Prepared Beforehand.

Evidence has been offered in the case to show that Judge Guthrie's ruling had been prepared the night before Nelson's hearing when the sentence was passed.

Nelson's lawyers, Frank P. Walsh and C. R. Marshall, stressed this feature in their arguments, and the court made several comments upon this point.

"As a lawyer, would you like to have the court write its opinion beforehand?" asked Judge Lamm of Dean.

"This early preparation looks a little suspicious," said Judge Graves.

"Was it not Solomon who said that he who decides his case before he hears it, is unwise?" queried Judge Woodson.

"Mr. Nelson's return to Judge Guthrie's citation for contempt was a confession," said Dean. "Besides, the ruling was only tentative and subject to change by competent evidence or arguments."

Report Exonerates Nelson.

The report of Commissioner Crow was to the effect that the article published by Nelson, for which he was cited for contempt, found guilty and sentenced to jail for one day, was substantially true.

He further held that it was not contemptuous, but was a fair report of what happened in the court, written without malice by the reporter and without the knowledge of Nelson.

The court took the case under advisement and will render an opinion later.

125 DE FOREST NATURE PICTURES AT ART MUSEUM

Exhibit Opening Today Includes Chiefly Northwest and Alaska Pictures.

The City Art Museum opens today a special exhibition of paintings, by Lockwood de Forest, N. A., of Alaska, Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain landscapes. Mr. De Forest aims to express in as direct a manner as he can the truth in nature. He pays must attention to the accurate expression of natural characteristics by careful drawing and carefully observed color. His many studies recently executed in the Northwest, studies of glaciers, of ice fields, and the phases of nature so exceptionally seen in Alaska have therefore a special value. The collection includes 125 pictures.

De Forest is visiting St. Louis in connection with his exhibition, and will give a gallery talk in the Museum, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He is noted not alone as a painter of individuality but no less for his work in the "arts and crafts," for which several medals have been awarded to him, and especially on account of efforts in behalf of a better understanding and appreciation of the applied arts. In this work De Forest was largely in accord with Prof. Halsey C. Ives, whose friend he was for many years. De Forest was a member of the International Jury of Awards at the St. Louis World's Fair, 1904.

CROSSED WIRES SET FIRE

Repair Shop Destroyed and Two Dwellings Damaged.

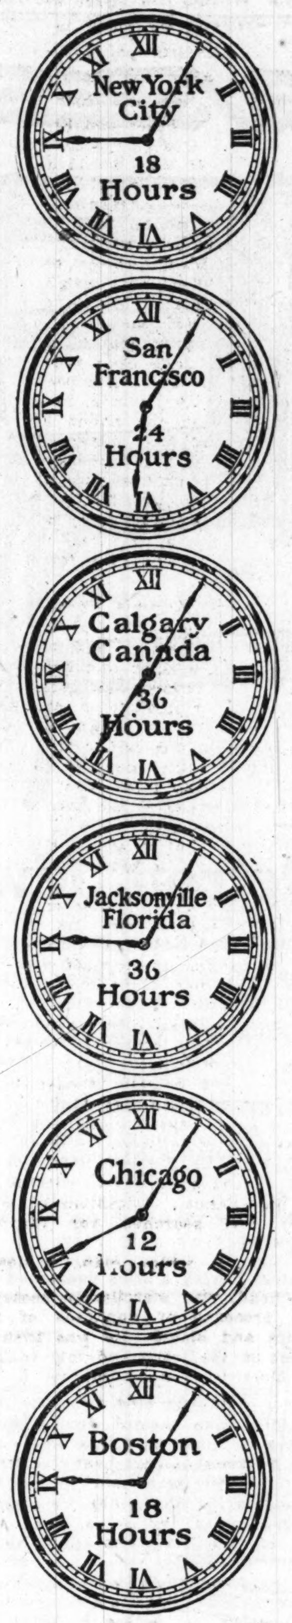
Crossed electric wires started a fire yesterday at noon in the electrical repair shop of George Wade at 3137 Wagner avenue. The building was destroyed. The fire spread to sheds in the rear and from them to the brick residence at 6137 Page boulevard, occupied by James McDonough and James Maloney, damaging it to the extent of $1500.

Sparks blown across the street set fire to the two-story frame house of Mrs. Mary Gough at 6148 Page boulevard, doing $500 damage. Firemen had difficulty with the water supply and the spread of the flames caused much excitement in the neighborhood.

Local Drama to Be Repeated.

The City Club performance of "He Snoops to Conquer" will be repeated Tuesday night at the Victoria Theater, Delmar avenue near Grand avenue, for the benefit of the Night and Day Camp.

The Wonderful Jeffery Service to Owners



THE Jeffery Company considers that every Cross Country owner is a stockholder in the service organization. His dividends are paid in the increased satisfaction he enjoys through the service such an organization provides.

A stock of duplicate parts, amounting in value to one-half million dollars, is maintained by us at the factory and branches, while all distributing dealers also maintain stocks.

WE have all the original patterns, dies, jigs and tools for every part of every Rambler car ever made. This stock is carried that we may assure to owners quick delivery of parts even of old models.

The price of Jeffery parts is one-half to two-thirds lower than that of parts for other cars.

THE Jeffery service organization not only includes an efficient department at the factory, but it is supplemented by a corps of experts on the road and by nearly five hundred branches and distributing dealers. The branches maintain a complete stock of parts, while the larger distributing dealers have all those for which there would ordinarily be any demand.

The clock faces show the time it would ordinarily require for the owner to get a part after his order reaches one of our distributing points.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brainard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

BRITON TWICE ARRESTED

Self-Styled Justice of Peace Held for Theft of Tires.

David Morgan Lewis, who asserts he was a Justice of the Peace on his estate, Clifford Court, Herefordshire, England, was arrested last night for the second time in a week on a charge of larceny. The second offense, it is alleged, was the theft of four automobile tires and three inner tubes. The first charge was the purloining of a magneto valued at $170. He was released on bond. He denied both charges.

The complainant in both cases is the Kardell Motor Car Co., 4105 Olive street, where Lewis was employed. He was arrested at 10:30 o'clock in his room at the Rozier Hotel.

EFFECTS OF POSLAM SEEN OVERNIGHT

HAGERMAN NOW IS CONSIDERED FOR POSTMASTER HERE

Reed Told by Burleson Selph Won't Be Recommended—Gill's Chances Good.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—James Hagerman Jr. may be recommended for the St. Louis Postoffice. He will be recommended for that place by Senator Stone, if at all.

Senators Stone and Reed were supporting Colin M. Selph, but Postmaster-General Burleson notified Senator Reed that he would not recommend Selph for the position. Senator Reed, after being told of the attitude of the Postmaster-General, declared he would have nothing more to do with the selection of a man for the St. Louis office, as it was out of his territory. He was personally interested in Selph.

Former Gov. Folk indorsed Edward S. Lewis, but failed to get him considered seriously.

Patrick F. Gill, ex-Congressman from St. Louis, is looked upon as the most likely appointee in the end.

SECRET HANDICAP OPENS GLEN ECHO GOLF SEASON

Four Tie With Score of 81—Dinner and Dance End Day's Events.

The summer season of the Glen Echo Country Club was formally opened Saturday afternoon with a secret score handicap match and a dinner dance. None of the players knew his handicap until play had ended.

Jesse L. Carleton, president, drove off the first ball at 1:30 o'clock. The secret score handicap match resulted in a four-cornered tie. D. C. Hall, H. H. Evans, L. N. Simson and C. W. Mansur completed the course with a score of 81 each. Col. Fred B. Gardner made the lowest score of the afternoon with a card of 80.

A dinner, followed by a dance, closed the day's events. Covers were laid for 300.

HAROLD VANDERBILT AND G. F. BAKER JR. DIG COAL

Rich Young Men, After Mining It, Load It Into Car, Then Rest in Private Coach.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 3.—Workmen in the Truesdale Mine of the D. L. & W. R. R. Co. at Nanticoke were surprised today when mine officers told them that Harold Vanderbilt and George F. Baker Jr. of New York had worked a shift in the mine as miner and laborer and cut enough coal to load a regulation car. They wore the regulation outfit—overalls, blouse, cap and lamp.

Vice-President E. E. Loomis showed them how to cut out coal. They toiled several hours and when they had cut enough to fill a car they loaded the car. They then went to the private car of Loomis for a rest. They were with Loomis on a tour of the road.

GOTHAM LID TO STAND

Senate Defeats Sunday Saloons—Legislature Quits.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 3.—The Senate, at its final session today, defeated a bill which would have permitted the sale of liquor in New York City, between 1 and 11 p. m. on Sunday.

The Legislature of 1913 adjourned sine die tonight. During the session 4072 bills were introduced, establishing a record. Of these the Governor has approved 442, has had recalled 74 and has vetoed 15. More than 700 measures remain to be disposed of by the Governor in the next 30 days. Through the action of the Assembly at its closing session, in changing its stand and passing a measure already approved by the Senate, a workmen's compensation bill was sent to Gov. Sulzer for approval. The proposed law, however, is opposed by the State Federation of Labor.

MISSING SINCE APRIL 21

Mrs. Rudolph Mullenger of 3408 Williams place has asked the police to try to find her husband, Rudolph, 47 years old, who left home April 21 and has not returned. He left the house to go downtown to get a check cashed for $25. His wife has learned that the check was cashed by a horseshoer at Fourteenth street and Cass avenue, and that he was last seen on a Cass car going in the direction of his home.

He has four children, the oldest of whom is 15 years old. He is an excavating contractor.

GIRL PUTS SHOT 32 FEET

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 3.—Miss Elizabeth A. Harden of Elizabeth, N. J., has broken the world's record for women in the shot put. At the Vassar College field contests today she made a put of 32 ft. ¾ in.

The previous record was made in 1909 by Miss Inez Milholland, the suffragist leader.

SIR WILFRED PREVENTS TAKING OF SNAPSHOT

Hides Face With Hands in Chase With Newspaper Photographer.

Sir Wilfrid Peek, who is to marry Miss Edwine Thornburgh Wednesday, was pursued Saturday morning, as he left the Buckingham Hotel, by a photographer for an afternoon newspaper, for whom he had declined to pose.

Accompanied by H. A. Benyon of London, who is here to act as his best man, he left the hotel for his morning walk, and headed toward Laclede avenue. He got a start on the photographer, but the latter ran and had nearly overtaken the two when they turned into an apartment house. He waited until they reappeared, and again gave chase.

On Laclede avenue, half way between King's highway and Euclid avenue, the photographer made a snap-shot, but Sir Wilfred succeeded in keeping his hand and wrist before his face, and the view was a success only as to the best man.

Sir Wilfrid protested to the photographer, and was snapped again, but he again succeeded in hiding his features. He then turned west and succeeded in shaking off the pursuit.

Sir Wilfrid has given out his photographs for publication, in both military and civilian dress, but he has shown a disinclination to pose for local snap-shot men.

STEPS IN BARREL OF ACID

While examining stock at the Meyer Bros. Drug Co. wareroom at 6 o'clock yesterday evening, Arthur Schaefer, a record clerk, stepped on what he thought was the head of a barrel. It proved to be a cloth cover and the barrel was filled with carbolic acid.

His leg sank into the fluid almost to the hip, and was scorched. After treatment by a physician, he was sent to his home.

25,000 POUNDS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODED

Blast at Fort Bellefontaine Displaces 100,000 Tons of Rock—60 Persons See It

Twenty-five thousand pounds of dynamite were exploded in one charge yesterday in the quarries of the Union Sand and Material Co. at Fort Bellefontaine, 18 miles north of St. Louis. The charge displaced and crumpled 100,000 tons of rock. The explosion scarcely could be heard 500 yards ago. A representative of the Dupont Powder Co. touched off the blast. About 60 persons were present.

D. N. Armstrong, who superintended the arrangements for the blast, said the preparations had included tunneling 60 feet through solid rock at a depth of 60 feet. There were five of these tunnels, each 3x4x60 feet. The dynamite was placed at the ends of these tunnels and of smaller cross tunnels.

Armstrong said that such heavy charges in blasting operations of magnitude are frequently used by modern engineers.

EXTRA Special Offer

Our offer to put this fine Detroit Jewel Gas Range in 200 St. Louis Homes upon a cash payment of $1.00 has met with remarkable success. Scores of St. Louis housewives have taken advantage of this liberal plan. We continue the same proposition this week. We have also decided to put the 3-door fine White Mountain Refrigerator, just like picture to right, in 100 homes upon the payment of $1.00 cash. You pay the balance in small weekly payments.

The Detroit Jewel Gas Range

The Detroit Jewel Gas Range is beyond question the best range on earth. So why buy an unknown, inferior make, when the same money will buy a Jewel.

The Jewel is guaranteed to last four times as long as any other range—being made of the famous NON-OX metal.

The Jewel has a porcelain broiler door, drip pan, dirt tray and valve levers.

The Jewel has an 18x18-inch oven and a 12x12-inch broiler—will broil the largest turkey—it's the largest broiler in any range.

The Jewel has a double glass door and indicator in top oven, so that the baking can be looked at without opening the door, thereby saving gas.

The Jewel has a canopy top and shelf that carries all the fumes to the flue pipe.

You will not find these advantages in any other gas range made.

The White Mountain Refrigerator

You can buy a Refrigerator at most any old price anywhere around town, but at Hellrung & Grimm's you can buy the celebrated White Mountain at the usual price asked you for merely ordinary refrigerators.

For instance, take the refrigerator pictured above. In design and arrangement it differs but little from many refrigerators that will be shown you elsewhere — yet for material, workmanship and durability it is not to be compared with them.

It has a handsome case, finished in golden oak, with round corners—the interior is galvanized steel lined from top to bottom—is absolutely sanitary—is easily cleaned, waste pipe and shelves are removable.

The size of this Refrigerator is as follows: 45 inches high, 21 inches deep and 33 inches wide—has three deep shelves—plenty of room—holds 90 lbs. of ice and is a big ice saver—will keep the vituals sweet and lean.

See it before buying a refrigerator elsewhere.

$3.50 Regular Price

Here is a real bargain in a strong, substantial Porch Rocker. Made of the famous Indiana oak, carefully selected and kiln-dried—will last a lifetime—stand all kinds of rough weather and usage—the back is high enough to afford a comfortable headrest and is not a back breaker as is the case with most porch furniture. As a special for this week, reduced from $3.50 to $1.98.

Chair to match, same price.

WHITE MOUNTAIN

STONE-LINED REFRIGERATORS

The Celebrated White Mountain

Lined with white Enameled solid stone from a New Hampshire quarry.

Thus making the provision chambers virtually hewn out of solid stone—the greatest cold retainer.

Has the removable duplex ice grate, which forms the basis of the perfect White Mountain circulation.

Automatic trap—rests in cup at top of waste pipe—rises when waste water enters receiver—then falls and closes pipe air tight.

The duplex grate and all shelves are easily removable, thus enabling you to cleanse every nook and corner of the snow-white provision chamber and steel ice compartment quickly.

The Chest With the Chill in It

Every White Mountain is guaranteed both by the company and ourselves.

The case is of selected high-grade solid oak in golden oak finish—has round corners—the prettiest refrigerator made.

The air-tight inner wall is reinforced with heavy insulating charcoal sheeting—not padded with charcoal as is most refrigerators.

Has massive locks and hinges of solid bronze, in Roman gold. They are practically indestructible, quick and air tight.

We have the largest and best chosen stock of Refrigerators in St. Louis. All grades—all sizes—all prices—come to see us before you buy.

We Are the Exclusive St. Louis Agents for the Famous White Mountain Refrigerators

Go-Cart, $12.75

This is one of the biggest bargains in Go-Carts you will find anywhere—just like cut. STOVALL TOSSES UMP'S CAP AWAY, BROWNS BEATEN

Manager's Setto With Ferguson, One of Many Thrillers in Game Naps Win, 11-8.

By Clarence F. Lloyd.

IN a contest marred by poor pitching, ragged fielding and umpiring that provoked Manager Stovall of the Browns to throw Umpire Ferguson's cap to the ground after the latter had called what looked like two bad strikes on him, the Browns lost the fourth game of the series to the Naps of Cleveland at Sportsman's Park yesterday, score 11 to 8.

The cap-throwing incident was the most exciting of an afternoon filled with thrills. Stovall as well as practically every member of the team had protested the greater part of the game at the balls and strikes called by Ferguson.

With the score 10-7 against his side, Stovall went to bat in the sixth inning. Vean Gregg was pitching. He shot up a ball that looked to be below Stovall's knees. Ferguson called it a strike and Stovall backed away and protested. Ferguson ordered Gregg to pitch, and his next offering seemed to be inside. Stovall didn't swing, but it was called another strike.

Crowd Cheers Stovall.

Then Stovall stepped out of the box to argue the point with Ferguson. Immediately he was ordered out of the game. Enraged at what he believed to be an injustice, he grabbed Ferguson's cap and tossed it in the dust. Ferguson offered no resistance and Stovall strolled to the bench while the crowd cheered.

He sent up Brief to the plate, but the youngester took one swing and was declared out. Stovall sat on the steps leading into the rathskeller and was ordered out of the park. He strolled across the field, however, picked up his glove and then disappeared. That the crowd was in sympathy with the Browns' manager was evident from the applause that went up as he crossed the field.

The game itself, especially the sixth inning, when the Naps gathered seven runs on a pair of hits, was a poor exhibition of the national pastime. The fact that four St. Louis and three Cleveland pitchers were used is proof that the twirling was inferior.

At the beginning Earl Hamilton and Jim Baskette, the latter twirling his first game of the season, were the pitchers. Ferguson got himself in wrong with the St. Louis players when he called a ball that looked like a third strike on Graney in the second inning. The life enabled Mikey to hit to center, and Lajoie, from third, came home with the first Nap run. The Naps got two more in the third and fourth. Shotton's home run drive in the third and hits by Wallace, Agnew and Shotton in the fourth evened it up.

After Shotton's double had tied the score, Baskette was chased and Willie Mitchell, a southpaw, came on the job. It was off Mitchell in the fifth that the Browns got two more runs, giving them the lead by that margin.

But the sixth was a sad inning for the Browns. Jackson, first up in this frame, hit a double to center. Then Hamilton dished out passes to Lajoie and Birmingham. That filled the bases, but he curved over a third strike on Graney. Carisch inserted a single to left and Jackson and Lajoie came over.

Mitchell also proved a strike-out victim and D. Johnston rolled to Wallace. Had Bob played the ball perfectly, the scoring would have ended, but he fumbled and two more runs flitted over. Hamilton passed Chapman and was chased.

Stovall May Not Be Permitted to Play in Last Game Today

THE Browns and Naps play the fifth and final game of their series at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. Play at 3 o'clock.

George Baumgardner probably will twirl for the Browns. He blanked the Naps in the first game Wednesday. Bill Steen, a right-hander, is slated to perform for the visitors.

It is probable that Manager Stovall will draw an immediate suspension for his run-in with Umpire Ferguson yesterday. If he is prevented from playing, Bunny Brief will be seen at the initial pillow.

Big Handicap Fails to Stop Browns; Agnew and Shotton Hitting Heroes

EVEN after all this ragged stuff the Browns did not quit. They succeeded in chasing Mitchell from the mound by scoring two runs in the sixth and gave Gregg a merry reception after he relieved his fellow portsider.

The official score credits the Browns with 13 safeties. Three of these were manufactured by Sam Agnew, the Browns' A No. 1 catcher, who will prove the real find of the season if he continues to hit as he has recently.

In Sam's bevy of knocks were a single, a double and a triple. The single and triple went to right, while he poled his double to left. He was also hit by a pitched ball.

Allison and Stone showed on the hill in order after Adams retired. Stone blanked the Naps in the last two innings.

Shotton's homer came at the beginning of the third round. It was a rifle-like shot that sped past Birmingham until it bumped the fence at the intersection of the Grand avenue and Sullivan avenue stands. Bert also contributed a double to left field.

The Naps made an effort to burlesque the game in the solemn sixth. With Doc Johnston on second and Chapman on first, the former stole third when the ball was not in play. While the Browns protested, Chapman raced to second. Acting Captain Jim Austin asked for a ruling from Umpire Ferguson. He gave none, and then Austin turned to O'Loughlin. While "Silk" was debating with himself, Chapman ran between first and second a couple of times, sliding into first bag each time. Johnston also cut up capers between second and third. Finally O'Loughlin waved the men back to their original bases. Allison was pitching at this stage and the runners moved up a moment later on a wild pitch.

PIKEWAY RUNNERS WIN MEET FROM ROLLA, 57 TO 52

Cayou's Athletes Come From Behind to Defeat Miners in First Dual Affair of Year.

By Ralph Bryan.

Winding up with a whirlwind finish that surprised even their most ardent followers, the crippled Washington U. track team managed to gain a victory over the Rolla Miners in the opening track event of the season at Francis Field yesterday afternoon, score 57—52.

The Rolla aggregation started things off by annexing both places in the 100-yard dash, and held their lead up to the two-mile run, the twelfth event, when the Pikers forged ahead by grabbing both places. This put the score at 49—47, but the victory was cinched in the next event when Cayou's squad took the eight points in the broad jump.

Only 200 Spectators Out.

The meet was not a fast one, and had it not been for the interest in the scores, it would have been monotonous for the 200 spectators. A stiff wind made the running hard.

Washington annexed the greater percentage of her points in the long runs and the field events, while Rolla scored consistently in the dashes. It was in these shorter races that the Pikers missed the running of Capt. Ben Morrell and Jimmy Gray. These two sprinters had been counted upon to land points in the 440 and 220 yard dashes. Injuries in practice tryouts the week before kept both of these men on the side lines.

Cowman Is Star of Meet.

Next Saturday Washington is slated for another dual meet. This affair will take place at Galesburg, Ill., Knox College being the opponents. Cayou will probably take up a team of about fifteen runners, and, after yesterday's showing, has high hopes of coming home with another scalp. Morcell will most likely be in shape by that time.

Summary:

100-yard dash—Cowman (R) won; Cole (R) second. Time, 10 3-5s.

One-mile run—Winfree (W), won; Mayer (R), second. Time, 5m.

Running high jump—Modisette (W), and Mann (R), tied for first, 64 inches.

440-yard dash—Cowman (R), won; Cole (R), second. Time, 51 2-5s.

120 high hurdles—Jackson (W), won; Kamp (R), second. Time 17 2-5s.

Discus throw—Stollicker (R), won; Modisette (W), second; 104 ft. 3¼ inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Maenner (W), won; Kamp (R), second. Time 27 2-5s.

Pole vault—Godwin (W), won; Cutter (W) second; height 10 ft. 6 inches.

Shot-put—Potthoff (W), won; Stollicker (R), second. Distance, 35 ft. 2 inches.

One-half mile run—Heman (R), won; Baumann (W), second. Time, 2m. 6 1-5s.

220-yard dash—Cowman (R), won; Godwin (W), second. Time, 22 3-5s.

Two-mile run—Cope (W), won; Winfree (W), second. Time, 11m. 35s.

Running broad jump—Modisette (W), won; Godwin (W), second; 20 ft. 6 inches.

One-half mile relay race—Won by Rolla with the following team: Heman, Bower, Cole and Cowman. Time, 1m. 37 3-5s.

Phil Kavanaugh Hopes to Retain Lead in League

The Typos and Wacker-Helderles will furnish the local Trolley League game at Pastime Park this afternoon. The Typos have lost both games played this season, but the W.-H.'s have been more fortunate, having broken even in the two contests staged. Schatzman, who has twirled some good ball, but who has been unfortunate, will heave for the type-setters, while Radel will perform on the mound for the Wackers.

The big game will be staged in Alton when the Ben Millers call on the home team. The Millers are now under the management of Phil Kavanaugh, who last season was in charge of the Alton team. Phil is due for a rousing reception. He will pitch Hall or Schaefer, while Reuther will work for the Alton-Grafton aggregation.

The third game will be between the Maroons and Beyers in Belleville.

Three Games in Interstate.

Three games will be played by the teams of the Interstate League team. At Lansdowne Park in East St. Louis, the White Sox will take on the Peters team. The New Douglas and Mount Olive teams will mix in Mount Olive, while the [illegible] and [illegible] will stage a show in Belleville.

1500 Fans See Federal League Game in Napland

Cy Young's Team Plays Ten-Inning Tie, 6--6, With Covington in Opening Bout.

CLEVELAND, O., May 3.—The curtain on the Federal League baseball stage was raised today to find the Clevelands and Covingtons battling for supremacy. Cy Young's boys played Sam Leever's hustlers to a standstill, 6 to 6 in 10 innings. Darkness ended the contest then and there, but hostilities will be resumed on the morrow.

The visitors got away to a flying start at the expense of Miller, scoring three runs in the first and the same number in the second round, but they were completely mystified by the twisters of Wilcox, who held them runless during the eight innings he was on the mound.

About 1500 fans witnessed the game.

Milan Off to Good Start in Race for Base-Running Mark

Clyde Milan is after a new base-running record, and he has started with the right foot forward. Milan is leading the speed-mad mob of junior league to date with 13 thefts in 13 games. Eddie Collins and Dan Moeller are next, with nine each. However, Milan hasn't scored as many runs as Collins, and it's a question whether his wild running is of service to the club.

Milan last season pilfered 88 hassocks and won first honors in a romp. Collins came second, with 63 steals in 153 games. Cobb had 61 in 140. To set a new world's record for base-stealing, Milan will have to exceed Harry Stovey's great total of 156 steals. Stovey made his, with the Athletics, in [illegible].

RELLER HERO OF CORNELL'S WIN OVER MICHIGAN

St. Louis Boy Wins 100 and 220-Yards Dashes in First Dual Meet of Year.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 3.—Cornell today easily defeated Michigan in the first dual track meet of the year, score 85—32.

Oliver Reller, the St. Louis boy, proved the individual hero of the meet, he winning both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. He negotiated the century run in 10 seconds flat and was not pushed to win the 220. He completely outclassed the field.

The outcome was a surprise to both colleges, but it was brought about through the absence of Haff, the quarter and half mile Michigan runner, and by a mishap to Craig, the Wolverine hurdler. Craig fell at the beginning of the low hurdle event and was distanced. Haff was too lame from a pulled tendon to compete.

Cornell's Victory a Surprise.

Cornell's surprises were noted in the sprints and the two miles. Steiden won the two-mile run with ease. Although no track records were broken, the quarter was fast, as was the high hurdle event, which was won by Whinery in 16 1-5s. Capt. John Paul Jones of Cornell won his events handily in the half mile and mile.

Michigan made the best showing in the high jump and hammer throw, in which events the Wolverines won their only first places.

Summary:

100-yard dash—Reller, Cornell, first; Ingersoll, Cornell, second; Seward, Michigan, third. Time, 10s.

Shot put—Kantzler, Cornell, first, 45 feet 6½ inches; Kohler, Michigan, second, 45 feet 2½ inches; McCutcheon, Cornell, third, 41 feet 3 inches.

120-yard hurdle—Whiner, Cornell, first; Spellton, Cornell, second; McNabb, Michigan, third. Time, 16 1-5s.

Overall Loses First N. L. Game in Three Years

CHICAGO, May 3.—Cincinnati batted Overall and Lavender opportunely and scored an easy victory over Chicago in the final game of the series today, 9 to 4. Clarke made four hits in as many times at bat, driving in five runs. Egan made three doubles and a single and forced a man out in five times at bat, scoring four runs for his team.

Pitcher Overall, the California Giant, played in major League baseball for the first time since the close of the 1910 season, and was wild. After the bases were filled with none out and the score tied in the eighth inning he was relieved by Lavender, who was unable to check the onslaught of the visitors. Score:

BADGERS DEFEAT OHIO RUNNERS IN DUAL GAMES

MADISON, Wis., May 3.—The University of Wisconsin won its dual meet with Ohio State University today by a score of 93 to 33. It was the first in which the Ohioans had participated in athletics as a member of the Western Conference and with an [illegible] list of only 12 men their showing was considered excellent.

The mile run [illegible] the most sensational finish of the day, Hedges of Wisconsin creeping up on Ferrer of Ohio on the home stretch and breaking the tape by half a foot lead. The track was made slow because of a light rain.

SOUTAR BEATS BRITON FOR RACKET LAURELS

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—"Jock" Soutar of Philadelphia, today won the professional racquet championship of the world by defeating Charles Williams of England, the title holder.

Walter Johnson After Record.

Walter Johnson pitched three innings yesterday against the Red Sox and didn't yield a run, bringing his total of consecutive scoreless innings pitched up to 39. He is shooting for a record made by Jack Coombs of the Athletics, who, in 1910, did not yield a run for 46 innings.

Bat Nelson Shaded by Bradley.

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—Pat Bradley of this city had all the better of a six-round bout with Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, tonight. Bradley was the aggressor in four of the six rounds, while the other two were about equal. Nelson fought with his old-time gameness, but there was no force behind his blows.

Yale Wins Eleven Straight.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 3.—Yale won its eleventh straight victory today by giving Brown its first defeat in nine games, 4 to 2. Gile and Eayrs had a pitchers' battle, with Gile having the better of it. The Brown man held Yale scoreless up to the eighth. Score:

Innings—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	T.	H.	E.
Yale	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	2	—4	8	2
Brown	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	—2	5	2

Batteries: Gile and Burdette; Eayrs and Snell.

Jimmy Duffy After Trendall.

Jimmy Duffy, a lightweight of Buffalo, N. Y., has asked to meet the winner of the Harry Trendall-Leach Cross bout, which will be staged at the Coliseum May 8. He owns a newspaper decision over Cross.

Matty's Record Is Broken.

Christy Mathewson's defeat at the hands of the on-rushing Phillies yesterday was a sad blow to Big Six. Prior to the eighth inning, when the Phils scored two runs, Matty had hurled 33 consecutive scoreless innings. Matty, like Walter Johnson, was ambitious to break Coombs' record of 46 runless rounds, made in 1910.

HARMON PITCHES CARDS TO VICTORY, MOWREY IS HURT

Third Sacker Sprains Ankle Sliding Home in Game That Puts Hug's Team in First Division.

By Ralph S. Davis,
Sporting Editor Pittsburg Press.

PITTSBURG, May 3.

MILLER HUGGINS' Cardinals conquered the Corsairs of Clarke, 6—3, this afternoon and went rocketing into first division in the bang-up National League race. The Giants, defeated by the Phillies, dropped out of the elite set to make room for the fast-moving St. Louis entry.

It was the third triumph for the Cards in four battles with the luckless Pirates. Incidentally it gives the St. Louis team an even break, 4—4, with the Pittsburg team for the current season.

Pirates' Pitchers Punished.

The Cardinals deserved to win today. They hit like fiends, and made their bingles count for more than did the Buccaneers. In the field they had it all over Fred Clarke's charges, who did their best to make their pitchers work hard for him.

Manager Huggins had intended using "Slim" Sallee, but at the last moment decided to save the tall portsider for the Cubs tomorrow, and sent in Bill Steele, who won the opening game here. Bill was not at his best and failed to go the distance. Bob Harmon was rushed to his rescue in the third inning and proved a puzzle that the locals couldn't solve. He had splendid control.

Marty O'Toole started to pitch for the Pirates but he, too, was pummeled for 13 hits while he was on the slab, including two triples and a double.

Mowrey Sprains Ankle.

The victory was a costly one for the Cardinals, for in sliding to the plate in the third inning on a double steal, Mike Mowrey, trying to avoid a collision with Catcher Simon, caught his left spike in the plate and was thrown to the ground. He lay there writhing in pain, and the Pittsburg club physician was summoned. Mowrey was carried to the clubhouse, where it was ascertained that he had a severe sprain of the ankle. He was sent to his home in Baltimore tonight. He will be out of the game for a week at least, and the doctor admits it may be a month before he is in condition to resume work. His loss is a severe blow to the Cards, for he has played banner ball in every department in the series against the Pirates. George Whitted replaced him at third base and did very nicely during the remainder of the game.

The Cardinals started to score right off the reel today. In the first inning they got one after two were out. Mowrey's fly to left fell safe when the sun blinded Carey and Mike scored a moment later when Koney tripled to the left field fence.

Huggins' men added two more in the third. Huggins singled, but was forced by Magee, who was thrown out trying to steal. Mowrey singled back of third, and went to third on Koney's single to right. The two then worked the double steal, Mowrey scoring and Koney advancing to second. Viox threw the ball 10 feet over Simon's head, and on the error Koney also raced home. It was on this play that Mowrey was hurt.

The Cardinals scored one in the fifth on a single by Huggins, Magee's sacrifice and Koney's second triple. They added still another in the sixth on singles by McLean, Harmon and Magee, Harmon being caught at the plate when he tried to follow McLean across on Magee's safety to right. The visitors made their last run in the seventh, when Koney reached first on a wild throw by Byrne and scored on Sheckard's two-bagger.

SALLEE VS. LAVENDER IN CHICAGO TODAY

CHICAGO, May 3.

ADVANCE information from Manager Huggins, who is speeding towards Chicago tonight with his first division team, has it that Harry Sallee will cross-fire the Cubs in tomorrow's battle. Sal will be opposed by Jimmy Lavender, who finished up for Jeff Overall today.

The Cards can do a lot of harm by beating the Cubs tomorrow. A victory will put Hug's team in third place and tumble the Cubs into second hole.

Huggins May Get Berghammer From Reds; Whitted to Replace Mowrey

MANAGER HUGGINS asked President Briton's advice today about turning infielder Marty Berghammer back to Cincinnati in case the player should be awarded to St. Louis. The Cincinnati club asked for waivers on the player recently, and St. Louis and Pittsburg claimed him. Now President Herrmann says the request was an error, and has asked the two clubs to turn him back, if he is awarded to either of them. Manager Clarke of the Pirates has already agreed to do so. Britton said he would think the matter over before giving out any statement.

Before he was injured today, Mike Mowrey had made two singles, stole a base and scored two runs, besides contributing one nifty fielding play. The Cardinals all feel his injury sorely, for they realize that his absence will hurt the strength of their infield.

Ed Konetchy was the hitting kid today. He made two triples and a single, and once reached first on an error by his old pal Bobby Byrne. He stole one base and scored two runs.

Hug and Sheckard Star.

For a wonder neither Miller Huggins nor Jimmy Sheckard drew a pass today, but the Cardinal manager twice reached first by being hit by pitched balls. O'Toole and Robinson both clouted his anatomy, besides which he made two new singles. Sheckard's only hit was a double, which drove in a run.

Steele struck out on his only appearance at the plate, but Bob Harmon reached first every time up, twice on hits and the other time by forcing McLean.

There's a Growing Suspicion That the Only Good Loser Is Dumb

COLLINS SETS A DIZZY PACE FOR A. L. HIT-SMITHS

Connie Mack's Star Is Leading League Doing Everything—Batting 511.

PITCHERS OFF FORM

Clubbers Are Feasting This Spring and 34 Are Hitting Better Than 300.

Edward Trowbridge Collins, the Columbia collegian, is leading the American League high-steppers doing everything, at this tender date in the batting.

Collins is away to a flying start with an average of .511 for the first 12 games. He has gleaned 23 safe knocks out of 45 attempts and his closest rival is Tris Speaker of the world's de luxe team of Boston, who has a mark of .468. It should be a merry battle between these stars. Last year Speaker biffed .383, while Collins trailed with .348. Cobb, who led the procession last campaign with a .410 mark, hasn't been heard from as yet this season.

Easy to Get Hits, Eh?

There are 34 batters doing better than .300 in the Johnsonian body, indicating that the pitching is none too tight. Such stars as Wood, Walsh, Bender, Ford, Dubuc and Mullin have been hit hard. However, the real clubbers are prospering. Bunched at the top of the scramble are Collins, Speaker and Lajoie, while Jackson, Lewis, Shotton and Gandil are not far behind.

There are some startling failures so far this year. Trailing in the dust of the wild procession led by Collins and Speaker are Derrill Pratt, who owned a .300 mark last year, but can't do better than .188 so far this campaign, and Hal Chase, always a dangerous batter, who owns the lowly mark of .143. Home Run Baker is doing .217. Bodie of the Sox and Wagner of the champs are not meeting the ball.

Columbus Blanks Blues, 8—0.

COLUMBUS, O., May 3.—Columbus pulled Kansas City out of first place today, and shut the team out for the first time this season. The score was 8 to 0.

McQuillan allowed four singles, did not give a pass, and prevented his opponents from reaching second base. Hinchman's triple, after singles by Shelton and Perring, drove Zabel out in the first inning. Covington was wild, and the six hits he allowed were all timely. Score:

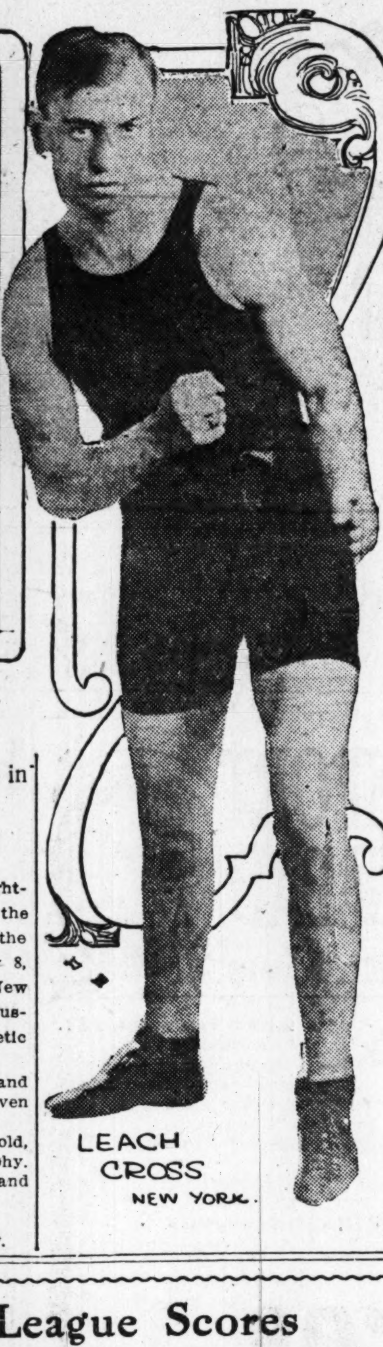
Girl Sets Broad Jump Record.

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 3.—Miss Dorothy Cure of Roanoke, Va., cleared 15 feet 2½ inches on a running broad jump in the annual athletic meet at the Randolph-Macon Woman's College here today, making what is claimed to be the world's record for women.

St. Louis Lightweight Champion and New York Star He Meets Soon

HARRY TRENDALL



LEACH CROSS NEW YORK.

Trendall Tackles Tough Foe in Coliseum Bout Next Thursday Evening.

Harry Trendall, the champion lightweight of St. Louis, known as the "pride of the patch," will have the toughest match of the season, May 8, when he fights Leach Cross, of New York, at the Coliseum, under the auspices of the new National Athletic Club.

Cross knocked out Joe Mandot and fought Joe Rivers on practically even terms in their last two outs.

Cross, although nearly 30 years old, is developing late, like Tommy Murphy.

His real name is Sam Wallach, and by profession he is a dentist.

He's shifty, tricky and elusive.

Trendall is at his best, right now.

SOX HAND TIGERS NINTH STRAIGHT DEFEATS, 6 TO 4

DETROIT, Mich., May 3.—In the wildest game played here this season, Chicago defeated Detroit 6 to 4 in 11 innings today. Harry Lord's sharp single to left brought Russell home after the pitcher reached first on an error and advanced on a pass to Rath. Rath then cinched the game by racing home on an infield out. It was Detroit's ninth straight defeat, seven of them at the hands of Chicago, five being the "clean up" which the visitors made of the series which closed today. As was the case in several of this week's contests, Detroit failed to show offensive strength with runners on bases. Battery errors also helped Chicago to several of their scores.

Benz and Hall started to pitch, but each was driven from the mound and Russell and House finished the game.

BRAVES YIELD TO RUCKER, WHO WINS FIRST GAME

BROOKLYN, May 3.—Nap Rucker notched his first victory in four attempts on Ebbett's field this season when he beat Boston 4 to 1 today.

The visitors worried the star left-hander from start to finish, getting men on bases in all but two innings, but he was given sensational support at critical points, except in the fourth, when a fumble by Stengel helped in the only Boston tally. With one out in this inning, Sweeney singled, took second on Stengel's error, and cantered home when Mann made the first of his three safe drives.

Brooklyn made their few hits off Gervis count. Gerlin was spiked on the hand by Daubert in the fourth, and retired. Score:

JOHNSON RESCUES ENGEL; SENATORS BEAT RED SOX

BOSTON, May 3.—Washington defeated Boston 2 to 1 today. Engel, who pitched until one man had been retired in the seventh inning, gave 10 bases on balls, but was not hit safely by Boston. Three of his passes came in the second inning and, with a man hit, gave the Boston team their only tally.

Johnson finished the game for Washington, sharp fielding alone saving him from being scored upon. Washington got only three hits off Bedient in the first five innings, but tied the score in the seventh, on an error by Engle, a base on balls and Morgan's single. Moeller hit for two bases in the eighth and scored the winning run on Milan's hit to center. Lewis was spiked when caught off first base and retired. Score:

PHILLIES DEFEAT MATTY; GIANTS IN 2ND DIVISION

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—Magee's single and steal of second and Luderus' double, which scored the former after two men were out in the ninth inning, gave Philadelphia the victory over New York today, 3 to 2.

Mathewson and Chalmers had a great battle. Passes to Snodgrass and Shafer, their double steal and Doyle's single gave New York two runs in the first inning. In the eighth with one out Doolan singled. Cravath, who batted for Killifer, sent the first ball pitched him into the bleachers for a home run, tieing the score. Chalmers was in trouble in four innings after the first, mainly through his passes, but every time he closed the inning by throwing out the batsmen.

RECORDS TUMBLE IN HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETIC EVENTS

Simpson of Bosworth Proves Individual Star of Interscholastic Games at Columbia.

By Rex B. Magee

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 3.—Kansas City Manual Training School ran away with the annual interscholastic meet held on Rollins Field this afternoon by winning points in 11 out of the 16 events and totaling 39½ points.

Joplin and Sedalia tied for second by annexing 26 points each, and Manual Training School of St. Louis was not heard of until late in the afternoon when Kemper finished fourth in the low hurdles and when the half-mile relay team took third place.

The star of the day was R. Simpson of Bosworth, who smashed two interscholastic records, both in the jumps, and who was the individual point gatherer of the day, annexing 13, the total number netted by his school. The high jump record which was formerly held by J. P. Nicholson of McKinley High, and who is now the Tiger track captain, was beaten a foot when Simpson jumped 5 feet 9½ inches. Simpson also leaped 22 feet 3¾ inches in the broad jump.

Boullt of Kansas City Manual also proved a star, as he made beautiful sprints in the finish of the middle distances, thereby taking two firsts.

This is how the points were scored:

Kansas City Manual Training, 39½ points; Sedalia, 21; Joplin, 21; Wentworth Military Academy, 18¾; Charleston, 17; Bosworth, 13; Keytesville, 8; Columbia, 7; California, 6¾; Vandalia, 5; Kemper Military Academy, 5; Houston, 3; Washington University Manual, 3; Brunswick, 2¼; Appleton City Academy, 1; Huntsville, 1; McMillan High of Mexico, 1; Mount Vernon, 1; Montgomery ½; Carterville, ¼.

Broad jump—Simpson, Bosworth, Mo., 22 ft. 3¾ in.; second, Wayland, Keytesville, Mo.; third, Hequemborn, Charleston, Mo.; fourth, Maxwell, Wentworth; new record.

Pole vault—Callahan, Kansas City Manual; second, Winn, Kansas City Manual; Wayne, McMillan, McGee, McMillan, Estes, Montgomery, Greene, Appleton City Academy; Pielman, Appleton City Academy; McArthur, Wentworth; tie for third, 10 ft. 8 in.

Half-mile relay—First, Joplin; second, Sedalia; third, Manual Training of St. Louis; fourth, Charleston, Mo. Time, 1m. 38 2-5s.

Mile championship—First, Sedalia; second, Joplin; third, Charleston; fourth, Kansas City Manual Training. Time, 3m. 45s.

Low hurdles—Winn, Kansas City Manual, first; Vore, Wentworth, second; Stewart, Kemper, third; Kemper, Manual Training of Washington U., fourth. Time, 26 4-5s.

220-yard dash—Seyffert, Joplin, first; Schupp, Sedalia, second; Matsell, Brunswick, third; Grigg, Joplin, fourth. Time, :23 1-5.

Mile run—Walker, Sedalia, Mo., first; Sanford, Joplin, second, Gearhardt-Hamlin, Kansas City Manual, third. Time, 4:57 4-5.

100-yard dash—Schwabe, Columbia, first; second, Simpson, Bosworth, Mo., and McArthur, Wentworth M. A.; third; Ritledge, Mount Vernon, Mo. Time, 10 3-5s.

High jump—Simpson, Bosworth, Mo., first; 5 ft. 9 in. (new record); Callahan, Kansas City Manual, and Martie, California, Mo., tied for second; Hughes, California, Mo.; Bryant, Carterville, Mo.; McArthur, Wentworth; Stuckey, Brunswick, Mo., tied for fourth.

120-yard hurdles—Wayland, Keytesville, Mo., first; McArthur, Wentworth, M. A.; Conover, Wentworth, M. A.; Case, Kansas City Manual, (disqualified).

12-pound shot put—Lee, Charleston, Mo., 45 feet, 6 inches, first; Brown, Houston, Mo., second; Plancke, Kansas City Manual, fourth; Nelson, Webb City, Mo., third.

Quarter-mile dash, two races—First race—Boullt, Kansas City Manual, won; Webb, Kemper, second; Truitt, Sedalia, third; Hubbs, Charleston, Mo., fourth. Time :53 flat. Second race—Walker, Wentworth, won; Martie, California, Mo., second; Grainger, Kansas City Manual, third; Ogilvie, Charleston, Mo., fourth. Time :55 flat.

Discus—Plancke, Kansas City Manual, won; J. Lee, Charleston, Mo., second; H. Lee, Charleston, Mo., third; A. S. Bell, Huntsville, Mo., fourth. 114 feet.

Half-mile, first race—C. Laird, Vandalia, Mo., won; V. Hamlin, Kansas City Manual, second; M. Vasquez, Wentworth, third; D. Snoberger, Joplin, Mo., fourth. Time, 2:11.

Half-mile, second race—C. Boult, Kansas City Manual, won; P. Miller, Joplin, Mo., second; Church, Columbia, Mo., third; L. Luckett, Sedalia, Mo., fourth. Time, 2.04 3-5.

New Mile Record for High Schools.

MT. VERNON, Ill., May 3.—The largest high school athletic meet ever held in Southern Illinois was conducted here today and participated in by 15 schools, as follows: Anna, Benton, Carlyle, Carbondale, Central, DuQuoin, Eldorado, Fairfield, Harrisburg, Herrin, Mt. Vernon, Marion, Nashville, Sparta, Vienna. Marion won, Mt. Vernon second, Fairfield third. Fred Dale, of Mt. Vernon made the mile in 4m. and 54s., lowering the Southern Illinois record 6 seconds.

ATHLETICS TAKE ANOTHER GAME FROM YANKS, 8--6

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Athletics again defeated the New York Americans today, the score being 8 to 6. Schulz twirled a great game, but received miserable support.

BENNY M'GOVERN AND MARS FIGHT AT CINCY, MAY 5

Clever St. Louis Featherweight Is Most Popular Boxer in Rhineland Today.

THREE BOUTS TO CLOSE SEASON AT FUTURE CITY

PRELIMINARY.

Phil Goldberg vs. Jake Fieldman, 8 rounds, 110 pounds.

SEMI-FINAL.

Lee Morrissey of Oklahoma vs. Earl Erbling of Milwaukee, 8 rounds, 135 pounds.

MAIN BOUT.

Marty Rowan of St. Louis vs. Art Magirl of Hastings, Neb., 8 rounds, 148 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Benny McGovern, the most popular featherweight fighter ever developed in St. Louis, has departed for Cincinnati in advance of his next fight there Monday evening, against Kid Mars, an improving native of the Rhineland.

McGovern is more popular in Cincinnati than the native talent and whenever the interest flags over there they send for Benny to come over and cheer them up.

He will have a husky young lad against him, Monday. Mars has knocked out Kid Leders, a Cincinnati boxer, whom McGovern not long since outpointed. He figures to give Benny a hard fight on this line.

Magirl and Rowan Ready.

Art Magirl, the Hastings (Neb.) middleweight boxer, who opened the boxing season in St. Louis this season when he fought an eight-round draw with Harry Brewer Sept. 24, at the Coliseum, will appear in the final show of the Future City A. C., when he goes on for the third time against Marty Rowan Tuesday evening.

Honors between these middleweights are even. In the first clash Magirl earned the verdict after eight rounds of very hard scrapping, while in the second Marty grabbed the decision, which, like the first meeting, was very close.

For Tuesday's scrap they have posted forfeits to make 148 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the contest.

While neither of the men are regarded as champions, still they are very busy boxers while in the ring, capable and know the game from end to end. Magirl is the more clever of the two, but Rowan is the stiffest puncher.

Both have been quite successful in their ring engagements since coming to St. Louis. Magirl has fought eight scraps here and lost but two, one to Ferns and the other to Rowan, while Rowan is the only man who was able to puncture Magirl.

The open season for duck, geese, brant and snipe closed last Wednesday. Under the new Federal law, the Bureau of Agriculture will fix the seasons of migratory birds. Hunters are sending in suggestions to the head of the bureau. Persons interested in duck shooting should send in their views.

With the close of hunting comes the real opening of fishing. Experts declare the season is about a month behind that of last year. Anglers report that with few exceptions the fish have responded to deep water trolling or deep still fishing. The fish were still bunched a week ago. With a few days of warm weather one may expect excellent log and bush results, according to reports from Horseshoe Lake, Chouteau Slough, Murdoch Lake and Eagle Park. Spanish Lake is still high. Creve Coeur Lake has given some good results. Edward Fromann is credited with a catch of 27 nice crappie there. F. Schrameyer had great luck at Eagle Park, Schrameyer being credited with 30 crappie and four bass. Fair returns are reported from Long Lake.

I understand from the State Game and Fish Commissioner that there are no restrictions to the use of bait except as to an amendment of section 6549 of the game laws. This amendment provides that only natural bait, minnows and worms, may be used within 200 feet of a fish ladder.

Rain Shortens Outing.

Col. A. B. Koenig has returned from the Corning Lakes of the Knobel Club, where he spent a few days with Peter Anton, Fred C. Suhr, Charles Grotzki, Frank Becker and Frank Becker Jr. The party caught 218 crappie and bass. Koenig landed one three-pound crappie. They went for a week, but it rained and they came back after three days.

Sam Goodman and Roy Gween, usually most industrious anglers, went to Beaver Dam Lake, where Host Frank S. Rhodes and Mrs. Rhodes made them comfortable. Goodman and Gween and Norman S. Childs went fishing. Goodman caught a bucketful. So did Gween. Childs had a fair catch.

Later others appeared. They went out next day. The wind came up. The thermometer went down. After a time Goodman and Gween disappeared. The others thought they had gone to the clubhouse to hug the stove. Dinner time came, with Goodman and Gween missing.

"They took the train home," said Mrs. Rhodes.

Others at the lake were Norman Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Stanige, Mr. and Mrs. H. Benham, Ben H. Rust, Jack Lazier, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wolf, Frank A. Darius, F. J. Michels and L. J. O'Neil.

Col. Mason Dead.

St. Louis anglers and hunters the past week learned of the death of Joshua Mason of Scott County, Mo. Col. Mason was known by hundreds of St. Louisans. He was an ardent sportsman. He was host each year to a two-weeks' encampment of St. Louis hunters. Col. Mason came here to undergo an operation. Death followed. Col. Christy C. Gillaspy and other sportsmen escorted his body back to the home place and remained until after the funeral.

Fred Coyne Lost Fight He -::- Should Have Won on Foul

Decision Up to a Doctor

Local Pugilist, in Hospital as Result of Injury in Bout Here, Had Agreed to Abide by Physician's Examination When Struck by Rowan.

By Harry S. Sharpe.

SOME conflicting and sensational stories have been circulated in regard to boxer Tommy Coyne, who claimed that he had been dealt a low blow in the fifth round of his bout with Marty Rowan before the Future City Athletic Club on April 15, and the claim of foul was disallowed when a doctor, sent into the ring by the club, gave it as his opinion that the boxer had not been injured as claimed.

Some of the stories had it that Coyne, who was receiving the worst of the fistic argument, had "laid down" to escape defeat. Then others had it that the contest was a "frame-up." Following this a story was circulated to the effect that Coyne had been removed to a hospital, been operated upon and was likely to die.

I was referee on the occasion referred to, and when these stories came to my ears I deemed it my duty to investigate. So far as the first two are concerned there is no merit to them and they may be dismissed without further thought. But Coyne did go to a hospital and was operated upon, but there has never been the slightest likelihood of his dying as a result of that.

Coyne Out Until Fall.

When Coyne was seen at the hospital on Friday afternoon he was progressing nicely and had been assured that he would be able to leave the early part of this week. On the advice of his physician, however, he will not attempt to enter the ring until the early fall.

There is no doubt that Coyne was struck a low blow, contrary to the earnest belief of Rowan and my own impression, and is a striking illustration of how even those who are closest at the time of an accident may be deceived. I did not think Coyne had been struck where he claimed to have been, nor did Rowan, who is one of the fairest boxers that has appeared in a local ring; but Coyne was so insistent that I gave him the benefit of the doubt and called "time out" until the extent of his injury could be ascertained. It was agreed that if the examining physician found that Coyne had been fouled he would be declared the winner, if not he would be declared the loser. It seemed the only fair thing to do under the circumstances, and Coyne holds no animosity because the opinion was rendered against him. On the contrary, Coyne views the accident as an unfortunate circumstance for which no one was to blame with intent to injure.

Few Fouls Intentional.

The case of Coyne is not an exceptional one in ring affairs, and accidents are unavoidable in all strenuous sports. It is seldom that a boxer deliberately fouls another in this manner, and when he does it is usually so apparent as to leave but little room for doubt; but many a foul is committed within the meaning of the rules without any intent on the part of the boxer dealing the blow.

It very often happens that a boxer contributes to his own injury by deflecting a perfectly fair blow in an endeavor to parry or counter.

I believe that was true when Harry Brewer was declared the loser on a foul when boxing Eddie Randall during the past winter before the St. Louis Athletic Club in this city. Brewer has never been considered unfair in the ring and no suspicion rested that he had deliberately fouled Randall.

As a matter of fact the blow that Brewer started to deliver was a body blow and perfectly fair, but just then Randall stepped forward and, in attempting to parry or block the blow, threw it low. The examining physicians on that occasion decided that he would be unable to continue and Randall was declared the winner because he had been fouled within the meaning of the rules, though he had accidentally contributed to his own disablement.

This may have happened in the Coyne-Rowan bout, but if it did it was done so quickly that I failed, from my position, to see it.

Referee Can't See Everything.

Some persons seem to think that a referee should see everything that takes place in the ring, but this is at times impossible, though the thing that happens and escapes his vision is perfectly plain to some of the spectators.

This sort of thing happens on a ball field, or in a wrestling match or in a good many other sports. It is a well-known fact that when a knockout takes place in a boxing contest very few of the spectators know what punch did it and there is great diversity of opinion.

Can Physician Tell?

The fouling of Coyne and its consequent results, as in similar instances, suggests a grave doubt that a physician can always ascertain the extent of injury immediately following the landing of a low blow. After interviewing a number of the medical profession the writer found a wide difference of opinion.

There is no doubting the fact that the physician who examined Coyne was earnest in his belief that the boxer had not been fouled, and yet developments proved that he had been.

Inasmuch as even the medical profession can be deceived in this particular, the only safe solution appears to be in demanding that boxers provide themselves with protection before they are permitted to enter the ring.

VIOX, WAGNER'S UNDERSTUDY, IS BEST N. L. HITTER

Pirate Shortstop, in Six Games, Has an Average of .435—Doyle Is Next.

CARDS SHY WITH STICK

None of Hug's Men Are Included in "Charmed Circle" of 22 Sluggers.

Jimmy Viox, Hans Wagner's understudy, is filling the Dutchman's shoes in at least one department of the game. According to latest figures on the National League batting, Viox is setting the pace for the pill-maulers with an average of .435. He has officiated in only six games, but he owns 10 knockouts of 23 trips to the plate.

There are 22 batters hitting better than .300 in the parent body and nary one of them is a Cardinal. However, Hug's team has just begun to hit and before another set of statistics are issued a few of the "Climbers" should break into the charmed circle.

Pitching Has Been Good.

The hitting has been comparatively light in the older league so far, and the reason is that the pitching has been pretty solid to date. However, such clubbers as Zimmerman, Doyle, Chief Meyers, Tinker, Daubert, et al. are up where they belong. Zimmerman, the mighty man of the Cubs, has an average of .344 for 16 games. Mowrey and Magee top the Cardinals with .288. Merkle of New York is the leading base-runner, with six thefts.

New Broad Jump Record Made.

EXETER, N. H., May 3.—Capt. H. T. Worthington of Phillips Exeter Academy broke the world's interscholastic record for the running broad jump at the annual meet with the Harvard freshman today. Worthington leaped 23 feet 5¾ inches, three-eighths of an inch better than the previous mark made by E. T. Cook at Chillicothe, O., in 1906. Exeter won the meet by a score of 61½ to 46½.

Impure Blood Gets Good Bath

Wonderful How Quickly Your Entire System Awakens When the Blood is Cleansed.

If you are down with rheumatism; if you sneeze, feel chilled, are choked with catarrh, have a cough, or your skin is pimpled and irritated with rash, eczema, or any other blood disorder, just remember that almost all the ills of life come from impure blood. And you can easily give your blood a good, thorough cleansing, a bath, by using S. S. S. There is no need for anyone to be despondent over the illness of blood impurities. No matter how badly they attack the system, or how unsightly becomes the skin, just remember there is one ingredient in S. S. S. that so stimulates the cellular tissues throughout the body that each part selects its own essential nutriment from the blood.

This means that all decay, all breaking down of the tissues, is checked and repair work begins. S. S. S. has such a specific influence on all local cells as to preserve their mutal welfare and afford a proper relative assistance to each other. More attention is being given to constructive medicine than ever before and S. S. S. is the highest achievement in this line. For many years people relied upon mercury, iodide of potash, arsenic, physics, cathartics and "dope" as remedies for blood sickness, but now the pure, vegetable S. S. S. is their safeguard.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. The great Swift Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga., prepares this famous blood purifier, and you should take no chance by permitting anyone to recommend a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely and confidentially, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

RUPTURE
PILES FISTULA RECTAL DISEASES
Cured by Mild Medical Methods.
POSITIVELY NO MONEY
UNTIL YOU ARE PERFECTLY WELL IS THE GUARANTEE WHICH THOUSANDS OF MY CURED PATIENTS WILL TELL YOU IS AS GOOD AS A GOLD BOND.

My proposition to those afflicted with Rupture, Piles, Fistula or other Pelvic Diseases is to positively guarantee a cure by accepting no money until a cure is effected. My treatment is a mild one, administered without the use of chloroform, ether or any other general anaesthetic. It does not compel the patient to go to any hospital or be confined to bed. The cure is a permanent one, and I protect my patients all their lives against a return of the trouble by a certificate issued after the cure is effected. This certificate provides that in the event the patient ever has any further trouble I will cure him free of charge. I examine every one free, state in the beginning what the cost of treatment will be, together with the length of time required, and no afflicted person is under obligation to remain for treatment if all these facts do not meet with his or her approval.

MEN AND WOMEN

You have only one life to live. Why not live it in full enjoyment of vitality? To gain a cure is more important than all earthly considerations. It means freedom from anxiety and suffering. It means happy contentment for you and for those dependent upon you. It means new vitality and restoration of perfect health. It means a stronger hold upon life; a broader field of opportunity.

MOTORISTS WANT PUBLIC TO CROSS STREET AT CORNER

Will Support Gallagher Ordinance and Ask That Motor Cycle Police Patrol Driveways Instead of Hiding in Alleys.

The Automobile Club of St. Louis is in accord and sympathy with Chief of Police Young and Prosecuting Attorney Howard Sidener in their efforts to stop the speeding and careless driving of automobiles, but it is the consensus of opinion of the members that the effort should be constant instead of spasmodic.

"The practice of reckless driving and exceeding the speed limit should be eliminated," said a prominent member of the club. "The Automobile Club has always aided the authorities in the enforcement of the laws and assisted in the prosecution of offenders. I am of the opinion, as are the majority of the members of the club, that it requires constant attention, rather than spasmodic arrests. If the practice is not stopped, drastic measures should be used, but I do not think this can be accomplished by motor cycle policemen darting out of the alleys and arresting an offender. If the motor cycle policemen were on the boulevards, then no man would attempt to pass them.

"The ordinance just introduced by Delegate James J. Gallagher, prohibiting pedestrians from crossing the streets in the middle of the block, will eliminate much of the danger. This does not relieve the automobilists any more than it does the street car drivers, or the drivers of horse-drawn vehicles. It is reasonable to expect that drivers should exercise care and caution at the crossings, but it tends to blockade traffic to stop vehicles in the middle of the block on account of pedestrians crossing the street. This ordinance should be passed and then strictly enforced, as should all other traffic laws."

EMPIRE

"The Little Aristocrat"

COMPLETELY EQUIPPED $950

MODEL "31"

We wish every motorist who desires a car of moderate size and price could examine "The Little Aristocrat" Five Passenger EMPIRE Touring Car in private, with no salesman present to urge the case of the Empire.

We wish every motorist who really knows what constitutes a real car could drive an EMPIRE 31 for a few hours. Drive it in the crowded city streets, over the open road, up hill and down dale, through sand and mud.

The longstroke motor, the unit power plant, the big transmission and the sturdy, silent rear axle would tell to him all that we know of its power, flexibility and speed.

We know that after such an inspection and driving demonstration the well informed motorist will need no selling talk from us.

FORTY CARS WILL STOP IN ST. LOUIS EN ROUTE TO COAST

Annual Tour of Indiana Manufacturers Will Be Entertained Here July 3 by Local Auto Trade Bodies.

According to H. McK. White of the Marion Motor Car Co., Indianapolis, about 40 automobiles will stop over night in St. Louis July 3. These cars will make up the annual tour of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers' Association which will then be on its way to San Francisco. With an average of four passengers to the car, this will land in St. Louis 160 men who are prominent in motor car manufacturing and they will have with them a few important guests, notable among whom may be the Governor of Indiana.

Mr. White, who is tour chairman, was in St. Louis this week to consult with local automobile people as to the route from here to Kansas City and on the advice of B. R. Ford of the Marion Motor Sales Co., Hermann Schnure of the Cadillac Automobile Co., and the secretary of the Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association, it was decided to send the tour from here over the Boon's Lick Trail or the Central route, to Kansas City. They will stop over night, July 4, at Columbia, Mo., and July 5 will finish into Kansas City.

While in St. Louis the tourists will be the joint guests of the St. Louis Automobile Manufacturers and Dealers' Association and the Motor Accessory Trade Association. These bodies will provide garage facilities, watchmen, gasoline, lubricants and an a la fresco dinner and it is expected that half a dozen agents for Indiana built cars will make the trip to Kansas City with the tourists, returning home from there.

An odd feature of the big tour to the coast is that all of the cars used will be sold there and the passengers will come home by train. The entries for the tour so far made indicate that every manufacturer of automobiles in the State of Indiana will have one or more cars in the run. As the drivers are all professionals it may be expected that this tour will go further to show the capabilities of the automobile than any similar event in the history of motordom, which, by the way, is a very brief history, extending back but little over 10 years.

AUTO CLUB'S ELECTION TO BE HELD MONDAY

The annual election of the Automobile Club of St. Louis will take place at the club headquarters, Planters Hotel, Monday. The balloting will continue from 12 m. to 3 p. m. and the officers urge that the members of the club show sufficient interest in the organization to attend the election.

Edward M. Flesh, who has served the club as secretary and treasurer for a number of years, has been nominated for president. Mr. Flesh is one of the most enthusiastic and energetic members of the organization. George J. Tansey is the nominee for the vice-presidency. The offices of the secretary and treasurer, which heretofore have been vested in one man, have been separated. Matthew Morse, now assistant secretary, has been nominated for the office of secretary and Samuel Plant for treasurer. James Hagerman Jr., retiring president, has been nominated to succeed Samuel D. Capen on the Board of Governors.

The members of the Board of Governors who will hold over are: Edward M. Flesh, Roy F. Britton, Alden Little, Samuel Pingree and Frederick Semple. The new members nominated for the Board of Governors, two-year term, are: James Hagerman Jr., George J. Tansey, J. Howard Holmes, T. S. Maffitt, E. J. Russell and Robert Keiser.

The Year Book for 1912-13 of the club is now on the press and will be in the hands of the members in a few days. The book will contain a great deal of information of great value to automobilists. It is for the use of members only and is worth the membership fee of the club.

"The Automobile Club is to be congratulated on securing a man of the ability of Mr. Flesh as president of the club," said Mr. Hagerman, the retiring president. "His work as secretary and treasurer of the club had much to do with putting the organization on a sound basis and placing it as one of the leading automobile organizations in the United States."

OPENS SPECIAL FORD SHOP

In line with the policy of specialization in the automobile business the Continental Equipment Co. is opening a special shop at 3124 Locust street, St. Louis, for Ford owners. This shop is to be open all night and prepared to do any kind of repairing on a Ford, although the owner of any other make of car can also there find "first aid" treatment, if he needs it badly. The company has also just issued its second Ford catalogue of parts and accessories which will be mailed to any address.

OHIO ELECTRIC AGENTS

A change has taken place in the agency in St. Louis for the Ohio electric car, and the first 1914 model of that car is now being shown at the salesrooms, 5025-27 Delmar boulevard. The Ohio Electric Sales Co. is the new agent, and A. E. Archer, recently from Minneapolis, is manager of the company. F. H. Roys will remain with the company in the sales department. The salesrooms have been newly decorated in white and present a very attractive and unusual appearance.

GILBERT LOZIER CO. HEAD

Important changes in the personnel of the official family of the Lozier Motor Co., Detroit, are announced to the Weber Implement and Automobile Co., St. Louis agents for the Lozier. Joseph M. Gilbert, who has been general manager of the United States Tire Co., has been elected president and is in charge. Harry A. Lozier is vice-president, Fred Gies is secretary, and N. D. Feltes is treasurer, the latter also from the United States Tire Co. Paul Smith will remain as sales manager and Frank B. Willis will be general factory representative. He comes from the Maxwell Motor Car Co.

1 CHARGE MADE 71 MILES

A record for electric car mileage on one charge was made by Mrs. George R. Merrill of 6209, last Sunday, in her Woods electric. The car was driven over St. Louis streets and parks in the forenoon, and in the afternoon, loaded to full capacity with passengers, a trip through the county was made, the car returning covered with mud. When the odometer was read at the garage, it showed a total of 71 miles had been made on one charge, and this is absolute, for the mileage is read by the garage foreman when turned in in the evening in order that the batteries may be kept properly charged.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES
They cut down tire bills

Just what kind of a tire do you want?

Pick out the features you want to find in the tires you buy. You want generous mileage, full rated size, flexibility, protection against rim cutting, ease of manipulation and security of fastening.

Measure up this ideal tire against every other tire on the market and then compare with a United States Tire.

You will find United States Tires combine all these identical features of your ideal tire in a way that no other tire on the market approaches.

We believe that every tire maker in the country has been making the very best tires that his facilities would permit.

Some of these tires have been greatly strengthened at one or two points—some at others.

But it is a matter of general comment among dealers, car owners and car manufacturers, that never has any tire combined all these special points of superiority as do

United States Tires

In the matter of mileage—the most accurate tests have proven that United States Tires today yield on an average from 25 to 50 per cent. more mileage than was ever given by any make of tire previous to the organization of the United States Tire Company.

No tire has ever been made with a larger average size or a larger average air capacity than the United States Dunlop.

No tire has ever been made as flexible or as resilient as the United States Dunlop.

This is the first and only tire that has ever been absolutely guaranteed against rim-cutting.

It is by long odds the easiest tire in the world to put on or take off—yet it can't possibly come off the rim until you are ready to take it off.

In fact if you were to have a tire built to your order it would be difficult for you to specify a single desirable feature that you can't get today in a United States Tire.

If this is the kind of a tire that you want to use, United States Tires ought to be the exclusive equipment on your car this season.

They are made in Plain, Chain and Nobby treads and in three styles of fastening, including the famous Dunlop (straight side).

Cost no more than you are asked to pay for other kinds

TIRE-LY SATISFIED

United States Pneumatic Tires are guaranteed when filled with air at the recommended pressure and attached to a rim bearing either one or both of the accompanying inspection stamps. When filled with any substitute for air or attached to any other rims than those specified, our guarantee is withdrawn.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

If it's right why change it? A multiplicity of models is evidence that the maker is still experimenting. There is but one Ford model. And for five years our rapidly growing factories haven't been able to make all we could sell—because it is right.

More than a quarter of million Fords now in service—convincing evidence of their wonderful merit. Runabout, $525; Touring Car, $600; Town Car, $800—f. o. b. Detroit, with all equipment. Get interesting "Ford Times" from Dept. F, Detroit; Ford Motor Company, 3667 Olive St., St. Louis.

Tire Prices

With our new factories, we have built as high as 6,500 automobile tires daily.

This multiplied output has cut cost of production. And our profits, as usual, are kept down to the minimum.

So prices on No-Rim-Cut tires now average about 11 per cent less than last year.

No Extra

No-Rim-Cut tires now cost no more than any standard clincher tires.

Yet these tires save all the cost of rim-cutting. They save a ruin which wrecks 23 per cent of the hooked-base clincher tires.

And No-Rim-Cut tires are 10 per cent larger—contain 10 per cent more air—than clinchers. And that, with the average car, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

Our Profit

Each year we advertise our profits. That is to show you exactly the value you get in a Goodyear tire.

In times past this profit has averaged about 8½ per cent. And this year, with our lowered prices, we do not expect to exceed that.

Thus it must be apparent that no tire maker can ever give more for the money.

We have the largest output, the newest factories, the most up-to date equipment. None can possibly build equal tires at as low cost as we.

None dare sell on smaller margins. None this year show so large a reduction. Those are our ways for keeping cost per mile down to a record minimum. By No-Rim-Cut tires, by oversize tires, by the utmost in quality at an unmatched price. Come share these immense economies.

Jackson

NO HILL TOO STEEP
NO SAND TOO DEEP

Why not have the easiest riding car?

In other words, why not have the Jackson?

For we believe the Jackson to be the easiest-riding car, regardless of size, price or any other consideration.

The reason for our belief is the long Jackson experience in building comfortable cars; and the fact that comfort is as carefully worked out in a Jackson design as mechanical goodness and durability.

The visible evidence of this are the 10-inch upholstery; the full elliptic springs, the long wheelbases, the generous room in the car.

[illegible] Jackson and you will have convincing proof of the completeness of Jackson comfort and riding ease.

DID YOU EVER WEAR OUT YOUR TIRE?

Of course not! Puncture—blowout—pinch—rimcut, then a new tire. Kan't Creep inner tires solve the problem—double the mileage—stop your worry—enable you to wear down the tire to the last shred of fabric.

K. C. INNER TIRES STOP PUNCTURES AND BLOWOUTS

Why? Because it is an overlapping inner casing around the tube, of tough resilient material moulded by special process to the exact shape of the casing. It can't pinch or creep. It prevents blowouts. It insures you against trouble and guarantees your tire a double life. Approved and recommended by tire manufacturers.

F. K. Lane, who is specialist in automobile construction and now with the Chevrolet factory in Detroit, is in St. Louis, spending a week with the Kardell Motor Car Co., 4142 Olive street, who are St. Louis agents for the Chevrolet car.

M. H. Parsons, former St. Louis manager for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., now district manager for the company, will spend this week with the St. Louis office.

The local branch of the Motz Tire & Rubber Co. is to have a new home. Sales Manager Magee from the factory is in St. Louis now arranging the lease of the new building.

The Studebaker corporation will in a short time begin the erection at Boyle and Laclede avenues of its big assembling plant and warehouse building. The grading is finished and the construction work is to begin Monday. Carl J. Simon, who is to be manager, expects this to be the company's leading branch for the distribution of Studebaker cars throughout the Southwest.

S. E. Sievers, a well-known St. Louis automobile salesman, has joined the sales force of the Bagnell Automobile Co., to sell Cole cars.

J. H. Salisbury has assumed the management of the Missouri Motor Car Co., 3005-7 Locust street. The company sells the Alco, Marmon and Abbott lines of cars.

The Johnston Automobile Co. had a record month in April, with sales and deliveries of 11 Empire cars, 5 of the new Molines and 26 Fords, a total of 42 cars.

NON-SKID TIRES GROW STEADILY IN FAVOR

The tremendous stride made in the automobile industry during the past five years has naturally developed similar activity, improvement and progress in pneumatic tires, and of these the non-skid stands out prominently as having reached a remarkable state of high-grade construction, durability and safety. The dependable non-skid tire is steadily growing in favor and the demand and output rapidly increasing from year to year. Conspicuous among these is the Federal rugged tread, which, since its advent, and on account of its extra heavy studs, exceptional thickness of tread and distinctive, sturdy appearance, has obtained a strong hold on the preferences of motorists everywhere.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the Federal Rubber Manufacturing Co. of Milwaukee, makers of Federal tires, have just anonunced a substantial reduction in prices. Federal tires are handled in St. Louis by the St. Louis branch of the Federal Rubber Manufacturing Co. at 3146 Locust street.

CHICAGO TO BOSTON IN 68 HOURS WITHOUT STOP

One of the "stiffest" motoring events ever held will be the Chicago-Boston non-stop motor run, which leaves Chicago June 25 and will reach Boston June 29. A penalty is to be attached for every stop of the motor en route and the cars will run day and night.

This contest will be held under auspices of the Chicago Automobile Club with the co-operation of the Bay State Automobile Association of Boston and the Motor Dealers' Contest Association of New York. Fifteen minute stops are provided for at South Bend, Toledo, Erie, Rochester, Albany and New York City, with other controls along the route, for the purpose of changing crews and replenishing with fuel and water.

According to the schedule mapped out, the run from Chicago to Boston, 1275 miles, will be covered in 68 hours of actual running time, so that the cars will be forced to maintain an average of more than 18 miles an hour on the road.

RAN CAR WITHOUT WATER

Necessity and absolute confidence in a car will often tempt a man to take chances, which, ordinarily, he would not think of trying. L. George Thompson of the Los Angeles branch of the J. W. Leavitt Co., Pacific Coast distributers of Overland cars, while on a recent tour, found himself in a desert country without a drop of water in the radiator of his car and 15 miles from the nearest water hole. Mr. Thompson is as good as the average man at walking, but those 15 miles looked to him like 50, and he was as dry as his machine. So he took a chance, and much to his surprise, not only reached the water hole, but found his car only slightly warmer than at the start.

In telling of his experiences later on in the salesroom he was given the laugh by all present, so undertook to make good. He removed the radiator entirely and ran his car about town for another 15 miles.

HIS FACE ON A NICKEL

T. L. Hausmann, president of the Overland Automobile Co., St. Louis, has received a photograph of an Overland car, taken on the 101 Ranch in Oklahoma, on which 13 Indians and a papoose are riding. Chief Iron Tail is on the front seat. He is the typical Red Man whose profile is used to embellish the new 5-cent piece. The Overland 69T is exclusively used on the 101 Ranch and supplants the cow pony for many uses.

THE NEW VELIE FORCE

A. W. Bartlett, long with the Bagnell Automobile Co., and more recently with the Missouri Motor Car Co., has been made general manager of the recently incorporated Velie Motor Car Co., located at 5143 Delmar boulevard. W. J. Carter and C. Frank Swartz are also connected with the company, Swartz having been Velie agent here for several years prior to the organization of this new company.

CHICAGO MOTOR SHARPS FIND BIG SAND HILL

In Chicago the automobile sharps have hard work to find even a small hill on which to try their cars, that city being very level. Last week joy reigned supreme when a great pile of sand was discovered on the lake front, practically in the center of the city, put there by the suction pumps which drew it out of Lake Michigan.

Up this pile of soft sand motor cars of every description have been making trials, and not one in ten has been able to negotiate it. The lucky driver with the car that could climb it—hub deep in sand—then goes about bragging unbearably, and the dealer from whom he bought his car uses the incident for a big display advertisement in the newspapers.

LOZIER

"The Choice of Men Who Know"

THE DEMAND for the Lozier "LIGHT SIX" continues without abatement. There has been no let-up, no slowing down of the public's call for this Lozier at less than $5000.

The First Series established a new sales record for high grade cars. The Second Series, of which we began deliveries April 15th, has sold with equal rapidity. There are purchasers waiting for the "LIGHT SIX" all the time, though the promptness of our deliveries has created kindly comment from dealers and purchasers alike.

Purchasers will do well to place their orders for the "LIGHT SIX" at once. Even with greatly increased production, we find it difficult to supply the demand.

Purchasers of the "LIGHT SIX" say there is not a competing car at within a thousand dollars of the price. They have in mind, of course, the light models of those few other cars of fine character which are commonly considered as being in the same class as the Lozier "Big Six."

A great many of our dealers insist that the "LIGHT SIX" ranks right alongside of the "Big Six," that it has everything and does everything that the "Big Six" has and does, though not so large and, naturally, not quite so powerful. And we are not alone, by any means, in considering the Lozier "Big Six" the greatest of all $5000 cars. We believe it has proved that it is.

But speaking of power, the LIGHT SIX" has genuine Lozier power and characteristic Lozier reserve strength. Over 62 actual horsepower. Power that pulls this car, loaded, over anything, through anything and with something left.

It has the same engineering excellence, the same superiority of materials and the same accuracy of workmanship that have made the name Lozier a stamp of assured satisfaction in motor cars.

It has all the strength and endurance that we learned—in our racing days—how to build into Lozier cars and how to be sure of it. And you will recall that Lozier was the predominant winner in those racing days.

It has not one year, or two or three, of six-cylinder experience back of it, but six years. Experience that counts! It is a perfected Six, with such freedom from mechanical annoyances, such power and such flexibility as you can find only in a perfected Six.

You will be pleasantly surprised by the equipment of the Lozier "LIGHT SIX." Everything you could ask for is on the car. All equipment is of the high quality which you would naturally expect to find on a Lozier.

So we ask you not to purchase any car until you have at least seen this Lozier "LIGHT SIX," and ridden in it, and satisfied yourself as to its quality.

Five beautiful types of body are built on the "LIGHT SIX" chassis: Touring Car, $3250; Roadster, $3250; Coupe, $3850; five passenger fully enclosed Limousine, $4450; six passenger semi-fore-door Limousine, $4450.

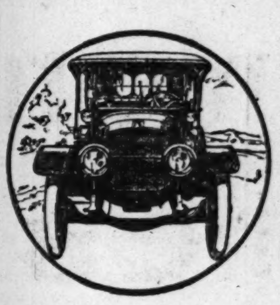
LOZIER MOTOR COMPANY, DETROIT, MICHIGAN

"LIGHT SIX" $3250

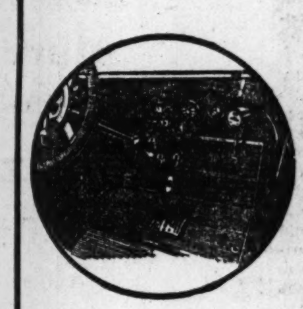
Over 62 Actual Horsepower

A Lozier through and through. Built true to every Lozier ideal. Built for men and women who feel pride in owning the best there is and who can see the value of highest grade products. A powerful, stylish and truly comfortable car.



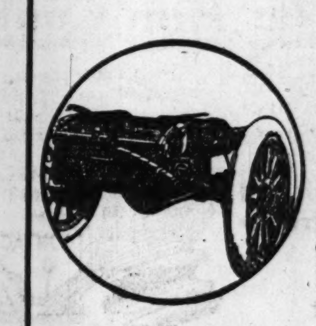
Lozier Style

The Lozier is the most distinctive and distinguished car you meet on the road. Just as distinctive in its style—and just as distinguished—as in its mechanical excellence. Note the lines of the Lozier hood, the sweep of the fenders, the grace of the stream-line body. Here is distinction, but Lozier's greater distinction lies in the six years' history of its six-cylinder superiority.



Lozier Control

Lozier was the first of the high-grade cars to adopt left-side drive and center control, just as Lozier previously had been first to adopt many important construction features which quickly became standard. The ease of Lozier control, the comfortable accessibility of everything you use in running the car, is an interesting feature of all Lozier models. The illustration gives you an idea of the extraordinary completeness of Lozier dash equipment.

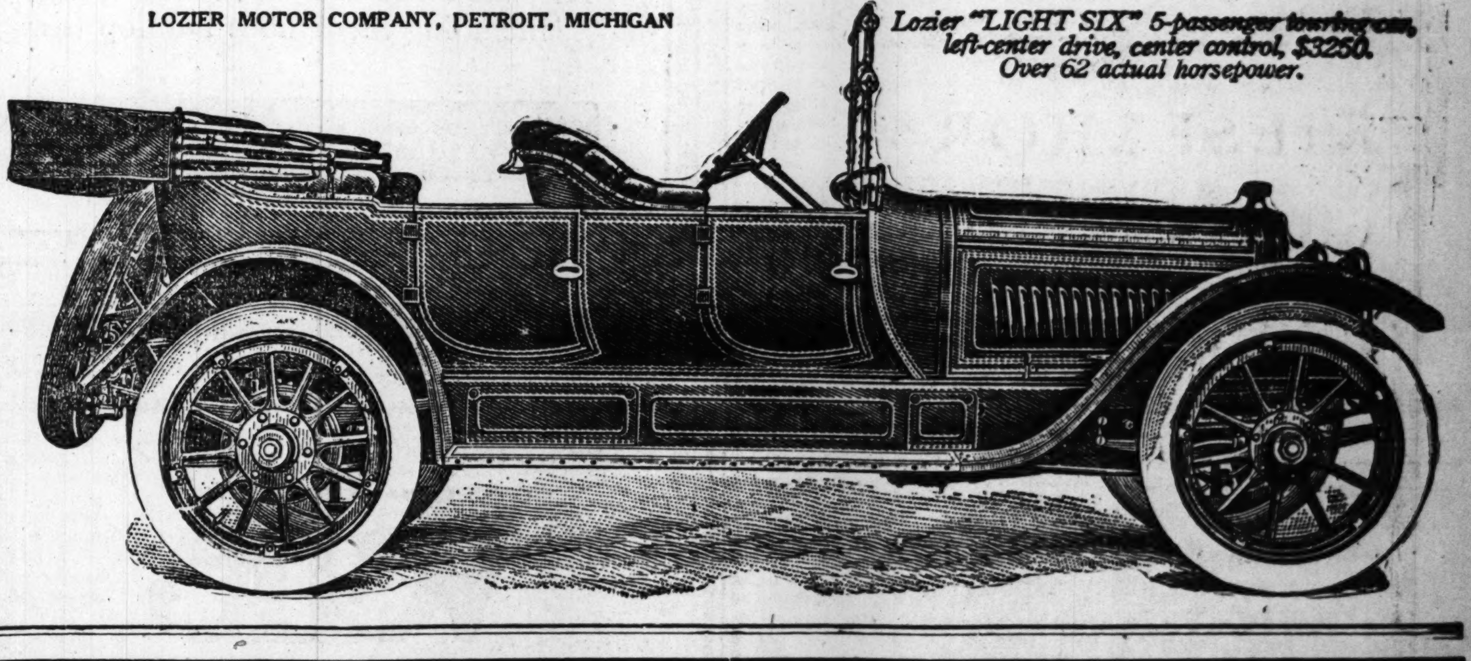


Lozier Strength

Study the view of this Lozier "LIGHT SIX" chassis and you will have some specific understanding of what men mean when you hear them talking about Lozier strength. Many who are in a position to know have said Lozier is the strongest car in the world. Many have said, "You can't wear out a Lozier." The illustration gives you an interesting view of Lozier platform spring suspension, also. It is notable for the comfort it gives persons who ride in Loziers.

Lozier Comfort

This glimpse into the Lozier "LIGHT SIX" touring car gives you just a hint of the luxury of Lozier comfort. Soft, thick cushions do not insure comfort. But in the Lozier they are one of many contributing comfort-factors. Such comfort as Lozier comfort cannot be found with all Lozier qualities—mechanical precision, power and extra strength—in any but a Lozier car. That is why most men who know automobiles—who can afford to take advantage of their knowledge, own Loziers. And for the same reason, more and more such men are buying Loziers now.



Lozier "LIGHT SIX" 5-passenger touring car, left-center drive, center control, $3250. Over 62 actual horsepower.

Are These Things There?

In buying a car in 1913 here are some things to look for. By them judge how the car is built, how up-to-date it is.
And judge by them if the maker gives you the very best he knows.

Outer Features

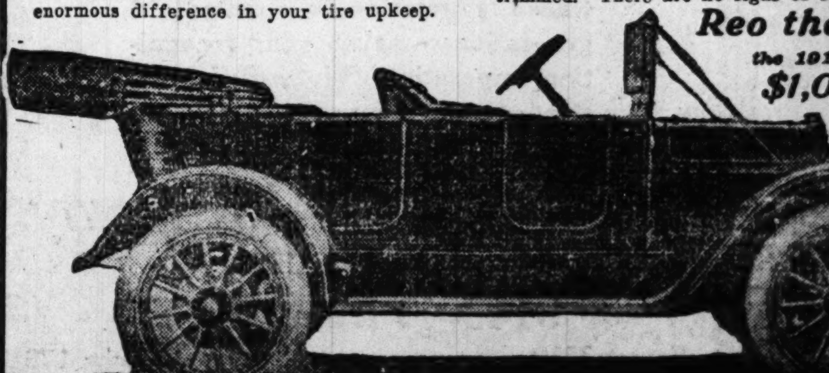
Note if the car has left-side drive, like the leading cars today. Does the driver sit close to the cars he passes, or on the farther side?

Has the car electric set-in dash lights, or the old projecting lamps?

Is it under-tired or over-tired? That makes enormous difference in your tire upkeep.

Note that no side levers, no center levers, block the driver's way in Reo the Fifth. He is never compelled to dismount in the street.

The upholstering is genuine leather, filled with the best curled hair. The finish shows the final touch. Even the engine is nickel trimmed. There are no signs of skimping.



Reo the Fifth
the 1913 Series
$1,095

Inner Features

How many Timken bearings has the car? They cost five times what common ball bearings cost.

In Reo the Fifth there are 15 roller bearings, 11 of which are Timkens.

In Reo the Fifth there are 190 drop forgings, used to avoid the risk of flaws.

The steel is made to formula. It is analyzed twice to prove its correctness.

The gears are tested in a 50-ton crushing machine. The springs are tested for 100,000 vibrations.

We use a $75 magneto, a doubly-heated carburetor, a smokeless oiling system, big, strong brakes.

We give to each driving part vast margin of safety—50 per cent over-capacity.

Each engine gets five long tests. And each, after testing, is taken apart and inspected.

If you seek a durable car, a trouble-proof car, and low cost of upkeep, these are points to consider.

PRESIDENT AIDS WORKER

Civil Service Is Invoked to Give Injured Man Life Job.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—President Wilson today issued his first executive order putting a man under civil service who had not been there. The recipient of the President's act was Swend A. Swenson, a Swedish-American now living in Brooklyn. Two years ago Swenson was working for the Engineer Corps of the Army. He was engaged at Neelys Landing, Mo., in operating a pile driver. An accident occurred to the machinery which smashed Swenson's right arm and hand so badly amputation was necessary. Since he came out of the hospital Swenson has been earning a precarious living. Representative Fitzgerald of Brooklyn became interested in him and several days ago asked the President to blanket him into the civil service. The Civil Service Commission has been directed to find a job for his as a watchman.

AMERICANS MIFFED BY AMBASSADOR'S HUERTIAN SCHEME

Colony in Mexico Opposes H. L. Wilson Plan to Bring It in Line for Recognition.

FORMERLY SUPPORTED HIM

Now the More Radical Members Talk of Cabling Protest to Washington Against Him.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1913, by Press Pub. Co.
(New York World.)

MEXICO CITY, May 3.—Nothing could indicate more impressively the recent change of sentiment on the part of Americans here toward Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson than the severe snubbing administered to him Thursday when he attempted to compel the Society of the American Colony in Mexico to adopt resolutions to be forwarded to Washington favoring recognition of the Huerta administration by the American Government.

This is the same organization which, after the downfall of the Madero government and the killing of Madero and Pino Suarez, not only adopted resolutions eulogizing the Ambassador inordinately, but sent a committee to Washington at Wilson's behest to beg the President to keep him in office. Now Wilson's indiscreet essay to compel the Americans here to take a hand in Mexican politics not only has led to his being wholly discredited by the organization which two months ago seemed solidly arrayed behind him, but, what is more important and disconcerting to him, lays upon him the responsibility of placing the Huerta administration in a position to be rebuffed by Americans in Mexico.

Since Ambassador Wilson has been virtually discredited by Washington and unable to keep his promises regarding recognition from the United States, which it is reasonable to presume he made to Huerta, it is an open secret that the Mexican Government is inclined to look askance at him. Rumors had been heard that the Ambassador intended to try to bring the American colony in line for recognition.

Tried to Work Plan Secretly.

Although he tried to work the plan secretly, it is known that he summoned J. L. Starr Hunt, one of his intimates, to the Embassy and told him that he, Wilson, and Lebbeus R. Wilfley of St. Louis, known as assistant to the Ambassador, thought the colony should adopt resolutions favoring recognition.

Hunt convened the Board of Governors of the colony and laid the Ambassador's views before them. To the consternation of the Wilson supporters the Governors proved to be in an intractable mood.

They declared that the Ambassador had no right to ask the colony for the proposed action, and that while personally every American present was of the opinion that the Huerta administration should be recognized, all deprecated the Ambassador's scheme as one not only to plunge the organization into Mexican politics, a situation which was surely to be hotly resented by all classes of Mexicans, but also to place it in a position of trying to teach the United States Government its business.

Repudiation Vexes Ambassador.

Every Governor at the meeting, including the Ambassador's "errand boys," voted against the proposal. Wilson is said to have displayed unmistakable evidence of vexation when the recalcitrant attitude of the meeting was conveyed to him. He even intimated that if some one had not bungled the scheme it would have been jammed through.

There is talk today among the more radical members of the colony, who are heartily disgusted with the Ambassador, of cabling a protest to Washington against his attempt to deliver the colony to Huerta. Some persons believe that Wilson is scheming to land a job under the Mexican Government when his resignation is accepted at Washington.

SEEKS HUSBAND WHOSE SKULL WAS FRACTURED

Mrs. Edward J. Williams Fears Injured Man Has Lost His Memory.

The wife of Edward J. Williams, 27 years old, of 4331 McRee avenue, has asked the police to locate him. He left home April 19, and his relatives have received no word from him since. He has a wife and two small children. He is secretary of the Williams Roofing Co., of which his father, James Williams, is president.

Edward Williams' skull was fractured two years ago in an accident, his wife told the police, and he had not fully recovered. His wife fears that he is mentally deranged and is wandering in some other city and is unable to remember where he lives. His wife and father went to Kansas City in search of him, but could find no trace of him. His father has offered a reward for information leading to his whereabouts.

Quick, Easy and Positive Cure for All Foot Torture

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore spots." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five-cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. —ADV.

Prevent and Cure Stomach Gas With Baalmann's Gas-Tablets

The proverbial saying that one ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure fits perfectly when it comes to nervous dyspepsia and gas. With Baalmann's Gas-Tablets you can really prevent the formation of gas or wind on the stomach. Isn't that much better than to wait until you are troubled and then take soda mints, pepsin, etc., to force the gas up? Such treatments are always injurious; in fact, they are not a cure at all, only temporary relief for one meal. Of course, sometimes even relief from such things is welcome, but wouldn't it be much better to CURE gas for good with Baalmann's Gas-Tablets?

All druggists sell Baalmann's Gas-Tablets for 50c, but insist upon getting the genuine in a yellow box; only then can you expect the results we promise you. Send us 50c and we will mail them to you postpaid.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses Are Taken.

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.—ADVERTISEMENT.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING? JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments. By morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.—ADV.

BRITAIN PROTESTS TARIFF AID TO AMERICAN SHIPS

House Expected to Remove 5 Per Cent Preferential to Domestic Merchant Marine.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The British Government has joined in the protest against that provision of the tariff which extends a preferential differential of 5 per cent on goods imported in American bottoms.

One of the first acts of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the new British Ambassador, was to call the attention of the State Department to this provision as in violation of the existing treaty of trade and commerce between America and Great Britain.

It is understood the Democratic tariff leaders in the House, who were at first disposed to premit the Senate to deal with this question, have recognized the force of the objections that have accumulated from all quarters and will themselves remove the objectionable provision by amendment when the administrative section of the bill containing it is reached.

SOCIETIES WILL UNITE TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

Patriotic Organizations Bring About More General Participation Than Ever Before.

Final arrangements for the general observance of Memorial Sunday by all the patriotic societies in St. Louis, will be closed at a meeting to be held at the Planters Hotel, Thursday night, at 8 o'clock. The general plan is for all of the societies to assemble Sunday afternoon, May 25, at the Coliseum, where patriotic addresses and music will be heard. It is expected that 35 or more societies will take part in the exercises.

This will be the first time that Memorial Sunday has been ovserved in St. Louis in a general way. Heretofore the members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Spanish War Veterans have sent delegations to the various cemeteries the Sunday prior to Memorial Day, May 30, to decorate the graves of the soldier dead there, but no services have been held.

J. Cal Brown of Walker Jennings Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, is general chairman of the Citizens' Memorial Day Committee in charge of the affair, and was the originator of the plan. Col. Robert N. Denham of Ransom Post, Grand Army of the Republic, is chairman of the Arrangement Committee, and Max J. Epstein of Hamilton Fish Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, is secretary.

The societies which will take part are Grand Army of the Republic, United Confederate Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans, Army of the Philippines, Army and Navy Union, Naval Veterans, the Loyal Legion, Military Order of Foreign Wars, Indian War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, Ladies of the G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, Union Veterans' Legion, Sons of the Revolution and other patriotic organizations. The Civic League, the Million Population Club, the West End Business Men's Association, the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, the South End Business Men's Association have also signified their intention to take part. Superintendent of Public Schools Ben Blewett is to bring the matter before all school principals and the First Regiment, National Guard of Missouri, and Battery A will be the escort of honor.

FINDS MOTHER, LOST 12 YEARS, IN HOSPITAL

Kansas City Woman Identifies Observation Patient With $14,000 Sewed in Dress.

Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins of Kansas City, Mo., yesterday afternoon identified as her mother, Mrs. Eliza Kielty, the woman who, on April 23, was removed from the Union Station to the observation ward of the city hospital, where $1422,22 was found sewed in her dress. Mrs. Kielty left for Kansas City last night in company with her daughter.

Mrs. Kielty when found at Union Station was attempting to purchase a ticket to St. Louis, although she was in the city. She appeared to be poverty stricken when taken to the hospital but when searched the $1422.22 was found sewed in the hem of her dress.

Mrs. Higgins said her mother left home 12 years ago, following some domestic troubles and she had never had trace of her until she read in the St. Louis papers the fact that a Mrs. Kielty had been placed in the city hospital. She immediately came to St. Louis.

ROAD SPENT $100,000 TO 'MOULD PUBLIC OPINION'

Counsel for New Haven Tells U. S. Commission of Trolley Line Work.

BOSTON, May 3.—Edward D. Robbins, general counsel for the New Haven Railroad, today told the Interstate Commerce Commission that President Mellin's contributions to the Republican campaign fund of 1904 were approved by a subcommittee of two directors of the New Haven, one of whom, Charles F. Brooker, was a member of the Republican National Committee, which received $50,000.

Regarding his own fee of $100,000 for legal services, and for "moulding public opinion," in favor of the unification of the Connecticut trolley lines, the witness said that the payment was a legal fee for services and disbursements.

Oral arguments will be heard at Washington next Wednesday. Commissioner Prouty said that counsel would be given until May 15 to file briefs, after which the evidence would be reviewed by the full commission. He added that the report of the commission might be expected early in June.

WOULD NOT MIX POLITICS AND PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Ohio Service Director Advises Jefferson City Committee As to Municipal Plants.

CINCINNATI, O., May 3.—As long as politics is a factor in city government, municipal ownership is not likely to prove a success, according to Service Director Price, who today sent a letter on the subject to C. A. Gunther, Secretary of the Citizens' Investigation Committee on Light, at Jefferson City, Mo.

It is in answer to one from Gunther, asking as to the success of the Madisonville light plant as a municipal undertaking.

Among other things, Price said:

"If you wish to operate a municipal lighting plant successfully you must keep politics entirely out of the same, otherwise it would be an expensive operation."

SUPREME COURT DIVIDES ON NEGRO WOMAN'S WILL

Unable to Decide Upon Disposition of House She Owned Special Judge Is Appointed.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 3.—Because the Supreme Court, with Judge Woodson absent, was evenly divided in the case of Emmett M. Cohron against William B. Polk for possession of a small house and lot left by Rachel Botts, an old negress of St. Joseph, W. Christy Bryan was appointed Special Judge and heard the argument of the case today. He will write the decision breaking the deadlock.

The amount involved is not large. The lot is valued at between $1000 and $1200.

The suit of Cohron is on behalf of the Francis Street Baptist Church, a negro church, at St. Joseph, to which Rachel Botts bequeathed her property. William B. Polk holds a deed to the property made by the aged negress after the execution of her will. Polk was to pay $300 for the property in $10 monthly installments. He only paid three when she died. It is contended by Cohron and the church authorities that she was not of sound mind when she deeded the property to Polk.

The Supreme Court has been wrestling with this proposition two years, with no decision.

HAITI PRESIDENT DIES, FOUR SEEK THE OFFICE

National Assembly Convenes to Elect Successor to Gen. Tancredo Auguste.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, May 3.—The President of the Republic of Haiti, Gen. Tancredo Auguste, died at 9 o'clock last night after a brief illness.

The National Assembly was convoked today to elect a successor as chief executive.

Four candidates were prepared to present their claims to the office—Judge Luxembourg Cauvin, former Minister of the Interior; Michael Oreste, a Senator; Gen. Beaufosse Laroche, Minister of War, and Gen. Bellard.

In official circles and among the general public the opinion prevailed that Gen. Bellard will be elected.

Quiet has reigned everywhere since the President's death, but precautions against any possible outbreak were immediately taken by Gen. Poitevin, commander-in-chief, who ordered all the troops to hold themselves in readiness to suppress disorders.

Auguste had been President since Aug. 9 last year. He succeeded Gen. Cincinnatus Leconte, who met a tragic death, together with 400 officials and soldiers, in a fire which destroyed the national palace Aug. 8.

The National Assembly met today, but owing to the lack of a quorum, failed to elect a successor to President Auguste. An endeavor will be made to hold a session tomorrow after the funeral of the President.

KIMMEL CASE PAPERS FOUND IN HALLWAY

A bundle of letters, photographs and newspaper clippings, all bearing on the recent celebrated Kimmel identification case in which a man who said he was George A. Kimmel whose relatives in Niles, Mich., were suing the New York Life Insurance Company for $25,000, was found yesterday in a blind hallway at 1601 Olive street.

Patrolman Dan Mitchell of Central District to whom the bundle was given by the finder, Allen Henry, proprietor of a rooming house at the Olive street address, believes the Kimmel claimant probably lodged at the house during the time the case was last tried in the United States Court.

None of the letters throws any new light on the case. All were written by persons who knew the claimint, some of whom evidently believed he was the missing George Kimmel, during the period between June and November of 1912.

Allen found the bundle which was wrapped in a black petticoat when he searched the hallway for a mattress. He has had charge of the rooming house during the past five weeks. The former proprietor has moved to another city. Besides the letters, pictures and clippings the bundle contained a set of false upper teeth and several pawn tickets. The Kimmel claimant is now in jail at Bowling Green, Mo., on a charge of forgery.

INDIAN PRINCESS' TROTH IS BROKEN BY CASTE BARRIER

Daughter of Gaekwar of Baroda Ends Engagement With Son of Maharajah.

HE IS OF LOWLY ORIGIN

His Famliy Tried, However, to Conceal Descent by Claiming Divine Ancestry.

Special Cable to the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

BOMBAY, India, May 3.—A profound sensation was caused today by the sudden breaking of the projected marriage of Princess Indra, only daughter of the reigning Gaekwar of Baroda, to Prince Jitendra, son of the Maharajah of Cooch Behar, which was to have been celebrated in Calcutta on Monday next.

The Princess announced her decision to her parents and her affianced last evening and sailed this morning for England.

Elaborate preparations had been made for the ceremony in which descendants of two of the most prominent native rulers in India were to have been united. The reason for the step taken by the Princess, has not been divulged, but it is understood that it is probably a question of caste.

The hitch in all probability occurred because the family of the native Princess of Baroda belongs to the nation which at one time was one of the chief branches of the Mahratta Confederacy ruling a great part of India, while the Royal Family of Cooch Behar is said to have come from a tribe of aboriginal descent and to have laid claim to divine origin in order to conceal its lowly caste. This difference in caste would constitute a barrier to a Hindu marriage.

Educated in England.

The Maharajah of Cooch Behal, whose name is Raj Rajendra Narain Bhup Bahadur, is well known in London. He was educated in England, and so was his son, Jitendra, who was made bankrupt in London in 1911 for a small debt which was afterward paid and his bankruptcy rescinded. In India the Maharajah is entitled to a salute of 13 guns.

The young Princess Indra is also a familiar figure in the British Isles.

Such an occurrance is almost unique among the ruling families of India, and it is said to be traceable to the Princess' unusual intimacy with English and American customs and life. The Maharani of Baroda, her mother, is the author of "The Position of Women in Indian Life," and has advanced ideas on the subject.

The State over which the Gaekwar of Baroda rules is more than 8000 square miles in extent, and has a population of 2,000,000. He is one of the wealthiest men in India, and as a ruler is entitled to a salute of 21 guns. He has written several books, and is a man of high education. His full name is His Highness the Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda Nir Sayaji Rao III. His son, Shrimat Jaisingrae, studied at Harvard University, and the Gaekwar himself has visited the United States.

It was reported that during the Durbar at Delhi, at which King George was crowned Emperor of India, the Gaekwar insulted the King by not appearing in full dress.

Visited U. S. in 1906.

The Gaekwar and his wife, the "most beautiful woman in India" visited the United States in 1906 and in the summer of 1907 and with them on their last trip was Prince Jaisink, then a junior in Harvard, where he was called "The Gaek" and Princess Indra Rapai. The Princess Indra is toasted as "the most beautiful princess in India" and as her father's wealth is a byword she is also considered the "greatest catch."

During their stay in New York, the Gaekwar and his son wore conventional English clothes. The Maharanee and Princess Indra went unveiled, but wore their native robes. Both mother and daughter motored every day. The Maharanee was never without the priceless pearl collar and ear rings and the great diamond bracelet that are the most valued pieces in the Gaekwar's treasure house.

The Princess was then 18 years old. She was slender and small. She had big, soft eyes, veiled by long, silky lashes and her complexion was the color of rich cream. Through her secretary she told an interviewer that she had never danced in her life.

"It would not be considered proper for the Princess to waltz or twostep, even with another girl, and it would be unthinkable for her to dance with a man," explained the secretary. "She has never gone in for the more violent athletics, either, and looks with wonder on your tall, muscular young women who swim and fence and stride over golf courses."

Praised American Women.

The Princess admitted, through the secretary, that she had never met a man except the members of her own family. She loved the theater and saw all the modern plays from the seclusion of her box.

Both the Princess and the Maharanee praised American women, differing from Jaisink, who told reporters that he preferred Indian girls.

Jaisink, the "Gaek," was devoted to poker in college. Though slated to rule over 2,000,000 subjects when his father dies, he was "nursed" by Bob Potter, the football player. Potter drew a princely salary from the Gaekwar. His job was to put "The Gaek" to bed early every night.

The Maharajah's beautiful sister, Princess Pretiva, who, like the rest of the family, has passed most of her time in England, was jilted by a young, handsome and aristocratic Englishman, Lionel Henry Mander, and it nearly broke her heart. She threatened suicide and gave her friends—Claude Grahamme White, the aviator, and his American wife, a decided scare in Paris.

BARGAIN PRICES REVIVE SALES OF OLD RESIDENCES

Beautiful Residence Districts in Mid West End Attractive to New Comers to the City and Bulk of Sales Become a Feature of the Realty Market.

APARTMENT HOUSES ARE IN DEMAND

Some of Houses Sold in Cabanne and Vandeventer Places Bring Only a Fraction of Their Cost After Builders Leave Them.

By Berry Moore

Interest in the St. Louis realty market is turning to residence property. Sales in the older parts of the city formed the bulk of the transactions of the week.

A demand suddenly has developed for houses in these districts, which present many opportunities for both homeseekers and investors. Advantageous purchases are being made in Cabanne and Vandeventer places, the prices there involving, in many instances, speculative advantages.

As an illustration, P. J. Cummings, a client of Sidney Schiele, yesterday, was offered $6760, a profit of $1000, for a 9-room house at 5191 Von Versen avenue, a purchase of 10 days ago. The original cost of the house was $10,000.

Cummings, who was an assessor in New York and who thoroughly canvassed the market before making his purchase, declares that St. Louis offers greater opportunities for homeseekers than any other city of its class.

Likes Older Sections Best.

The situation in St. Louis is anomalous, he says, the offerings in the older sections being more attractive than those in the newer districts, but involving less cost.

Most of the buyers in Cabanne place, Chamberlain Park and other older localities are incoming residents, according to agents.

Hundreds of substantial houses in these districts have been thrown on the market, owing to the migratory tendencies of the St. Louis residents. Indications are that sales in these districts will be a feature of the market during the spring and summer.

A dozen purchases recently have been made in Vandeventer place, the prices realized in the majority of instances representing only a fraction of the original cost of the property.

The Wallace house at 61 Vandeventer place, costing originally $50,000, was bought last week by Mrs. Stella Wade Soullin for $12,000. The purchase was arranged by the Mercantile Trust Co., in connection with Albert T. Terry & Co.

The Fowler house in Vandeventer place, which cost $80,000, was knocked down by Franciscus & Kunz to Harvey Gilmer Mudd for $16,000.

Vandeventer Place Revival.

Previous purchases include those of the Rev. Dean Davis of Christ Church Cathedral of the Drake house, and George Kessler, landscape architect, of the John B. Davis house, 51 Vandeventer place. Davis has built a new home in Brentmoor and Kessler will remove from the Belleview Apartments. Apparently, Vandeventer place, formerly the home of the elite of the city, is being reclaimed by the younger generation.

The contingent from the older sections has filled the apartment buildings of Washington Heights and the houses of Parkview, rather than resident growth, realty men say. The latter is absorbing the vacancies in the older districts, by wap of equalization.

An active demand is reported for dwellings and apartments and home building sites in all parts of the city, according to Frederick A. Blake of John S. Blake & Bro. Real Estate Co.

Apartment Buildings Transferred.

Many handsome residences in the district west of Union avenue and north of Delmar boulevard are being transferred.

The call for high-class investments is largely concentrated in apartments, sales of this character representing the week's heaviest transactions. A notable transaction of this class was a trade embracing holdings aggregating $96,000 value. This included the transfer of the apartment and business block at the northeast corner of Goodfellow and Etzel avenues by the Flegle-Heim Realty Co. to a syndicate composed of Lena Gruen, James L. Blake and Joseph Sonday.

An apartment building at 955 Maple avenue, a flat at 31 Nicholson place, a flat at 3039 St. Vincent avenue, and the Wismath house at 2345 Warren street were transferred in part payment for the Goodfellow and Etzel block.

Botanical Avenue Apartment Sold.

A South Side sale was that of a six-family apartment building in course of erection at 4206 Botanical avenue, to the Lawrence Investment Co. for $31,750. The seller was Joseph C. Lamping. This is the second sale in this locality by Lamping, the other being the southwest corner of De Tonty street and Lawrence avenue, to the Varnham Investment Co.

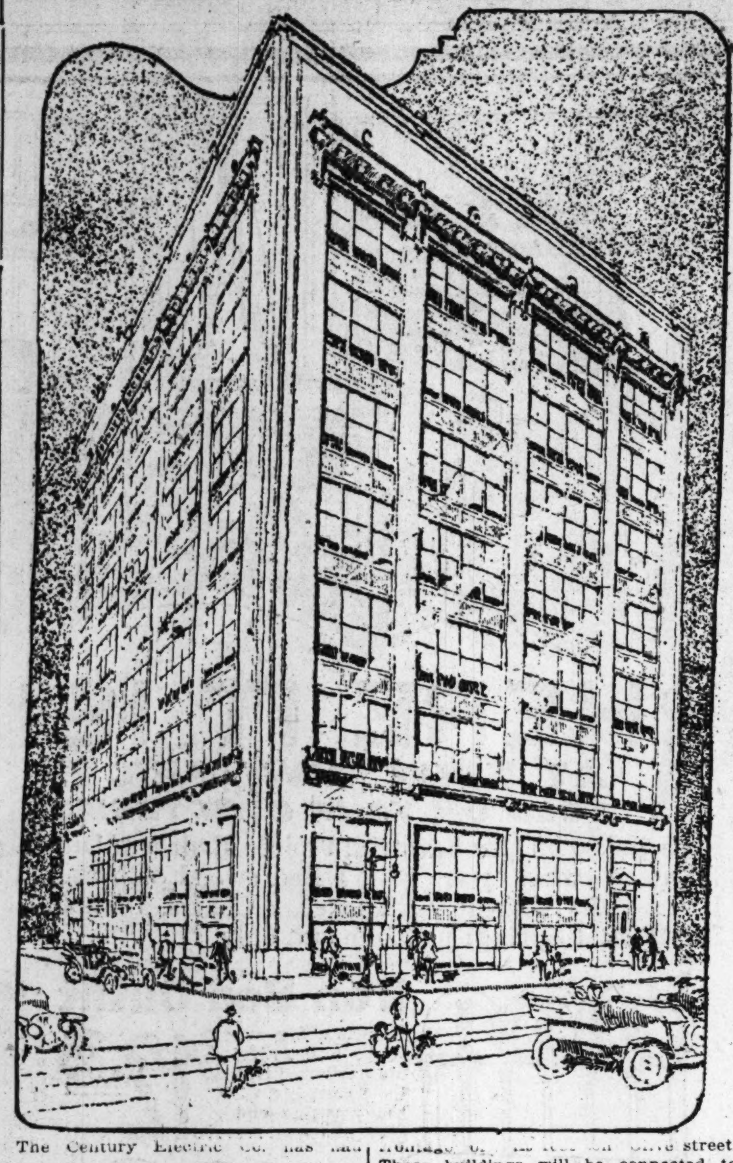
Plans have been made for five two-story buildings to be erected at 1270 and 1288 Hodiamont avenue by A. A. Feltig. The cost will be $25,000.

The Granite City Realty Co. has obtained a permit to erect a warehouse at 123 Cass avenue. Its cost will be $20,000 exclusive of the site.

William Salfer Leases Building.

A two-story building at 620 North Ninth street, on a lot 40x90 feet, has been leased to William Salfer for a term of years. Salfer is in the jobbing business. The building is owned by Louis A. Cella, a client of Cornet & Zeibig.

CENTURY ELECTRIC COMPANY TO HAVE A NEW 8-STORY BUILDING



The Century Electric Co. has had plans prepared by Albert B. Groves, architect, for an eight-story and basement fireproof building at the northeast corner of Nineteenth and Pine streets.

The general offices will occupy the entire seventh story. The local offices will occupy a portion of the first floor, the remainder of which will be used for shipping purposes. All other floors will be occupied for the manufacture of electric motors, of which this company makes a specialty.

The company now occupies a five-story building on the southeast corner of Nineteenth and Olive streets, also a two-story building adjoining, with a total frontage of [illegible] on Olive street. These buildings will be connected to the new building by means of bridges across the alley and a tunnel under it. The company will then occupy all of the above named buildings.

The building is of reinforced concrete skeleton construction and will support heavy floor loads. The exterior of the building will be faced with dark brown brick with terra cotta trimmings. The building will contain its own heating plant, sprinkler system and will be equipped with electric freight and passenger elevators.

The contract has been awarded to the John Hill Construction Co., the work to be completed by Jan. 1.

JEWELRY CONCERN TAKES WASHINGTON AVENUE CORNER

Company With Stores in Philadelphia and New Orleans Gets Location Here.

The Deluc of Paris Jewelry Co., represented by Julius Mehlig, has leased the southwest corner of Seventh street and Washington avenue, 20x30 feet. The rental is $8500, about $1.40 a square foot.

This company has stores in Philadelphia and New Orleans. The building is controlled under a lease by Kolb & Teith of Chicago and Sam Kessler of St. Louis, who were represented by the Martin Breitt Real Estate Co.

Three of the first floor tenants of the building at the southwest corner of Tenth and St. Charles streets, which is to be displaced by the new eight-story Rice-Stix annex, have been located by the Martin Breitt Real Estate Co. at Ninth and St. Charles streets.

Sam Marcus, a tailor, has taken the northwest corner of Ninth and St. Charles streets for five years, at an average annual rental of $1500. The L. D. Braden Cigar Co. has leased 503 North Ninth street for five years, at an average annual rental of $1200. The T. Morath Coffee and Tea Co. has taken 505 North Ninth street, at an average rental of $1200.

All the leases were signed the day the tenants of the Tenth and St. Charles street building were notified to move, thus displaying a bit of hustle on the part of the Martin Breitt Realty Co. This building is netting Kolb & Teith and Sam Kessler, who control it under a 30-year lease, annually about $8500.

FIRST COMMISSION FIRM GOES WEST OF BROADWAY

Hassendeubel Co. Leases Quarters at Sixth and Biddle and Others Will Follow.

Contracts have been let for the erection of a two-story and basement building at the southwest corner of Sixth and Biddle streets, which will be occupied by the Hassendeubel Commission Co. The building deal was promoted by the J. E. Kaime & Bro. Real Estate Co. on behalf of John D. Barrette, whose real estate investments have been under its direction for many years.

This is the first move westward by commission houses east of Broadway, where land is to be taken by the railroads. It is understood that several other large concerns are negotiating with the Kaime company for sites in the Biddle street district.

New Realty Company Opens.

The Steffens-Newell Realty Co., recently incorporated, has opened quarters at 903 Chestnut street. Oscar A. Steffens, senior member of the company, has been identified with the Goldman Realty Co. As a large property owner, James L. Newell, an associate member, is well known in realty circles.

ERNEST EDWARDS IS ENGAGED BY CORNET & ZEIBIG

G. W. Gregory Advanced to Head of Renting Department Succeeding W. S. Specht.

Ernest Edwards and C. W. Gregory have been engaged by Cornet & Zeibig to replace James L. Barngrover and William S. Specht. Edwards, who had been connected with the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co., is one of the most accomplished salesmen in St. Louis realty circles. He has been identified with many important transactions in both residence and business property. It is said that his sales of the former during the last year aggregated $200,000.

He has given attention to realty detail and values.

Gregory has been in the employ of the renting or leasing department of Cornet & Zeibig for 16 years. Thus he is well qualified to succeed Specht as head of the department.

Barngrover, formerly chief salesman of Cornet & Zeibig, has formed a partnership with Specht under the style of Burngrover & Specht.

They have taken over the renting business of the Greer Real Estate Co., which is to devote its attention to sale of ranch, farm and timber lands.

REAL ESTATE CONCERN WINS COMMISSIONS

Mason-Trepp Company Is Given Verdict for Entire Amount Sued For.

The Mason-Trepp Real Estate Co. yesterday was given a verdict for $1410.70 against the James Carpenter Real Estate Co., the owner of the new six-story building at 312 and 314 North Sixth street. The building was leased by the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Co. to the Regal Shoe Co. The manager of the shoe company, it was shown, had previously made inquiry as to the building at the office of the Mason-Trepp Real Estate Co. The lease covers a period of 15 years and provides for an aggregate rental of $270,000. The verdict is equivalent to a commission of one-half of one per cent of that amount, plus 6 per cent interest. When the lease was effected James M. Carpenter paid the Holbrook-Blackwelder Co. one-half of 1 per cent commission.

The case was tried before a jury in Judge Jones' Court.

THEATRICAL

THEATRICAL WANTS

It is a matter of comment in the theatrical profession that the Post-Dispatch prints a more complete theatrical want column than any other daily newspaper in the United States.

No other St. Louis newspaper is in the same class.

This column is consulted by the local profession no less carefully than by hundreds of traveling troupes and managers of play houses throughout the Southwest.

It furnishes an excellent means of communication—especially Sundays—with a great class to whom your proposition may appeal.

"YOU WANT A PIANO"
In fact, everybody would like a piano, but you're afraid to "tie" yourself up in a payment proposition. If you intend to deal with us some day, it's a great mistake on your part to put off buying, for our terms are almost like renting and we help our patrons over the rough places if they occur. We want them to recommend us to their friends. We have no solicitors to "drum" up trade. We have 22 different makes and eight different standard make players for you to choose from. Our prices are lowest because our expenses are lowest. Come now, don't put it off for your children will soon outgrow their "learning period."
F. BEYER & SON, 17th and Locust. (c37)

Pianos and Piano-Players
After you have looked at the many cheap pianos and "stool pigeons," it will be to your interest to call and see our large line of pianos and player-pianos. Our location, away from the downtown "high-rent" district, means that we can sell for a much smaller margin of profit, and we also have at all times unusual bargains in used instruments. Our rental plan saves you the drayage.

Use TIZ---

Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time by TIZ.

Send at Once for Free Trial Package.

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort. R. H. Cheney, Grundy Center, Iowa, says: "I put on a new pair of shoes the first of the week and have worn them every day since. I could never do this before using TIZ, and they are a half size smaller than I have been wearing."

TIZ is the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. Even if you should let yourself be fooled into taking a substitute for TIZ, you can't fool your feet. TIZ is for sale at all drug stores, department and general stores, 25 cents per box, or direct if you wish. Money back if TIZ doesn't do all we say. For a free trial package write today to Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

NEW PREACHER TO BRING PENNANTS TO OUR BALL TEAMS

Pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Takes Luck for Home Clubs Wherever He Goes.

PUT SENATORS NEAR TOP

The Reverend Mr. Woodrow Used to Play Short Himself and He's Ardent Fan.

The Browns shall slay the Tigers of Detroit and put the Red Sox of Boston and the White Sox of Chicago in the wash and hang them out to dry. And the Browns shall go into the first division.

The Cardinals shall rout the Corsairs of Pittsburg and trip up the Giants of New York. And the Cardinals shall also stay in the first division.

These prophecies come from Washington, D. C. That they shall be fulfilled to the letter, no member of Pilgrim Congregational Church who knows his new pastor, the Rev. Samuel Hetherington Woodrow, has much doubt.

If, like Moses, doubting momentarily that he could draw water from a rock, any should be inclined to doubt that baseball championships could be drawn to St. Louis, let them look to the record of Dr. Woodrow who arrived in St. Louis three days ago and immediately set about his work of administering the affairs of Pilgrim Church and clearing the way for pennants for the Browns and the Cardinals.

Pennants Follow Him.

Wherever Dr. Woodrow has gone from the time that he went away to college 27 years ago until now that he finds himself in St. Louis, baseball pennants have followed him—sometimes immediately and sometimes at a distance—but always following somehow. It is impossible, those who know him best say, that he should fail to bring a winner to St. Louis.

These friends point with pride to the great exploit of Dr. Woodrow in the nation's capital. For years and years the seat of our Government has been disgraced by a tail-end team in the American League. Then Dr. Woodrow jumped down there and took charge of the First Congregational Church. And everybody knows what Washington did in the American League last year. Jumped from a hopeless last right up among the "Big Three," and no one could say until the last week of the race whether Washington would cop or not.

Dr. Woodrow was full of confidence when he discussed the St. Louis situation last night with a Post-Dispatch reporter at the home of Mrs. H. M. Pflager, 19 Kingsbury place, whose guests Dr. and Mrs. Woodrow are for the time being.

What He Did for Senators.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that I will get along as well in St. Louis as I have in every other city since I was the shortstop on the Bates College nine in 1885. I do not like to give my views about a city until I have been in it long enough to get acquainted. But I cannot see that I have any harder task before me here than I had in Washington.

"When I took charge of the First Congregational Church in Washington six years ago it was much run down. The drift of the population had been away from it. And as for the baseball team! Well, I need not tell you what the Washington baseball team was six years ago.

Bates and Yale Man.

Dr. Woodrow is a graduate of Bates and of the Divinity School of Yale. The "Committee of Fifteen" of the Pilgrim Congregational Church who induced Dr. Woodrow to come to St. Louis, says of him in a pamphlet which has been issued to the congregation:

"His has been a career of marked power and achievements; he has the habit of successful work; everywhere he has been a builder; everywhere the membership has steadily increased and the audiences have filled the churches to their capacity."

Tells Why Chicks Die.

J. C. Reefer, the poultry expert of 1656 Main street, Kansas City, Mo., is giving away free a valuable book entitled "White Diarrhoea and How to Cure It." This remarkable book contains some new scientific facts on white diarrhoea and tells how to prepare a simple solution that cures this terrible disease over night. Everyone interested in poultry should certainly write Mr. Reefer for one of these free books.—Advertisement.

LEATHER MEN'S COLONY IS GROWING STEADILY

New Concerns Coming to St. Louis Locate in the Leather Trades Building.

The Leather Trades Building continues to lease space. Among leases closed during April were those to Rousmaniere, Williams & Co. and the Bay State Thread Works of Boston, represented by W. R. Wild, and also to a branch of George H. Van Pelt of Chicago, manufacturers of lasts and dyes, represented by Thomas O'Connor.

Pfister & Vogel of Milwaukee, represented by D. S. Stauffer, have moved from the Board of Education Building to join the leather men's colony at Sixteenth and Locust streets.

Since the opening of the Leather Trades Building, the trade is being visited to a greater extent by the buyers.

Lovemaker's Busy Career.

PIETERMARITZBURG, May 3.—Norman McKay, who was sentenced recently to hard labor at Durban for forgery, had during his career proposed to and been accepted by 18 women, with nine of whom he eloped.

AL, JOSEPH AND WILLIAM MROZEK, PAULINE MILLER AND CHARLES SUZEK, Children.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the relatives and many friends for the kind sympathy extended us during the illness and death of our beloved one, Charles A. Resler. We especially thank the Rev. Heath and Rev. Rake for the kind and loving words administered during his illness, and at the funeral services; we also thank the choir from Water Tower Baptist Church for the sweet songs, and also for the many beautiful floral offerings.

WIFE, PARENTS, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

In Memoriam.

In memory of my beloved husband and our father, Philip Snyder, who departed this life April 30, 1910.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our beloved father, Julius Goetz, who departed this life three years ago, May 5, 1910.

Oh, the joy of that glad meeting
With the saints who for us wait;
We will meet you in the morning,
Just inside the eastern gate.

Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Adelaide Blumentritt, who departed this life three years ago, May 4, 1910.

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear mother, loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
Our dear mother would be called away.

Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER THERESA AND FAMILY.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Marie Lang, who departed this life two years ago, May 6, 1911.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

We saw your suffering,
We heard your sighs,
With throbbing heart
And weeping eyes.

But now you calmly sleep at last,
All grief, all pain, all suffering past;
God loved you, too, He thought it best
To take you home to be at rest.

Sadly missed by
FATHER AND CHILDREN, GEORGE LANG.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of our dear son, William H. Ehlich, who departed this life one year ago, May 6, 1912.

One year has passed, our hearts still sore,
And as time goes on we miss you more;
The moon and stars are shining on a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our dear son, whom we loved but could not save.
We saw your sufferings and heard your sighs
With throbbing heart and weeping eyes;
But now you calmly sleep at last,
All pain, all grief, all sufferings passed.
God in His mercy called you home,
We bow to His sweet will.

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, SISTER AND BROTHER.

WANT AD GROWTH CONTINUES

Last week the Post-Dispatch printed 631 more Want Ads than were printed by this paper during the corresponding week a year ago.

The count of people's popular Wants was 14,902.

This was 1027 more than were printed by the Globe-Democrat and Republic COMBINED, and 2801 more than appeared in the Republic, Times and Star COMBINED.

There is an explanation for this growth and leadership.

Post-Dispatch Wants are RESULT ADS.

Lost and Found

Solid agate, 10c line; minimum 20c.

THAT LOST ARTICLE MAY NOT BE FOUND TODAY

Or tomorrow or next week. In fact, a month or more may elapse before it turns up. A little persistency may be necessary. Often the article remains unfound; often fear of prosecution or hope of a more satisfactory reward may delay the restoration. Then the belated awakening of the finder's conscience explains many delays. But persistency and Post-Dispatch wants will usually recover a lost article if an honest person finds it. The service of the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau is also enlisted in behalf of advertisers.

LADY SHOWYOU

Why not buy the best chicken feed in the world for the same price you are paying for feed that you are not absolutely sure will give results. Chamberlain's Perfect Chick Feed is the only original dry baby chick feed and is the only chick feed on the market that we have examined that does not contain corn and that contains meat, bone and everything else that goes to make a perfect chick feed. Lady Showyou, the great white plymouth rock hen, winner of the national egg laying contest at Mountain Grove, Mo., with a record of 82 eggs in 82 days and 281 eggs in the year; and recently sold for the sum of $800, was reared on Chamberlain's Perfect Chick Feed. Where you find the blue ribbon tag on a coop at the different poultry shows over the country it is a 10 to 1 shot that the prize winner was raised on Chamberlain's Perfect Chick Feed. We will sell you our Perfect Feeds at the following prices, express paid to your house: Chamberlain's Perfect Chick Feed, $2.50 a 100 lbs.; Perfect Hen Feed, $2 a 100 lbs.; Perfect Mash Egg Feed, $2.50 a 100 lbs.; Perfect Evergreen Clover Meal, $2.50 a 100 lbs.; Perfect Pigeon Feed, $2.50 a 100 lbs.; Meat Scraps, $3 a 100 lbs. We will sell you the following variety of eggs (Chamberlain's Strain) at the following prices by way of parcel post to your house, all charges paid: White and brown leghorn eggs, $1 per setting; white and silver lace wyandotte eggs, $1.25 per setting; barred and white plymouth rock eggs, $1.25 per setting; rhode island red eggs, $1.25 per setting; black minorca eggs, $1.50 per setting; white orpington eggs, $1.75 per setting; 10 Indian runner duck eggs, $1.25; 10 white Pekin duck eggs, $1.25; leghorn eggs by the 100, $5. Old Trusty incubators and brooders at factory prices. Telephone Main 2943 for anything you desire in our line.

FARMS FOR SALE

GOVERNOR NORMAN J. COLMAN

Spent the last 30 years of his life in building up and improving what he claimed to be the "Best Stock Farm" in the entire State of Missouri. 212 acres of splendid, rich, fertile ground, rolling but not broken; 12 miles from St. Louis on the Olive street and Mill Creek roads, near Creve Coeur Lake, and overlooking the Missouri River, and its famous bottom lands for miles. Good house and all necessary outbuildings, family orchard of miscellaneous fruit and plenty of fine water. This is a splendid farm, situated in the richest and most picturesque part of the county, on fine roads, and with good transportation. The Creve Coeur branch of the Missouri Pacific R. R. runs through the place, and Colman Station is only a short distance from the residence.

This must be sold; parties looking for a bargain should waste no time in seeing this. For price, terms and other information, see

Main 2802. 614 Chestnut. Cent. 873.

RICH, PRODUCTIVE SOIL.
$100 TO $2000 PER ACRE MADE.

We leave St. Louis Tuesday, May 6, for Florida with private parties who will investigate our special offer to sell land at the reasonable price of $40 per acre; the purchaser will be required to pay no part of the principal during the first five years, paying, however, 6 per cent per annum on the purchase price; this gives you a chance to cultivate your land and pay for it with the crops grown; Irish potatoes alone will net $200 to $500 per acre. If we did not know what has been produced from this rich soil we could not make this offer. We reserve every other farm to be sold at an advanced price; we have railroads, near large market; in fact, all that appeals to the modern farmer, right at our door; go with us and select a farm for next year if you cannot locate now. We want representatives. Let us select for you; your money refunded or selection changed if not approved upon inspection within 60 days. Particulars.

Also beautiful cottages as follows:
5140 St. Louis; 5 rooms.
4070-2-4 Schiller pl., 3 rooms.
4620 San Francisco av.
4223 Clarence av.; also 4605 Sacramento.
2528 Burd av.
4703 Greer av.

Above consist firstly of magnificent flats, not yet complete. Salesman on grounds all day. Will complete to suit you.

The cottages consist of 3, 4, 5 and 6 rooms. I am winding up these buildings and have sold more than any one in St. Louis; because we give the most value for the money. Come out Sunday to Harris av. and make your selection. Mr. Jackson, salesman, is there, and will show you properties; strictly the finest cottages and flats ever offered to the public in St. Louis. See these before looking anywhere else. No reasonable offer refused; terms if necessary. 4703 Greer is a beautiful 6-room residence, also open Sunday.

See me before buying. My specialty is building of cottages, flats and homes. I save you from $400 to $500 on each. If above are not suitable I will build you one $400 cheaper than you can get anywhere else in St. Louis. Will build you any cottage to order to suit you. If you mean business come out to Harris av. and Mr. Jackson will go over details and be happy to give you all information and ideas.

This shows what Washington Park is doing!

Over 3000 factory-workmen coming; 1000 houses needed at once.

Washington Park is not a 20 or 30 acre subdivision, depending entirely on the growth of a community. It is a great combination factory and residence district development—a model factory district and a beautiful residence section, side by side, located in and backed up by the fastest-growing city in the United States, East St. Louis, Ill.

Three big factories are already located which will employ thousands of skilled workmen—more factories are coming—because our model manufacturing district has got anything around skinned a city mile. A thousand houses for rent and for sale are needed now—and values are climbing with the location of each new improvement. A public park and driving boulevard are established. Paved street and street car line to center of district are already built.

This is an industrial development—value building—for working men, and terms of sale are $1.00 per week on each lot. Whether you have $1.00 or $1000, this is your chance to make money. See it at once.

MARVELOUS!

We have at last reached the acme of perfection in cottage-bungalow building; architects and builders who have seen them have marveled at their completeness, their compactness, their beauty and artistic finish and above all at their moderate price; it has taken years of study and experimenting to produce these wonderful little homes. Added to all this, we are prepared to sell them on terms like rent.

Look at them today, for tomorrow may be too late. Some have already been sold before completion.

PERRY'S FLAGSHIP TO SAIL AGAIN ON LAKE ERIE.

"NIAGARA," WHICH SNATCHED VICTORY FROM DEFEAT IN HEROIC ACTION, RAISED FROM CENTURY-OLD GRAVE ON LAKE BOTTOM.

PERRY LEAVING THE FLAGSHIP "LAWRENCE" TO GO ABOARD THE "NIAGARA." FROM A PAINTING BY W. H. POWELL.

THE famous man-of-war Niagara, the inaction of which first nearly lost and the gallantry of which then retrieved the romantic naval action on Lake Erie a century ago, has been raised from her tomb in the mud of Erie Harbor, and is being repaired and refitted to take the stellar role in a celebration this summer and fall of the one hundredth year since Oliver Hazard Perry's victory.

On July 4 the resurrected Niagara will once more put forth upon the inland sea from which she drove the British power, and will lead a naval pageant which will proceed about the lake. The festivities will continue until Oct. 5, and the supreme day of the celebration will be Sept. 10, the centennial anniversary of Perry's triumph. Twelve lake cities will participate under the auspices of the Perry Centennial Commission, and the ceremonies will come to an end with the dedication of a $700,000 Perry Memorial on B[illegible] Island, in Put-in Bay, the scene of the battle of Lake Erie.

The raising of the Niagara from the grave in which she has lain for nearly a century was a hardy engineering feat, the difficulty of which was enhanced by the fact that it was performed during winter months and for a part of the time during one of the severest blizzards Lake Erie has recently seen.

The contractor was instructed to use the utmost care against injuring the aged hulk. He planned to sink pontoons alongside the Niagara and pump them out, bringing the hull to the surface with them. But storms prevented the undertaking. Then four pontoons were anchored on either side of the wreck and others at the bow and stern. Chains were passed under the keel by divers, and the hull, 110 feet long and 30 feet in beam, was dragged by main force from its muddy bed and hauled to the surface through 20 feet of water. The enterprise required three months of daily battle against blizzard and ice, in which the workmen were often in danger of losing their lives.

Crowds of spectators who had gathered to scoff remained to storm the famous hulk in search of souvenirs. Until the Niagara's gun ports appeared in view, they rallied the contractor with the jest that his chains had gripped an old canal boat. But as the outlines of the famous battleship were recognized, the workmen were compelled to use force to prevent curio seekers from vandalism.

When the hull was dragged upon the beach, she was found to be in astonishingly good condition considering the decades she had lain under water. After a century's accumulation of slime was scraped away, extensive repairs were begun in order to render the craft seaworthy.

The Perry memorial will be a Doric shaft 320 feet high which will serve as a lighthouse, under which will be buried the bodies of the American and British sailors who were killed in the battle. They now sleep on Bass Island. The shaft will stand on a plaza and will be surrounded by a reservation of 14 acres.

The raising of the Niagara and her triumphant cruise about Lake Erie will serve to awaken in thousands of minds a vivid remembrance of one of the most romantic actions in the splendid history of the American navy. The battle of Lake Erie was one of the first great naval engagements fought on an inland sea. Perry, only 27 years old, was in semi-disgrace because the Revenge, which he commanded, had run ashore and been lost two years before at Watch Hill, R. I. He was tried by courtmartial, but acquitted.

Only a hero or a man in desperation would have applied, as he did, to be assigned to naval service on the Great Lakes in the War of 1812. The brilliant actions of the conflict were being performed on the high seas. The surrender of Hull at Detroit and the command of the lakes by Barclay, a veteran of Trafalgar and a companion of the heroic Nelson, seemed to have relinquished that American territory now known as the Northwest to British supremacy.

Perry, arriving at Put-in Bay, found himself a commander without a fleet. He resolved to build one, and the building of the ships which humbled the hero of Trafalgar was an even greater feat than the victory of Lake Erie itself. One fact will epitomize the entire enterprise. The chain cable of the Niagara was carried through the wilds for 500 miles on the shoulders of volunteer sailors.

The most desperate measures were employed to recruit a crew. About 50 per cent of the Jack Tars were negroes. Among the rest was a considerable number of landsmen, and to most of his gunners Perry had to teach the A-B-C's of cannon firing.

Nevertheless, as soon as he had his ships completed and the requisite number of men on board, Perry sallied forth to defy the enemy. After some hesitation on the part of the British, the challenge was accepted, and the fleets soon lay face to face.

Perry's flagship was the Lawrence, and his banner bore the last words of the heroic commander of the Chesapeake: "Don't give up the ship."

The Lawrence and the Niagara were Perry's largest vessels. The later was captained by Commandant. Elliot. Perry, whose ordnance was superior at close range and inferior at long range to that of the enemy, pressed into the heart of the British fleet. There the Lawrence was quickly riddled from bow to stern and most of the crew were killed or wounded. For some reason not yet accurately determined, Elliot held the Niagara aloof and did not go to the aid of the Lawrence.

Then occurred one of the most dramatic incidents of all naval warfare. Perry, with his young brother, then a midshipman, and four sailors, embarked in a rowboat and set out for the Niagara. About his arm was wrapped the banner with its legend, "Don't give up the ship." During their passage half a dozen vessels bent upon the tiny craft their concentrated cannon and musketry fire. Nevertheless, Perry and his companions arrived unscathed on the deck of the Niagara, thence to pluck victory from defeat.

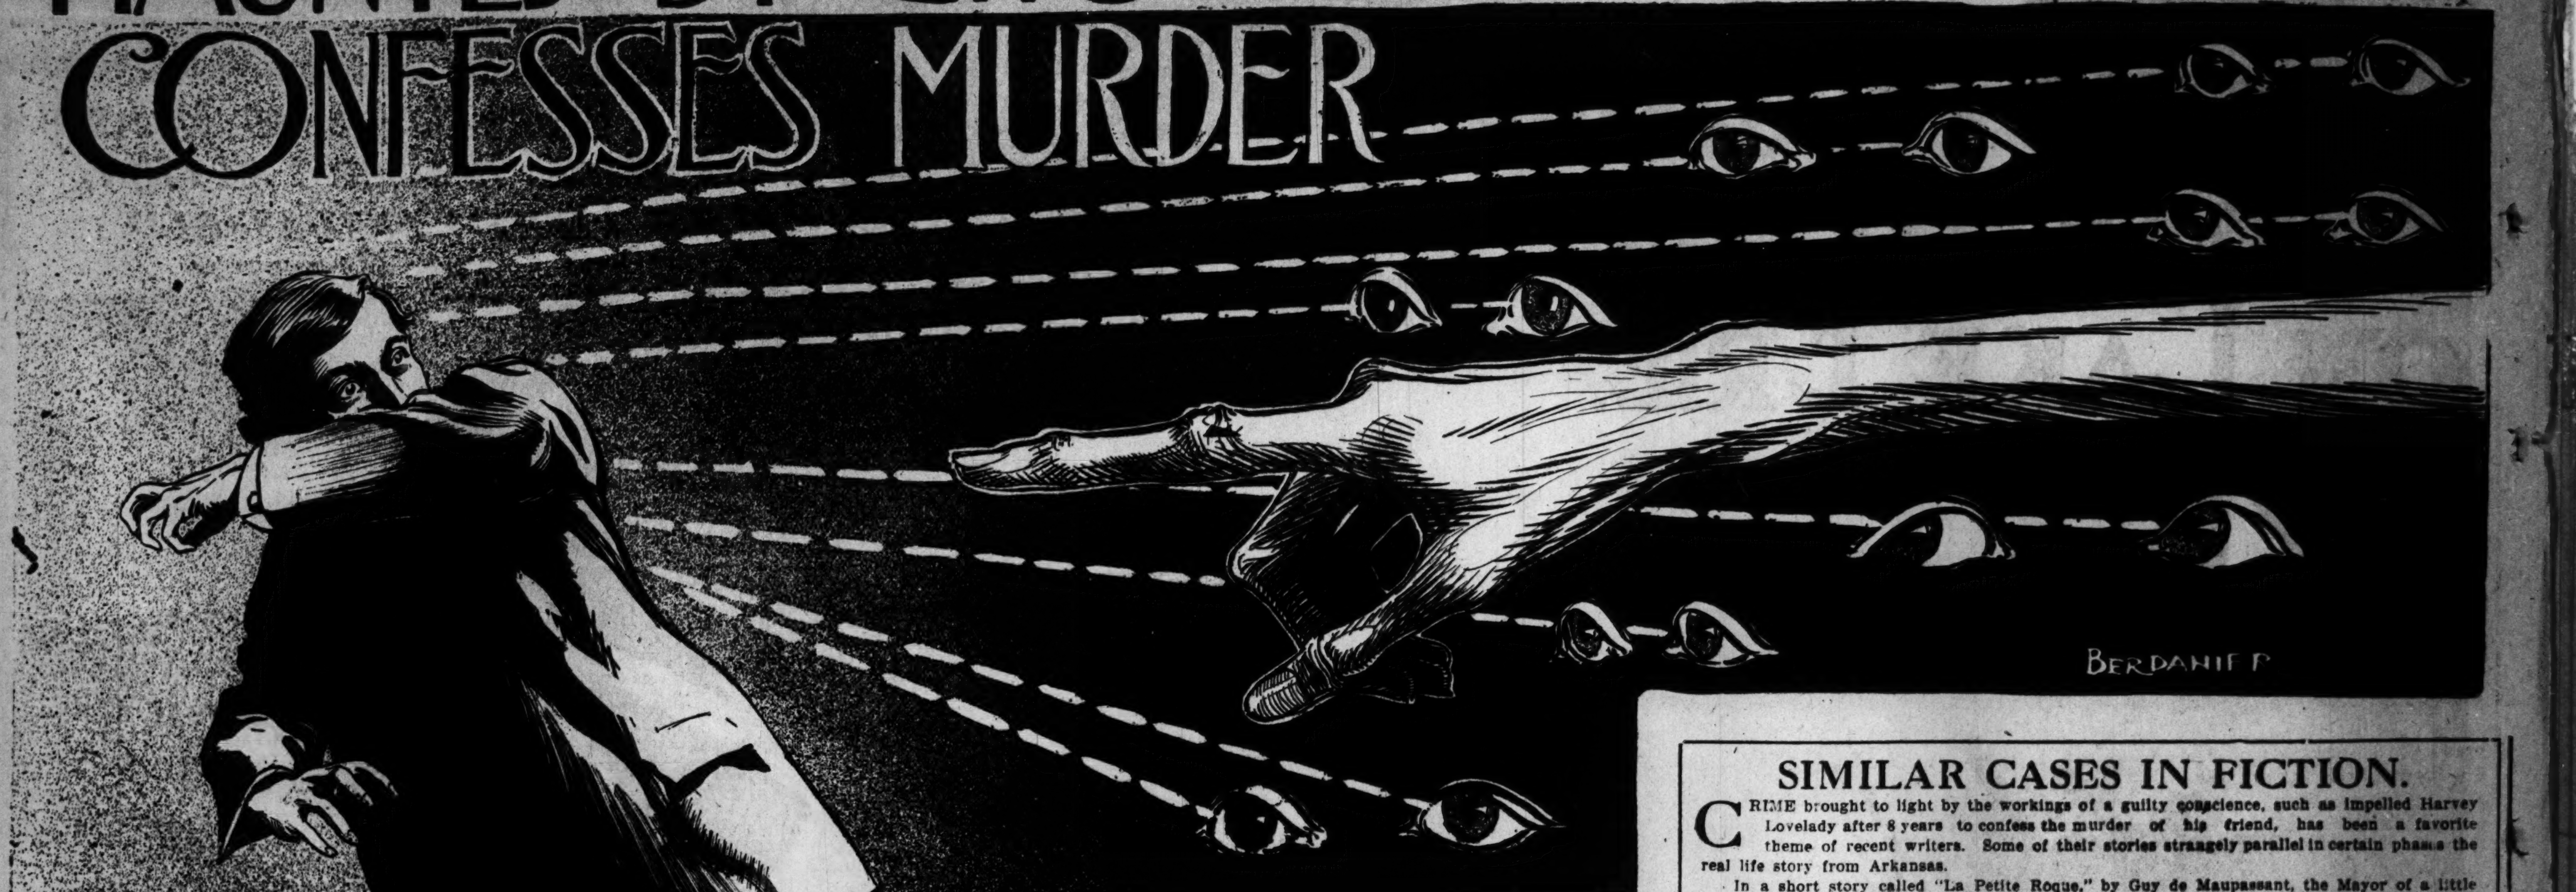
The Niagara, with her fresh crew and almost undiminished store of ammunition, rushed among the English ships, firing broadsides to right and left with deadly effect. The enemy was disorganized by the onset and two of the ships became fouled. The other vessels of the American squadron hastened to support the Niagara, which had now become the flagship, and even the tiny sloops with only one or two guns each dealt destruction with each shot.

Barclay's one arm was carried away by a cannon ball, he having lost the other at Trafalgar. Then the British ships struck their colors, and the Americans were masters of the Great Lakes. This victory meant among other things that Detroit would be a city of the United States instead of Canada. Perry sent the following famous dispatch to Gen. Harrison:

"We have met the enemy and they are our[illegible] two ships, two brigs, one schooner and one sloop[illegible]

An idol of the American people, rewarded [illegible] Congress with medals and promotion, Perry liv[illegible] only six years longer. While in command [illegible] the Frigate John Adams and other vessels in th[illegible] West Indies, he died of yellow fever in 1819. I[illegible] was his brother, the celebrated Commodore M[illegible]thew C. Perry, who opened up the Japanese [illegible]pire to foreign intercourse, and who may [illegible] sense be said to have been the author of [illegible] present status as a world power.

HAUNTED BY GHOST OF PINEY CREEK CONFESSES MURDER



After Eight Years, Harvey Lovelady of Arkansas, Who Was Chief Mourner at Friend's Funeral, Took Lead in Searching for His Murderer and Attended Trial of Innocent Man Accused of Crime, Is Driven by Remorse in Far-Away Washington State to Reveal His Own Guilt

THE psychology of guilty conscience, which, though a theme as old as Orestes, has recently been rediscovered in fascinating guise by literary realists, has in the Southwest today found dramatic exposition in the true story of how a man, unsuspected of a crime, was driven by the furies of remorse to confess to a murder committed eight years before. This is the narrative, which unfolds itself with the thrilling effect of facts:

On the evening of Feb. 27, 1905, Thomas Ragsdale, 28 years old, son of a well-to-do farmer near Silex, in Pope County, Arkansas, left Silex on horseback to ride to his home. His way lay through mountainous and lonely country along a path bordered with dense woods. To one side ran Big Piney Creek, which deepens at places into dangerous pools.

The next morning Ragsdale's riderless horse arrived at its stable. As the young man had been in company with a party of convivial spirits in Silex, his relatives thought he had dismounted from his horse and gone to sleep on the roadside, and that he would reach home within a few hours. But when the day passed without his appearing, a searching party was organized. Ragsdale's hat was found on the road. But, although the woods and neighboring country were thoroughly examined, no other trace of him was discovered.

After a week had passed a peculiar incident happened. An aged crone, who told fortunes and had the reputation of a sorceress among the superstitious, sent word to Sheriff Hatley of a vision that had come to her. She said that in a trance she had seen the missing man's body lying at the bottom of a deep pool which is formed by the Big Piney about a mile below Owen's Ford.

The pool was dragged and Ragsdale's body was found. No mark of violence was detected upon it but his relatives, because of the fact that $100 in gold was missing which they said he had carried when he left home, charged that he had been robbed and murdered.

In the investigation which followed this charge, none was more ardent than Harvey Lovelady, who was not only a neighbor but a bosom friend of Ragsdale. Of the same age, they had grown to manhood together. Lovelady was one of the gay party at Silex in which his friend was last seen alive. Like Ragsdale, he was the son of a prosperous farmer.

Lovelady shared the opinion of Ragsdale's relatives that he had been murdered. On several occasions he was seen wandering beside the fatal pool and along the overhanging bluff, from which the theory was that Ragsdale's body had been flung. He explained that he was searching for clews which might betray the murderer, and his expressed ambition to avenge his friend's death was praised in the community.

In a few days a suspect was arrested and had a preliminary hearing at Silex. Lovelady attended the session and hung with an absorption which seemed a tribute to the memory of his dead chum upon every syllable of testimony. He became visibly agitated as the evidence swung this way and that. But at the end, when the prisoner's innocence was proved, Lovelady sprang up eagerly and grasped his hand with congratulations which even then, spectators now remember, impressed them vaguely as being oddly fervent.

After some weeks a baffled Coroner's jury returned a non-committal verdict of "death by drowning." The popular conclusion was reached that the tragedy was the result of accident, that Ragsdale had fallen from his horse while riding beside the pool. As the years passed, the case became almost forgotten.

About a year after Ragsdale's death, Lovelady carried out a purpose he had expressed long before. He left Arkansas for the West. Letters arrived from him at intervals with postmarks of Colorado, California and Washington State.

Thomas Ragsdall, whom his chum, Harvey Lovelady, confesses he killed eight years ago.

Like the tragedy, Lovelady himself became a hazy memory in the community. Its floating recollections were suddenly crystallized into sharp solidity by a startling letter which was received a month ago by Sheriff J. W. Danley. It read:

"Fort Stellaccom, Wash.

"Sheriff of Pope County, Russellville, Ark.

"Dear Sir:—Yesterday we admitted to this institution a patient by the name of Harvey Lovelady, who, upon examination, told us a rather peculiar story which might be one of his insane delusions, and, again, there might be some truth in it.

"He is very depressed and evidently suffering from very distressing delusions or worrying about some act he has committed. He stated to our traveling guard that he realized he was an officer sent out from Arkansas and said he would make a clean breast of the affair.

"He acknowledged having killed one Tom Ragsdale, whose father, William Ragsdale, now lives at Hagarville, Ark. He says this deed was committed near Silex, Pope County, Arkansas, in February, 1905.

"He claimed that in company with Ragsdale they had been drinking a great deal in Silex and were both much intoxicated and got into a fight, in which Ragsdale was killed.

"Lovelady then went through Ragsdale's pockets and claims he appropriated about $40. He then threw the body into a river or a creek nearby. The man tells quite a straight story.

"A. F. CALHOUN, Superintendent, Western Hospital for the Insane."

This communication created a sensation in Silex and the countryside about. Residents scoured their memories for the details of Lovelady's behavior at the time. He had attended the funeral, it was recalled, and had sat as a mourner among the dead man's family. He had accompanied the body to the cemetery and had given way to his grief at the grave side. He had taken the lead in the search for the murderer. He had walked among them guilty and unsuspected for a year.

No one accepted the alternative suggested by Supt. Calhoun, that Lovelady's story might be one of his insane delusions. All accepted his story as true. "Murder will out!" whispered some. "The wicked flee when no man pursueth," quoted others. Further information about Lovelady was eagerly awaited from Fort Stellaccom.

It proved that he had been found wandering about a town in Western Washington and committed to the Western Hospital for the Insane. On trainboard, going hither, he began a rambling monologue to which his guard did not attend until he caught the words, "dead man in a creek." A crime in which a man was thrown into a stream and for which no one had been brought to justice had recently occurred in Washington. So the guard persuaded Lovelady to continue his story.

It was a dramatic narrative of how a man fled for eight years from the ever-pursuing phantom of the friend whom he had killed. During the year he remained at home overmastering impulses compelled him to revisit the scene of the murder. While he sat spellbound, his legs refusing to bear him away, his imagination saw the tragedy enacted time and time again before his eyes.

He saw himself and Ragsdale riding side by side and heard the first angry words. He saw the exchange of blows and saw Ragsdale suddenly collapse to the earth. He watched himself dragging the body to the edge of the bluff and pushing it over the edge. He heard the splash of water below. Then he beheld himself stealing away with the burden of a dreadful secret on his soul.

In despair and horror he determined to flee the stage on which the tragedy had been enacted, hoping to find rest from remorse in far away scenes. But to Colorado, to California and to far-away Washington the Ghost of Piney Creek pursued him relentlessly.

Dogged by this frightful shadow, he fled restlessly from one city to the next, from one state to another. As he paced the streets sometimes the wraith stepped suddenly from behind him. Sometimes it abruptly turned a corner and met him face to face. It glared at him over the footboard of his bed until he hid his face beneath the blankets, and then printed itself as with searing iron upon his eyeballs.

Accompanying this specter was another fear, lesser but poignant also. In every policeman he saw a pursuer, at the point of seizing him and dragging him to the bar of justice. Every eye that looked sharply at him seemed to be penetrating his secret. Random words spoken by acquaintances, in which he felt a double meaning, stabbed him with a thrust of terror.

Under this unending torture, Lovelady's mind began to weaken, he himself declaring in a lucid moment that he began to sense the coming of insanity three years ago. There were merciful periods of blank forgetfulness, alternating with periods of memory in which his malady only sensitized his nerves for suffering.

It was during one of the latter intervals that he made his confession to the guard, whose uniform and buttons had awakened his old dread of capture. He was convinced that the attendant was a marshal from Arkansas, come to take him back, and that concealment was at an end. It was with an overwhelming relief that at last he felt he was able to disburden his bowed soul of its heavy secret.

The Arkansas authorities have notified Supt. Calhoun that in case Lovelady recovers his reason he shall be returned to Pope County for prosecution. But in the meantime no effort will be made to extradite him. If he were taken to Arkansas, said Prosecuting Attorney Steel Hays of Pope County, the only measure which could be adopted at present would be to incarcerate him in the State Hospital for the Treatment of Nervous Diseases.

SIMILAR CASES IN FICTION.

CRIME brought to light by the workings of a guilty conscience, such as impelled Harvey Lovelady after 8 years to confess the murder of his friend, has been a favorite theme of recent writers. Some of their stories strangely parallel in certain phases the real life story from Arkansas.

In a short story called "La Petite Roque," by Guy de Maupassant, the Mayor of a little town murders a young girl. Like Lovelady, the Mayor took the lead in searching for the criminal. No suspicion fell upon himself. But he was haunted by an apparition of the child's body, which, gleaming as with phosphorus, floated nightly into his room. His terror drove him to write a full confession in a letter and then to kill himself.

There is another famous story by the same author entitled "Diary of a Madman." Lovelady attended the trial of an innocent man who was charged with the crime which he has now confessed. The mad Judge in the story not only witnessed the trial of a man accused of a murder which the Judge himself had committed but sentenced the innocent unfortunate to death and went to see him guillotined. The Jurist left a full confession in a diary found in his papers after his death.

In Dostoevski's "Crime and Punishment" the chief character murders two old women and robs them. He betrays himself by the feverish anxiety with which he discusses the case with every comer. Like Lovelady, he is haunted by specters of the dead women, and although knowing they are figments of a disordered imagination, is finally driven by them to confession.

MASSAGE TO HEAL BONE FRACTURES

SURGEONS are now employing masseurs to aid them in healing fractures. The first distinguished surgeon to practice massage in such cases was the famous Frenchman, Lucus-Championniere, and his disciples have developed its use in many ways.

James Mennell read a paper on the subject before the Medical Society of London a few weeks ago, in which he described the massage as consisting of slow, light, rhythmical stroking in the neighborhood of the injury, the movement being merely a "caress" and "almost resembling mesmeric pass," the actual site of the injury being scrupulously avoided. It consists of two elements—passive movement and active movement. When the dose of passive movement is being given the patient must be made to co-operate by actively relaxing the whole part.

The Medical Record remarks that the underlying principle of the treatment is that "movement is life." This form of massage differs from the ordinary in that the latter aims at compulsion, whether of the blood in a given direction or of some movement, while the massage advocated by Lucas-Championniere attempts by its reflex action through the nervous system only to restore the tone of the vaso-motor system.

Treatment of Sufferers From Electric Shocks

IN a letter to the Lancet, Dr. Reginald Morton, president of the Section of Electro-Therapeutics, Royal Society of Medicine, says there are few medical men, and still fewer laymen, who know how properly to deal with a case of electric shock.

"There are," he says, "only two fundamental facts that need be impressed upon the minds of everyone. The first is that death from electrical shock is only an apparent death at first; and secondly, whatever the conditions or severity of the accident, there is practically always a time, varying from a few minutes upward, during which it is possible to resuscitate the victim by artificial respiration if resorted to at once. So important is it to commence artificial respiration quickly that it is the first duty of the bystander to see to this before everything else. He must not leave the victim to summon medical aid—it may be too late by the time the doctor arrives—but he should send for medical assistance if there is anyone else present. "If the victim has fallen clear of electrical contact first aid may be given at once, but if he remains in contact with the circuit the first step is to get him free. This is dangerous to the rescuer unless care is taken, but the necessary precautions are simple enough for any voltage likely to be encountered by the public—the highest being that used for railways and tramways, about 600 volts. If, then, the victim remains in contact with the circuit, his body must not be touched by his rescuer, but the latter may pull him out of contact by hauling on the clothing, or he may take off his own coat, insert his hands in the sleeves, and then handle the victim with little or no risk to himself. Almost any article of clothing or material may be used, provided it is dry and of moderate thickness.

"Artificial respiration must be persevered with for at least two hours, or until the patient revives; in many cases it may be only a few minutes. After return to consciousness complete rest is essential for a day or two, and under no circumstances must the man be allowed to return to work at once, as he may wish to do if the shock has been a light one. With the prompt application of first aid almost every victim can be revived."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S STORY OF HIS LIFE

The Only Narrow Escape I Ever Had Was From a Grizzly," Writes Famous Hunter, "and in Africa the Animal Killed Closest to Me as It Was Charging Was a Rhinoceros"

"The VIGOR of LIFE"

MY own experience as regards marksmanship was much the same as my experience as regards horsemanship. There are men whose eye and hand are so quick and so sure that they achieve a perfection of marksmanship to which no practice will enable ordinary men to attain. There are other men who cannot learn to shoot with any accuracy at all. In between come the mass of men of ordinary abilities who, if they choose resolutely to practice, can by sheer industry and judgment make themselves fair rifle shots. The men who show this requisite industry and judgment can without special difficulty raise themselves to the second class of respectable rifle shots; and it is to this class that I belong. But to have reached this point of marksmanship with the rifle at a target by no means implies ability to hit game in the field, especially dangerous game.

All kinds of other qualities, moral and physical, enter into being a good hunter, and especally a good hunter after dangerous game, just as all kinds of other qualities in addition to skill with the rifle enter into being a good soldier. With dangerous game, after a fair degree of efficiency with the rifle has been attained, the prime requisites are cool judgment and that kind of nerve whch consists in avoiding being rattled. Any beginner is apt to have "buck fever," and therefore no beginner should go at dangerous game.

Buck fever means a state of intense nervous excitement which may be entirely divorced from timidity. It may affect a man the first time he has to speak to a large audience just as it affects him the first time he sees a buck or goes into battle. What such a man needs is not courage, but nerve control, cool-headedness. This he can get only by actual practice. He must, by custom and repeated exercise of self-mastery, get his nerves thoroughly under control. This is largely a matter of habit, in the sense of repeated effort and repeated exercise of will power.

Exercise of Will Power Cure for "Buck Fever."

If the man has the right stuff in him, his will grows stronger and stronger with each exercise of it—and if he has not the right stuff in him he had better keep clear of dangerous game hunting, or indeed of any other form of sport or work in which there is bodily peril.

After he has achieved the ability to exercise weariness and judgment and the control over his nerves which will make him shoot as well at the game as at a target, he can begin his essays at dangerous game hunting, and he will then find that it does not demand such abnormal prowess as the outsider is apt to imagine. A man who can hit a soda-water bottle at a distance of a few yards can brain a lion or a bear or an elephant at that distance, and if he cannot brain it when it charges he can at least bring it to a standstill. All he has to do is to shoot as accurately as he would at a soda-water bottle; and to do this requires nerve, at least as much as it does physical address.

Having reached this point, the hunter must not imagine that he is warranted in taking desperate chances. There are degrees in proficiency; and what is a warrantable and legitimate risk for a man to take when he has reached a certain grade of efficiency may be a foolish risk for him to take before he has reached that grade. A man who has reached the degree of proficiency indicated above is quite warranted in walking in at a lion at bay, in an open plain, to, say, within a hundred yards. If the lion has not charged, the man ought at that distance to knock him over and prevent his charging; and if the lion is already charging, the man ought at that distance to be able to stop him. But the amount of prowess which warrants a man in relying on his ability to perform this feat does not by any means justify him in thinking that, for instance, he can crawl after a wounded lion into thick cover.

I have known men of indifferent prowess to perform this latter feat successfully, but at least as often they have been unsuccessful, and in these cases the result has been unpleasant. The man who habitually follows wounded lions into thick cover must be a hunter of the highest skill, or he can count with certainty on an ultimate mauling.

The first two or three bucks I ever saw gave me buck fever badly, but after I had gained experience with ordinary game I never had buck fever at all with dangerous game. In my case the overcoming of buck fever was the result of conscious effort and a deliberate determination to overcome it. More happily constituted men never have to make this determined effort at all—which may perhaps show that the average man can profit more from my experience than he can from those of the exceptional man.

I have shot only five kinds of animals which could fairly be called dangerous game—that is, the lion, elephant, rhinoceros, and buffalo in Africa, and the big grizzly bear a quarter of a century ago in the Rockies. Taking into account not only my own personal experience, but the experiences of many veteran hunters, I regard all the four African animals, but especially the lion, elephant and buffalo, as much more dangerous than the grizzly. As it happened, however, the only narrow escape I personally ever had was from a grizzly, and in Africa the animal killed closest to me as it was charging was a rhinoceros—all of which goes to show that a man must not generalize too broadly from his own personal experiences.

On the whole, I think the lion the most dangerous of all these five animals; that is, I think that, if fairly hunted, there is a larger percentage of hunters killed or mauled for a given number of lions killed than for a given number of any one of the other animals. Yet I personally had no difficulties with lions. I twice killed lions which were at bay and just starting to charge, and I killed a heavy-maned male while it was in full charge. But in each instance I had plenty of leeway, the animal being so far off that even if my bullet had not been fatal I should have had time for a couple more shots.

The African buffalo is undoubtedly a dangerous beast, but it happened that the few that I shot did not charge. A bull elephant, a vicious "rogue," which had been killing people in the native villages, did charge before being shot at. My son Kermit and I stopped it at 40 yards.

Another bull elephant, also unwounded, which charged, nearly got me, as I had just fired both cartridges from my heavy double-barreled rifle in killing the bull I was after—the first wild elephant I had ever seen. The second bull came through the thick brush to my left like a steam plow through a light snowdrift, everything snapping before his rush, and was so near that he could have hit me with his trunk. I slipped past him behind a tree. People have asked me how I felt on this occasion. My answer has always been that I suppose I felt as most men of like experience feel on such occasions. At such a moment a hunter is so very busy that he has no time to get frightened. He wants to get in his cartridges and try another shot.

Rhinoceros Brought Down Only 13 Paces From Hunters.

Rhinoceros are truculent, blustering beasts, much the most stupid of all the dangerous game I know. Generally their attitude is one of mere stupidity and bluff. But on occasions they do charge wickedly, both when wounded and when entirely unprovoked. The first I ever shot I mortally wounded at a few rods' distance, and it charged with the utmost determination, whereat I and my companion both fired, and more by good luck than anything else brought it to the ground just 13 paces from where we stood.

Another rhinoceros may or may not have been meaning to charge me; I have never been certain which. It heard us and came at us through rather thick brush, snorting and tossing its head. I am by no means sure that it had fixedly hostile intentions, and indeed with my present experience I think it likely that if I had not fired it would have flinched at the last moment and either retreated or gone by me. But I am not a rhinoceros mind reader, and its actions were such as to warrant my regarding it as a suspicious character. I stopped it with a couple of bullets, and then followed it up and killed it. The skins of all these animals which I thus killed are in the National Museum at Washington.

But, as I said above, the only narrow escape I met with was not from one of these dangerous African animals, but from a grizzly bear. It was about 24 years ago. I had wounded the bear just at sunset, in a wood of lodge-pole pines, and, following him, I wounded him again, as he stood on the other side of a thicket. He then charged through the brush, coming with such speed and with such an irregular gait that, try as I would, I was not able to get the sight of my rifle on the brain-pan, though I hit him very hard with both the remaining barrels of my magazine Winchester. It was in the days of black powder, and the smoke hung. After my last shot, the first thing I saw was the bear's left paw as he struck at me, so close that I made a quick movement to one side.

He was, however, practically already dead, and after another jump, and while in the very act of trying to turn to come at me, he collapsed like a shot rabbit.

By the way, I had a most exasperating time trying to bring in his skin. I was alone, traveling on foot with one very docile little mountain mare for a pack pony. The little mare cared nothing for bears or anything else, so there was no difficulty in packing her. But the man without experience can hardly realize the work it was to get that bear-skin off the carcass and then to pack it, wet, slippery and heavy, so that it would ride evenly on the pony.

I was at the time fairly well versed in packing with a "diamond hitch," the standby of Rocky Mountain packers in my day; but the things I was accustomed to pack were not wet and slippery. With infinite labor I would get the skin on the pony and run the ropes over it until to all seeming it was fastened properly. Then off we would start, and after going about a hundred yards I would notice the hide beginning to bulge through between two ropes.

I would shift one of them, and then the hide would bulge somewhere else. I would shift the rope again; and still the hide would flow slowly out as if it was lava The first thing I knew it would come down on one side, and the little mare, with her feet planted resolutely, would wait for me to perform my part by getting that bear-skin back in its proper place on the McClellan saddle which I was using as a makeshift pack saddle. The feat of killing the bear the previous day sank into nothing compared with the feat of making the bear-skin ride properly as a pack on the following three days.

An Annoying Adventure With a Drunken Guide.

The reason why I was alone in the mountains on this occasion was because, for the only time in all my experience, I had a difficulty with my guide. He was a crippled old mountain man, with a profound contempt for "tenderfeet," a contempt that in my case was accentuated by the fact that I wore spectacles—which at that day and in that region were usually held to indicate a defective moral character in the wearer. He had never previously acted as guide, or, as he expressed it, "trundled a tenderfoot," and though a good hunter, who showed me much game, our experience was not happy.

He was very rheumatic and liked to lie abed late, so that I usually had to get breakfast, and, in fact, do most of the work around camp. Finally one day he declined to go out with me, saying that he had a pain. When, that afternoon, I got back to camp, I speedily found what the "pain" was. We were traveling very light indeed, I having practically nothing but my buffalo sleeping-bag, my wash kit and a pair of socks.

I had also taken a flask of whisky for emergencies—although, as I found that the emergencies never arose and that tea was better than whisky when a man was cold or done out, I abandoned the practice of taking whisky on hunting trips 20 years ago. When I got back to camp the old fellow was sitting on a tree-trunk, very erect, with his rifle across his knees, and in response to my nod of greeting he merely leered at me.

I leaned my rifle against a tree, walked over to where my bed was lying, and, happening to rummage in it for something, I found the whisky flask was empty. I turned on him at once and accused him of having drunk it, to which he merely responded by asking what I was going to do about it. There did not seem much to do, so I said that we would part company—we were only four or five days from a settlement—and I would go in alone, taking one of the horses. He responded by cocking his rifle and saying that I could go alone and be damned to me, but I could not take any horse. I answered "all right," that if I could not I could not, and began to move around to get some flour and salt pork.

"Tenderfoot" Outwits Guide and Captures His Rifle.

He was misled by my quietness and by the fact that I had not in any way resented either his actions or his language during the days we had been together, and did not watch me as closely as he ought to have done. He was sitting with the cocked rifle across his knees, the muzzle to the left. My rifle was leaning against a tree near the cooking things to his right. Managing to get near it, I whipped it up and threw the bead on him, calling, "Hands up!" He, of course, put up his hands, and then said, "Oh, come, I was only joking;" to which I answered, "Well, I am not. Now straighten your legs and let your rifle go to the ground." He remonstrated, saying the rifle would go off, and I told him to let it go off. However, he straightened his legs in such fashion that it came to the ground without a jar. I then made him move back, and picked up the rifle.

By this time he was quite sober, and really did not seem angry, looking at me quizzically. He told me that if I would give him back his rifle he would call it quits and we could go on together. I did not think it best to trust him, so I told him that our hunt was pretty well through, anyway, and that I would go home. There was a blasted pine on the trail, in plain view of the camp, about a mile off, and I told him that I would leave his rifle at that blasted pine if I could see him in camp, but that he must not come after me, for if he did I should assume that it was with hostile intent and would shoot. He said he had no intention of coming after me; and as he was very much crippled with rheumatism, I did not believe he would do so.

Accordingly I took the little mare, with nothing but some flour, bacon and tea, and my bed-roll, and started off. At the blasted pine I looked round, and as I could see him in camp, I left his rifle there. I then traveled till dark, and that night, for the only time in my experience, I used in camping a trick of the old-time trappers in the Indian days. I did not believe I would be followed, but still it was not possible to be sure, so, after getting supper, while my pony fed round, I left the fire burning, repacked the mare and pushed ahead until it literally became so dark that I could not see.

Then I picketed the mare, slept where I was without a fire until the first streak of dawn, and then pushed on for a couple of hours before halting to take breakfast and to let the little mare have a good feed. No plainsman needs to be told that a man should not lie near a fire if there is danger of an enemy creeping up on him, and that above all a man should not put himself in a position where he can be ambushed at dawn. On this second day I lost the trail, and toward nightfall gave up the effort to find it, camped where I was, and went out to shoot grouse for supper. It was while hunting in vain for a grouse that I came on the bear and killed it as above described.

Vice-President-Elect Known as "Johnny Goff's Tourist."

When I reached the settlement and went into the store, the storekeeper identified me by remarking: "You're the tenderfoot that old Hank was trundling, ain't you?" I admitted that I was. A good many years latter, after I had been elected Vice-President, I went on a cougar hunt in northwestern Colorado with Johnny Goff, a famous hunter and mountain man. It was midwinter. I was rather proud of my achievements, and pictured myself as being known to the few settlers in the neighborhood as a successful mountain-lion hunter. I could not help grinning when I found out that they did not even allude to me as the Vice-President-elect, let alone as a hunter, but merely as "Johnny Goff's tourist."

Of course during the years when I was most busy at serious work I could do no hunting, and even my riding was of a decorous kind. But a man whose business is sedentary should get some kind of exercise if he wishes to keep himself in as good physical trim as his brethren who do manual labor.

When I worked on a ranch, I needed no form of exercise except my work, but when I worked in an office the case was different. A couple of summers I played polo with some of my neighbors. I shall always believe we played polo in just the right way for middle-aged men with stables of the general utility order. Of course it was polo which was chiefly of interest to ourselves, the only onlookers being the members of our faithful families. My two ponies were the only occupants of my stable except a cart horse. My wife and I rode and drove them, and they were used for household errands and for the children, and for two afternoons a week they served me as polo ponies.

Theodore Roosevelt

"Some as good citizens as I know are or were prize fighters," says Theodore Roosevelt in the ensuing chapter of his own story of his life, which will appear in this magazine next Sunday. The former President writes that he regards boxing, whether professional or amateur, as a first-class sport, which is not brutalizing, and recounts anecdotes of his friendship with Battling Nelson, Bob Fitzsimmons, John L. Sullivan and many other heroes of the squared circle.

Head of Tobacco Monopoly, Who Rose From Poor Boy to Command of $75,000,000 and Partitioned Kentucky Under Commercial Treaty With Foreign Powers, Abandons His Native Land After Dissolution of Trust and Buys Historic Dorchester House in London, Where Whitelaw Reid Resided as Ambassador

ST. LOUIS, which, with its tributary territory, paid Count Boni de Castellane's debts through the levies of the Gould railroads and is now supporting Prince Helie de Sagan, will hereafter contribute towards maintaining a princely European state for an American nabob—James Buchanan Duke, the "tobacco king," who has shaken the dust of the trust-busting United States from his feet and taken refuge from the Sherman law in London.

There he has purchased historic and magnificent Dorchester House, in Park Lane, which was occupied by the late Whitelaw Reid while he was ambassador to England and which has been the scene of many distinguished assemblages of diplomats, statesmen and society leaders. A portion of the upkeep of this splendid establishment will be derived from St. Louis' great tobacco manufacturing plants, affiliated with the American Tobacco Co.

The marble stairways and spacious drawing rooms of Dorchester House, with its old associations with the most exclusive aristocracy of Europe, will echo to the tread of a new species of master—the American multimillionaire. Its galleries of family portraits, dating back to the seventeenth century, will look down upon a man who was once a poor North Carolina boy.

But this obscure boy, grown into a man, developed a corporation so powerful that it was able to dictate a commercial treaty to France, Germany and Italy, by which the parties to the compact, with the Tobacco Trust as the pre-eminent member, partitioned a sovereign American State among themselves as if it had been subject territory; giving rise to a civil war which convulsed Kentucky in the days of the Night Riders.

The magnate has turned his back upon Duke's Park, his princely estate near Somerville, N. J., in which a $1,000,000 palace overlooks one of the most beautiful country places in America. It contains 400 more acres than Forest Park in St. Louis and twice as many acres as Central Park in New York. In spaciousness it is surpassed by only one private estate in the United States—that of John D. Rockefeller at Tarrytown, N. Y. Duke also abandoned a $500,000 residence on Fifth Avenue, New York.

With him sailed his beautiful wife, who, as the relict of William Inman, an Atlanta cotton merchant, was celebrated as "the rich Georgia widow." Duke fell in love with her at first sight and married her in 1907, having divorced his first wife after a sensational trial. They have a baby daughter.

The expatriation of the Dukes is reported to be partly on account of Mrs. Duke's social ambitions. Through her husband, she has the sinews of war for a campaign among the elite of Europe to the tune of $75,000,000. An accomplished and handsome woman, in the summer of maturity, this daughter of the South is reported as sighing for greater worlds to conquer than New York and Newport.

She will launch a campaign of lavish entertainment at Dorchester House, the picture galleries of which her husband has already reinforced by the purchase of many costly works of art.

Duke, on his part, will devote his remarkable business talents to the British-American Tobacco Co., in which he owns a controlling interest. It is an open secret that the American Tobacco Trust is as absolutely master of the tobacco trade in England as it was in the United States prior to its dissolution.

Duke's rise was one of the romances of American business. His father, Washington Duke, established a small tobacco manufacturing plant at Durham, N. C The business grew to such proportions that James B. Duke was sent to New York about 30 years ago as manager of the branch there. Although he drew a salary of $50,000 a year, he is said to have boarded for a long time at a Harlem Hotel at $6 a week. "Save the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves," is an old maxim. Duke saved his thousands of dollars, putting them back into the business, and millions were added unto him.

It was he who conceived the big idea of a national tobacco trust. His firm bought out rival plants all over the country and closed them down.

In St. Louis alone thousands of men were thrown out of work so that the monopoly would not be endangered. When the mastery of the American Tobacco Co. became national, he launched out on an international campaign, which conquered the free-trade markets of England as it had done the tariff-protected trade of the United States.

In France, Germany, Italy and a number of smaller European countries, trade in tobacco is a government monopoly. The agents of these countries were accustomed to purchase their tobacco at public auction in Kentucky, the produce going to the highest bidder. In Duke's opinion, this competition was wasteful.

As president of the American Tobacco Co. he dictated a treaty with the principal foreign purchasers by which Kentucky was partitioned among them and his company. Germany received an allotment of a certain territory, France of another, Italy of another and the American Tobacco Co. of still another. The agents were forbidden to purchase in the territory assigned to their associates in the treaty. Competition in bidding was destroyed and the price of tobacco to the producer fell.

The result was a bloody revolt of so-called "Night Riders," who sallied out and burned the warehouses of the trust. The tobacco farmers formed a defensive and offensive alliance and sent representatives to Congress.

The commercial war became a political one, with the result that the Government began litigation which ended in the dissolution of the American Tobacco Co. by the Supreme Court. That the dissolution was ostensible rather than real was shown by the fact that since the decree, as in the case of Standard Oil, the value of tobacco stock has been enhanced by millions of dollars. Duke might well have wished that the Government would dissolve his company annually.

But the recent revolution in public sentiment has inflicted a penalty more grevious to captains of industry than Government prosecution. Ten or twenty years ago men such as Duke were held up to the emulation of American youth as examples to be followed. It was popularly an admirable thing that a barefoot boy should rise until he could conclude commercial treaties with foreign powers. Time was when school boys were informed by optimistic pedagogues that they might become Presidents of the United States. Later, they were told they were potential Carnegies, Rockefellers, Schwabs and Dukes.

Then came a popular right-about-face and the demand was that the former idols should be sent to jail. Monopoly came to be regarded as a crime against public welfare. The name of "multimillionaire," once held in reverence, became almost one of opprobrium. The Government reflected the popular feeling by firing a broadside of dissolution suits against the various "trusts," including the one against the American Tobacco Co.

In England, on the contrary, there is as yet little unrest against giant commercial combinations, so that the environment is far more comfortable there for a harassed captain of industry. To England James B. Duke has gone, and will take his place among other wealthy American expatriates such as William Waldorf Astor and William McMillan of St. Louis.

In this city the Duke Trust absorbed the Drummond and the Liggett & Myers plants. Smaller tobacco factories in other Missouri towns, fighting against being swallowed and aided by local citizens who drew their sustenance from such industries, were one after another taken in and closed. The manufacturing business was centered in New York, in nearby New Jersey and in North Carolina.

Though able to conquer commerce, Duke was unhappy in his first marriage. Ten years ago, at the age of 48, he married Mrs. Lillian E. McCreedy, divorced wife of a coffee broker. She was a Philadelphia beauty, the daughter of Dr. Fletcher, who left her a considerable fortune. Duke, it is said, courted her for years. The marriage took place in Europe.

It is related that when Mrs. Duke's maid was attending her, immediately after the ceremony, the bride wept and said:

"I have married one man and I love another."

Duke, on returning from his wedding tour of Europe, told his friends that he was supremely happy. He proceeded to create in Northern New Jersey a country place for Mrs. Duke, which soon became noted as one of the most magnificient in America.

A few months later Duke sued for divorce and won. Frank T. Huntoon, many years older than himself was named in his petition. Huntoon's occupation at the time was that of agent for a mineral water in which he had become interested with the late Col. Joseph W. Rickey of Missouri, inventor of the delectable gin concoction which bears his name.

Mrs. James B. Duke, No 1.

It was at the time of his first marriage that Duke abandoned the habits of parsimony which he had formed. When his income was $1,000,000 a year, it is related, he lived in bachelor quarters on the second floor of one of his company's stables in West Sixty-sixth street, New York. His one indulgence was horses, and his coachman's family lived above him on the third floor of the stable.

It is a far cry from quarters in a little hotel at $6 a week and apartments over a stable to Dorchester House, in Park Lane, London, one of the show residences of the city. But it is no farther than the progress made by the poor North Carolina boy, son of the owner of a small tobacco plant, who built it into a national trust and has already, at the age of 58 years, amassed a fortune of $75,000,000.

Duke is the first of the American trust magnotes to choose exile abroad following the Government's prosecution of monopolies. When the Department of Justice brought suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Co., John D. Rockefeller erected a spacious office building near the Houses of Parliament and was ready to move Standard Oil and all its books to London. He decided, however, that he would keep the office in the United States.

AMERICAN EXPATRIATES

ALTHOUGH the first American trust magnate to seek refuge abroad from hostile public opinion as exemplified in the prosecutions under the Sherman statute, James Buchanan Duke is far from being the first wealthy American expatriate.

The most celebrated of American exiles is William Waldorf Astor, who many years ago gave up his citizenship in the United States to become a British subject. His son is an officer in the English army. The Astor residence is Clevedon House, on the Thames.

William McMillan, formerly of St. Louis, has a fine town house in London and an estate in Devonshire, besides his famous Ju-Ja ranch at Nairobi, Africa.

Richard Croker, former chief of Tammany Hall, lives at Glencairn, County Dublin, Ireland.

James Hazen Hyde, former president of the Equitable Assurance Society, resides in Paris, as does James Gordon Bennett, owner of the New York Herald.

The late Ross Winans of Baltimore, a multimillionaire, lived in England for many years and died abroad.

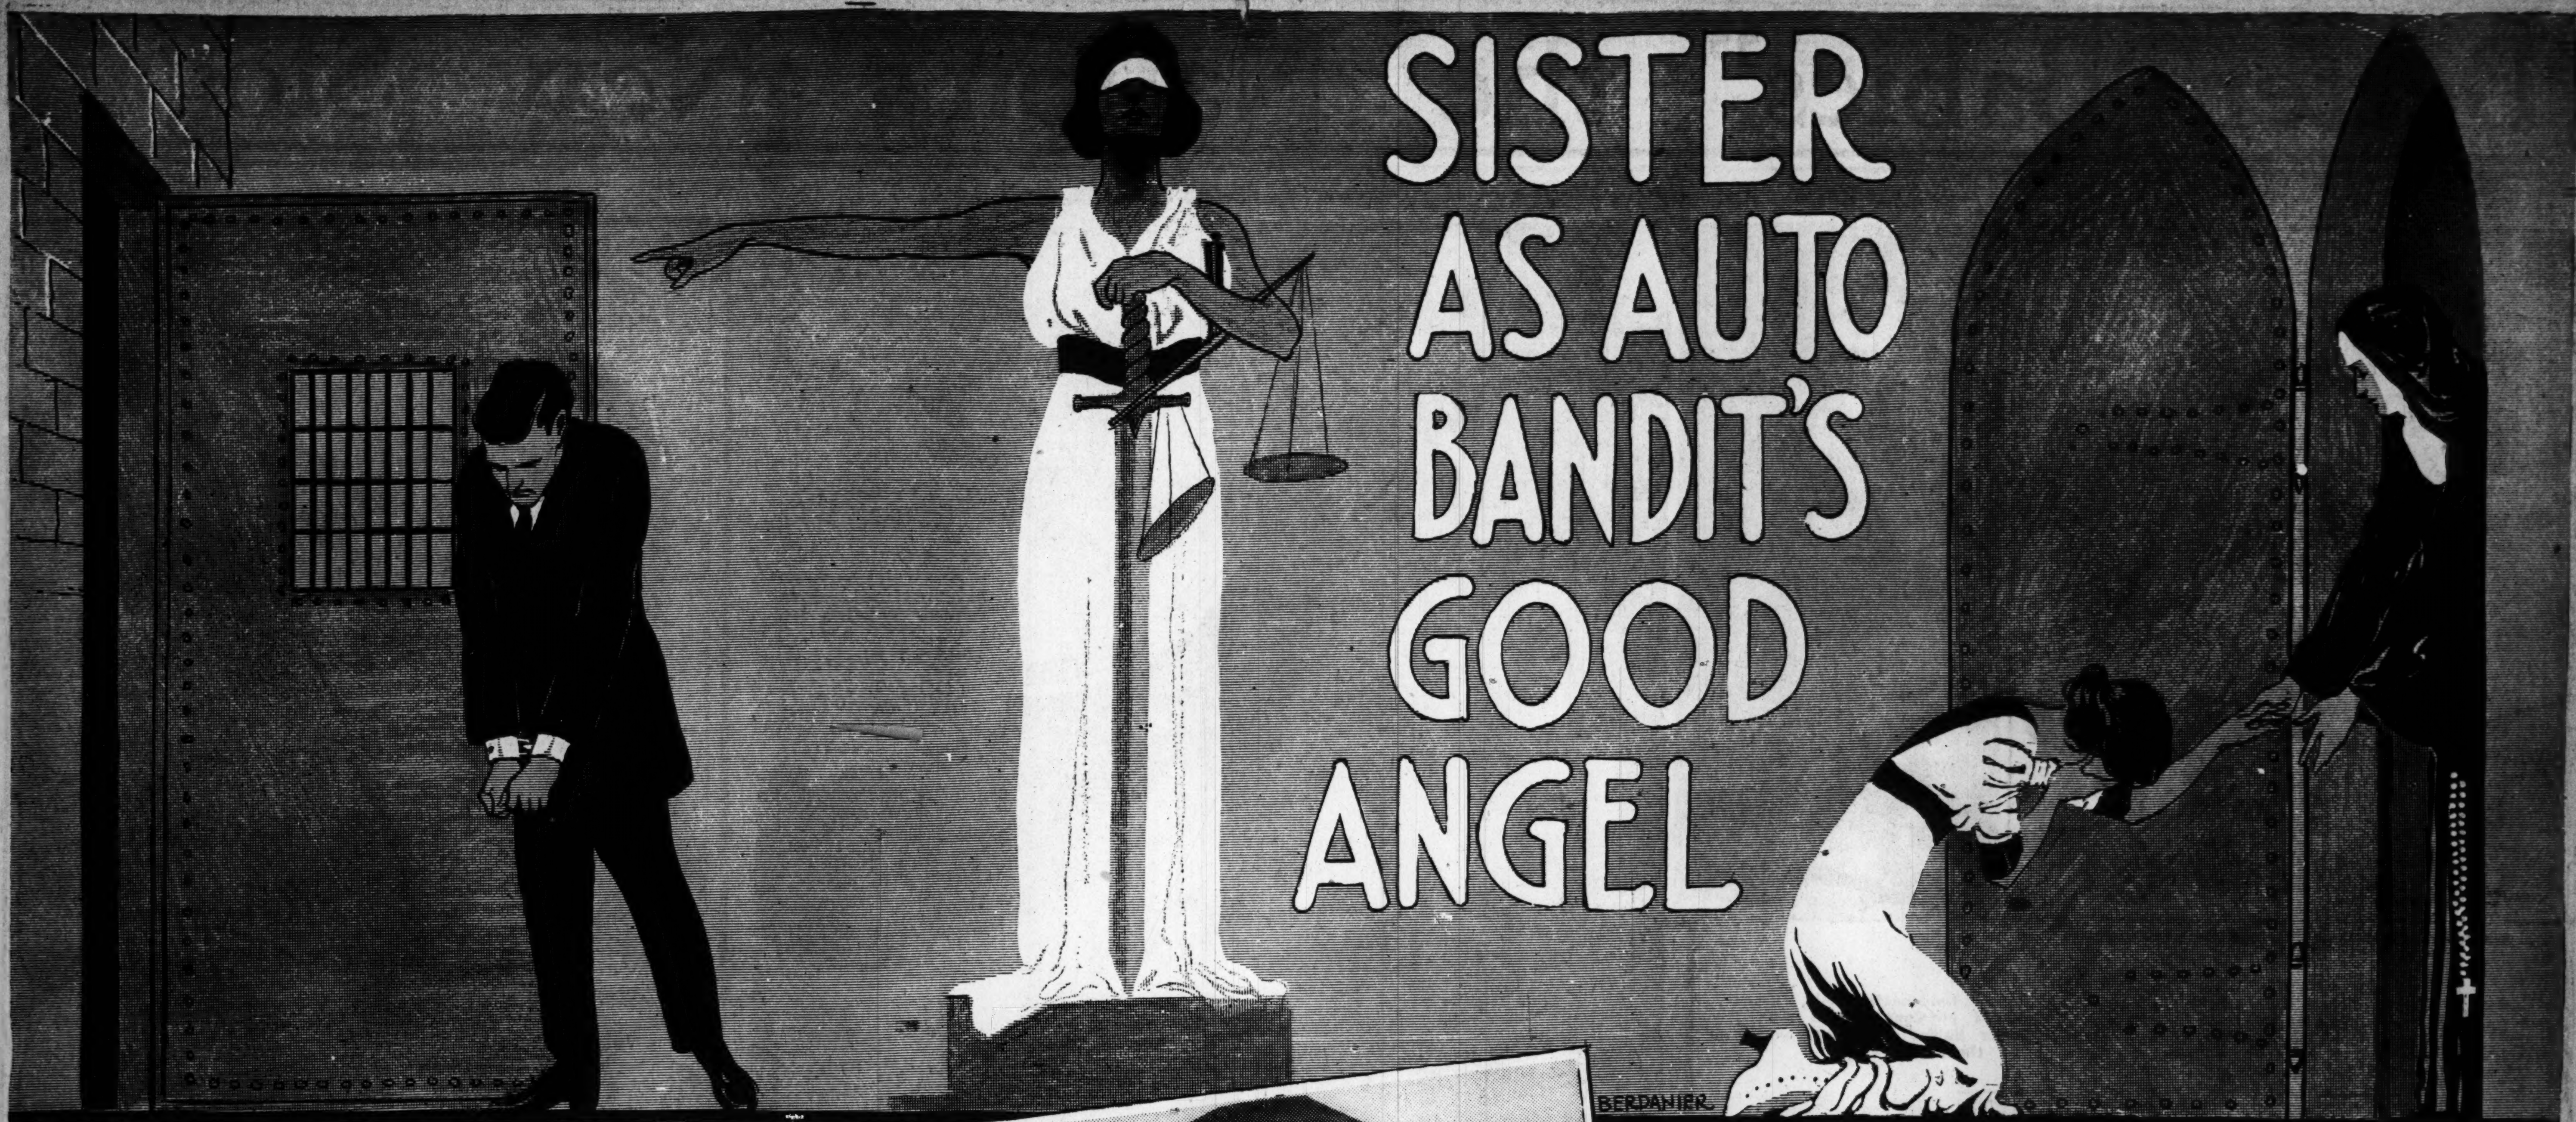
SAFETY TESTS FOR VEHICLES.

BEFORE a motor omnibus is put into commission in London it is tested for stability. It is mounted on a platform that is then tilted sideways and the point at which it will tip over is registered. Then it is loaded with the weight of a full complement of passengers, inside and out, tilted again, and the capsizing point taken. A properly built omnibus falls over when empty when the axles are tilted to an angle of 41 degrees. When the top is loaded and the bus is empty inside the angle of capsizing is 28 degrees. When it is loaded inside and out it is stable until tilted to an angle of 35 degrees.



SISTER AS AUTO BANDIT'S GOOD ANGEL

Robert Webb's "Little Mother," 19-Year-Old Mary Webb, Lost Friends and Sweetheart for His Sake, Sat Beside Him and Advised Attorneys During His Trial for Murder, and Will Round Out Life of Devotion to Scapegrace Brother by Entering Convent to Expiate His Crimes With Prayers ⁘ ⁘ ⁘ ⁘

FOR the sake of Robert Webb, Chicago motor car bandit, whimpering informer on his accomplices and self-confessed murderer, a devoted woman will make the vicarious atonement of entering a convent, there to consecrate a lifetime of prayer among religious sisters to an endeavor to expiate his crimes in the sight of Heaven. There is no man so fallen, it has been said, that a woman cannot be found who will attempt to lighten his guilt by taking his burden upon her innocent shoulders.

It was not the love of a mother which prompted this vow of sacrifice. It was not the passionate act of renunication of a wife or sweetheart. It was the pure and tender affection of a sister which thus moved a girl of 19 to the heroic resolve of laying her youth and her romance—for she was engaged to marry—upon the altar, and to proffer herself as a voluntary victim to avert retribution from her scapegrace brother.

Robert Webb was born 23 years ago, and his sister, Mary, four years later. Their parentage seems to have been unfortunate. State's Attorney Hoyne stated that their father was a dipsomaniac and that their mother died insane. But Nature

"Heaped the whole inherited sin
All, all upon the brother."

The children were left orphans at an early age. All the love of Mary's heart, left without other objects of affection, concentrated itself upon her brother. The maternal instinct which in the average little girl finds its expression in love of dolls was in her converted into devotion to Robert. From childhood she formed the habit of mothering him, as if some inspiration had told her that he would be peculiarly in need of a good angel.

But Robert, perhaps because of his wretched heredity, was from the first a wayward and evil boy, growing up as a street gamin in Chicago's polyglot West Side. He had scarcely entered his teens before he became a drunkard. Men plied him with drinks in saloons to divert themselves with the spectacle of a boy reeling, cursing and blustering in infantile intoxication. Time and time again his little sister, it is related, made her way into these sinister dens, braved the insults of barroom roughs and led Robert Webb home to his bed.

His ill angel prevailed and he was sent to the reform school as an incorrigible. When he emerged a few years later he was a hardened youth, ripe for a career of crime. On one side stood his own nature, further corrupted by the associations of the reform school. On the other stood his sister, single-handed, but with a high resolve that her brother should yet retrieve his misspent years and choose the path of right.

For a time she was victorious and happy. Under her persuasion Robert obtained his first job, a place in the stockyards. But the unstable youth was not of the sort to endure. His pay was small. His former associates tempted him back to the feverish good fellowship of the saloon. He was soon spending more money than he earned.

Promptings came to him then that there might be easier ways of gaining money than by day after day of toil in reeking shambles for a pittance. But, with his sister's prayers in his ears he held out a while longer, and fell into the hands of loan sharks.

They attached his pay and he was discharged. Still feebly persistent, he got work as a railroad switchman. The usurers dogged him and he was once more discharged. In all, he says, he got 10 jobs with as many different railroads, by all of which he was dismissed because of constantly increasing financial entanglements.

Then, as Webb says, "I made the acquaintance of some fellows who were in just the same fix as myself. We decided to take automobiles and get some 'easy money.'"

Webb Yields to Tempters; Robs to Get "Easy Money."

Not long afterwards Chicago was agitated by the crimes of a daring band of motor car bandits. At their door was laid the robbery of the Stockyards Express of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which was looted of express packages containing $1000 in currency and $7000 in checks. The robbers escaped in an automobile.

This outrage was preceded by a series of bold hold-ups. As a citizen walked along the curb, sometimes in broad daylight, a motor car would dash up beside him and on looking up he would find himself covered with revolvers and hear a command to throw up his hands. He would be robbed in a trice of money and valuables, and before he could recover his self-possession the bandits would whisk away at dizzy speed.

Sometimes the pirate car would roll up outside a store. While the chauffeur remained at the wheel, with his engine running, others would enter and hold up the store-keeper. Then, before resistance could be made or a pursuit organized, the robbers would spring into the machine with their booty and vanish.

Strange to say, Robert Webb had always felt a species of love and respect for his sister. He carefully concealed his perilous adventures from her. He explained that he had at last found a good job and that he was getting along well. Betrayed by her hopes for his reformation, she believed him.

MISS MARY WEBB.

It was her brother's affection for her which at last opened her eyes to the terrible truth. After an especially good haul, he took her a present. It was a silver mesh purse stuffed with bank notes. With a millionaire-like wave of the hand, he told her to buy herself a new hat and dress.

"Where did you get the money?" she asked, assailed by a sudden dreadful suspicion.

Webb protested that he had earned it. He had a fine job, now, he said, and was making lots of money. He would soon be able to buy her a lot of trinkets such as girls ought to have. But under her desperate cross-questions he found himself in a corner of contradicting falsehoods. At last he blurted out the truth, with a strange mingling of boastfulness and shame. He was the leader of Chicago's notorious band of automobile highwaymen.

At the sight of his sister's grief and despair, Webb grew weakly stubborn. What right had she to interfere in his affairs? Who had made her his keeper? Hadn't he tried to make an honest living? Hadn't the loan sharks driven him from one job after another? With her sobs ringing in his ears, he flung out of the house.

It happened that about this time the police became suspicious of "Teddy" Webb, as he was known in his reform school days. Investigation confirmed their suspicions. Policeman Peter M. Hart was sent to arrest him. Hart found him, and unwarily laid his revolver down on a table in order to search his prisoner for weapons. Webb seized the pistol and fired a shot. The policeman fell mortally wounded; the young bandit escaped.

Then Mary Webb read in the newspapers that the police had offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of Robert Webb, wanted for murder and robbery. "Webb is one of a gang of automobile robbers who have been robbing stores and holding up people in this city," stated the account. "While resisting arrest on Jan. 20 he shot and killed Policeman Peter M. Hart. He is out on parole from the Pontiac Reformatory."

Hiding in Chicago with a price on his head, Robert Webb's memory returned to his sister. One night as he lurked concealed among some of his men and women cronies, while a police search for him went on in Chicago and in other cities, including St. Louis, he sank into dejection and sighed:

"I have only one friend in the world. That's Mary."

He had had at least decency enough never to have mentioned his sister's name before to the "gang." Among those present was his sweetheart, who at once discovered a rival in the unknown Mary. She hid her jealousy and rage until for her brother. His disgrace had fallen upon she reached a telephone. Then she notified the police that Webb was in Chicago, and that on the following day at certain hour he was to meet a friend on a street corner.

On the next day a cordon of police and detectives was thrown about the corner, and Webb walked into the trap. His first intimation that he had been betrayed was when two detectives hastened towards him. He fled into a building and out the back way. Other detectives took up the chase. Revolver shots were fired, both by the pursuers and pursued. Finally two policemen, who had commandeered a wagon, overtook him and ordered him to throw up his hands.

He obeyed, but as one of the policemen lowered his revolver to leap from the wagon, Webb whipped out a revolver and fired twice. Neither bullet took effect. The fugitive darted into a house and barricaded himself in a room. When the door was beaten down he battled fiercely, but was clubbed into submission.

Mary Webb might have considered that she had already done more than was required of her her also. The man to whom she was engaged, it was reported, forsook her when Robert was published as a murderer and bandit. Her friends turned away from the "automobile robber's sister."

But she sat by his side and held his hand when he was arraigned in court the other day for the murder of Hart. He had already confessed to the crime, and had sought immunity from a death sentence by betraying to the authorities the names of about 15 of his accomplices, all of whom were arrested. But to her he was still the brother whom she had mothered when both were children.

Attorneys say that to her resourcefulness was due the fact that the jury disagreed. When Webb's lawyers wished to place him on the witness stand, she opposed a firm refusal. She may not have phrased her reasons to herself. But it was admitted that Webb's air of bravado, alternating with cringing, would have had a prejudicial effect on the jurymen.

Her Counsel in Court Wins Temporary Reprieve.

After a long deliberation, the jury decided that Webb was guilty of murder, but that it could not agree as to the punishment to be meted out to him. Therefore the examination was a mistrial, and a second trial was ordered.

Mary Webb was congratulated on having obtained at least a temporary reprieve for her brother. But in her mind this was one of her smallest obligations. According to her creed, no earthly punishment could weigh against the divine retribution, which would, unless intercession were made, visit upon him an eternity of torture.

Who was there to intercede for her scapegrace brother, the murderer and robber, but herself? And what was the greatest sacrifice she could make in order to render her intercession acceptable to heaven? Her answer was instant, and she accepted it with a murmur.

So, at the close of the trial, she announced her resolution to her brother. She would immure herself in a cloister and there spend her life in prayer that her brother might escape the doom of punishment in the hereafter.

Even Webb was touched by this supreme proof of love for himself. He begged his sister to give up her vow, and told her that because he had ruined his life that was no reason why hers should be sacrificed. He reminded her that she was only 19 years old, and that, if she would leave him to the fate he had deserved, life might still have happiness in store for her.

But to Mary Webb the habit of self-sacrifice had become lifelong. She consented to remain in the world and support her brother by her presence during his second trial. But when this should be completed, she declared, she would at once enter a convent as a novice.

Plant Diseases Cost $2,000,000,000 a Year

LOUIS DOP, vice-president of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, sounds an alarm regarding the great damage done annually by diseases to plants and the crying need for concerted action on the part of the world's governments to minimize the evil.

"A permanent war is waged against humanity," he says, by invisible beings—microbes, insects and parasites—which threaten the agriculture of the world and cost more than all the conflicts between nations."

Two thousand million dollars is the sum which he estimates is lost annually to the commerce of the world in this way.

"Moreover," continues M. Dop, "so far from decreasing, the annual loss to agriculture is growing yearly, and, unless taken in hand promptly, menaces with ruin those countries which, like France, depends mainly on agriculture for prosperity."

Going into details, M. Dop points out that according to the calculations of the authorities, the losses suffered in France by the phylloxera have already exceeded $2,000,000,000, while a third of the wine growing population of the country has been forced to emigrate.

At the present time in France alone the damage not only to the vines but to cereals, potatoes, pasturage, fruit and forest trees caused by diseases, as well as noxious animals, may be estimated at over $200,000,000.

He also quotes calculations, showing that in the United States, Germany, Australia, etc., the annual loss of crops due to epidemics represents the sum of $1,000,000,000.

Marshaling other figures in support of his assertion, M. Dop states that he is convinced that the "cost of living" question is closely connected with that of plant diseases. This terrific annual loss to agriculture, he insists, could be largely eliminated, provided that measures be adopted by all the world's governments.

He expected important results from the International Commission on Plant Diseases, which was convoked by the French Government at Rome in April, and which will prepare a report for the general meeting of the International Institute of Agriculture this month, with a view to establishing an international organization to fight plant diseases, supported by all the Governments.

Arizona's "Mammoth Cave."

ONE of the most wonderful caves in the world has been found in Southern Arizona. Unnamed, unexplored and almost unknown, it gives evidence of being a rival to t Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, whose fame worldwide. Only a few have dared to enter to view its grandeur. The cave lies at the foo hills of the Huachuca Mountains, about 40 mil northeast of Nogales, Santa Cruz County. Exploring parties have entered and spent days inside, but none has ever discovered the end. They report passageways, rooms and chambers innumerable. One room is level and smooth, and there are many deep chasms.

Campaign Originated by St. Louis Woman for Mental and Physical Uplift of Infants in City and Country Spreads From Coast to Coast, Through Babies' Contests at Fairs in Score of States

By Anna Steese Richardson.

THE United States has started after a new record—Better Babies; and this national campaign of practical eugenics was initiated by a St. Louis woman, Mrs. Frank de Garmo of 6186 Washington avenue.

And the record will be based on quality, not quantity. Just as this nation has made the rest of the world respect its bumper crops of corn and wheat, its cattle and its hogs, its well-made shoes and its cotton goods, so it now purposes that the entire world shall acknowledge the supremacy of its babies. This twentieth century miracle is to be wrought by the same methods employed in producing high grade grain, livestock and manufactured goods—by standardization.

This is the day of standardization. The United States has standardized most of its products, grain and live stock, the food we eat, the water and milk we drink, the clothes we wear, the factories where food and clothing are made, the efficiency of the workers in those factories and the public schools in which those workers are trained.

But only lately have students of human energy and efficiency realized that time and money could be saved by standardizing little Americans practically at birth. This accomplished, the rest of the standardization process would take care of itself.

Now the system of standardizing babies is not conducted by the Government, but by the parents, and it is the simplest idea imaginable. It is known as the "Better Babies Movement." Twelve of the richest and most progressive states in the Union have adopted it, and are putting it into practice after the most thorough and earnest [illegible].

The Better Babies Contest is nothing more or less than an exhibit of standardized babies where judges (physicians) award prizes, not for dimples or silken hair or laughing eyes, but for physical points, strength and development, physical and mental. Incidentally, parents of children who do not come up to the standard are told why, and what to do to bring children up to this very desirable standard.

"Ah," I hear some old-fashioned parent sigh, "if a baby is born sickly, you can't bring it up to the standard of the healthy baby."

Why not? It is done every day, in every city. A delicate baby is no longer regarded as a visitation of Providence in the family circle. It holds great possibilities for health, bought at the cost of hygienic, sane maternal treatment.

To make this quite clear, you must follow me on to a state where Better Babies Contests are being held. Here we are in the center of a magnificent farming section, at the capital of an agricultural state. We arrive on the opening day of the State Fair. Everything is pleasant bustle and excitement. Magnificent displays of grain and vegetables and fruit are in place. In the stock arena judges are studying the points of pedigreed livestock.

And what is to be seen in the Women's Pavilion or tent?

Yes, the sort of bread and cakes and jelly your mother used to make, gorgeous quilts and gay hand painting. But all these occupy an amazingly small amount of space. The bulk of the room is given over to a Better Babies Contest, with its accompanying child-welfare exhibit.

If you are permitted inside the examination rooms, you will find interested mothers and grandmothers and aunties, and sometimes fathers, watching the examination process. Baby is stripped, weighed, measured, examined for perfections and defects, and then its mental or intelligence measure is taken by means of scientific tests. If the baby comes up to a certain standard it is eligible to enter the final contest for prizes. If it falls below the standard, the parents are told why.

Again I hear the voice of the pessimist.

"But what good does it do American babies if hundreds of them are disqualified?"

Disqualification, according to the Better Babies system, is not final. The parents are not only told what is wrong, but how to change and better conditions for their babies.

The examining doctor pokes an inquisitive finger into baby's throat and what does he find? Adenoids! The farmer-father of that baby would know what to do with a swollen gland on the throat of a prize-winning mare's colt, or blight on a field of what ought to be one-hundred per cent wheat, but he never heard of adenoids, which interfere with his child's breathing.

But the doctors who are judges at a Better Babies contest do know all about adenoids. The baby goes to a specialist, has the adenoids cut out, begins to breathe properly, the little brain clears and works normally, and the baby comes back to the State Fair next year, in an older "class" and wins a prize.

Or a small three-year-old passes his physical examinations with flying colors, but falls down on the mental development test. His disposition is sullen or irritable and he shows nervousness. A specialist looks at his eys and finds a defect in vision which can be remedied with glasses.

No wonder the small man is irritable. He is never free from headache, and what grown-up can endure chronic headache? The small contestant may never come back to another fair, because as a rule three years is the maximum age for entries, but thanks to a Better Babies Contest and examination he has been given a fresh start in life.

His eyes have been fitted with glasses, the defect in vision being cured and he will start into school and eventually a business or professional career free from the terrible handicap of weak vision and chronic headache.

Take as a concrete example the case of little Alice Milstein, daughter of a Polk County farmer, whose experience at the Better Babies Contest at the Iowa State Fair is familiar to every baby specialist in the country. Alice's father raised prize grain and livestock. Alice's mother was a college-bred woman. Alice herself was a pretty but delicate little baby when she was entered in the Better Babies Contest of 1911 at Des Moines, Ia.

She failed to qualify. She was what the country neighbors called "ailing." Her parents listened to what the doctor-judges had to say, then they commenced to put little Alice through a course of hygienic sprouts, from baths to sleeping, from food to playthings. And Alice took to this new sane system of living like a duck takes to water. What is more, she grew, thrived and became radiantly happy and beautiful. The next year at the Des Moines Fair she walked right off with the first prize.

Now you see just what standardizing babies means—just bringing them up to the standard of health and intelligence set by normal babies.

And the strangest part of it all is that the country baby needs standardizing just as much as the city baby, while the small town baby of well-to-do parents is often found to be of no higher standard than the baby of the tenements!

That is why doctors the country over and intelligent parents of moderate and comfortable circumstances are so tremendously interested in the standardization of the American baby. It costs less to raise and educate a normally healthy baby, so the Better Babies Contest means a saving of actual cash to parents and the State.

The Better Babies Movement started five years ago in Louisiana. The prize-winners at the first contest have been raised along methods of standardization and today are a source of pride to the State. Mrs. de Garmo, who is nationally known as the leading spirit in the work for good roads for little school children, arranged the first contest, which was held at Shreveport, La., in connection with the State Fair. This was in 1908.

ROBERT CHAUNCEY BISHOP, OREGON'S FIRST PRIZE WINNER.

Daniel Foster Burns, son of a Denver physician, who so far holds the national record for physical and mental development.

The second contest, the following year, was even more successful, so Mrs. de Garmo carried the gospel of Better Babies to the national gathering of the Mothers' Congress in Denver, 1910. Among the women who became interested was Mrs. Mary Watts, of Audubon, Ia., who carried the message to her State and interested fair officials.

Out on the Pacific coast the movement was also taking root. O. M. Plummer, secretary of the Portland Stock Yards Company, and a man of authority in the matter of state fairs, made a trip to the little town of Goldendale, in Klickitat County, Washington. Goldendale was having its annual county fair, with livestock and agricultural exhibits, horse racing—and a baby show.

But it was a different kind of baby show from any that Plummer had seen. There was a prize for the most beautiful baby, of course, but there were also prizes for babies who showed certain good physical points. Plummer decided that there ought to be a very special prize for the baby with the best allround development, and he promptly proceeded to offer it in the name of the City of Portland and the railroad which connects Goldendale and Portland.

The prize was a trip to Portland for the Goldendale prize winner and its mother, including a week's stay in the Oregon metropolis. Well, Goldendale, small town and farming district, was simply torn wide open. The contest waxed fierce. The prize finally went to little Rex Russell, son of a local dealer in hardware, and built, as the physicians pronounced him, like a thoroughbred.

Mrs. Russell and Rex went to Portland and were feted for a week. Plummer saw to it that every "booster's organization" in the city, stock yard officials, state fair officials and Legislature had a chance to meet Rex, the prize winner. Result: The next year Oregon held its first Better Babies Contest at the State Fair in Salem, in 1912. The Mothers' Congress, with Mrs. Robert H. Tate in charge and the Parent-Teacher's Society, with Mrs. W. Williams at its head, organized a splendid child welfare exhibit.

Every feature of the week's work for Better Babies was a popular success. This year Oregon state fair officials will spend a thousand dollars on prizes and educational features, and Plummer is now working for a permanent home through a legislative appropriation, for the Better Babies Movement in Oregon.

In January of this year the physicians of Denver held a Better Babies Contest, under the auspices of the National Western Live Stock Association. The examinations were conducted at the Savoy Hotel, and the prizes were awarded in the arena of the Stock Yards, where 5000 Coloradoans gathered to do honor to the State's splendid babies.

I had been sent to Denver to award their special Better Babies prizes, amounting to $200, $100 each to the best developed city baby and the best developed country or rural child on behalf of the Woman's Home Companion.

When I saw those physicians in earnest consultation over the standardization of Colorado's babies, when I saw mothers and fathers studying score cards and conferring with physicians on the results of the examinations, I realized for the first time how simple was this process of creating a race of Better Babies for America.

All that was necessary was to let the great mass of American parents know the physical and mental needs of their children, and the miracle would be worked. Parental pride, parental hope, parental love alike are aroused by these contests. For after the prizes had been awarded, scores of parents came to my hotel to ask whether there was really a chance of their babies coming up to the standard and winning prizes next January.

Another lesson learned at the Denver gathering was the need of a uniform or national score card, so that physicians in an Eastern state could compare the baby standards with those of the West. The work of preparing this card was entrusted to Dr. Ditson, chief scorer in the Denver contest and Dr. Sanford Bell, formerly professor of psychology at the University of Colorado.

This card has been revised and endorsed by leading physicians of New York City, including Dr. Godfrey R. Pisek and Dr. Roger H. Dennett, baby specialists at the Post-Graduate Hospital, and the New York Milk Committee. The latter is famous the country over because it standardized milk for American babies. In 1911 it appointed a national commission on milk standards, composed of experts from various parts of the country, which established standardized grades of milk.

Their report was accepted by the United States Government and printed by Act of Congress.

The state fair officials of Oklahoma, co-operating with the Federated Clubs of Oklahoma City, and the Federated Kindergarten Mother's Club, will hold its first contest from Sept. 23 to Oct. 4 of this year. The Montana state fair officials, through their secretary, Mr. A. J. Breitenstein are organizing county contests, one in each of the 32 counties, to be held during the summer, with prizes of $10 to each winner.

At the State Fair the final contest will be held, the county prize winners will be re-examined and the State prizes awarded. North Calolina has taken up the Better Babies Movement as a means of fighting hookworm and will hold a contest in connection with the State Fair at Raleigh, in October.

Other states which will have State Fair contests this fall are Iowa, Nebraska, Arizona, Minnesota, Washington, Idaho, Mississippi and Louisiana. State fair officials of Massachusetts, Vermont, New Jersey, Illinois, Alabama and Kentucky are securing statistics and suggestions from pioneer workers and may hold contests this year. From one end of the country to the other, small local contests are held every week.

WRITE TO THIS WIFE AND MOTHER

She Wishes to Tell You FREE HOW SHE STOPPED HER HUSBAND'S DRINKING.

Every Wife, Mother, Sister or Friend of a Man Who Drinks is Invited to Write and SHOULD Write to This Lady Today.

For over 20 years James Anderson was a very hard drinker. His case seemed a hopeless one, but 10 years ago his wife in their own little home, gave him a simple remedy which much to her delight stopped his drinking entirely.

Mrs. Margaret Anderson.

To make sure that the remedy was responsible for this happy result she also tried it on her brother and several of her neighbors. It was successful in every case. None of them has touched a drop of intoxicating liquor since.

She now wishes everyone who is interested in stopping a friend or relative from drinking to try this simple remedy for she feels sure that it will do as much for others as it has for her. It can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell you what it is. All you need do is send your name and address and ask her how she cured her husband of drinking and she will reply by return mail in a sealed envelope. As she has nothing to sell do not send her money. Her address is Mrs. Margaret Anderson, 236 Oak Ave., Hillburn, N. Y.

You can write her with all confidence.

(NOTE—This is a sincere offer which should be accepted at once by every man and woman who wishes to stop a friend or relative from drinking.)

SONG POEMS WANTED [illegible]

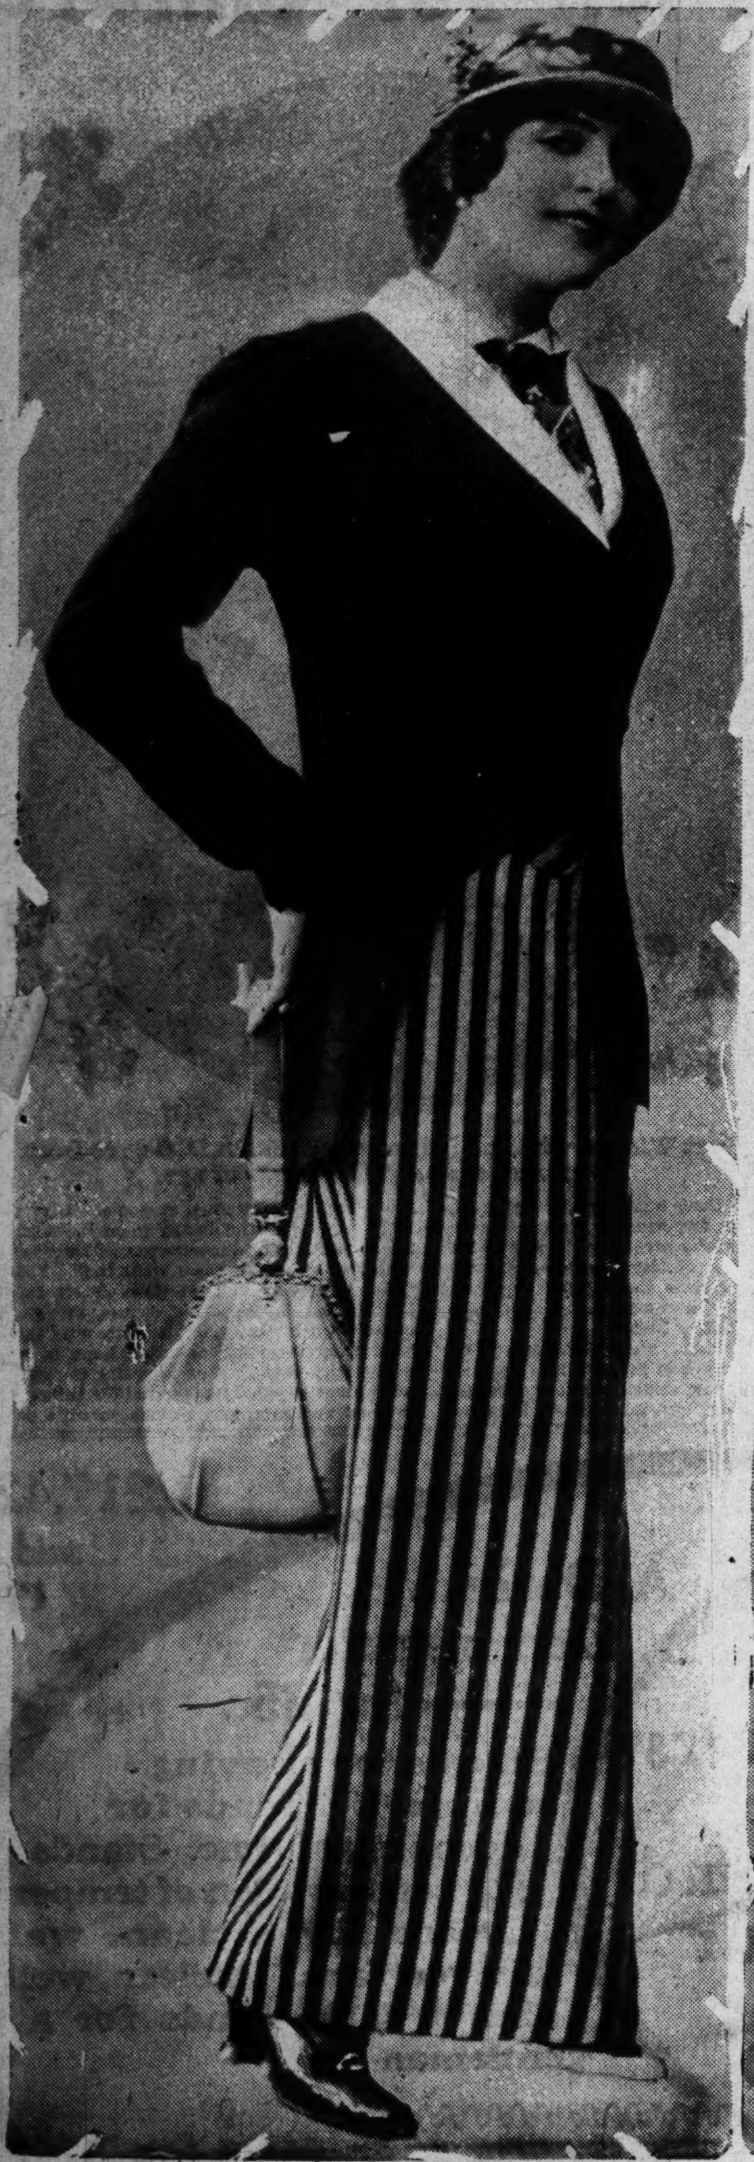
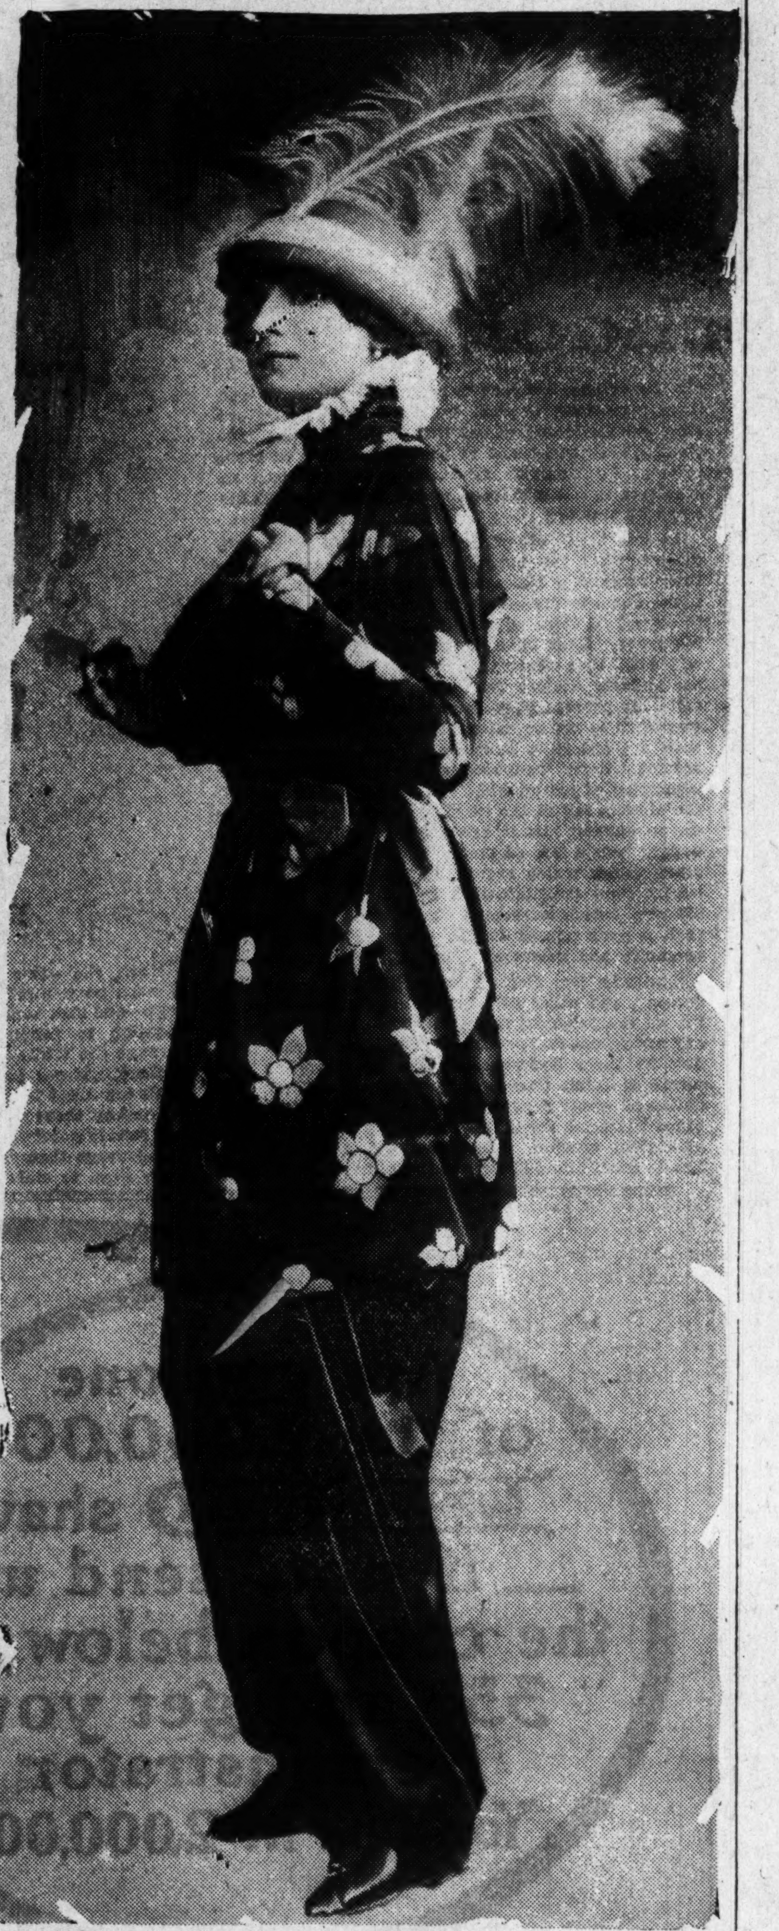
WELL, HOW ABOUT THESE STYLES?





SKIRTS and blouses of contrasting colors and materials, while at first regarded as a freak of fashion, are persisting and growing in popularity.

Here are two striking examples of this fad in which Parisian dressmakers seem intent upon showing to what extremes they can go in the effort to produce something novel.

On the left behold a costume which is as far as may be a parody of the Frenchman's morning dress of black cutaway and striped trousers. The skirt is of black and white striped wool; the coat a strictly tailored affair of black broadcloth. White broadcloth collar and a gay little blouse give it the touch of daintiness.

The second costume is described as a tea gown; and with tea dances and public tea rooms, the tea gown assumes a far different meaning and different aspect from the tea gown of old when tea was a function of one's drawing room among one's intimate friends.

This tea gown is moreover an exponent of that newest of new departures among artists and designers, postimpressionism. Indeed a field so fertile in novelty as the "new art" was not to be neglected by fashion's scouts. So we have "cubist" silks and "futurist" designs.

The present example, known simply as the "postimpressionist gown," is described as [illegible] and subdued compared to what we may expect.

Black foulard, printed in a large, flat white narcissus pattern, forms the upper part of the tea gown.

The foundation skirt draping the limbs of the wearer is of blue charmeuse. A sack of blue moire ribbon with picot edge and a Pierrot frill add further novelty to the costume.

Colors and Complexions.

A STIR has been caused among bibliophiles and also milliners by the discovery in a long-forgotten book of the French Academy of Sciences' reports that Chevreul, the greatest organic chemist of France in the nineteenth century, made a special study of color schemes for women's hats in connection with their complexion[illegible]

[illegible]s observations on the subject are repu[illegible]ed and held to be particularly timely at pr[illegible] when feminine headgear under the in[illegible] of the Spring sun is putting forth all the [illegible] the rainbow.

"[illegible]e black hat with white, pink, or red feath[illegible] or flowers," says the scientist, "suits fair women admirably. Although it can be worn by brunettes, the effect is not so good. For these orange or yellow trimmings should be added.

"The white hat only goes with the white or pink complexion, while the dark woman who ventures to wear a blue hat must absolutely trim it in orange or yellow.

"If a pink hat be worn it should be separated from the skin by the hair or by white or, even better, by green trimmings. A brown skin does not go well with a violet hat unless separated not only by the hair, but also by yellow trimmings."

Peeress Becomes Editor.

THE first peeress to become an editor is the Marchioness Townshend, who has been selected in that capacity by the new magazine, Our Dumb Friends, which will be the official journal of Our Dumb Friends' League and published weekly.

The first number was recently issued for private circulation. It is understood that to make the magazine pay there will be other features than those pertaining to animals, such as a social department and a sporting page, "featuring" particularly dog and horse exhibitions, all of which will be under the direct supervision of Lady Townshend.

Cigars for Women.

ENGLISHWOMEN are developing the smoking habit more than ever.

Of course they do not as a rule get beyond cigarettes, but recently a petit brand of cigars has been put on the market. It is something like the thin cigarettes which one buys on the Continent for a couple of centimes, except that the flavor and strength are more akin to the Egyptian cigarette.

It is a leaf covered cigarette, with sufficient pungency to make the fair smokers think they are doing something daring.

Directions for Transferring Pattern.

IF YOU follow the directions carefully, three to five transfers may be made from the pattern on this page to cloth.

The process is simple: Spread the cloth on a smooth, hard surface. Dampen the back of the pattern until you can see the print through the paper. Lay the paper upon the cloth and with the bowl of a spoon press down upon the cloth, being careful to press firmly and not tear the paper. If a dry piece of paper is laid over the dampened paper the danger of tearing is lessened. By this means the pattern will be printed on the cloth.

Cut out and preserve this page. If you desire additional copies, buy them from your newsdealer immediately, as he does not keep back numbers of the Sunday Post-Dispatch in stock.

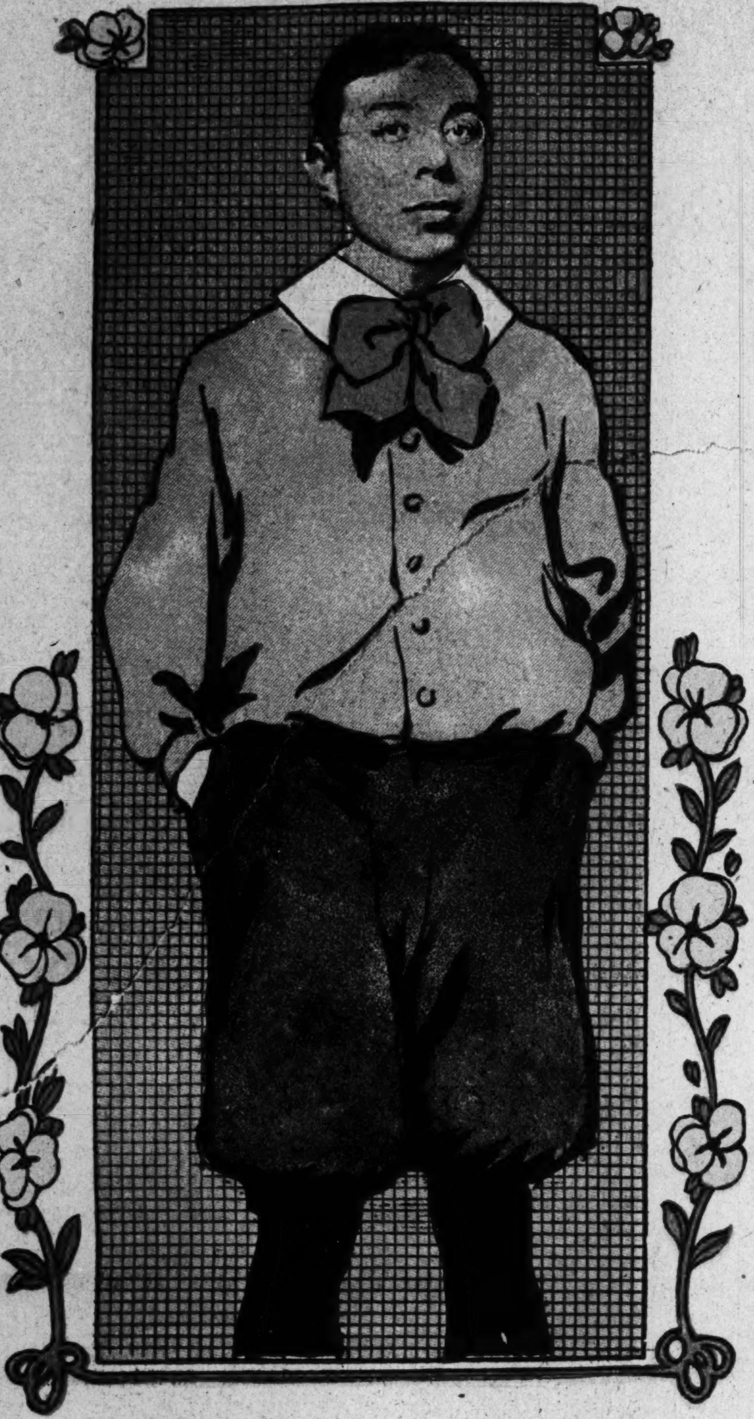
"START WITH THE CRADLE" Maxim of the New Education For Children

By Beginning the Education of the Child When It Is Very Young We Make Study Easy for the Child When It Is Ready to Attend School.



Norbert Wiener as an "ordinary boy."

BY JAFFREY HANCOCK.

MANY, many centuries ago, a little child of three was brought to a venerable philosopher, a sage renowned among his fellows for the vigor of his intellect and the nobility of his character.

"We want you," said the child's parents, "to undertake the education of our son. We will reward you liberally for your trouble, and will never cease to be grateful to you."

The old man shook his head.

"You should have brought him to me sooner," was his reply. "It is too late now to begin his education."

Educational theorists for generations regarded this wise man's answer as nothing more than a bit of methaphysical jesting. But of late years they have begun to wonder whether it might not be the expression of a profound truth. Puzzling over the "break-down" of the boasted public school system, as evinced by its obvious failure to develop in the great majority of those graduating from it a true and lasting love of knowledge and the ability really to use their reasoning powers, educators are to-day asking themselves, in constantly increasing numbers, if the failure of the schools may not at bottom be due to the unworkability of the material—the boys and girls—sent to them to be turned into "finished products."

They have been asking this question more insistently ever since the discovery of the psychological law that early childhood is pre-eminently the period in life when habits, good or bad, are most readily and most enduringly formed. Theoretically this would corroborate the old philosopher's declaration by implying that unless care is taken to train a child from infancy in habits of clear, logical thinking, and to inspire him with an interest in profitable things, habits of wrong thinking and interests of questionable value are pretty sure to be developed, and may never be entirely eradicated no matter how good the education he afterward receives. And, aside from this theoretical corroboration, educators, especially in our country, are more and more beginning to appreciate the true significance of the sage's answer in the light of certain interesting experiments made by a little group of American fathers and mothers within the past few years.

For the results of these experiments would seem to prove, not only that the early education of children is a most beneficial preliminary to the education of the schoolroom, but that when it is begun soon enough and is conducted along the proper lines, it has the effect of enlarging the mental powers of the average child to a really extraordinary extent.

Every one of the children of the parents in question—including in some cases whole families of three or four children—is a "child wonder" who has been a source of unending amazement to all making his or her acquaintance, every one of them, so far as regards intellectual power, is to the ordinary boy or girl of his or her age as the civilized European is to the untutored Hottentot: and every one of them, withal, has reminded throughout the period of upbringing the freshness and spontaneity of childhood, an abundance of healthy animal spirits, the ability to romp and play and "have a good time" generally.

One is that much talked about lad, William James Sidis, who entered Harvard College at eleven and before he had been a student there six months astounded the faculty by giving a public lecture on the mysteries of that mathematical figment of the imagination, the hypothetical fourth dimension. At the present time young Master William, now fourteen years old, is diligently employed collecting facts to bear out the startling astronomical theory that the planet Venus has better conditions for the support of life than our own planet.

Another of these wonderful children is Prof. Leo Wiener's son, Norbert Wiener, who recently graduated from Tufts College at fourteen, and at present, though only eighteen, has just been awarded the Ph.D. degree at Cambridge. In June he took his preliminary examinations for this degree, writing in six subjects, and obtaining five marks of A and one of B, the highest markings possible. And, according to his father, not once since he began his schooling has he taken a note in the classroom, nor read up especially for an examination. The same brilliancy of intellect characterizes his two sisters, Constance and Bertha, the former of whom is a student at Radcliffe, while Bertha, at the tender age of nine, has already had a year at high school. A younger brother, Fritz, aged five, gives promise of equalling, if not surpassing, the records made by his brother and sisters.

Fully as noteworthy are the achievements of the four children of the Rev. A. A. Berle of Cambridge, Mass., one of the most popular and progressive clergymen in Greater Boston. The oldest of the four, a girl named Lina, entered Radcliffe before she was fifteen; the second, Adolf Berle jr., passed the entrance examination into Harvard at thirteen and a half, the third, Miriam, is about to take the Radcliffe entrances; and the youngest, Rudolf, has been in the high school since he was nine.

Both Lina and Adolf have done unusually well in college. The former would have been graduated in three years had the Radcliffe regulations permitted; the latter has been specializing at Harvard in history and government, won a special prize for a historical essay and has been on two Harvard debating teams against Yale. He has also been a prominent member of the Harvard Dramatic Club, a fact which of itself testifies to his ability to enter into the social activities of the college like any ordinary student.

Then, again, in Pittsburgh, there is a little girl, Winifred Sackville Stoner, just ten years old, who speaks fluently in half a dozen languages, has been an authoress since the age of four, and has written hundreds of poems and sketches full of tender imagination and marked by much originality of thought. She is especially advanced in knowledge of that universal language Esperanto, has written a play in it, has made an Esperanto translation of the rhymes of Mother Goose and has more than once addressed the National Congress of Esperantists.

All these children, it is the firm belief of their parents, owe their uncommon mental development not to any exceptional gifts of inheritance but to the fact that they were educated in a special way and from an unusually early age. The methods employed in their education have somewhat varied in detail. Young Sidis was first taught, before he was two to spell and to read. So were little Miss Stoner and Norbert Wiener. Fritz Wiener's education began with instruction in the art of expression through drawing, for which he showed distinct aptitude at the age of three. The Berle children, on the other hand, began by learning, wholly by oral means, to speak several languages, their father believing that in this way the foundations could best be laid for all future education.

"As soon as my children began to talk," he says, "I made it my business, with the indispensable help of their mother, to teach them to express themselves, clearly and accurately, in the best of English; and I also taught them the same phrases in French, German, and other languages. The reason I laid such stress on the correct use of different languages is that I know no instrument that so tends to clarify thought as a keen linguistic sense.

But however much the initial educational programmes differed in detail, they were in every case basically the same, and rested on the dual principle that, provided a start be made soon enough, it is as easy to interest a child in the acquisition of knowledge as it is to interest him in the playing of games of little or no educational value, and that unless an early start is made the child's mind will become occupied with other interests that will make it difficult really to educate him later on. Every one of the parents concerned believed, in the words of Dr. Boris Sidis, the eminent medical psychologist and father and first teacher of William James Sidis:

"The prevalent notion among educators that one should let the mind of a child "lie fallow" until he reaches school age is absolutely wrong and insidiously pernicious. It is wrong because it is humanly impossible to keep any normal, healthy child from exercising his mind by thinking, and thinking hard, about whatever happens to arouse his curiosity and it is pernicious because unless a child is trained from the beginning of his life to think logically, to observe accurately and to become familiar with the principles of analysis, synthesis and comparison, he is certain to fall into loose, and perhaps irremediable ways of thinking

In this belief all of the parents have acted. No matter what the subject with which they began their children's education they have invariably taken steps to present it to them in such a way as to appeal to them with all the force of an interesting game. They have, indeed, invented games with which to turn their thoughts to whatever it was particularly desired they should learn. Thus, despite his present phenomenal mastery of mathematics, it is not so many years since William Sidis, then a pupil in a Brookline Mass., public school, seemed utterly incapable of grasping the simplest principles of arithmetic. His father, confident that the trouble lay in the inability of the child's teachers to interest him in arithmetic, took him in hand, bought him a box of dominoes, and with these devised games which required knowledge of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. At once his son found arithmetic "good fun," and in less than a year passed to the study of algebra, trigonometry and geometry. He was not then seven.

Similarly Dr. Berle taught history, geography geology, and other subjects to his children by linking up the principal facts with the children's ordinary avocations and pastimes. The little ditches they dug in their backyard became the trenches and moats of Julius Caesar in his conquest of Gaul. The action of water poured into these same ditches provided material for a lesson in the significance of geological erosion. The lines and angles of the tennis court afforded lessons in geometry, and so on.

Norbert Wiener, who has just received his Ph.D. degree from Cambridge, at eighteen years of age.

Much the same method was adopted by Prof. Wiener, particularly in the summer time, when he gave—and still continues to give—a good part of his vacation to taking his children on long tramps through the White Mountains, there to study botany, geology, natural history, astronomy, and much else from the great text book of Nature.

"And on these walks," said he, not long ago, "I do not merely point things out to the children. Rather, I encourage them to point things out to me, to use their eyes, to make their own inferences. It is the same with their studies at home. I try to develop their minds by stimulating them to learn things as far as possible by themselves. If they make a mistake I do not show them what it is. I simply say, 'That is wrong,' and let them detect the error by looking and thinking. Of course, though, I always cause them to feel that I am intensely interested in what they are doing, and that I am in entire sympathy with them. That is really the secret of the whole matter—to keep the child's interest alive by interest and sympathy on the parent's part."

Puzzling over the "break-down" of the boasted public school system, as evinced by its obvious failure to develop in the great majority of those graduating from it a true and lasting love of knowledge and the ability really to use their reasoning powers, educators are to-day asking themselves, in constantly increasing numbers, if the failure of the schools may not at bottom be due to the unworkability of the material—the boys and girls—sent to them to be turned into "finished products."

MURGH, THE DEATH.

THEY knew nothing of it in England or all the Western countries in those days before Crecy was fought, when the third Edward sat upon the throne. There was none to tell them of the doom that the East, whence come light and life, death and the decrees of God, had loosed upon the world. Not one in a multitude in Europe had ever even heard of those vast lands of far Cathay peopled with hundreds of millions of cold-faced yellow men, lands which had grown very old before our own familiar states and empires were carved out of mountain, of forest, and of savage-hunted plain. Yet if their eyes had been open so that they could see, well might they have trembled. King, prince, priest, merchant, captain, citizen and poor laboring hind, well might they all have trembled when the East sent forth her gifts!

Look across the world beyond that curtain of thick darkness. Behold! A vast city of fantastic houses half buried in winter snows and reddened by the lurid sunset breaking through a saw-toothed canopy of cloud. Everywhere upon the temple squares and open spaces great fires burning a strange fuel—the bodies of thousands of mankind. Pestilence was king of that city, a pestilence hitherto unknown. Innumerable hordes had died and were dying yet innumerable hordes remained. All the patient East bore forth those still shapes that had been theirs to love or hate, and, their task done, turned to the banks of the mighty river and watched.

Down the broad street which ran between the fantastic houses advanced a procession toward the brown, ice-flecked river. First marched a company of priests clad in black robes, and carrying on poles lanterns of black paper, lighted, although the sun still shone. Behind marched another company of priests clad in white robes, and bearing white lanterns, also lighted. But at these none looked, nor did they listen to the dirges that they sang, for all eyes were fixed upon him who filled the center space and upon his two companions.

The first companion was a lovely woman, jewel-hung, wearing false flowers in her streaming hair, and beneath her bared breasts a kirtle of white silk. Life and love embodied in radiance and beauty, she danced in front, looking about her with alluring eyes, and scattering petals of dead roses from a basket which she bore. Different was the second companion, who stalked behind; so thin, so sexless that none could say if the shape were that of man or woman. Dry, streaming locks of iron-gray, an ashen countenance, deep-set, hollow eyes, a beetling, parchment-covered brow; lean shanks half hidden with a rotting rag, claw-like hands which clutched miserably at the air. Such was its awful fashion, that of new death in all its terrors.

Between them, touched of neither, went a man, naked save for a red girdle and a long red cloak that was fastened round his throat and hung down from his broad shoulders. There was nothing strange about this man, unless it were perhaps the strength that seemed to flow from him and the glance of his icy eyes. He was just a burly yellow man, whose age none could tell, for the hood of the red cloak hid his hair; one who seemed to be far removed from youth, and yet untouched by time. He walked on steadily, intently, his face immovable, taking no heed.

"Red Eve they name me, and red is my badge, because it suits my dark face."

THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH in this issue of the Fiction Section presents the opening installment of Part 1 of "Red Eve," one of the most remarkable and intensely absorbing tales which has ever come from the extraordinary pen of that master of the weird, the mystic and the purely imaginary in fiction, H. Rider Haggard.

This unusual treat will run in two parts, one in May and the second in June. The followers of Haggard undoubtedly will find "Red Eve" as entertaining as "She" or "King Solomon's Mines," and as good, if not better, than these famous stories in its higher literary features. No more delightful companion can be found these Spring Sundays than dauntless "Red Eve."

Only now and again he turned those long eyes of his upon one of the multitude who watched him pass crouched upon their knees in solemn silence, always upon one, whether it were man, woman or child, with a glance meant for that one and no other. And ever the one upon whom it fell rose from the knee, made obeisance, and departed as though filled with some inspired purpose.

Down to the quay went the black priests, the white priests, and the red-cloaked man, preceded by rosy life, followed by ashen death. Through the funeral fires they wended, and the lurid sunset shone upon them all.

To the pillars of this quay was fastened a strange, high-pooped ship with crimson sails set upon her masts. The white priests and the black priests formed lines upon either side of the broad gangway of that ship and bowed as the red-cloaked man walked over it between them quite alone, for now she with the dead roses and she of the ashen countenance had fallen back. As the sun sank, standing on the lofty stern, he cried aloud:

"Here the work is done. Now I, the Eating Fire, I the Messenger, get me to the West. Among you for a while I cease to burn; yet remember me, for I shall come again."

As he spoke the ropes of the ship were loosed, the wind caught her crimson sails, and she departed into the night, one blood-red spot against its blackness.

The multitude watched until they could see her no longer. Then they flamed up with mingled joy and rage. They laughed madly. They cursed him who had departed.

"We live, we live we live!" they cried. "Murgh is gone! Murgh is gone! Kill his priests! Make sacrifice of his Shadows. Murgh is gone bearing the curse of the East into the bosom of the West. Look, it follows him!" and they pointed to a cloud of smoke of vapor, in which terrible shapes seemed to move dimly, that trailed after the departing, red-sailed ship.

The black priests and the white priests heard. Without struggle, without complaint, as though they were but taking part in some set ceremony, they kneeled down in lines upon the snow. Naked from the waist up, executioners with great swords appeared. They advanced upon the kneeling lines without haste, without wrath, and, letting fall the heavy swords upon the patient, outstretched necks, did their grim office till all were dead. Then they turned to find her of the flowers who had danced before, and her of the tattered weeds who had followed after, purposing to cast them to the funeral flames. But these were gone, though none had seen them go. Only out of the gathering darkness from some temple or pagodatop a voice spoke like a moaning wind.

"Fools," wailed the voice, "still with you is Murgh, the second Thing created; Murgh, who was made to be man's minister. Murgh the Messenger shall reappear from beyond the setting sun. Ye cannot kill, ye cannot spare. Those priests you seemed to slay he had summoned to be his officers afar. Fools! Ye do but serve Murgh, Gateway of the Gods. Life and death are not in your hands or in his. They are in the hands of the Master of Murgh, Helper of man, of that Lord whom no eye hath seen, but whose behests all who are born obey—yes, even the mighty Murgh, Looser of burdens, whom in your foolishness ye fear."

So spoke this voice out of the darkness, and that night the sword of the great pestilence was lifted from the Eastern land, and there the funeral fires flared no more.

PART ONE.

CHAPTER I.

The Trysting Place.

ON the very day when Murgh the Messenger sailed forth into that uttermost sea, a young man and a maiden met together in the Blythburgh marshes, near to Dunwich, on the eastern coast of England. In this, the month of February of the year 1346, hard and bitter frost held Suffolk in its grip. The muddy stream of Blyth, it is true, was frozen only in places, since the tide, flowing up from the Southwold harbor, where it runs into the sea between that ancient town and the hamlet of Walberswick, had broken up the ice. But all else was set hard and fast, and now toward sunset the cold was bitter.

On such an eve, with snow threatening, the great marsh was utterly desolate, and this was why these two had chosen it for their meeting place.

To look on they were a goodly pair—the girl, who was clothed in the red she always wore, tall, dark, well shaped, with large black eyes and a determined face, one who would make a very stately woman; the man broad shouldered, with gray eyes that were quick and almost fierce, long limbed, hard, agile and healthy, one who had never known sickness, who looked as though the world were his own to master. He was young, but three-and-twenty that day, and his simple dress, a tunic of thick wool fastened round him with a leathern belt, to which hung a short sword, showed that his degree was modest.

The girl, although she seemed his elder, in fact was only in her twentieth year. Yet from her who had been reared in the hard school of that cruel age childhood had long departed, leaving her a ripened woman before her time.

"Well, Cousin Eve Clavering," said the man, in his clear voice, "why did your message bid me meet you in this cold place?"

"Because I had a word to say to you, Cousin Hugh de Cressi," she answered boldly; "and the marsh being so cold and so lonesome I thought it suited to my purpose. Does Gray Dick watch yonder?"

"Ay, behind those willows, arrow on string, and God help him on whom Dick draws! But what was that word, Eve?"

"One easy to understand," she replied, looking him in the eyes—"'Farewell!'"

"An ill birthday greeting, yet I feared it," he muttered huskily, "but why more now than at any other time."

"Would you know, Hugh? Well, the story is short, so I'll set it out. Our great-grandmother, the heiress of the de Cheneys, married twice, did she not, and from the first husband came the de Cressis, and from the second the Claverings. But in this way or in that we Claverings got the lands, or most of them, and you De Cressis, the nobler stock, took to merchandise. Now since those days you have grown rich with your fishing fleets, your wool mart, and your ferry dues at Walberswick and Southwold. We, too, are rich in manors and in land, counting our acres by the thousand, yet poor, lacking your gold, though yonder manor"—and she pointed to some towers which rose away above the trees upon the high land—"has many mouths to feed. Also the sea has robbed us at Dunwich, where I was born, taking our great house and sundry streets that paid us rent, and your market of Southwold has starved out ours at Blythburgh."

"Well, what has all this to do with you and me, Eve?"

"Much, Hugh, as you should know who have been bred to trade," and she glanced at his merchant's dress. "Between De Cressi and Clavering there has been rivalry and feud for three long generations. When we were children it abated for a while, since your father lent money to mine, and that is why they suffered us to grow up side by side. But then they quarreled about the ferry that we had set in pawn and your father asked his gold back again, and, not getting it, took the ferry, which I have always held a foolish and strife-breeding deed, since from that day forward the war was open. Therefore, Hugh, if we meet at all it must be in these frozen reeds or behind the cover of a thicket, like a village slut and her man."

"I know that well enough, Eve, who have spoken with you but twice in nine months." And he devoured her beautiful face with hungry eyes. "But of that word, 'Farewell'"——

"Of that ill word, this, Hugh: I have a new suitor up yonder, a fine French suitor, a very great lord indeed, whose wealth, I am told, none can number. From his mother he has the Valley of the Waveney up to Bunbay town—ay, and beyond—and from his father, a whole county in Normandy. Five French knights ride behind his banner, and with them 10 squires and I know not how many men-at-arms. There is feasting yonder at the manor, I can tell you. Ere his train leaves us our winter provender will be done, and we'll have to drink beer till the wine ships come from France in spring."

"And what is this Lord's name?"

"God's truth, he has several," she answered. "Sir Edmund Acour in England, and in France the high and puissant Count of Noyon, and in Italy, near to the city of Venice—for there, too, he has possessions which came to him through his grandmother—the Seigneur of Cattrina.

"And having so much, does he want you, too as I have heard, Eve? And if so, why?"

"So he swears," she answered slowly; "and as for the reason, why, I suppose you must seek it in my face, which by ill-fortune has pleased his Lordship since he saw it a month ago. At least he has asked me in marriage of my father, who jumped at him like a winter pike, and so I'm betrothed."

"And do you want him, Eve?"

"Ay, I want him as far as the sun is from the moon or the world from either. I want him in heaven or beneath the earth, or anywhere away from me."

"I'm glad of that, Eve, for I've been told much of this fine fellow—amongst other things that he is a traitor come here to spy on England. But should I be a match for him, man to man, Eve?"

"I think so, though he is no weakling; but not for him and the five knights and the 10 squires, and my noble father, and my brother, and the rest. Oh, Hugh, Hugh!" she added bitterly, "cannot you understand that you are but a merchant's lad, though your blood be as noble as any in this realm—a merchant's lad, the last of five brothers? Why were you not born the first of them if you wished for Eve Clavering, for then your red gold might have bought me."

"Ask that of those who begot me," said Hugh. "Come now, what's in your mind? You're not one to be sold like a heifer at a faring and go whimpering to the altar, and I am not one to see you led there while I stand upon my feet. We are made of a clay too stiff for a French Lord's fingers, Eve, though it is true that they may drag you whither you would not walk."

"No," she answered, "I think I shall take some marrying against my wish. Moreover, I am Dunwich born."

"What of that, Eve?"

"Go ask your godsire and my friend, Sir Andrew Arnold, the old priest. In the library of the Temple there he showed me an ancient roll, a copy of the charter granted by John and other kings of England to the citizens of Dunwich."

"What said this writing, Eve?"

"It said, among other things, that no man or maid of Dunwich can be forced to marry against their will, even in the lifetime of their parents."

"Then, sweet, you are safe!"

"Ay, so safe that tomorrow Father Nichols, the French chaplain in his train, has been warned to wed me to my Lord Acour—that is, if I'm there to wed."

"And if this Acour is there, I'll seek him out tonight and challenge him, Eve," and Hugh laid hand upon his sword.

"Doubtless," she replied sarcastically, "Sir Edmund Acour, Count of Nayon, Seigneur of Cattrina, will find it honor to accept the challenge of Hugh de Cressi, the merchant's youngest son. Oh, Hugh, Hugh! are your wits frozen like this winter marsh? Not thus can you save me."

"How much do you love me, Eve?"

With a slow smile, she opened her arms, and next moment they were kissing each other as heartily as ever man and maid have kissed since the world began.

"You know well that I love you, to my sorrow and undoing," she said, in a broken voice. "From childhood it has been so between us, and till the grave takes one or both it will be so, and for my part beyond it, if the priests speak true. For, whatever may be your case, I am not one to change my fancy. When I give, I give all, though it be of little worth. In truth, Hugh, if I could I would marry you tonight, though you are naught but a merchant's son, or even"—— And she paused, wiping her eyes with the back of her slim, strong hand.

"I thank you," he answered, trembling with joy. "So it is with me. For you and no other woman I live and die; and though I am so humble I'll be worthy of you yet. If God keeps me in breath you shall not blush for your man, Eve. Well, I am not great at words, so let us come to deeds. Will you away with me now? I think that Father Arnold would find you lodging for the night and an altar to be wed at, and tomorrow our ship sails for Flanders and for France."

"Yes, but would your father give us passage in it, Hugh?"

"Why not? It could not deepen the feud between our houses, which already has not bottom, and if he refused, we would take one, for the captain is my friend. And I have some little store set by; it came to me from my mother."

"You ask much," she said; "all a woman has, my life, perchance, as well. Yet there it is: I'll go because I'm a fool, Hugh; and, as it chances, you are more to me than aught, and I hate this fine French Lord. I tell you I sicken at his glance and shiver when he touches me. Why, if he came too near I should murder him and be hanged. I'll go, though God alone knows the end of it."

"Our purpose being honest, the end will be good, Eve, though perhaps before all is done we may often think it evil. And now let's away, though I wish that you were dressed in another color."

"Red Eve they name me, and red is my badge, because it suits my dark face best. Cavil not at my robe, Hugh, for it is the only dowry you will get with Eve Clavering. How shall we go? By the Walberswick ferry? You have no horses."

"Nay, but I have a skiff hidden in the reeds five furloughs off. We must keep to the heath above Walberswick, for there they might know your red cloak even after dark, and I would not have you seen till we are safe with Sir Arnold in the Preceptory. Mother of Heaven! what is that?"

"A peewit, no more," she answered indifferently.

"Nay, it is my man Dick, calling like a peewit. That is his sign when trouble is afoot. Ah, here he comes."

As he spoke a tall, gaunt man appeared, advancing toward them. His gait was a shambling trot that seemed slow, although, in truth, he was covering the ground with extraordinary swiftness. Moreover, he moved so silently that even on the frost-held soil his step could not be heard, and so carefully that not a reed stirred as he threaded in and out among their clumps like an otter, his head crouched down and his long bow pointed before him as though it were a spear. Half a minute more, and he was before them—a very strange man to see. His years were not so many, 30 perhaps, and yet his face looked quite old because of its lack of coloring, its thinness, and the hard lines that marked where the muscles ran down to the tight, straight mouth and up to the big forehead, over which hung hair so light that at a little distance he seemed ashen-gray. Only in this cold, rocky face, set very far apart, were two pale-blue eyes, which just now, when he chose to lift their lids that generally kept near together, as though he were half asleep, were full of fire and quick cunning.

"They're coming, master! You and your mistress must to earth unless you mean to face them in the open," and the pale eyes glittered as he tapped his great black bow.

"Who are coming, Dick? Be plain, man!"

"Sir John Clavering, my lady's father; young John, my lady's brother, the fine French Lord who wears a white swan for a crest; three of the knights, his companions; and six—no seven—men-at-arms. Also from the other side the grieve, Thomas of Kessland, and with him his marsh men and verderers."

"And what are they coming for?" he asked again. "Have they hounds, and hawk on wrist?"

"Nay, but they have swords and knife on thigh," and he let his pale eyes fall on Eve.

"Oh, have done!" she broke in. "They come to take me, and I'll not be taken! They come to kill you, and I'll not see you slain and live. I had words with my father this morning about the Frenchman and, I fear, let out the truth. He told me then ere the Dunwich roses bloomed again she who loved you would have naught but bones to kiss. Dick, you know the fen; where can we hide till nightfall?"

"Follow me," said the man, "and keep low!"

Plunging into the dense brake of reeds, through which he glided like a polecat, Dick led them over ground whereon, save in times of hard frost, no man could tread, heading toward the river bank. For 200 paces or more they went thus, till, quite near to the lip of the stream, they came to a patch of reeds higher and thicker than the rest, in the center of which was a little mound hid in a tangle of scrub and rushes. Once, perhaps, a hundred or a thousand years before, some old marsh dweller had lived upon this mound, or been buried in it. At any rate, on its southern side, hidden by reeds and a withered willow, was a cavity of which the mouth could not be seen that might have been a chamber for the living or the dead.

Thrusting aside the growths that masked it, Dick bade them enter and lie still.

CHAPTER II.

The Fight by the River.

FOR a while Hugh and Eve heard nothing, but Gray Dick's ears were sharper than theirs, quick as these might be. About half a minute later, however, they caught the sound of horses' hoofs ringing on the hard earth, followed by that of voices and the crackle of breaking reeds.

Two of the speakers appeared and pulled up their horses near by in a dry hollow that lay between them and the river bank. Peeping between the reeds that grew about the mouth of the earth-dwelling, Eve saw them.

"My father and the Frenchman," she whispered. "Look!" And she slid back a little so that Hugh might see.

Peering through the stems of the undergrowth, set as it were in a little frame against the red ominous sky, the eyes of Hugh de Cressi fell upon Sir Edmund Acour, a gallant, even a splendid-looking knight—that was his first impression of him. Broad shouldered, graceful, in age neither young nor old, clean featured, quick eyed, with a mobile mouth and a little, square-cut beard, soft and languid voiced, black haired, richly dressed in a fur robe, and mounted on a fine black horse, such was the man.

Acour was speaking in English, which he used with a strong French accent.

"Well, we do not find your beautiful runaway, Sir John," he said, in a cleared and cultivated voice; "and although I am not vain, for my part I cannot believe that she has come to such a place as this to meet a merchant's clerk, she who would company with kings."

"Yet I fear it is so, Sir Edmund," answered Sir John Clavering, a stout, dark man of middle age. "This girl of mine is very heady, as I give warning you will find out when she is your wife. For years she has set her fancy upon Hugh de Cressi; yes, since they were boy and girl together, as I think, and while he lives I doubt she'll never change it."

"While he lives—then why should he continue to live, Sir John?" asked the Count indifferently. "Surely the world will not miss a chapman's son!"

"The De Cressis are my kin, although I hate them, Sir Edmund. Also they are rich and powerful, and have many friends in high places. If this young man died by my command it would start a blood feud of which none can tell the end, for, after all, he is nobly born."

"Then, Sir John, he shall die by mine. No, not at my own hands, since I do not fight with traders. But I have those about me who are pretty swordsmen and know how to pick a quarrel. Before a week is out there will be a funeral at Dunwich."

"I know nothing of your men, and do not want to hear of their quarrels, past or future," said Sir John testily.

"Of course not," answered the Count. "I pray you, forget my words. Name of God! what an accursed and ill-omened spot is this. I feel as though I were standing by my own grave—it came upon me suddenly." And he shivered and turned pale.

Dick lifted his bow, but Hugh knocked the arrow aside ere he could loose it.

"To those who talk of death, death often draws near," replied Clavering, crossing himself, "though I find the place well enough, seeing the hour and season."

"Do you—do you, Sir John? Look at that sky; look at the river beneath which has turned to blood. Hark to the howl of the wind in the reeds and the cry of the birds we cannot see. Ay, and look at our shadows on the snow. Mine lies flat by a great hole, and yours rising against yonder bank is that of a hooded man with hollow eyes—Death himself as I should limn him! There, it is gone! What a fool am I, or how strong is that wine of yours! Shall we be going also?"

"Nay, here comes my son with tidings. Well, Jack, have you found your sister?" he nodded, addressing a dark and somewhat saturnine young man who now rode up to them from over the crest of the hollow.

"No, sir, though we have beat the marsh through and through, so that scarce an otter could have escaped us. And yet she's there, for Thomas of Kessland caught sight of her red cloak among the reeds, and what's more, Hugh de Cressi is with her, and Gray Dick, too, for both were seen."

"I am glad there's a third," said Sir John drily, "though God save me from his arrows! This Gray Dick," he added to the Count, "is a wild, homeless halfwit whom they call Hugh de Cressi's shadow, but the finest archer in Soffolk, with Norfolk thrown in; one who can put a shaft through every button on your doublet at 50 paces—ay, and bring down wild geese on the wing twice out of four times, for I have seen him do it with that black boy of his."

"Indeed? Then I should like to see him shoot—at somebody else," answered Acour, for in those days such skill was of interest to all soldiers. "Kill Hugh de Cressi if you will, friend, but spare Gray Dick; he might be useful."

"Ay, Sir Edmund," broke in the young man furiously, "I'll kill him if I can catch him, the dog who dares to bring scandal on my sister's name. Let the Saints but give me five minutes face to face with him alone, with none to help either of us, and I'll beat him to a pulp, and hang what's left of him upon the nearest tree to be warning to all such puppies."

"I note the challenge," said Sir Edmund, "and should hance come my way will keep the lists for you asure, since whatever this Hugh may be I doubt n his blood he'll prove no coward. But, young must catch your puppy ere you hang him, and n this marsh he must have gone to ground."

k so, too, Sir Edmund; but, if so, we'll soon start the badger. Look yonder." And he pointed to smoke rising at several spots half a mile or more away.

"What have you done, son?" asked Sir John anxiously "Fired the reeds," he said with a savage laugh.

"Fool," thundered Sir John, "do you know your sister so little? As like as not she'll stay and burn, and then I'll lose my girl, who, when all is said, is worth 10 of you! Well, what is done cannot be undone, but if death comes of this mad trick it is on your head, not mine! To the bank, and watch with me, Sir Edmund, for we can do no more."

Ten minutes later, and the fugitives in the mound, peeping out from their hole, saw clouds of smoke floating above them.

Hugh took counsel with Grey Dick.

"If we could get into the water now, Dick?"

"The pools are frozen. Moreover, as well die of heat as cold; I love not ice-water."

"What counsel, then, Dick?"

"Perchance, when the smoke begins to trouble them, which it must soon, they'll move. Then we will run for the river; 'tis but 50 yards. The lady Eve can swim like a duck, and so can you. The tide has turned, and will bear you to the point, and I'll hold the bank against any who try to follow, and take my chance. What say you of that plan, lady?"

"That it is as good as another, or as bad," she an-

Eve held her cloak pressed against her mouth to filter the smoke, which grew thick.

"It is time to move," said Hugh, coughing as he spoke. "By Heaven's grace, we are too late! Look!"

"The wind has turned," said Dick. "Now it is fire, or water if you can get there. How do you choose to die?" and as he spoke he unstrung his bow and slipped it into its leathern case.

"Neither one way nor the other," answered Eve. "Some may die tonight, but we shall not."

Hugh leaped up and took command.

"Cover your faces to the eyes, and run for it," he said. "I'll go first, then you, Eve, and Dick behind. Make for the point and leap—the water is deep there."

They sprang to their feet and forward into the reeds. When they were almost at the edge of the fire a shout told them that they had been seen. Eve, the swift of foot, outpaced Hugh, and was the first to leap into that circle of tall flames. She was through it! They were all through it, scorched but unharmed. Thirty paces away was the little point of land where nothing grew, for the spring tides washed it, that jutted out into the waters of the Blythe, and, perhaps a hundred to their right, the Claverings poured down on them, foot and horse together.

Hugh caught his foot in a willow root and fell. Eve and Grey Dick sped onward unknowing. They reached the point above the water, turned, and saw. Dick slipped his bow from its case, strung it, and set an arrow on the string. Hugh had gained his feet, but a man who had come up, sprang, and cast his arms about him. Hugh threw him to the ground, for he was very strong, and shook himself free. Then he drew the short and heavy sword that he wore, and, shouting out, "Make way!" to those who stood between him and the little promontory, started to run again.

These opened to right and left to let him pass, for they feared the look in his eyes and the steel in his hand. Only young John Clavering, who had leapt from his horse, would not budge. As Hugh tried to push past him, he struck him in the face, calling out:

"We have caught the De Cressi thief! Take him and hang him!"

At the insult of the blow and words, Hugh stopped dead and turned quite white, whereupon the men, thinking that he was afraid, closed in upon him. Then in the silence the harsh, croaking voice of Grey Dick was heard saying:

"Sir John of Clavering, bid your people let my master go, or I will send an arrow through your heart!" and

Sir John muttered something, thinking that this was a poor way to die, and again the men fell back, except one French knight, who, perhaps, did not catch or understand his words.

This man stretched out his hand to seize Hugh, but before ever it fell upon his shoulder the bow twanged and Acour's retainer was seen whirling round and round, cursing with pain. In the palm of his hand was an arrow that had sunk through it to the feathers

Now again all fell back, so that Hugh might have run for it if he would. But his blood was up, and he did not stir.

"John Clavering," he said, addressing the young man, "just now, when I lay hid in yonder hole, I heard you say that if you had five minutes with me alone you'd beat me to a pulp and hang what was left of me on the nearest tree. Well, here I stand, and there's a tree. Having first tried to burn me and your sister, you have struck me in the face. Will you make good your words, or shall I strike you in the face and go my way? Nay, keep your dogs off me! Grey Dick yonder has more arrows."

Now a tumult arose, some saying one thing and some another, but all keeping an eye upon Grey Dick and his bent bow. At last Sir Edmund Acour rode forward, and in his polished, stately way said to John:

"Young sir, this merchant is in the right, and whatever his trade may be, his blood is as good as your own. After your brave words, either you should fight him or take back the blow you gave."

Then he leaned down and whispered into John's ear:

"Your sword is longer than his. Make an end of him and of all his trouble, lest men should laugh at you as an empty boaster."

Now John, who was brave and needed but little urging, turned to his father and said;

"Have I your leave to whip this fellow, sir?"

"You should have asked that before you struck him in the face," replied the knight. "You are a man grown. Do as best pleases you. Only if you take the blow, begone from Blythburgh."

Then Eve, who all this time had been listening, called out from where she stood above the river.

"Brother John, if you fight your cousin Hugh, who is my affianced husband, and fall, on your own head be it, for know, your blood shall not stand between him and me, since it was you who struck him, and not he you. Be warned, John, and let him go, lest he should send you farther than you wish to travel. And to you, Hugh, I say, though it is much to ask, if he throws down his sword, forget that unknightly blow and come hither."

"You hear," said Hugh shortly to John. "Now, because she is your sister, if it's your will I'll begone in peace."

"Ay," answered John, setting his thin, lips, "because you are a coward, woman-thief, and seek to live that you may bring shame upon our House. Well, that will pass when you die presently!"

"John, John, boast not," cried Eve. "Who has shown you where you will sleep tonight?"

"Whether I shall live or die, God knows alone," said Hugh solemnly. "But what I seek to know is, should it chance to be your lot to die, whether your people or these Frenchmen will set on me, or raise a blood-feud against me. Tell me now, Sir John Clavering?"

"If you kill my son in combat a outrance, he being the challenger," answered the knight, "none shall lift hand against you for that deed if I can hold them back. But know that I have other cause of quarrel against you"—and he pointed to his daughter—"and that if you meddle with her, who is not for you, certainly you shall die."

"And, young sir," broke in Sir Edmund, "I pray you to understand that this Lady Eve tomorrow becomes my wife with the will of her father and her kin; and that if you try to stand between us, although I may not fight you, seeing what I am and what you are, I'll kill you like a rat when and where I get the chance! Yes," he added, in a savage snarl, "I pledge my knightly honor that I will kill you like a rat, if I must follow you across the world to do so!"

"You will not have need to travel far if I have my will," answered the young man sternly, "since Red Eve is mine, not yours, and, living or dead, mine she will remain. As for your fine knightly honor, Sir Edmund Acour, Count de Noyon, Seigneur of Cattrina, what has a traitor to his King to do with honor, one who is here as a spy of Philip of France, as the poor merchant's lad knows well? Oh, take your hand from your sword of which you say I am not worthy, and, since you say also that I have so many enemies, let me begin with a squire of my own degree."

"What say you to this, Sir Edmund?" shouted Sir John Clavering above them all. "You are a great Lord and a wealthy, beloved by me also as the affianced of my daughter, but am a loyal Englishman who have no truck with traitors to my King."

"What say I?" asked Sir Edmund calmly "I say that if this fellow can fight as well as he can lie, your son has but a poor chance with him. As you know well, I came hither from France to visit my estates, not to learn what strength his Grace of England, my liege lord, gathers for the new war with Philip."

"Enough," said Sir John; "though this is the first I have heard of such a war, for it would seem that you know more of King Edward's mind than I do. The light begins to fail, there is no time for talk. Stand clear, all men, and let these two settle it."

"Ay," croaked Grey Dick, "stand clear, all men, while my master cuts the throat of his cousin Clavering since he who stands not clear shall presently lie straight!" The two were face to face.

The pair were well matched, for though Hugh was the taller, John, his senior by a year, was thicker set and better trained in arms. But the sword of John was longer by a hand's bredth than that Hugh carried as a merchant, which was heavy, of such a make as the ancient Romans used, and sharpened on either edge Neither of them wore armour, since Hugh had no right to do so, and John had not come out to fight.

They stool still for a moment in the midst of a breathless silence, the red light of the stormy sunset striking across them both. Everything was red, the smoke-clouds rising from the sullen, burning marsh into which the fire was still eating far away; the waters of the Blythe brimful with the tide that had just turned toward the sea, the snow and ice itself. Even the triangle of wild swans brought by the hard weather from the northern lands looked red as they pursued their heavy and majestic flight toward the south, heedless of man and his affairs beneath.

Not long did these remain heedless, however, since either to show his skill or for some other purpose of his own, Grey Dick lifted his bow and loosed an arrow, almost, it seemed, at hazard. Yet that arrow pierced the leader of the flock, so that down it came in wide circles, and in a last struggle hovered for a moment over the group of men, then fell among them with a thud, the blood from its pierced breast bespattering Sir Edmund Acour and John Clavering's black hair.

"An ill omen for those two, and especially for him who wears a white swan for crest," said a voice. But at the moment none took much notice, except Grey Dick, who chuckled at the success of his shot, since all were intent on greater matters—namely, which of those two young men should die.

Sir John, the father, rode forward and addressed them.

"To the death without mercy to the fallen," he said grimly.

They bent their heads in answer.

"Now!" he cried, and reined back his horse

"The first home thrust wins," whispered Acour to him, as he wiped the blood of the swan off his sleeve. "Thank God, your son's sword is the longer!"

Perhaps the pair heard this whisper, or, perhaps, being without mail, they knew that it was so. At least for a while they circled round and round each other, but out of reach.

Then at length John Clavering rushed in and thrust, Hugh sprang back before his point. Again he rushed and thrust and again Hugh sprang back. A third time and Hugh fairly ran, thereon a shout went up from the Claverings.

Eve turned her face, and her very eyes were sick with doubt.

"It is true?" she gasped.

"Ay," answered Dick the Archer, "it's true that he draws him to the river bank! Those who wait will learn why. Oh, the swan! He sees not the swan!"

As he spoke, Hugh, in his retreat before another of John Clavering's rushes, struck his foot against the great dead bird, and staggered. John leapt upon him, and he went down.

"Is he pierced?" muttered Eve.

"Nay, missed," answered Dick, "by half an inch. Ah, I thought so!"

As the words left his lips Clavering fell sprawling on his back, for Hugh had caught his leg with his left arm and thrown him, so that they lay both together on the ground.

The flurry in the snow was at an end. John lay on his back, De Cressi knelt on him and lifted his short sword.

"Do you yield?" men heard him say.

"Nay," answered Clavering. Then suddenly Hugh rose and suffered his adversary to do likewise.

"I'll not stick you like a hog!" he said, and some cried, "Well done!" for the act seemed noble. Only Acour muttered, "Fool!"

Next instant they were at it again, but this time it was Hugh who attacked John who gave back right to the river's edge, for skill and courage seemed to fail him at once.

"Turn your head, lady," said Dick, "for now one must die." But Eve could not.

The swords flashed for the last time in the red light, then that of De Cressi vanished. Clavering threw his arms wide, and fell backward. A splash as of a great stone thrown into water, and all was done.

Hugh stood a moment on the river's brink, staring at the stream beneath; then he turned and began to walk slowly toward the dead swan.

Ere ever he reached it Sir John Clavering fell from his horse in a swoon, and a shout of rage went up from all his people.

"Kill him!" they yelled, and leapt forward.

Now Hugh understood, and ran for the point of land. One man, a Frenchman, got in front of him. He cut him down, and sped on.

"What now?" said Eve, as he joined them.

He did not answer, only pointed first to the Clavering folk and next to the water, showing that she must choose between the two.

"Swim for it!" growled Grey Dick. "I'll hold them back a while and then join you," and as he spoke his bow twanged.

For an instant Eve paused, then threw off her scarlet cloak.

"Remember, I slew your brother!" said Hugh hoarsely.

"I remember that he would have slain you," she answered; and leapt straight from the point into the icy flood, beneath which her head sank.

When it rose again there was another head beside it, that of dead John, who appeared for one moment, to be seen no more forever, since ere morning the ocean had him.

Now Hugh leapt after her, and presently the pair of them were swimming side by side to the river's further shore. Then, as now, it was but a narrow stream. Yet they did not reach it easily, for, cumbered as they were with clothes, and numbed by the ice-cold water, the fierce tide caught them and carried them beyond the bend. There they were lost in the gathering darkness, so that most of those who watched believed that they had sunk and drowned. But it was not so, for after a long struggle they came safe to shore near to a clump of willows, and clambered over the frozen mud to the heath beyond.

"First fire, then water," said Hugh, in a mazed voice.

"You have missed out love and death," answered the girl—"a full feast for a day that is not done. But whither now?"

"To take sanctuary at the Preceptory and raise my kin. Forward, Eve, ere you freeze."

"I think there is that in me which will not freeze," she answered; and broke into a run.

Now night closed in, and the snow which had been threatening all day began to fall, making their path over the heath difficult.

"We need Grey Dick to guide us; but alack, I fear he is dead!" muttered Hugh.

"I think others will be dead, not Dick," she answered.

Just then they heard a footstep behind them.

Hugh wheeled round and drew his sword, but almost before it had left the scabbard a long figure glided out of the snow, and said:

"More to the left, master, more to the left, unless you would make your peace on Blythburgh bridge, where some would be glad to meet you."

"How went it?" asked Hugh shortly.

"Not well. I shot thrice and slew three men, two of the French knights, and Thomas of Kessland, against whom I had a score that now is settled. But the fourth time I missed."

"Who?" asked Eve between her teeth as she ran beside him.

"The Frenchman who means to marry you. When the others fell back he came at me on his horse as I was setting a fresh arrow, thinking to get me. I had to shoot quick, and aimed low for his heart, because in that light I could not make certain of his face. He saw, and jerked up the horse's head, so that the shaft took it in the throat and killed the beast without hurting its rider. He was off in an instant and at me, with others, before I could draw again. So I thought it time to go, which I did, backward, as he thrust. Perhaps he thinks he killed me, as I meant he should, on, when he looks at his sword he'll find it clean. That's all."

CHAPTER III.

Father Andrew.

NONE were abroad in the streets of Dunwich on that bitter winter night when these three trudged wearily down Middlegate street through the driving snow to the door of the gray Preceptory of the Knights Templar. In a window above the porch a light burned dimly, the only one to be seen in any of the houses round about, for by now all men were abed.

"'Tis Father Arnold's room," said Eve.

"I'll go no step further," answered Hugh sullenly. "All this Temple ground is sanctuary, or at least we will risk it." And, seizing the knocker, he hammered at the door.

The light in the window vanished, and presently they heard a sound of creaking bolts. Then the door opened, revealing a tall man, white-bearded, ancient, and clad in a frayed, furred robe worn over a priest's cassock, who held a lantern in his hand.

"Who knocks?" he asked. "Does some soul pass?"

"Ay, Father Andrew," answered Hugh, "souls have passed, and souls are near to passing. Let us in, and we will tell you all."

Without waiting for an answer he entered with the others, pushed to the massive door and bolted it again.

"What's this? A woman?" said the old priest. "Eve of Clavering, by the Saints!"

Father Arnold, muttering some word belonging to his "centurion" days, dived into the kitchen, to reappear presently dragging a little old woman after him who was dressed in a robe of conventional make.

"Peace, Mother Agnes, peace!" he said. "Take this lady, dry her, array her in your best gown, give her food, warm her, and bring her back to me."

He thrust the pair of them through the kitchen door and, turning, led Hugh and Grey Dick up a broad oak stair to what had been the guest hall of the Preceptory on its first floor.

"Now, Hugh de Cressi," he said, "what have you done?"

"Slain my cousin, John of Clavering, Father, and perhaps another man."

"In fair fight, very fair fight," croaked Grey Dick.

"Who doubts it? Can a De Cressi be a murderer?" asked the priest. "And you, Richard the Archer, what have you done?"

"Shot a good horse and three bad men dead with arrows—at least they should be dead—and another through the hand, standing one against 20."

All the tale had been told, and Father Arnold looked very grave indeed.

"I have known strange and dreadful stories in my time," he said, "but never, I think, one stranger or more dreadful. What would you do now, godson?"

"Take sanctuary for myself and Grey Dick because of the slaying of John Clavering and others, and afterward be married by you to Eve."

"Be married to the sister with the brother's blood upon your hands without absolution from the Church or pardon from the King; and you but a merchant's younger son and she tonight one of the greatest heiresses in East Anglia! Why, how may that be?"

"I blame him not," broke in Eve. "John, whom I never loved, strove to smoke us out like rats because he was in the pay of the Norman, my Lord of Acour. John struck Hugh in the face with his hand and slandered him with his tongue. John was given his life once, and afterward slain in fair fight. Oh, I say, I blame him not, nor shall John's blood rise between him and me!"

"Yet the world will blame him, and you, too, Eve; yes, even those who love you both. A while must go by, say a year. At least I'll not marry you at once, and cannot, if I would, with both your fathers living and unadvised, and the sheriff waiting at the gate. Tell me now, do they know that you have entered here?"

"Nay," said Dick, looking up from his bow. "The hunt came after us, but I hid these two in a bush and led it away past Hinton to the Ipswich road, keeping but just ahead in the snow and talking in three voices. Then I gave them the slip and returned. They'll not guess that we have come to Dunwich for a while."

"And when they do even the boldest will not enter this holy sanctuary while the Church has terrors for men's souls. Yet, here you must not stay for long, lest in this way or in that your lives pay the price of it, or a bloody feud break out between the Claverings of Blythburgh and the De Cressis of Dunwich. Daughter Eve, get you to bed with old Agnes. You are so weary that you will not mind her snores. Tomorrow ere the dawn I'll talk with you, and, meanwhile, I have words for Hugh. Nay, have no fear, the windows are all barred, and Archer Dick shall watch the door."

Eve went, unwillingly enough, although she could scarcely walk, flashing a good-night to her lover with her fine eyes. Presently Grey Dick also went to sleep, like a dog with one eye open, in the little ante-chamber, near to the great door.

"Now, Hugh," said Father Arnold, when they were left alone, "your case is desperate, for if you stay here certainly these Claverings will have your blood. Yet, if you can be got away safely, there is still a shaft that you may shoot more deadly than any that ever left Grey Dick's quiver. But yesterday I told you for your comfort—when we spoke of this wooing of Red Eve—that this Norman, for such he is, although his mother was English and he was English born, is a traitor to King Edward, whom he pretends to serve."

"Ay, and I said as much to him this afternoon when he prated to me of his knightly honor, and, though I had no time to take note of faces, I thought he liked it little who answered hotly that I was a liar."

"I am sorry, Hugh; it may put him on his guard, or perhaps he'll pay no heed. At least the words are said, and there's an end. Now hearken. I told neither you nor anyone all the blackness of his treachery. Have you guessed what this Acour is here to do?"

"Spy out the King's power in these parts, I suppose."

"More than that"—and he dropped his voice to a whisper—"spy out a safe landing place for 50,000 Normans upon our Suffolk coast. They are to sail hither this coming summer and set the crown of England upon their Duke John, who will hold it as vassal to his sire, Philip of France."

"God's name! Is that true?"

"Ay, though in such a devil's business that Name is best left out. Look you, lad, I had warning from overseas, where, although I am now nothing but a poor old priest of a broken Order, I still have friends in high places. Therefore I watched and found that messengers were passing between Acour and France. One of these messengers, a priest, came a week ago to Dunwich, and spent the night in a tavern waiting for his ship to sail in the morning. The good wife who keeps that tavern—ask not her name—would go far to serve me. That night this priest slept sound, and while he slept a letter was cut from the lining of his cassock, and another without writing sewn there in place of it, so that he'll never know the difference till he reaches John of Normandy, and then not where he lost it. Stay, you shall see," and he went to the wall and from some secret place behind the hangings produced a writing, which he handed to Hugh, who looked at it, then gave it back to him, saying:

"Read it to me, Father. English I can spell out, but this French puzzles my eyes."

So he read, Hugh listening eagerly to every word:

My Lord Duke:

This by a faithful hand that you know to tell you all goes well with your Grace's business, and with that of your royal father. While pretending to hunt or hawk I have found three places along this seaboard at any one of which the army can land next summer with little resistance to fear, for though the land is rich in cattle and corn, the people are few.

These places of which I have made survey have deep water up to the beach. I will tell you of them more particularly when I return. Meanwhile I linger here for sundry reasons, which you know, hoping to draw those of whom you spoke to me to your cause, which, God aiding me, I shall do, since he of England has wronged one of them and slighted the others, so that they are bitter against him, and ready to listen to the promises which I make in your name.

As an excuse for my long stay that has caused doubts in some quarters, I speak of my Suffolk lands which need my care. Also I court the daughter of my host here, the Knight of Clavering, a stubborn Englishman who cannot be won, but a man of great power and repute. This courtship, which began in jest, has ended in earnest, since the girl is very haughty and beautiful, and as she will not be played with I propose, with your good leave, to make her my wife. Her father accepts my suit, and when he and the brother are out of the way, as doubtless may happen after your army comes, she will have great possessions.

I thank your Grace for the promise of the wide English lands of which I spoke to you, and the title that goes with them. These I will do my best to earn, nor will I ask them till I kneel before you when you are crowned King of England at Westminster, as I doubt not God will bring about before this year is out. I have made a map of the road by which your army should march on London after landing, and of the towns to be sacked upon the way thither. This, however, I keep, since although not one in 10,000 of these English swine can read French, or any other tongue, should it chance to be lost, all can understand a map. Not that there is any fear of loss, for who will meddle with a priest who carries credentials signed by his Holiness himself.

I do homage to your Grace. This written with my hand from Blythburgh, in Suffolk, on the twentieth day of February, 1346. EDMUND OF NOYON.

Father Arnold ceased reading, and Hugh gasped out:

"What a fool is this knave-Count!"

"Most men are, my son, in this way or in that, and the few wise profit by their folly. Thus this letter, which he thought so safe, will save England to Edward and his race, you from many dangers, your betrothed from a marriage which she hates—that is, if you can get safe away with it from Dunwich."

"Where to, Father?"

"To King Edward in London, with another that I will write for you ere the dawn."

"But is it safe, Father, to trust so precious a thing to me, who have bitter enemies awaiting me, and may as like as not be crow's meat by tomorrow?"

Father Arnold looked at him with his soft and dreamy eyes, then said:

"I think the crow's not hatched that will pick your bones, Hugh, though at the last there be crows, or worms, for all of us."

"Why not, Father? Doubtless, this morning young John of Clavering thought as much, and now he is in the stake-nets, or food for fishes."

"Would you like to hear, Hugh, and will you keep it to yourself, even from Eve?"

"Ay, that I would and will."

"He'll think me mad!" muttered the old priest to himself, then went on aloud as one who takes a sudden resolution: "Well, I'll tell you, leaving you to make what you will of a story that till now has been heard by no living man.

"Far in the East is the great country that we Cathay, though in truth it has many other re, and I alone of all who breathe in England have nd, that land."
